How to calculate your entry fee

Please read the following explanation of how to calculate your entry fees before sending payment for a trial. Sending in the incorrect amount adds a lot of extra time for the show secretary to process your entry.

The premium or the AKC website (Event Calendar) will state how much the entry fees are for the trial you are entering. Rally and obedience trials are not always the same fee, so make sure you are looking under the event you want to enter.
The first entry fee listed for a regular or optional titling class is always for one trial and the same dog. If there are two trials on the same day, you must pay the first entry fee for each trial. If it is a two- or three-day trial the first entry fee applies for each day.

If you are entering your dog in rally and obedience on the same day, remember these are separate events so the first entry must be paid for both the rally and obedience entry.

An example of the second entry price break would apply if you are entering Rally Advanced and Rally Excellent with the same dog at the same trial or entering the same dog in Beginning Novice and Novice at the same trial.

If you are entering a trial for the first time, please have your instructor or an experienced exhibitor check over your entry fees to make sure you are sending in the correct amount.

Thank you.

Below is a portion of an entry form.
Please note: EACH COLUMN is a SEPARATE TRIAL.
Unless you are entering two events in the same trial (same column) with the same dog; you should not take the discounted "2nd entry" price.
In the sample below there are 4 entries, one per TRIAL, so all four would be at full price.
