PUT ON THE ARMOR OF GOD

Stand Firm in Christ. Walk in His Light. Remember Whose You Are.

Main Reading: Ephesians 6:10–18
Supporting Scriptures: Ephesians 5:8–11; Romans 13:12–14; 1 Peter 2:9

Today I want to encourage you with this call: Put on the armor of God.

Before you think about what you will wear, think about how you will walk. Before you follow what the world celebrates, consider what honors the Lord. Our calling is to follow Jesus, reflect His character, and stand firmly in His truth.

Today, my encouragement is this: Do not put on a Halloween costume. Put on the armor of God. Do not change who God says you are to fit in with the world. Do not partake in darkness. Walk as someone who belongs to Jesus.

The Bible does not mention Halloween by name, and Paul's teaching about spiritual armor is not a command about clothing. It is a call to a whole way of life. As we apply it today, we must ask whether our choices celebrate what Christ calls us to leave behind. Anything that glorifies evil, delights in cruelty, or draws us toward occult practices has no place directing our hearts.

We belong to the Savior who brought us out of darkness into His marvelous light.

In Ephesians, Paul explains the grace God has given us in Christ and then teaches us how to live in response. When he reaches chapter 6, he calls believers to find their strength in the Lord and put on God's whole armor. We cannot stand against spiritual evil through willpower alone. We need what God supplies.

Your identity in Christ should guide your choices every day of the year.

You do not have to earn acceptance by copying the crowd. Through faith in Jesus, you are redeemed, forgiven, and welcomed into God's family. You have a Savior to follow and a life through which His goodness can be seen.

A costume cannot change your standing in Christ, but your choices can express—or obscure—the One you follow. Remember whose you are, and let your actions agree with your confession.

Paul describes the armor piece by piece:

1. The belt of truth- Ephesians 6:14

   Stand in the truth God has revealed. Know what His Word says, and practice honesty in your own life. When deception comes, truth helps you recognize it.

   Ask yourself: "Am I allowing Scripture to shape my convictions, or am I allowing popularity to decide for me?"

   Put on truth. You do not need a disguise to be accepted by God.

2. The breastplate of righteousness- Ephesians 6:14

   Because you belong to Christ, pursue what is right in His sight. We are saved by grace, and that grace teaches us to live in obedience.

   Guard your heart by taking sin seriously. When the Holy Spirit exposes something through God's Word, respond with repentance instead of excuses.

   Do not make room in your life for what Jesus calls you to turn away from.

3. Feet prepared with the gospel of peace- Ephesians 6:15

   Let the good news of Jesus give you a firm footing and prepare you to carry His peace wherever you go.

Standing against darkness does not mean being unkind to people. Paul reminds us that our struggle is not against flesh and blood. Our neighbors are people to love, not enemies to attack.

You can decline participation graciously. You can hold a conviction without insulting someone. You can speak about Jesus with both courage and gentleness.

Let your steps carry the peace of Christ.

4. The shield of faith- Ephesians 6:16

   Faith trusts God's character and His Word when fear, temptation, accusation, and doubt come against us.

   The enemy may tempt you to believe that obedience will cost too much or that fitting in matters more than faithfulness. Lift the shield of faith. Trust that following Jesus is worth more than the approval of the crowd.

   You do not have to follow fear. You can trust your Father.

5. The helmet of salvation- Ephesians 6:17

   Remember the salvation you have received in Jesus. Your hope rests in His saving work, not in your ability to appear strong.

   When condemnation tells you that your past defines you, remember your Redeemer. When pressure tells you to become someone else, remember that you belong to Christ.

   Let the truth of your salvation shape how you think and live.

6. The sword of the Spirit, God's Word- Ephesians 6:17

   Read Scripture, understand it in context, and obey it. God's Word equips us to recognize lies and respond faithfully.

When Jesus was tempted in the wilderness, He answered with Scripture. We also need the Word stored in our hearts and practiced in our lives.

An unopened Bible leaves truth unread. Open it, receive it, and walk in it.

Paul follows this description with a call to pray continually and remain watchful, praying for all believers (Ephesians 6:18). Prayer belongs throughout the Christian life. Bring your decisions, weaknesses, concerns, and temptations to the Lord.

Put on the armor of God, and trust His protection.

That protection does not mean believers will never experience sickness, hardship, persecution, or pain. Paul himself suffered while serving Christ. The promise in this passage concerns God's provision for standing firm against the enemy's schemes.

God has not left you defenseless. His truth, righteousness, gospel, salvation, and Word equip you to remain faithful when spiritual opposition comes.

Bible Besties, holiness means belonging to God and living accordingly. Discernment means learning to distinguish what agrees with His truth from what draws us away from it. Neither gives us permission to become proud or harsh.

Today, consider what you are welcoming into your home, watching for entertainment, and teaching your children to admire. Where something celebrates evil, choose a different way. Fill your home with prayer, Scripture, kindness, and gratitude. Make your love for Jesus visible.

Ask yourself:

- Does this choice honor the Lord I belong to?
- Am I standing in truth while treating people with love?
- What part of God's armor have I been neglecting?

Do not trade your convictions for a moment of acceptance. Do not celebrate the darkness Jesus has called you out of. Put on the armor of God.

Stand in His truth. Walk in His peace. Lift the shield of faith. Remember your salvation. Hold firmly to His Word. Keep praying.

You belong to Jesus. Let your life reflect His light.

What Would Jesus Do?

"What would Jesus do? Does this honor Him?"

Would Jesus celebrate evil, glorify darkness, or take part in occult practices? No! He calls us to follow Him and walk in His light.

Scripture does not tell us whether Jesus would attend a modern Halloween event; events differ in their purpose and activities. But Ephesians 5:8–11 clearly teaches us to walk as children of light and refuse participation in the works of darkness.

Jesus welcomed sinners and called them to repentance. We can love our neighbors while refusing anything that celebrates evil.

Do not let a celebration lead you away from your convictions. Remember whose you are. Put on the armor of God, and let your life point people to Jesus!
