RULES OFFINANCE GAME

Roundone

CaseCompetitions

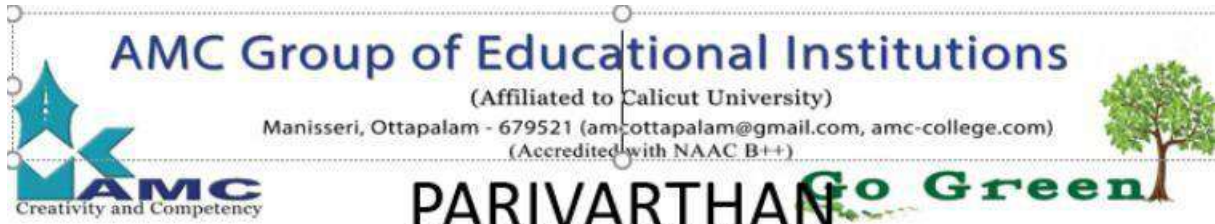

Case competitions pit teams of students against each other to see who can present the best business case study. The two teams in around are given the same case. Each team is responsible for writing and presenting a case study with recommendations. Popular cases for finance include news stories related to leveraged buyouts, investment portfolios, hedge funds and banks. Each case analysis attempts to determine where the people involved went right or wrong, and then makes recommendations based on this assessment.

Roundtwo

Finalaccountpresentation

The Final accounts is considered to be the absolute final stage in the cycle of accounting in any company or business. The accounting cycle goes through several stages, these stages include the recording of business transactions in a journal in the very first stage. It is then followed by the transfer of these records to a ledger where the accounts are balanced. A ledger is an accounting book that contained shortened or summarised information from the journals of accounting, information in this book is posted as either debit or credit. The creation of the final accounts is the ultimate stage of the accounting system. Final accounts are responsible for determining the financial position of a particular business in one financial year.

Teams will be given data that they have to prepare the final accounts as per statute.

The training gave a chance for Commerce students to exhibit their extra-curricular activities and also enhance the crafting skills of the students. Such events help in overall development of students in creativity and ability to make beautiful handmade crafts.

Here the students got the chance to learn how to make envelopes for both official and for un-official purposes such as office works and birthday/wishes cards respectively. An overwhelming participation in the session made it more fun and interesting.
