HYDRO ONE LEADS THE WAY IN SUPPORTING WOMEN PURSUING CAREERS IN ENGINEERING

TORONTO, March 8, 2018 /CNW/ - This International Women's Day, Hydro One has announced the renewal of its Women in Engineering University Partnership program as well as the recipients of the company's 2018 Women in Engineering Award.

"Hydro One is committed to building a diverse workforce. We believe that investing in young talent is critical to closing the gender gap in the engineering field," said Judy McKellar, Executive Vice President & Chief Human Resources Officer. "We are an industry leader in supporting future female engineers in their education and career development and strive to be the employer of choice when it comes time for our future graduates to enter the work force."

Hydro One has renewed its four year commitment in the Women in Engineering University Partnership program by investing an additional $1.6 million in the program, which was established in 2013. The partnership with Ryerson University, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, University of Waterloo and Western University is now in its fifth year and provides networking opportunities and outreach programs that support young girls and women pursuing a career in the engineering field. To-date the program has supported over 18,000 students across all of the partnership's universities.

The company also announced the recipients of Hydro One's Women in Engineering Award. Established in 2014 these awards provide women with opportunities to develop satisfying and successful professional careers in the areas of engineering and other related fields. The 10 winners receive a financial award and a paid opportunity to work for Hydro One in a student placement that will allow them to further develop their skills.

This year's recipients are:

Carlee Armstrong, Western University, Hailey Fielder, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, Jin Li, Queen's University, Monica Black, McMaster University, Sydney Wilson, Western University, Toby Ma, University of Ontario Institute of Technology, Uranoos Wahidi, Ryerson University, Zoe Fox, Western University, Ruhmaa Bhatti, Western University, Hira Nadeem, McMaster University
