JENNY DARLIN

Client Privacy & Confidentiality Notice

Your story is yours. Here is how I aim to respect it.

Information you may share

When you inquire about or participate in my coaching, Reiki, intuitive, energy, or wellness offerings, you may share contact details, scheduling information, completed forms, personal goals, reflections, and information you choose to discuss during a session.

How I use information

I use information to respond to inquiries, arrange and deliver services, personalize your experience, handle payments and administrative needs, and communicate about your appointments. I will seek your permission before using identifiable stories, quotes, or images for testimonials or promotional material.

Privacy and its limits

I treat your personal information and session conversations with care and discretion. I may need to share limited information with service providers involved in scheduling, forms, payments, email, or recordkeeping; where you authorize sharing; or when disclosure is required by applicable law or legal process. No email or online system can be guaranteed completely secure.

Your choices

You may choose what to disclose during a session, decline an activity or question, and ask how your information is handled. You may contact me to request access to, correction of, or deletion of information I maintain, subject to applicable recordkeeping, contractual, and legal requirements.

Communicating with me

If you send personal or sensitive information through ordinary email, text, or an online form, please understand that these methods have privacy and security limitations. If you are concerned about sending sensitive details, contact me first to discuss another approach.

Nature of services

My coaching and complementary wellness offerings do not replace licensed medical or mental health care. This notice explains my intended privacy practices; it is not a representation that my business is a HIPAA-covered entity or that a particular communication method is HIPAA-compliant.

Questions or concerns

Please reach out to Jenny Darlin at love@jennydarlin.com if you have questions about this notice or how your information is handled.

Optional acknowledgment of receipt (not consent to disclose information)

I acknowledge that I received or had access to this Client Privacy & Confidentiality Notice.

Client name: _____ Date: _____

Signature (optional): _____

Draft for business and legal review before publication. Effective date: _____