Venue : Shanthinikethan

Program Description

Department of commerce conducted 'Guess Me If You Can' (Communication Skill Development Game). Program was conducted to enhance communication and soft skills of students. Students participated in two teams, Team A headed by Shamna Jasmin U M and Team B headed by Muhammed Anas A K. Here one member of each team picked an idiom, written in chits from a bowl and enacted that to their group. If the group guessed it right, the team wins one point, and then we discussed its meanings. Team A headed by Shamna Jasmin U M got first prize in the competition. The Program was informative and students got an idea about various idioms and its meanings, also how to use it in a sentence.

Program Brochure:

The brochure features the AMC Group of Educational Institutions logo on the left, which includes a stylized star and the text 'AMC Creativity and Competency'. PROGRAM SUMMARY ON LOGO AND TAGLINE GUESSING COMPETITION

15.09.2022 @ 10:45am

Venue: Dwani (Audio-Visual)

Program Description

Department of Commerce conducted a logo and tagline guessing competition for the students of the same department. This competition was to make the students familiar about all national and international brand's logo and taglines which comes under the topic branding of a product. There were students from three associations of this same department. Students were divided into 12 groups (4 groups from each association). Many logos and taglines were displayed on the screen and those who put up their hand first gave the answer first. Team 4 from B.Com CA (Akshay Krishna and team) came first with huge margin of points. And when the points were calculated at association level there was a tie between B.Com CA and B.Com Finance, tie breaker questions were asked even so the score tied up and so with a toss of coin B.Com Finance association won.

Program Brochure:

The brochure features a yellow background with a large question mark graphic. At the top left is the AMC logo with the tagline 'Creativity and Competency'. Translatiō

A Translation Competition

Organized by Department of English

Date: 30/09/2022

Venue: 1st BA English Class

Programme Description:

As a part of International Day of Translation, the students of 1st BA English took part in a translation competition on 30th September 2022. A Malayalam translation of a short story by Khalil Gibran was given to the students and was asked to translate it into English with utmost accuracy. The main aim of this competition was to increase their translation skills. English being the secondary language to be learned, it is necessary to translate from Malayalam to English in a daily basis. This competition would help the learners to understand the sentence structure of English, utilize their vocabulary bank, apply the grammatical knowledge they have already learned. All students participated very well and the winners of the competition was selected on the basis of grammatical correctness, accuracy in the usage of vocabulary etc. First and second position was secured by Shanimol and Aparna P, respectively.

Programme Brochure:

The brochure is for the 'Translatiō' competition, organized by the Department of English. It features the AMC Group of Educational Institutions logo and contact information at the top. The main text is on a black background with white and teal text. The title 'Translatiō' is in a large, stylized teal font. Below it, it says 'a competition to celebrate International Translation Day September 30, 2022'. The time and location are given as '@ 2:40 pm | 1st BA English Class'. At the bottom, it lists the staff coordinator as Thazneem Khalid, Dept. of English.

Abstract

Management Accounting - Principles and Practice provides students with a learning framework that will help them to study the principles and procedures used in the collection and analysis of accounting information. This book will further help them to develop their proficiency in the use and interpretation of decision-making techniques in the area of accounting. This edition is a substantially revised and improved version of my recently published first edition. The entire text was reviewed and required changes were made to improve readability, subject organization and illustrations. New topics covered include: financial performance and transfer pricing, inventory costing and human resource accounting. In addition, several self-test type problems in this edition that will further illustrate the principles described in the chapters.

Overview of the Book

The book attempts to maintain a balance between conceptual and practical approaches to accounting. It presents the most complex topics in a very pragmatic and readable manner. Each chapter is followed by numerous questions and problems which are designed to reinforce concepts and procedures presented in the body of the chapter. I have tried to make the book as self-contained as possible and the extensive use of practical problems has rendered it suitable for self-study. The pragmatic and managerial orientation of the text makes it suitable for management programmes having management accounting in their curriculum. The book contains 10 chapters. All modules are covered with each and every topic. The first edition discuss the human resource accounting.

MARGINAL COST

The cost of one additional unit of output is known as Marginal Cost. According to terminology of cost accountancy of the Institute of Cost and Management Accountants, London, Marginal cost is, "the amount of any given volume of output by which aggregate costs are changed if the volume of output is increased by one unit".

Marginal costing is an accounting technique which ascertains marginal cost by differentiating between fixed or period, and variable cost. This technique aims to charge only those costs to the cost of the product that vary directly with sales volume. These costs would be direct materials, direct labour and factory overhead expenses, such as supplies, some indirect labour and power. The cost of the product would not include fixed or non-variable expenses such as depreciation, factory insurance, taxes and supplementary salaries.

CHARACTERISTICS OF MARGINAL COSTING

- ▶ Method of recording and reporting
- ▶ Separation of costs into fixed and variable elements.
- ▶ Variable costs applied to product
- ▶ Fixed cost written off as period costs
- ▶ The variable costs are regarded as the costs of the product
- ▶ It is a technique of analysis and presentation of costs which help management

Abstract

Management Accounting - Principles and Practice provides students with a learning framework that will help them to study the principles and procedures used in the collection and analysis of accounting information. This book will further help them to develop their proficiency in the use and interpretation of decision-making techniques in the area of accounting. This edition is a substantially revised and improved version of my recently published first edition. The entire text was reviewed and required changes were made to improve readability, subject organization and illustrations. New topics covered include: financial performance and transfer pricing, inventory costing and human resource accounting.

Advantages of Marginal Costing

- ▶ Cost-volume-profit relationship data wanted for profit planning purposes are readily obtained from the regular accounting statement. Hence management does not have to work with two separate sets of data to relate one to the other.
- ▶ The profit for a period is not affected by changes in absorption of fixed expenses resulting from building up or reducing inventory.
- ▶ Manufacturing cost and income statements in the marginal cost form follow management's thinking more closely than does the absorption cost form for these statements. For this reason, management finds it easier to understand and to use marginal cost reports.

Disadvantages of Marginal Costing

- ▶ Difficulty may be encountered in distinguishing fixed costs. In particular, certain semi-variable costs may fall in a border line area and more or less arbitrary classification may be considered necessary in order to arrive at a practical determination of fixed and variable components.
- ▶ Complete manufacturing cost is not determined in the process of costing production and supplementary allocation of fixed overheads on normal or some other volume base must be made to provide product costs for long range pricing and other long range policy decisions.

- ▶ Serious taxation problems may be encountered if a change is made from full cost to marginal cost for costing inventory and definite rulings are not available for guidance.

Limitations of the book

The concept of marginal costing its role in helping organizations find unique ways of developing and sustaining competitive position indeed seems novel and important. The author have convincingly presented their arguments, pragmatic frameworks, and tools to achieve the organization's strategic goals. This argument, however, is not without limitation. Based on financial and cost records, lack of knowledge and understanding of the related subjects, preference to intuitive decision making, unquantifiable variable are the some limitations of in this books. Internal and external contexts of public, private, production and service oriented organizations are highly heterogeneous, hence the relevance and applicability of this book's concepts and frameworks in diverse organizational setting seems problematic.

Would we Recommend the Book?

Regardless of the limitations, questions of relevance and applicability of the concept in diverse contexts, this book has explored novel and important aspects of marginal costing. The limitations and advantage of marginal costing is very difficult in this book. It may not be clear. So, some points are added in shortly. Therefore, I strongly recommend this book to the marginal costing practitioners, scholars and students. Who want to enrich the strategic role of marginal competitiveness and success.

PROGRAM SUMMARY ON COMMUNICATION GAME

Date

14.12.2022

Venue: College Ground

Program Description

Non-verbal communication is an important type of communication. It played a vital role in face to face interaction. In order to understand the importance of non verbal communication, department of commerce conducted a communication game. Problems faced by managers are communicated by students through gestures and body movements without any spoken words. Students actively participated in the programme. Asif Nissam got first prize and Ajith secured second prize in the competition.

PROGRAMME SUMMARY

Tips and Tricks for effective Communication

Date and Time: 13.02.2023 , 1:30 PM

Venue : Audio Visual Hall

Programme Description

Communication skill is an important skill to be equipped by students who are meant to face an interview board, present academic papers and other various prospects in future. The cell thus gave a session on how to maintain correct posture, gesture and confidently speak in front of others without any inhibition. Students were also given with some activities like JAM , Introducing Us and so on to help them alleviate their shyness to stand and speak in front of an audience. On the whole, the session was fruitful for the students.

Brochure

The brochure is for an event organized by the Softskill and Personality Development Cell. It features the AMC Group of Educational Institutions logo at the top left, which includes the text 'AMC Group of Educational Institutions (Affiliated to Calicut University)', 'Kannur, Wayanad - 670 013', 'amcgroupofinstitutions.com, amc-college.com', and 'Go Green' with a tree icon. The main text on the brochure reads: 'Softskill and Personality Development Cell Organizes', 'TIPS & TRICKS FOR EFFECTIVE COMMUNICATION', 'Resource Person', a portrait of Ms. Anusha P. Nair, 'Ms. Anusha P. Nair Assistant Professor Department of Management', and at the bottom right, 'Date :- 13.02.2023', 'Time :- 1.30 PM', and 'Venue :- Audio Visual Hall'.

Programme summary on: Handwritten Magazine Competition (Oikonomia).

Date: 13th March, 2023

Venue: Artha Block

Programme description:

The Economics Department has organized handwritten magazine competition – Oikonomia. The main objective of the programme is to inculcate and economic knowledge among students. Students competed class wise and II B.A. won the first place. Students wrote the contemporary issues going on at the national and international level. Students participated with much enthusiasm and completed the programme successfully. Due to the internal examination, the date of submission was extended to 13th March, 2023.

Programme brochure:

The brochure features a white header with the AMC Group of Educational Institutions logo on the left, which includes a stylized tree and the text 'AMC Creativity and Competency'. To the right of the logo, the text reads: 'AMC Group of Educational Institutions (Affiliated to Calicut University) Manisseri, Ottapalam - 679521 (amcottapalam@gmail.com, amc-college.com) (Accredited with NAAC B++)'. Further right is a 'Go Green' logo with a tree icon. The main body of the brochure has a light brown wood-grain background. The title 'Handwritten Magazine competition (OIKONOMIA)' is centered in green and red. Below it, 'Organized by: The Department of Economics' is written in red. At the bottom, contact information is provided in black text: 'Last date for submission: 28th February, 2023. For details contact : Rajan K Asst. Professor (Economics) Mob: 8157939872'.
