A Vagrant Is Chasing Me

For the past week, I have been having this dream that I am being chased through a mall by a vagrant. No matter how hard I try to get away from him, I always fall down. As I lie there on the floor, the vagrant starts to urinate on me. Then I wake up. Please help me understand this.

Thank You, Karrah

Hi Karrah,

The vagrant in your dream is someone whom you feel either disgust and are trying to reject from your life. There is definitely some strong hostile feeling towards this person. You may also consider the vagrant character as some aspect of your own personality. Perhaps you are feeling angry at yourself. The image of the vagrant urinating on you is a literal pun of the phrase "pissing on someone". Again this points to some sort of hostility and pent-up anger which you have not confronted. In fact, you are running away from it and refusing to deal with the issue.

Birth To Twins

Hello. I had a dream last night that scared me a little. I dreamt that I was pregnant with twins. Then later in the dream, I gave birth to them. One a girl and the other a boy. I'm a virgin now, but I'm planning to lose my virginity with my boyfriend soon. We talk about it a lot, like everyday. What does my dream mean? Please Help!

Thank You, Carrie

Hi Carrie,

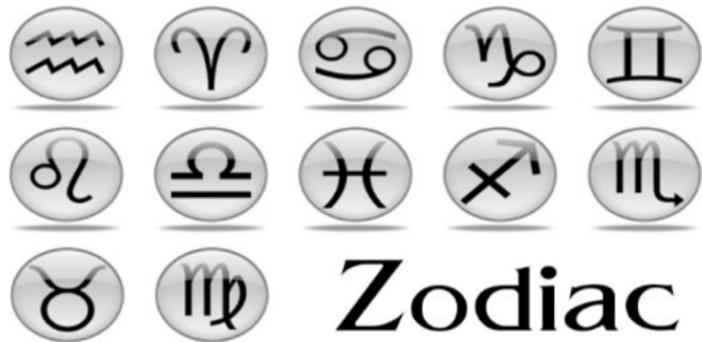

Giving birth to twins represents the battle between the opposites of your psyche in order to become whole. Your dream may occur as a result of the inner conflict you are experiencing. It is doubtful that your dream means that you are having fears of getting pregnant. The notion that the twins are fraternal symbolizes the union between the feminine and masculine aspects of yourself. This may also refer to the physical union between you and your boyfriend.

Best Regards, Steve

Aries - Your March Monthly Forecast: As we approach the astrological New Year, your solar return can only mean one thing... it's your birthday. This really is something worth celebrating! Others seem to think so too, as with Mercury and Venus both travelling through Aries, you'll start receiving more attention - of the right kind! With your ruler Mars moving signs after his link with unpredictable Uranus, there will be much you can do, and change, which will enhance your reputation. If the pressure to perform feels too much, remember that there are a lot of people willing you on.

Taurus - Your March Monthly Forecast: Philosopher Ayn Rand spoke of the 'Benevolent Universe Premise', which basically says that our world is good. But how can the universe care about happiness when there's so much to be unhappy about? As Venus twice converges with Mercury as she speeds her way towards your sign, what's certain is that you'll see positive evolutions that bring you closer towards revealing, helpful insights. No one knows if the universe really cares. What's important is that it feels like it does. And in many ways, that's all you need in March.

Gemini - Your March Monthly Forecast: In the TV show, Gossip Girl, an anonymous blogger reveals the secrets of the young, wealthy characters of the show. Even in our own personal social circles, it's not uncommon for news to travel faster than the person being talked about. And sometimes, the 'news' is untrue or exaggerated. As Mercury moves signs, you find yourself among friends. But with its retrogradation on the horizon it will be wise not to over-react to information until you've checked its veracity. Your research will be so effective it could even be newsworthy.

Cancer - Your March Monthly Forecast: In a month of two Full Moons, anyone studying the night sky might think that all the action was coming from the bright celestial orb in the foreground. And as a Cancerian, the Blue Moons have an especially important effect. But this month, Mars has the weightiest role. He might not be as visible, but as he moves opposite your sign and then joins with Saturn, he becomes the focus of the Blue-Moon's T-Square configuration. There might be a few backstage headaches, but you'll have the energy to complete a magnificent performance.

Leo - Your March Monthly Forecast: You know that moment after a Formula 1 race when the winner is given a garland and a bottle of champagne? The cosmos is offering you a position on a metaphorical podium this month. You certainly deserve to be rewarded by people who recognise your talent, and the achievements you've made in the face of challenge. It's now time to stop worrying that you didn't get every detail right. As the Blue Moon arrives you'll enjoy a triumph which will banish any lingering uncertainties, and inspire you to plan new adventures.

Virgo - Your March Monthly Forecast: You're quick to learn from your mistakes. This means, though, that sometimes, when you've been wronged, you can be slow to forget. The expression, 'Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me,' resonates. But making someone feel ashamed doesn't do anyone any good. Especially if they're ready to right a past wrong. With this month's lunar activity, Mercury's retrogradation will help you to bury a hatchet. If you can accept an attempt to mend bridges, you'll move forward with a new-found ease.

Libra - Your March Monthly Forecast: Stand-up comedians can be brutally honest. We laugh because they say things that we recognise as true, but aren't say ourselves. Most of the time, we tell people what we think they want to hear rather than what we believe. And they do the same to us. It's a wonder we ever communicate anything! On the occasions that we try to speak from our hearts, we can struggle - because we've had so little practice. So why do you feel the need to tell someone how you feel? Because you really need to! You'll be so glad if you do!

Scorpio - Your March Monthly Forecast: There are two ways of looking at Jupiter's retrograde movement in your sign this month. One suggests that this is a time to quit in case a lucky streak starts to reverse. The other, is that just as it turns, the planet of luck radiates more power than usual. And, as March's New Moon arrives in harmony with this moment of cosmic generosity, it suggests the arrival of an unlikely opportunity. Of course it's not worth taking a big risk on a whim. But as Mars changes signs, you'll have the energy to think positively and act creatively.

Sagittarius - Your March Monthly Forecast: As Mars leaves Sagittarius and your ruler Jupiter turns retrograde it brings a chance to resolve any open-ended issues. Procrastination has to go! Of course that doesn't mean that it will all be easy, but solving the uncertainties in your life will give you peace of mind. What's more, there's a real possibility that you can put to bed a problem that's been demanding your attention. If you can embrace this shift of energy, and use it to refocus on what really counts - you'll find it easy to move ahead, free from an unnecessary load.

Capricorn - Your March Monthly Forecast: A world without discord would be a world without conversation or debate. It's important to disagree sometimes. If we all agreed, all the time, life would be too dull for words. But disagreeing isn't the same as distrusting. Without respect, it's impossible to make plans and move forward alongside people. Though it's impossible to see eye-to-eye with everyone all the time, just remember to keep your ears and heart open. It would be foolish to let a passing issue create a lasting divide. Your sense of humour can save the day!

Aquarius - Your March Monthly Forecast: Some people make challenging company. They radiate hostility, emit confusing and contradictory social messages, and generally make life more difficult than it needs to be. But, sometimes, once we've broken through their tough exterior, we discover the doubts that lie behind the grouchiness, and learn not to take their hot words so personally. It's easy to forget that we too can seem distant at times. You make far more of a difference in people's lives than you realise. A smile or a kind word, in March, can make a huge difference.

Pisces - Your March Monthly Forecast: Relax... close your eyes and clear your mind. What do you see? I know - it's my job to provide you with glimpses into your future! But it's your prophetic powers that matter, this month. With Saturn's challenge to Jupiter, your expectations and beliefs could make the difference between success and failure. The Sun's conjunction with Neptune suggests that will-power is all you really need. Raise your hopes, and your dreams will rise with them. If you play your cards right, you'll soon be soaring into a very bright future.
