A Pathway for Emerging Female Leaders

The programme gives young women across Queensland the opportunity to:

- Build confidence and leadership skills
- Develop communication and public speaking experience
- Connect with leaders across agriculture and regional communities
- Become more involved in their local Agricultural Shows and community organisations
- Represent and promote regional Queensland on a state stage

Participants come from a wide range of backgrounds including agriculture, education, health, business, media, community services and skilled industries, reflecting the diversity and strength of regional Queensland.

Along the way, participants build lifelong connections, gain valuable experiences and develop a deeper understanding of the important role Agricultural Shows play in bringing communities together.

Leadership

Supporting young women to grow as confident leaders within their communities and industries.

Advocacy

Providing young women with a platform to represent and promote rural and regional Queensland.

Connection

Creating opportunities to connect with Agricultural Shows, regional communities, sponsors and industry networks.

Opportunity

Encouraging personal growth through leadership experiences, networking, public speaking and community involvement.

It all starts at your local show

The Queensland Showgirl Awards journey begins at your local Agricultural Show. From there, participants can progress through Sub Chamber Finals and on to the Queensland State Final, held during the Royal Queensland Show (EKKA).

Young women interested in participating can contact their local Show Secretary or Showgirl Coordinator for nomination information and entry details. If your local show does not host a Showgirl Awards programme, your show may still nominate an entrant to participate at Sub Chamber level.
