“My husband lost his job. We fell behind on our mortgage. The bank was seizing our home. I still can’t believe that you gave us an emergency mortgage with no proof of income. You saved our home & gave us extra cash to get by until he finds another job. Thanks Expert Mortgage!” C.S.

ONTARIO PROVINCIAL POLICE AND NATIONAL CHARITY TEAM UP TO PROTECT CHILDREN

The Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) and the Canadian Centre for Child Protection (Canadian Centre) signed an important agreement that highlights areas of collaboration to enhance the safety of children and youth in Ontario. The signed protocol, which solidifies a long-standing relationship between the two organizations, focuses on increasing personal safety education and child protection training, working together to support families of missing and sexually exploited children and joint public awareness efforts.

[Commissioner Vince Hawkes, Ontario Provincial Police and Lianna McDonald, Executive Director for the Canadian Centre for Child Protection sign an important agreement to enhance the safety of children and youth in Ontario.

"It's essential that we work together to protect our kids," says Lianna McDonald,

Executive Director of the Canadian Centre. "We are thrilled to be working together with Commissioner Hawkes and the OPP in our joint efforts to increase the safety of our children."

To kick start this significant alliance, the Canadian Centre developed a brand new safety tool called My First Safety Book for children between the ages four and seven. This fun and engaging activity book helps parents build their child's personal safety skills. The OPP is raising awareness of this education tool and distributing thousands of copies to families across Ontario.

"The Ontario Provincial Police is working diligently to protect children in our communities, but police cannot be everywhere at once," says Commissioner Vince Hawkes, Ontario Provincial Police. "On behalf of the OPP, I am proud to partner with the Canadian Centre for Child Protection to train as many OPP officers and members of the public as possible about what each of us can do to prevent child victimization and sexual exploitation."

The My First Safety Book covers important safety topics for discussion including:

- Safe Grown-ups
- Identifying and Labelling Feelings
- Naming Body Parts
- Developing Healthy

Boundaries

- OKAY and NOT OKAY
- Secrets
- How Do I Avoid Scaring My Child?

About the Canadian Centre for Child Protection: The Canadian Centre for Child

Protection is a national charity dedicated to the personal safety and protection of children. Our goal is to reduce the sexual abuse and exploitation of children, assist in the location of missing children and to prevent child victimization. The Canadian Centre operates Cybertip.ca – Canada's national tip line to report child sexual abuse and exploitation on the internet, as well as other prevention and intervention services to the Canadian public.

About Cybertip.ca: Since its inception in September 2002, Cybertip.ca has evolved as a central component of Canada's national strategy to protect children from sexual exploitation on the internet. The tip line has responded to 245,000+ child sexual exploitation reports from the public and referred those reports to law enforcement for investigation, resulting in at least 514 individuals being arrested, hundreds of children being removed from abusive environments and the protection of countless children both within Canada and abroad. Cybertip.ca also provides education and awareness material to help keep Canadians safe, distributing more than 12 million safety resources free-of-charge to schools, law enforcement, child welfare, industry and other stakeholders over the past 15 years.
