

DPRK's Serious Practical Warning

The United States made public up the “Washington Declaration” in April last. It is scheming to discuss the use of nuclear weapons against the DPRK through a the US-south Korea “Nuclear Consultative Group,” which will be the parent body of the US-Japan-south Korea “tripartite nuclear alliance.” It is driving the regional situation to the brink of an unprecedented nuclear war, while frequently dispatching nuclear submarines and strategic bombers to the Korean peninsula and its vicinity under the pretext of increasing the “visibility” of its strategic assets.

The test-fire by the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea on July 12 of the new-type ICBM Hwasongpho-18, the core weapons system of its strategic forces, serves as a serious practical warning to the enemy, aimed at clearly showing them, who are making clearer their policy of nuclear threat to the DPRK, its unwavering will to overwhelmingly counter them and the entity of its physical strength, and making them realize clearly once again the danger and recklessness of their anti-DPRK military option.
