The Holiday Device Edit

Thoughtful home-care picks, chosen to complement your personalized treatment plan. Holiday prices and availability checked November 21, 2026.

Your best skin deserves more than a shopping cart.

My one-on-one treatments are the foundation of the care I create for you: time to assess your skin, tailor your facial and adjust your plan as your needs change. A home device can be a helpful supporting tool between visits. Let's choose what fits your skin and routine.

More than 18 years of hands-on care

01 / HANDS-FREE LED

Omnilux Contour Face or Men

$395 regular | $315 holiday offer

A wearable LED option for a consistent routine. Contour Face uses red and near-infrared light and a 10-minute session. Choose your model with Lindsay; you do not need both masks. Follow the model's own instructions for timing and preparation.

02 / HANDHELD LED

LightStim for Wrinkles

$269 regular | $201.75 holiday offer

The current cordless model is a handheld alternative for clients who prefer working area by area. Its four-wavelength LED design targets fine lines and wrinkles. A practical alternative to a full-face mask for a more targeted routine.

One thoughtful choice beats a drawer full.

Start with your goal, your treatment plan and what you will actually use consistently.

03 / MICROCURRENT

Clareblend Mini

$339 listed

A compact, plug-in microcurrent option with guided beeps and conductive gel. Technique and consistency matter. Ask me to help decide whether microcurrent belongs in your home plan before you add another tool.

04 / HOME LASER

NIRA Pro 3 Laser

$699 listed | Brand advertises a 30% holiday promotion

The current Pro 3 model is a home laser for fine lines and wrinkles, with five comfort levels. It serves a different purpose from LED. Check the current promotion at checkout and use the instructions for your exact device.

05 / RADIOFREQUENCY

NEWA+

$439 listed | Currently out of stock on the brand's site

A cordless radiofrequency option used with the manufacturer's activator gel. This is a check-restock option, not a recommendation to buy from an unfamiliar seller. Let's discuss whether it fits your skin and in-studio treatment schedule.

These are options to discuss—not a three-device requirement. More equipment does not automatically mean a better routine.

The plan matters more than the purchase.

Personalized treatments. A realistic home routine. Time to see how your skin responds.

1 / START WITH YOUR SKIN, IN PERSON.

At your facial, I assess your skin, listen to your priorities and choose the hands-on work and professional modalities that fit that visit. This is the anchor for the plan we build together.

2 / CHOOSE ONE USEFUL HOME STEP.

We can review the devices and products you already own before you buy more. A simple routine you enjoy is easier to maintain than a complicated stack.

3 / LET EACH DEVICE KEEP ITS OWN INSTRUCTIONS.

Use the exact model’s timing, preparation and compatible gel or skincare. Do not assume every device should be used together, or that every mask or serum belongs under LED. I can help coordinate home use around your appointments.

4 / KEEP EVERYDAY SKINCARE CONSISTENT.

Cleanse gently, moisturize and wear broad-spectrum SPF 30 or higher. I can help select DNA Skin Institute products around your skin’s current needs and the treatments we are doing.

5 / RETURN, REASSESS AND REFINE.

Your skin and priorities can change. Follow-up visits give us time to assess progress, adjust your home routine and personalize your next treatment.
