Joshiah: First if all, allow us to express our greetings to each of you and to express to each of you our gratitude for your once again offering us this opportunity to enter into and to interact with each of you in your reality and in your vibrational level.

Now, as is our custom, we would ask you, if you choose, to express the intent to allow for an even further thinning of the veil. To allow for other entities that would be with us on this afternoon to have that opportunity as well to enter into your vibrational level and to enter into this sacred space that you have created and to have the opportunity to interact with each of you, should you choose. Now, we would ask as well, as is our custom, for a moment's silence. And we use that moment to adjust the energy that you have brought into this sacred space and to allow for that assemblance of those other entities and to fine-tune our connection with our friend Elias (the channel.) And so if you would allow us that moment, we would be brief.

(Pause)

Well, we thank you for that moment, and once again express our gratitude for your allowing us this opportunity, for creating these unique opportunities for us to interact with each of you. For it is indeed an enjoyable experience for us and one that we look forward to. For we come not only to share information with you, but to learn from each of you.

The entities that are with us on this afternoon also would welcome that opportunity to interact with each of you, to share information with each of you, and to assist you in bringing into your consciousness the answers to the questions that you have. And many times, information that you receive through the interactions with those entities is much more pertinent and much more accurate than the information that we express through this friend of ours and through this rather limited use of the vocabulary.

For you see, we interact through a process of thoughts, through an interaction through a process of transmitting feelings, and that thought and feeling is then transmitted into your vocabulary. And there are limitations in that transference and in that communication. However, there exists for you the opportunity to interact in what we refer to as the silent communication, to have a telepathic exchange of information with those entities that are with us on this afternoon. The choice is yours. As always, the choice is yours. We never ever suggest that you should do something, but always suggest that you have a choice to do something. And the choice for you to be involved in that silent communication exists and it is your choice. And should you choose, you would find that it is quite easy for you to alter your consciousness, to have a slight shift in your consciousness and to experience that interaction with other entities that are with us on this afternoon. And we assure you that while you may feel that you have somehow missed out on the information that we are suggesting, we assure you that you do not miss out on anything, but rather that that information will be received as well.

You obviously, as you sit here on this afternoon, you hear the words that we express through our friend Elias regardless of whether or not you can consciously recall them. You will have stored within your subconscious the retention and memory of that interaction. And just as you shall have difficulty, should you choose to shift your consciousness, in recalling the words that we express to you and the messages we give you on this afternoon, understand as well that the message that you receive telepathically shall be as legitimate even though you may have difficulty in recalling it. It may come to you in a sense of feelings, or of images, whatever, it doesn't matter. You may even believe that you have not experienced an interaction, but we assure you that you will.

And we assure you that that interaction can, if you choose, have a profound impact on your capacity to create your reality consciously. Information can come to you at times when it can be the most opportune in your bringing into your consciousness the understanding of your beliefs that are the responsible aspect of your reality creation process; and bringing into your consciousness an understanding, even if it is a brief understanding that you can't seem to get a grasp of, but nonetheless, an understanding, an intuitive suggestion, if you wish, of how you do create your reality, of what choices to make, of what beliefs are having an influence and how to change those beliefs. All of that information exists within each of you

The entities that are with us this afternoon do not necessarily give to you information that you do not have within yourself, but rather assist you in bringing into your consciousness. So the choice is yours. If you choose rather to listen to our message rather than be involved in that silent communication, that's alright too. It doesn't really matter to us. You see, we don't judge what you do. What you do is your choice. It is your creation. We come because you express the intent. We do not come to tell you what you must do.

And so, before we can begin this afternoon we would give you some of our newly—seemingly newly—arrived guests some information on who we are, and what we are, and why we are here. And then information on who and what you are, and why you are here.

We give you the name of Joshiah. And that is a name that was chosen by our initial group, if you wish, that we interacted with when we began these transferences in your linear time frame in this incarnational period. Over two years of your linear time ago now. That particular group chose the name Joshiah, and we would have used any name that [was] chosen. It didn't really matter. You see, we give you that name simply for your convenience so that you can identify who we are.

You see, within your conscious state, you still desire and require that you have some type of identification in the form of a vocabulary. And you continue to name individuals to give them some type of an expression that you can bring forth when you wish to refer to that individual. And so you have given us the name of Joshiah and that is fine.

We are a multidimensional personality. In our vibrational level we do not have those limitations, if you wish, that exist within your consciousness, by your choice, to have the requirement for some type of identification. You see, we recognize each other by our personalities, if you wish, by our thought process, by our feelings. We understand and recognize each individual.

And so we are a spark of consciousness, if you wish. We are a multidimensional personality. And we have and do understand the reality creation process. We have the capacity to create our own reality, and we do so. And we understand how we create that reality. We create it from a position of love. You see, the only possible way to have any creation is from a position of love. And we create our reality without the limitations of what we refer to as the veil that exists within your vibrational level.

Our vibrational level—our plane of existence, if you wish—is, in a sense, far removed from your existence and yet we exist within the same space as you exist in. For you see, space and time are an illusion. They are your illusions while you are in your conscious state in this vibrational level. And so we are not separated by time or space, but rather by an electromagnetic type of energy that we would refer to, for lack of a better term, [as] a vibrational level. And that vibrational level in terms of vibrations, if you wish, in terms of energy, is somewhat removed from the one that you exist in.

We come to you because the individuals in this particular group expressed the intent. And we welcome the opportunity to interact and to share and indeed to learn from each of you.

Now, [what we] “are not” is, we are not any type of a leader. Absolutely not. We do not come to set ourselves up as some type of guru. We do not give you information and say, “You must do this and you must do this.” Absolutely not. We make suggestions many times. We offer information that you desire. Information that exists within your vibrational level and in what you refer to as your subconsciousness.

We are not an entity that has existed within your vibrational level. We have not, in other words, experienced the incarnations and the limitations of the physical existence that you have chosen to experience. We have not ever experienced a physical existence in your vibrational level.

We do not have the capacity to interfere. You see, you, as individuals, have chosen to create this vibrational level and you have established what we refer to as a veil. And it is an electromagnetic type of energy, if you wish, that exists throughout each and every cell and each and every atom in your entire universe and in your entire physical being, absolutely, that limits interaction or interference from other entities that exist outside of your vibrational level. And so, first of all, we could not interfere in your vibrational level because you have established that electromagnetic type of energy that restricts and inhibits interference; and secondly, we have absolutely no desire to interfere in your reality. We have absolutely no desire to attempt to create for you or to have any type of influence upon your creation that you do not desire. We have no desire to in any way interfere.

We also do not have access to any knowledge that exists within your vibrational level that you do not have access to. You see, it is rather ludicrous to believe that someone existing outside of your vibrational level somehow has access to, or an understanding of, your vibrational level that you do not have access to. It is your vibrational level. You create it and you create this reality. You understand the working mechanisms of this creation process. You understand your vibrational level better than any other entity existing outside of your vibrational level. And if you believe that there are some entities that have the capacity to express to you information or knowledge that you do not have access to, [that] is simply not an accurate explanation of your reality creation process. Absolutely not.

You see, we would give you an analogy and we would ask you to understand that analogies are poor at best because they leave ideas and concepts open for interpretation and many times that interpretation is not an accurate reflection of the original concept or idea that was attempted to be expressed through the analogy. But nonetheless, we would give you an analogy to suggest that you exist on a continent that you refer to as the North American continent. Now, you may have existed on this entire continent for your entire incarnational period and yet there is, of course, other continents. You understand as well that there are other existences on your Earth that are on other continents, other societies. And it would be ludicrous to believe that someone who has existed on your continent could give you an accurate description of the society that exists on another continent that they have never been experienced with. You, for example, may have never left this continent and never been on the continent that you refer to as Asia and yet many individuals may believe that they have a very good grasp of the society that exists in Asia.

And you may. You may have read about it. You may have had all types of information given to you about it. But to believe that you understand that society better than individuals who exist on that continent of Asia would just simply not be accurate. And similarly, to believe that there is an entity existing outside of your vibrational level that has a greater understanding of your vibrational level than the individuals who exist within your vibrational level is simply not so. It just doesn't exist.

And so we are not an entity that has access to any information about the reality that you exist in that is not available to each of you. And in fact, there is a rather interesting concept that we many times tap into your subconsciousness and reflect back to you that information that is contained within each of you. And that is not a difficult process. Each of you also has that capacity, you simply hide from that understanding and from that knowledge and from that ability. But you can do it nonetheless, and you do it many times on a regular basis but you just don't acknowledge it. And so we are not an entity that has access to information that you do not have access to.

Now, who and what are you, and why are you in this vibrational level? Well, you are first of all a spark of consciousness. And we have said that many times and you have each heard it before that we have suggested that you are a Piece of God, if you wish. You are a Piece of the One. Now, the use of that vocabulary puts limitations upon [it] for it suggests that there is a bigger Piece of One or that there is a bigger God, and that is simply not so. A Piece is a Piece. There is no size distinction here. We are not suggesting lesser or greater, but rather an equal Piece. And all of the sparks of consciousness that have the capacity to create throughout all of creation are equal. There is not a greater or a less. So once again, that expression that you are a Piece of the One is not truly accurate, for you are the One. Equal to—no more and no less than any other one that exists in all of creation.

You, as individuals and as a human consciousness, chose to create this vibrational level. You chose to be here. You didn't come here because you believed that there was some necessary growth. You didn't come here because you thought, "Well, I am an insuperior individual or piece of the consciousness that somehow must learn lessons before I can transcend." Absolutely not. You came here from choice. You came here not for an instant believing that you were less than nor more than any other individual that exists throughout all of creation. You came here and created this reality and created this vibrational level by choice.

And you did it for a very seemingly simple reason. And once again, it wasn't to learn so that you could transcend. It wasn't because you felt that there were certain lessons that had to be performed. Absolutely not. You came here because you desired to experience a multitude of intense feelings that are not possible in the other vibrational levels. And when you created this vibrational level and you established that electromagnetic field—that veil that we refer to—you established it for the purposes of allowing you to create a reality that you had no knowledge of the purpose and no knowledge of the process of creation so that you could experience the feelings and believe that they were real. And you see, because you believe that this reality is a real, the feelings become much, much more intense.

We have used an analogy—and as always, once again, analogies are poor at best—but we have used the analogy of a child entering into a movie theater and becoming absolutely and completely entranced in what they see, and being influenced to the point where they believe that what is being portrayed upon the screen and what they are hearing and perceiving is absolutely true. It is real. And because of that belief they can invoke all types of feelings regarding that particular presentation, regarding that movie, if you wish, that they are watching upon the screen. And they don't understand the process for creating and developing that movie, and they believe it is real.

Now, as they grow—and here, once again, comes the limitation of an analogy because you do not necessarily have to grow—but after, as an individual child in an incarnational period grows and as they become more familiar with the process of creating that movie, then they begin to understand that it is not real. They begin to understand indeed that it is a trick; that it is a trick of the camera; that it is a trick of the promotion; that it is a trick of the producer and of the special effects individuals that creates the illusion that they're busy viewing upon the screen. And while that illusion can still invoke feelings, the feelings are no longer as intense.

And when the individual leaves the movie theater, suddenly the feelings are not nearly as intense at all because they understand the process of creation of that movie. And once they understand, then it is more difficult to have that intense feelings.

Now, similarly when you exist in a vibrational level where you understand the reality creation process, when you understand that it is all your creation and it is based upon your beliefs and based upon your choices and based upon what it is that you desire, then you also understand that it is an illusion and you can change it. And when you understand that, the intensity of the feelings are not nearly as strong as they are when you believe that it is not your creation.

And so when you exist within this vibrational level and you are in your conscious state and you put in place that veil, that electromagnetic type of system, you by choice limit your understanding of your reality creation process. And similar to the child watching the movie without understanding the process for creating and developing that movie, you have the opportunity to experience intense feelings. Feelings that cannot be duplicated throughout the rest of creation. And that is why you chose to create this reality—for the opportunity to experience those intense feelings. And that is why we welcome the opportunity to interact with you because it gives us an opportunity to experience those intense feelings.

Now, it is not that we don't create illusionary realities as well, and actually, our realities are much more real than your reality. But it is not that we can't create that reality and it is not that we don't create that reality, but we understand the reality creation process, and the intensity of the feelings that we experience are feelings that are more involved with love and self-love. And it is the desire to experience other feelings that has been the purpose of your creating this vibrational level that you exist in. For you see, you too are a multidimensional personality, as are we. You too are a spark of consciousness. And you too create your reality. Absolutely.

Now, this reality that you experience in the conscious state is an illusionary reality. It is an illusion. Now, that is not to suggest for a minute that it is not important and that you should just throw it aside. Absolutely not. And we are not suggesting that you should dwell more in what you would refer to as the spiritual or metaphysical aspects of your reality. Absolutely not. But rather, to understand that what you believe is real is only real because you believe it is. It is an illusion. And understanding that it is illusion makes it easier for you to alter that reality, to alter an illusion.

You see, when you watch the movie and you understand that it is an illusion and you also understand that the producer can change that illusion to reflect whatever it is that they believe they wish to portray upon the screen. They understand, as do you, that it is an illusion and they can change it, they can make it be whatever they wish. Well, ironically, the reality that you experience in your conscious state is as illusionary as that projection that you view upon the screen. And you change it and you can alter it. Now, the irony of it is that you do change it and you do alter it constantly, you are just not aware of the process.

Now, you are in the stages of transformation into what we refer to as the new age and the new energy. And when that transformation has been complete, there exists within your vibrational level—as by your choice—the possibility to understand the reality creation process consciously and to consciously alter your reality, to consciously create whatever it is that you desire.

You see, you do consciously affect your reality, you just don't believe it. You just don't understand it at the conscious level. When we suggest to you that it is possible for you to alter your illusionary reality, not only is it possible for you to alter your illusionary reality, but you do it constantly. You just don't recognize it. You create this reality and you do it based upon your beliefs and you do it based upon your choices.

Now, if you wish to believe that there is some entity existing outside of your vibrational level that creates it for you, then you can create that reality as well. It is your choice. It is your choice. You create your reality based upon your choices and decisions. It is a reflection of your belief systems and it brings into your consciousness state that which you desire. And if your desire is to not accept the responsibility, well, that is a choice as well and you can create that. If you believe that you are not responsible, well, that is fine. You can create that reality as well.

You see, you create the reality based upon your belief systems and there is absolutely no judgment as to what is right or wrong, other than the judgment that you hold in your conscious state. That Piece of the One that you are, that higher self, if you wish, that subconsciousness, that spark of conscious creation that you are, that multidimensional personality that you are that does not judge what it is that you desire to bring into your reality, but rather—in an absolute, loving way—creates whatever you desire based upon your beliefs, based upon your choices, based upon what it is that you desire, and what is based upon the extent of your imagination.

That Piece of the One that you are—that is inseparable from you, that exists within each and every physical cell of your entire being—creates whatever it is that you desire. And if you desire to not experience the responsibility for that creation, there is no judgment in that. That spark of consciousness that you are creates that. The irony of it is that you could create whatever [it is] that you desire and you could create that as easily as you create the one that you are experiencing.

Now, we are not suggesting that you are not experiencing a reality that you desire, absolutely not. You may have an absolutely beautiful reality that you have absolutely no desire to change and you may not change it. But as you become aware of the conscious creation process, as you begin to get an understanding of who and what you truly are—as we have suggested so many times—your perception of your reality has a distinct possibility to change.

You see, to use our analogy of the film, once again, once you understand the reality creation process, the film does not have the same impact anymore. You can go and sit and watch the film and you can experience the feelings, but once again, when you leave that film, leave that studio, it is absolutely not the same as it was when you didn't understand that it is not real. And so it is when you begin to get a grasp of the reality creation process—when you actually own the concept that you create your reality and you can create whatever it is that you desire—it is not that you will necessarily change your reality completely, but you may certainly change your perception of it. And that which you once believed was so important and was so real, suddenly may not have that influence upon you anymore.

Now, there is another concept that goes hand and hand with that understanding of the reality creation process and that is once you have made the choice and once you would begin to hold the belief that you create your reality and once you begin to prove that to yourself—prove that to your conscious self—you cannot go back. You cannot return to that point where you no longer understood that you are not responsible for your reality. You cannot return.

You see, it is like an individual—once again, to use our analogy—who understands the process of creating that film that you are viewing upon the screen. Once they understand the process, that film can never have the same impact. It is not that it can't be enjoyable and it is not that it can't be entertaining. Absolutely not. But you can never return to that position of believing that it is real. You cannot go back. And when you are in your conscious state creating your reality and you get a grasp of that concept of the reality creation process, when you get a grasp of the understanding of who and what you truly are, you cannot go back. You cannot dismiss that.

And if you try to go back, if you try to dismiss it, there exists the very strong possibility that you shall experience dis-ease and discomfort in your conscious existence. For you can't trick yourself in that manner. You can't lie to yourself in that manner. Because you see, when you begin to get a grasp of the concept of this reality creation process and who and what you truly are, you also begin to love yourself more. You begin to love that entity that you are. And to attempt to go back is to attempt to deny that (inaudible) love, that self-love. And when you attempt to deny that self-love you bring on discomfort for yourself. You cannot go back. You cannot reverse that understanding.

Now, we are not suggesting that that is a good or bad thing. Absolutely not. For once again, we do not judge. Judgment exists within your consciousness within your vibrational level. There are no entities existing outside of your vibrational level that judge what you do. You are honored for what you do. You are on, once again, what we refer to as the leading edge of the creation process. Absolutely nowhere throughout all of creation in all of the other vibrational levels is there a duplication of the vibrational level that you have chosen to create and exist in. It is unique.

You are unique individuals for choosing to enter into this vibrational level and you are honored for what you do, not judged. There are no lessons that you must learn. There is no judgment upon what you create—absolutely not—other than the judgment that you place upon yourselves in your conscious state.

And so the reality that you create, should you choose to transfer over to what we refer to as this new age and new energy or should you choose to remain in the old energy, doesn't really matter. It doesn't really matter. There is no judgment other than the judgment that you would place upon yourselves.

For you see, you cannot fail. You absolutely cannot fail to return to the understanding of who and what you truly are. That is a given. You don't have to follow a certain set of rules in order to progress. Absolutely not. You follow a certain set of rules in order to establish a character, in order to understand who you are while you are in the conscious state so that you can like yourself. That is why you have what you refer to as a conscience. That is why you set in place the principles that you would exist by, so that you can, while you are in the conscious state, like that individual that you have created and experience love and self-love.

That is why you have the guilt. It has absolutely nothing to do with your ability to enter into what you refer to as heaven. You cannot fail. There is not one individual existing in your vibrational level that shall fail to return to the understanding of who and what they are. Absolutely none. There are no lost individuals. It just isn't possible. It cannot happen. That is your choice. This is your reality. You choose to be here. You choose to perpetuate it and you choose to create it. And you can, if you choose, end it. There is no judgment either way. It is your choice. Absolutely. You cannot fail.

You, as individuals, believe in your conscious state that there is a linear time frame, and you believe and put in place all types of so-called proof that there is indeed a beginning and an end and that you have somehow transformed and evolved into the individuals that you are in this particular incarnational period.

Ironically, time is an illusion. You exist in the now. All of the incarnational periods are simultaneous. You are a multidimensional personality and you have the capacity to create not only your present, but also your past and your future. And ironically, not only do you have the capacity to create it, but you do create it, absolutely. Not only do you have the capacity to alter it, but you do alter it. Absolutely. You just don't consciously understand it.

And so when an individual in your particular incarnational period brings forth a concept that, "Oh well, you have this evolution and we have certain circumstances that occurred centuries ago that have had an influence upon us," and that particular concept becomes accepted by what we refer to as the human consciousness concept, then you create the reality to support the belief. And suddenly you begin to find all of these artifacts and all of this proof.

Is it real? Absolutely. It is as real as anything else that you experience in this illusionary reality that you create. You see, it is all an illusion. It is all an illusion and you can change it and you can create whatever it is that you believe. And it is all an illusion.

Individuals who believe that there are evil spirits existing can create the circumstances to have that experience while they are in their conscious state. Absolutely. That is your choice. The only limitation to the creation process in this vibrational level is your imagination. If you can imagine it, if you can believe it; if you can choose it, you can create it. Absolutely.

And there is no judgment on what is right or wrong, other than the judgment that you put upon it in your conscious state. And so that Piece of the One that you are, that spark of consciousness that you are that has the capacity to create, creates whatever it is that you desire and believe in—no matter how bizarre the belief. For it is all an illusion.

You have but three truths, three truths that exist not only in your vibrational level but in all of the vibrational levels throughout all of creation. You are the spark of consciousness that is a Piece of the One, if you wish, a Piece of God, no greater than and no less than any other spark of consciousness throughout all of creation, and as that spark of consciousness you create your reality. No other individual—either withinside or withoutside of your vibrational level—but you, create your reality. Absolutely. And you cannot fail. You absolutely cannot fail to return to the understanding of who and what you are. That is a given. That is a guarantee.

If you can hold those three concepts and understand how they all interact with each other then you can begin to get a glimpse of how illusionary this reality is, of how when it ends in terms of your consciousness incarnational period you do not die. You do not go into some dark, unforeseen pit where you cannot return from. Absolutely not. But rather, you shift your consciousness to the point where you get an understanding of who and what you truly are.

And even at that state where you first, what you refer to as, die, when you first end this incarnational period, you still exist within a veil, the beliefs that you hold can influence that particular period of your reality creation process as well. Absolutely. For you see, the process of creating your reality does not alter, no matter what the vibrational level you exist at. So, should you choose to believe that there is a God and you wish to have that, well, you can create that. Absolutely. It can be as real as any other experience or creation that you can have.

But you, at that level of your consciousness, have a much easier option and choice, if you wish, to alter your conscious even further, and to step back and understand that you create your reality. To step back and understand that it is an illusion. And you can make the choice to continue to create in this vibrational level, to continue to operate with the limitations of that veil, or to step outside of this vibrational level and enter into another vibrational level where you shall have the conscious understanding of who and what you are and the conscious understanding of the reality creation process. The choice is yours, and you cannot—absolutely—cannot fail.

Now, for those of you who have been with us many times it should come as no surprise that we normally get back to our favorite subject, and that is the three belief systems. Because that is the key. That is the understanding of who and what you are. That and bringing in the capacity to love yourself so you can create whatever it is you desire and you can do it consciously. "Love yourself" is the key to this conscious creation process. And it becomes much easier when you actually believe in those three concepts.

Now, we would break for a moment or two and we would remind you that when we have our break that the entities that are with us on this afternoon and the energy that you have created within this sacred space does not leave. And if you wish to continue in your silent communication that is possible, you have but to express the intent. And as well, we would remind you that we are not separated by time or space but by a vibrational level and we would be with you always. It is your choice.

Now, we would break for a moment or two, and if you desire, we would return, and if you have questions we would attempt to answer them for you. And so we would leave you for a moment or two, with love and with peace. ✨
