TEMPORARY ACCOMMODATION NOTIFICATION DUTY

Making TAND work in practice

A practical, collaborative approach to local implementation

The introduction of TAND is an important opportunity to make sure children living in temporary accommodation are visible to the services around them. Turning the duty into consistent local practice takes more than understanding the guidance: it needs clear processes, shared responsibilities and effective partnership working.

What we can work through with you

Current position
Review existing arrangements, pathways and partner roles.

Gap analysis
Identify what is in place, what is missing and what needs attention.

Action and assurance
Agree actions, measures, audit and review to track progress.

Experienced people. Practical change. Better outcomes for families.

We bring extensive experience working together across inclusion health, service development and system change. We combine strategic thinking with practical delivery, working alongside organisations and their partners to make change happen — keeping the experience and needs of children and families at the centre.

Let's have a conversation

If your organisation is considering how to put TAND into practice, we would welcome a conversation about your local context and the support that might help. Implementation support is available on a commissioned basis.
