Plane Crash

Last night I had a very vivid dream. For some reason, it was Halloween. My kids and I were playing in a park as I watched a Japan airline crashing. It first descended towards me and at the last minute began ascending again before crashing. I was rescuing the children in the plane, who clearly were speaking to me in Japanese and I understood them. The all wore white tees with Japanese writing that I could understand. When trying to rescue one child, he had a loaded gun and was shooting all around him until I took it from him and removed the bullets. Please help me understand.

Thank You,
Tammy

Hi Tammy,

Your dream seems to describe a positive transformation that has occurred in your waking life. You had previously been suffering from self-doubt or a lack of self-confidence as is suggested by the imagery of the crashing airplane. Since the airplane, managed to ascend and crashed away from you, it signifies that you have turned a bad situation from becoming far more worse.

Your self-doubt may stem from issues regarding your domestic life and parenthood. The Japanese children you rescue from the plane is representative of your own kids. You may have once feared that you were not relating to and understanding your own children. Your ability to understand Japanese in your dream is a metaphor for understanding your own kids. When you take the loaded gun from one of the plane passengers whom you were rescuing, you displayed how you were able to take charge of the situation and regain some sort of control.

Incidentally, you mentioned how your dream took place on the day of Halloween. In dreams, Halloween signifies the adult regression into childhood. Again, this may be another symbol of how you have been able to relate to your kids.

Best Regards, Steve

I'm A Lizard!

I have a recurring dream.....I've had it for years....I am a lizard ... salamander....something very green. I feel the ground and floor beneath my body, especially my belly. The most vivid part of this dream is that I can see and feel my hands (which are claws) grasping the grass (which is very cool to the touch). I can feel myself pulling harder and faster with each grasp....I feel fear and want to move faster, but can't move any faster....I am in awe as I move this fast...And that is it! LOL

Thank You,
Annie

Dear Annie,

It sounds like you found your dream as a lizard to be a very liberating and freeing experience. Many people would be disturbed if they had turned into a lizard, but you on the other hand, seem to take full advantage of your lizard ability in crawling though the grass as fast as you can. Your dream seems to symbolize your sense of adventure, your love of nature and your resourcefulness. Even though you may be a thrill seeker, you still remain well grounded.

Best Regards, Steve

Aries - Your July Monthly Forecast: Recently I've had a writing room installed in my back garden. It's only a glorified wooden shed, but to make it homely the builder has put 'brick slips' - panels of exposed brickwork on to the wooden walls. This reminded me to ask you how your crash helmet is holding up? There's an element, with Mars moving backwards across the sky, of you feeling as if you're bashing your head against a brick wall. With two Grand Trines to soften the impact, though, certain barriers won't be as impenetrable as they first appear to be this month.

Taurus - Your July Monthly Forecast: When everything's up in the air, what's the use in searching for a method to the madness? Since we can't understand the chaotic nature of the universe, we settle for finding safe havens in the structures that govern our lives. As long as we control our own private corners of the world, we don't have to worry about the whirling craziness that lies just outside the door. But it's from out there that the magic happens. If you're not seeing any results from following the rules, this month, it's time to colour outside the lines.

Gemini - Your July Monthly Forecast: Few religions or sects invoke their particular spirituality in silence. Even Quakers, famed for the quiet at their meetings make allowances for invocations when moved by the spirit. There's something you want to believe in which won't become believable until you say it out loud. When you give it voice, you give it life. Then, when you communicate your idea you'll find that it begins to grow. The celestial movements this month insist that it's time to change the narrative of a certain problem in your life... but you need to speak up and out.

Cancer - Your July Monthly Forecast: 'Let us never negotiate out of fear. But let us never fear to negotiate' said President Kennedy in his 1961 inaugural address. His words were certainly put to the test during the Cuban Missile Crisis. Although the stakes aren't as high, the partial Solar Eclipse in Cancer this month brings a chance to renegotiate the balance of power in your relationships. But it's also a moment to experiment with how you want your relationships to be. Find the freedom to let go of any fixed ideas and you'll receive far more than you bargained for.

Leo - Your July Monthly Forecast: Venus leaves your sign in July, but it's the Sun's annual visit to your sign that will steal the limelight. The Sun will be at the centre of your attention but there are also magical eclipses to enjoy. The Solar Eclipse will help you take a fresh approach towards bringing an important dream into your reality. You'll make a discovery that will help you explore an emotional investment. But it's the Lunar Eclipse that brings about the change you seek. Be passionate, be confident and you'll be delightfully surprised by the end of the month.

Virgo - Your July Monthly Forecast: July is full of good news for Virgos. Venus enters your sign and forms a wonderful Grand Trine, while the Eclipses represent golden moments of opportunity. Although I can't promise an end to all your troubles, the planets suggest that there will be more intuitive understanding, heightened perception, greater self-worth and more love in your life. You have the necessary tools at your disposal. The cosmic alignments bring a gift which needs to be unwrapped and appreciated. Just remember that the Universe helps those who help themselves. Libra - Your July Monthly Forecast: Sometimes all we can see are the things we can't have, do or be. It feels as if we're facing unfulfilled hopes at every turn. But just because your situation is less than perfect doesn't mean that there aren't many reasons to believe that it can change for the better. Nurture the sparks of optimism. Feed fuel to the flame and it will grow, warm and sustain you. Before long you'll be amazed by the strength with which it burns. This month, you can make a discovery that brings welcome and visionary change to your world.

Scorpio - Your July Monthly Forecast: Luck is a fickle friend. But far better a fickle friend than a steadfast enemy. At least with a fickle friend you can make up and be as thick as thieves for a while, whereas when someone's out to get you, there's little you can do to avoid conflict. Recently, you may have been cursing your luck more than thanking your lucky stars. But in July, Jupiter forms two Grand Trines before finally starting to move forward again in your sign. The wind has shifted, and so should the extent of your expectations. Try to take full advantage!

Sagittarius - Your July Monthly Forecast: Have you ever wondered why alien space-ships that enter Earth's air space disappear so promptly? Could the extra-terrestrial community be trying to avoid us? Apparently so! According to intergalactic gossip, we're selfish and grouchy... except for you, obviously! This month, your mood lightens, your optimism returns and there's reason to be cheerful as Jupiter turns direct amid a Grand Trine. You might not connect with extra-terrestrials, but your earthly connections will take your far enough to make an enormous difference.

Capricorn - Your July Monthly Forecast: When you're doing a rigidly systematic job or tackling a question that emerges from a specific set of procedures, it's imperative to understand what you're doing or you won't succeed. Conversely, when it comes to imagination and emotions, a rigid set of beliefs is often all that's needed to close down inspiration. You won't always make the discoveries you expect to make - but that doesn't mean they're not the ones you've been searching for! Keep an open mind and your quest will see success before the month is out.

Aquarius - Your July Monthly Forecast: Will you be up or down? Successful or not? These aren't easy questions to answer this month. With retrograde Mars in your sign, and Venus in a Grand Trine with both your rulers, your situation is both delicate and commanding. Your emotions are being tossed about like a fishing boat on high seas. The ups and downs might even make you feel a little seasick. But it's better to be sensitive to turbulence than oblivious to all around you. This is a time of unusual magic and possibility. Eventually, unease will turn to joy and fascination.

Pisces - Your July Monthly Forecast: Have you ever been lost and started down one path, only to backtrack and take another... then wonder if the first path was the right one all along? When you can't find your way, you can ask for directions, look for road signs or open up Google Maps. In other areas of life, though, the answer isn't always as easy to find. As your ruler Jupiter turns direct this month remember that second-guessing will get you nowhere fast. As Venus moves opposite your sign, just take one step forward. Then another. You'll be amazed where you end up.
