Joshiah: ... for your presenting this opportunity, for creating this sacred time and this sacred space that allows us to enter into and share with you on your side of the veil in your reality. Once again, we suggest should you choose to express the intent and to allow for the entities who would be with us this afternoon to have the opportunity to interact and exchange with you on what we have termed the silent level, then that interaction, that exchange of information, most certainly shall occur. We would ask, once again, if you choose to express the intent to allow for a further thinning of the veil, to allow for that entourage of entities who would be with us this afternoon to have the opportunity to enter into this space. Now, we would ask you for a moment's silence during which time we would use that opportunity to adjust both the energy and our connection with our friend Elias (the channel). And for that purpose, once again, we would be grateful for a moment's silence.

(Pause)

(Static begins to be recorded near the end of the silent period.)

Well now, again we suggest should you choose to express the intent, there are entities within this sacred space you have created who are anxious and quite willing for the opportunity to interact and share with you telepathically on what we have termed the silent level. There are at this time new entities entering into this space, entities who are not all that familiar with our interaction, both from your side of the veil and from our particular side of the veil, from our vibrational level. And as you bring new entities into your group there shall be other entities from the other side of the veil, from other vibrational levels, who would be anxious for that opportunity to interact and to share.

For that purpose, once again, we suggest the transference of information that occurs at the telepathic level is much more accurate, much more complete, and much more pertinent to the individual involved than the message we speak through our friend. So while you may find this interaction, this use of the vocabulary, entertaining we once again suggest if you choose to express the intent, there shall occur an exchange of information on the silent level. At times you may not feel you have heard or remember the words we speak through our friend. However, we assure you that at some level you most certainly hear the words and if you choose to hear the words again you are presented that opportunity through your recording system. Now, with regards to your recording system, as there are new entities within this space and the energy is not as familiar as what you are accustomed to, the result may be that you may experience difficulties once again in your recording system. That is not always within our control but is as much within your capacity to control as it is within ours.

However, the words we speak and the use of the vocabulary puts a limitation upon the transference and exchange of information. Should you choose to close your eyes and to express the intent and to shift, as you would say, you have that opportunity to receive a very intense and meaningful interaction and sharing with other entities who are within this sacred space and this sacred time that you have created.

Now, it's rather interesting that throughout your vibrational level there are entities who are becoming involved in this new age and in this new energy who are beginning to question some of the messages that are being channeled. And that's a healthy reaction. It's one that has been expected, and it's one for which you are honored. There are entities who are questioning how does this phenomena occur? Where does the message come from? Well, the message is not new and this particular type of interaction is not new and indeed you have been involved in it through many of your past incarnations. Each of you in different senses, if you would, but nonetheless, a rather familiar type of exchange of information.

So again, this is not a new process but it is rather a process of that part of you which is what you refer to as your higher self, your inner self—what we refer to as [a] Piece of the One—reflecting back to you the understanding of who and what you are and the understanding of the process which you have put in place to create this vibrational level, this rather illusionary reality that you exist in and you experience each and every day of your lives. So this channeled information is not something new and the method of interaction is not something new.

Now, some of the words you may be hearing, some of the message you may be hearing, may appear to be new to you because of your erection and maintenance of the veil which restricts your remembering who and what you are, restricts you even from remembering past incarnations, even the very most recent incarnations. That veil also restricts you from understanding how it is that you create this reality. As we have suggested, if you were to understand how you created this reality, then it would all seem rather illusory to you and the purpose for your creating it would disappear. And there exists the very strong possibility that indeed your reality would consequently disappear because you may choose to not maintain it any longer.

However, the message you are hearing that has been presented to you is a message that is within each of you. So many of the questions you ask are questions for which you have the answers. The answers you receive, not only from us but from other entities, are but a reflection of the knowledge you already contain within each of you. At some level you have the answers. At some level you understand absolutely and completely who and what you are. That you are a Piece of God most certainly, a Piece of the One.

As these entities are questioning this phenomena of channeling and they are challenged by some of the messages they are receiving, they have but to understand that the message is a reflection of their own knowledge. You see, you maintain a veil that restricts entities who exist outside of your vibrational level from interfering, even to the point of interfering by expressing to you a message that you do not desire to hear. So the message we speak to you and the message that other channels speak to you is but a reflection of your own understanding and belief systems that you have at some level expressed the desire and belief system to hear and understand in order to enhance this reality and to enhance this transformation into this new age and new energy you are presently involved in. It's your choice. The message is your message.

If you will check back into our other channelings, we have suggested from the beginning that when you ask us a question, many times the answer we present back to you is an answer which we have received from you on a telepathic level. We're simply reflecting back to you the knowledge you already contain within each of yourselves. It's not new. It may seem new to you at this time simply because you choose not to remember. But it's not new.

As entities who exist outside of your vibrational level, it seems rather strange to us that there are entities within your vibrational level who feel that somehow we have superior knowledge of the workings of your reality. You see, not having ever experienced existing within your reality, it doesn't make sense we would have the answers and the solutions to your creations. However, that does not mean we do not understand the process of reality creation. It does not mean that you don't understand the process of reality creation either. It means simply that we understand it consciously and you choose to hide from that understanding.

You have chosen to create a new age and a new energy where it shall be possible for you to create from the conscious level. It shall be possible for you to begin to have, even if only for momentary instances, the understanding of who and what you are and the understanding of the process that's necessary for you to alter and create the reality you desire. You have expressed the intent to hear that message, to hear it verbally. So at this time there are more of these occurrences, these channelings, happening than there has been throughout your other pasts, throughout your other incarnations. It does not for an instant however suggest that we have a new message or that we are attempting to explain something to you that you don't already know at some level.

We also suggested many months ago that you are entering into a time as you continue on this transformation into the new age and new energy where this type of channeling will not be necessary for you to receive the messages you desire. Each of you shall have the opportunity to bring into your conscious level more of the understanding of who and what you are and you shall begin to have the opportunity to receive these messages intuitively. They shall come to you as suggestions, as coincidences. You will, at first, have the tendency to wonder where these thoughts come from, like it is someone else from outside of your reality that is interacting and sharing with you. Well, in a sense that's partially true, although that someone else is your higher self, that piece of you which is a Piece of the One that is inseparable from you and yet you hide from through the existence and the maintenance of the veil. So as you continue into this new age and new energy, this type of interaction (channeling) shall become less important to you, less prevalent. Each of you shall begin to receive messages which are individual messages similar to the type of exchange we suggest is possible when you express the intent to have that silent message occur.

You see, when you have that silent message occur now, at times many of you leave this place and you don't feel like you have heard anything. Some of you don't feel that you even remember the words that we speak and you feel like you've drifted off, like you've fallen asleep. Well, we assure you that you haven't fallen asleep, but rather you are interacting with other entities at another level in what we have termed that silent message. You are having a telepathic exchange of information, of feelings, an exchange of loving feelings. But you have not fallen asleep simply because you do not remember the words, do not feel like you have missed out on something or that it has not been a valuable exchange of information for you. For indeed, the exchange that occurs silently is much more complete and much more pertinent to each individual than the message we express through our friend. It may be days into your future before you receive these intuitive nudges, before some of that message you had exchanged and brought forward from your higher self comes into your reality. You get these coincidences and intuitions on which choice to make, on which direction to go in order to help you to create the reality you desire at that time.

At this time the majority of the reality you are creating and experiencing you create during your dream state. You do that as you go to sleep each night. You plan the events that are about to occur throughout your reality in your day-to-day activities. And you plan them with other entities who are to be involved. You set in place all types of contracts and all types of agreements that are very complicated. If you attempted to hold them in your conscious level it would be beyond your capacity to maintain any type of sanity in the conscious level while all these thoughts and ideas and interactions were running through your mind and intertwining with each other. So you create that reality primarily in your sleep.

However, when the circumstances occur within your day-to-day activities you still have the choice to determine the feelings you will experience surrounding those circumstances. You have the choice, from the conscious level, to take whatever it is you wish from that interaction and experience [it.] It's at those times that you shall begin to receive those intuitive nudges to guide you in which direction or in which choice to make to create the reality you wish to experience.

It's important you understand that those intuitive nudges are from yourself. It's from who and what you are. It's from the Piece of One that you are. It's from that part, that energy of consciousness that exists within you that creates this reality you experience. It's not necessarily an intuitive message from a guide or an angel or some entity that exists outside of this reality who is somehow directing you. But, rather, it's from yourself, that portion which you refer to as your higher self, which we like to refer to as the Piece of the One. For that is who and what you truly are. And so when you have this silent interaction, this telepathic exchange of communication occur, although you may not feel it has occurred at this time, it has nonetheless been a most real interaction and you shall have the opportunity to reap the benefits from being in contact with your higher self while you are in your conscious state.

Once again, it's important you understand that the message being transmitted to you through channels from entities who exist outside of your vibrational level is a message you desire to hear. It's a message that you have control over at some level. To suggest there are entities outside of your vibrational level who can come down and give you the answers is a rather limiting concept. You see, to feel and to hold that belief system is to once again give away your power. It's to once again allow an entity who exists outside of your vibrational reality to somehow have the power to have an influence on your reality. And we suggest that does not happen.

Throughout all of the times we have interacted with you, we have suggested that you are in control. You are the ones responsible for the reality you are creating and experiencing. And to suggest that an entity has the opportunity to have a direct influence on that reality without your control is to contradict the first statement. How can there be entities who have the capacity to interact and to direct you without you having direct control over that interaction? And so we have said to you many times that the information you hear is information which is expressed within the limitations of your understanding and your belief systems. You have within you the capacity to have a complete understanding of how you create this reality, but at this time you choose not to bring that understanding into your conscious level.

As you continue on your transformation into this new age and new energy, if all of the possibilities that exist at this time continue to progress, then you shall at some point have the opportunity to understand at the conscious level not only who and what you are, but the process you use to create this reality that you experience. You shall then have the opportunity to alter your reality consciously. The channeled information you are hearing is simply information that is a reflection of your understanding and beliefs that you have chosen to establish to aid you in this transformation into the new age and new energy.

It's also rather interesting that as you study different channeled pieces of information and they stray beyond what we have termed the three basic belief systems, there are a multitude of belief systems which are drawn into those channelings that are a reflection of the belief systems of the entities involved in that interaction. You see, we have tried many times to keep this message simple. We have suggested to you that there are but three belief systems that you hold as being important, ones that you would benefit from not altering or not attempting to alter.

One of those three basic belief systems is that you are indeed responsible for your creation of your reality. To suggest that there are other entities who have an influence upon your reality is to surrender the responsibility for your reality creation. And as you do that, you begin to experience circumstances to support that belief system and you begin to give away some of your power. However, when you accept the responsibility for the reality you are experiencing, then you also accept that you have the capacity to alter that reality and create whatever type of reality it is you desire. So it's important that you accept the responsibility for your reality. And by accepting the responsibility, you now have the capacity to alter that reality.

The second belief system is that you understand you are indeed a Piece of the One. You are a Piece of that God that you search for in your spirituality. You are the ones responsible for and the creators of this entire universe you exist in at the conscious level.

And the third belief system we have suggested you hold is that you cannot fail. You cannot fail to, at some time, return to the understanding of who and what you truly are. You cannot get lost. There are no tests you must pass, no lessons you must learn for progression in order to expand beyond this vibrational level you exist in. You have not been plunked down here to attempt to pass certain tests and examinations in order to progress. Not at all. You are here because you chose to be here. You cannot fail to return to the vibrational level that you came from. It's your choice. It's your choice to remain here. It's your choice to leave.

Awhile ago we used the analogy that when you awake in this vibrational level you do not at any time doubt that you will at some point fall asleep again. You don't doubt that at some point you are going to lay down and close your eyes and sleep. You may suffer insomnia for a time, most certainly, but you know that you will fall back to sleep at some point. You understand that completely. We suggested there are some who fall asleep and doubt that they may wake up. There's more of a doubt that way than there is the other way, most certainly. But mostly you wake up.

However, when you do wake up you always go back to sleep. There's no doubt in your mind. Well, we assure you that when you are in your between incarnation state and you leave that state to enter into this vibrational level, you have no doubt from that level of understanding that you shall return. You know that at some point you will die. At least your physical body will die and you will leave this body. That's a given. There isn't one of you sitting here who has any doubt that will occur.

Well, we suggest that when you do enter into the vibrational level we have referred to as the between incarnation state, that at that time you also know without a doubt you will return to the vibrational level that you originally came from. It's a given. You cannot fail. You do not have to pass any tests or exams. You do not have to accomplish any lessons. It's your choice. You cannot fail to return to the vibrational level from where you came. And when you understand that, when you can get a grasp of that belief system and own it, then you take one giant step towards understanding how imaginary and illusionary this reality that you exist in really is.

So this information that you hear that's being channeled and that's being questioned is as a result of you bringing more of your understanding into the conscious level. And questioning this channeling is a very healthy response because, you see, the channeling is a reflection of your understanding and your belief systems. When you begin to question that, you begin to question your own belief systems. And by questioning your own belief systems you shall begin to have the opportunity to hold at the conscious level the understanding of who and what you are and the understanding of how to alter those belief systems in order to create the reality you desire. So again, we suggest you take this information and you take from it that which will apply to you and aid you, and you set aside the rest. And when you have used that which would aid you at this time and it becomes past history, as you move beyond that point, then you also take that understanding and you set it on the shelf for future reference and you continue on your quest for new understanding, for new belief systems. You continue on your transformation into the new age and into the new energy. You continue to bring into your consciousness the understanding of who and what you truly are.

We would once again suggest that there are entities within this space that would welcome the opportunity to interact and exchange with you and we are going to take a moment's break now and allow you to organize any questions you may have for us. And during that time we assure you that the energy and the entities who exist within this space do not leave. You see, you are simply separated from other vibrational levels by your choice to be separated. There is no time and space from our perspective and so when you express the intent to alter your consciousness, to shift, then that interaction with entities who exist at other vibrational levels becomes a very real possibility and a very real occurrence. So should you express that intent during our intermission we assure you there are entities who would welcome the opportunity to interact with you, to exchange with you, to offer you their unconditional support, to offer you their unconditional love. And so we would break for a moment and allow you to organize any questions that you may have for us and we would return, with love and with peace. ✨
