David Heap

Executive Coach

David is a leading organisational and coaching psychologist with over thirty years of professional experience.

His clients are primarily professionals working in senior or executive roles in large organisations or professional service firms. While his work is mostly executive executive coaching and leadership development it also covers stakeholder relationships, influence and presence, career planning, mental health and wellbeing, organisational and cultural change, and facilitating strategy development.

David has developed a wide repertoire of interventions over his years of practice and brings this experience to bear in providing a tailored approach match each client's program to their needs and preferences. In one client's words "he meets you where you are, then takes you where you need to go".

David is an endorsed organisational psychologist, a Fellow and immediate past Chair of the College of Organisational Psychologists, and former National Convener of the Coaching Psychology Interest Group of the Australian Psychological Society. He is an Adjunct Fellow at Macquarie University. He is a Graduate Member of the Australian Institute of Company Directors. David has a BSc (Psych) with Honours from the University of NSW and a MBA from the Australian Graduate School of Management.
