

Two Firs and More Than Ten Thousand Trees

Kim Jong Un, President of the State Affairs of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, planted two firs in the Hwasong area in Pyongyang in a tree-planting ceremony of the participants in the Second Conference of Secretaries of Primary Committees of the Workers' Party of Korea (above). Now the construction of another ten thousand flats is underway in the area. True to his noble intention to cover the whole country with thick forests, the Korean people planted more than ten thousand trees there in just a matter of several days (below).