Guest of Honor

Army Staff Sergeant Nate Boyer

Texas Longhorn Football
Co-Founder of Merging Vets & Players

Nate Boyer is an Army Green Beret and former NFL player turned filmmaker. After three combat tours in Special Forces to Iraq and Afghanistan, he walked on at The University of Texas despite never having played a down of organized football.

Boyer later joined the Seattle Seahawks at age 34. He is the Co-Founder and Board Vice President of Merging Vets & Players, connecting his military and athletic experience with continued service to others.

His film and television work includes appearances in 12 Strong, Den of Thieves, This Is Us, and The Terminal List. Behind the camera, he co-created, produced, and hosted the NFL Network series Indivisible with Nate Boyer.

Boyer wrote, produced, and directed his debut narrative feature, MVP (2022), and hosted Discovery's Survive the Raft (2023). His work also includes producing and directing a World War II documentary about a soldier's return to Normandy 80 years after D-Day.
