Nick Turner

Partner - Akrivis Law Group

This was one of the most memorable conferences I've attended. It was a chance to explore the latest happenings in the world of sanctions (and only sanctions) while connecting with peers from government and industry in a smaller, less crowded setting. I'm looking forward to visiting Manchester again next year.

UK Government

A really intimate conference experience, which proved a great way to build connections with sanctions compliance professionals and explore interesting questions without the pressure of a huge audience.

Zhanel Auezova

Lead Global Sanctions Procedures - Rabobank

This event brought together a beautiful company of experts from different compliance-related fields that, when brought together, form a synergy in building sanctions compliance. Thank you for the opportunity to be one of your speakers - it was a great pleasure!

Steve Brett

Co Founder - E3 Compliance Training

A great opportunity to explore the complexities of sanctions compliance with others in the sector. Not to be missed.

Aqshar Kaliq

Sanctions Director - UK Finance

A fantastic agenda and gathering of practitioners from a diverse range of the sanctions compliance community. The real world assessment exercise was a good example how conferences should be run.

Stephanie Broekaart

Partner - Agorax

Another great sanctions conference, bringing together a fantastic mix of engaging speakers and diverse perspectives from government, industry and private practice. Plenty of valuable insights and great networking opportunities, all in a real Manchester vibe. An excellent opportunity to exchange ideas, make new connections and hear different perspectives on the challenges we face in our day-to-day work as sanctions practitioners, as well as those studying the field from an academic perspective.

Ian McKelvey

Lead for Screening Assurance and Data Quality - Active AML

Extensive and comprehensive content with interesting speakers. I was impressed by not just the number of speakers from all areas, government, private, academic and from a large geographic spread, but also by how well the whole conference was structured, panels of speakers talked around a topic bringing different and interesting aspects to a topic.

Noemi Klein

Partner - HKA

An excellent event that brought together a diverse group of sanctions and compliance professionals for genuinely meaningful discussions. As a panelist, I particularly appreciated the chance to engage with fellow experts, exchange practical perspectives, and hear how organisations are responding to an increasingly complex geopolitical and regulatory environment. The event struck the perfect balance between thought leadership, technical insight, and valuable networking opportunities. I left with new ideas, new connections, and a renewed appreciation for the strength of the sanctions community.

Friedrich Lindenberg

CEO - OpenSanctions

SCM is a forum for professionals who don't just care about compliance, they care about making sanctions have an impact. That can't happen without having government and industry share their perspectives, and working together to address challenges in approach and implementation of effective sanctions.

Dalvinder Singh

Professor of Law - University of Warwick

The annual event organised by Sanctions SOS brings together high level policymakers and practitioners from across industry and government, providing participants with a valuable opportunity to exchange ideas and share best practices. It is truly an international event, attracting experts and stakeholders from around the world. For anyone interested in sanctions compliance, it is definitely one event to attend.
