

Persons Respected by All Others

In the Democratic People's Republic of Korea, persons who are devoting themselves for the prosperity and development of the country and for the wellbeing of others are respected by all others across the country as labour innovators, merited persons and patriots.

The Korean people regard this as more precious than other honorary titles or wealth, displaying a high sense of patriotism and pure conscience and making strenuous efforts at their workplaces.

Ssirum*, Traditional Sport of Korea

The Korean nation has created and developed many folk games and traditional sports which suit their physical constitution and sentiments since long time ago.

Among them is ssirum (Korean-style wrestling).

It has something in common with wrestling of other countries as in both the sports two people strive to throw each other to the ground using strength, hands and skills. But ssirum players wear a strip of cloth bound round their left thigh—this is special feature peculiar to it.

On November 26, 2018, ssirum was registered as an intangible cultural heritage element at the 13th Session of the Intergovernmental Committee for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of the UNESCO.
