MARQUEE MANAGEMENT

In collaboration with Wise Wedding Consultancy & Hilton & Oliver Marquees

Planning a marquee wedding is a truly bespoke experience but unlike a traditional venue, it comes with a level of complexity that requires expert management.

To ensure our couples enjoy a seamless, stress-free celebration, we provide a professional marquee wedding day management.

Without dedicated wedding planners, the responsibility for managing setup and logistics often falls to the couple or their family creating stress at a time that should feel calm, joyful, and entirely present.

GOOD TO KNOW

FAQ

A marquee wedding gives you freedom, but that freedom comes with responsibility. A planner or coordinator ensures your vision runs smoothly, safely, and beautifully without you (or your family) having to act as project managers on your wedding day.

A planner acts as the central point of contact, keeping everyone aligned on timelines, deliveries, and contingency plans.

Full-service planning guides you from the very beginning, including budgeting, vendor selection, and design. Day-of coordination focuses on managing logistics and vendor coordination on the wedding day to ensure everything runs smoothly.

Without a venue's in-house coordinator, all the responsibility falls on you or your family. A planner handles:

- Scheduling the build and breakdown.
- Managing timelines on the day.
- Troubleshooting issues quietly in the background so you can actually enjoy your wedding.

Even if you plan it yourself, a day-of coordinator is invaluable. They handle:

- Supplier arrivals and setup.
- Cueing music, speeches, and meals.
- Managing any hiccups quietly and efficiently

A planner can help turn your ideas into a cohesive design that works practically in a marquee space balancing aesthetics with layout, guest flow, and lighting

Unexpected challenges are common:
An experienced planner knows how to anticipate and solve these quickly often before you even notice.
