Q and A

Joshiah: Well, it is indeed a pleasure to be invited back into your vibrational level, and we would, once again, (inaudible) express to each of you our gratitude and our greetings for offering us this opportunity to, once again, interact and to share with each of you. And we would remind you that there exists that opportunity for you to be involved in that silent communication. And you will find that as a result of the energy that you have created that it is quite easy for you to alter your consciousness and enter into that so-called meditative state and to participate in that silent communication, in that telepathic exchange and interaction with other entities, should you choose to do so. And as always, the choice is yours. Absolutely.

Now. You as entities existing within this vibrational level, once again, have put in place an electromagnetic type of energy—and we use that terminology because it is as close as we can come to give you some type of an accurate explanation of the energy that you employ to limit the understanding of who and what you truly are—an electromagnetic type of energy that limits your capacity while you are in this particular vibrational level, in whatever level of consciousness that you desire to apply as an explanation for where it is that you happen to be at that instant. You exist within limitations of what we refer to as the veil. Limitations that allow you to understand, in your various levels of consciousness, who and what you truly are. Limitations, once again, that you put in place.

It's important that you understand that it's your choice. It's important that you understand that these limitations are limitations that you choose to apply. They're not limitations that some other entities have put in place. Absolutely not. Not only do you choose to apply them, you choose to perpetuate them. You choose. Not someone else, not some other entity. Your choice. Absolutely.

And that electromagnetic type of energy also has one other significant feature, in that it does not allow any entities existing outside of your vibrational level to interfere with your creation process. Now, that's not suggesting that there are entities existing outside of your vibrational level who would desire to interfere. Absolutely not. It's not that way at all. The information that you receive through this so-called interactions with other entities is information that is contained within each and every one of you. If you desire to have that information you don't need someone like us to come and tell you. It exists within each of you. We simply express to you that which you desire to hear. Nothing more and nothing less.

And so, this electromagnetic type of energy that you have in place that limits the capacity for you to understand who and what you truly are in your awake consciousness state, once again, also limits the capacity for other entities existing outside of your vibrational level to influence this creation process that you're involved in. And once again, it's not that they're waiting to influence it. Absolutely not. But nonetheless, entities who wish to be involved in your vibrational level simply make the choice to do so. There's nothing says that some entity existing outside of your vibrational level does not participate in your particular type of creation process. Absolutely not. They simply have to agree to put in place that particular type of electromagnetic type of energy that limits their capacity to understand who and what they truly are—then it as well limits the capacity for other entities existing outside of your vibrational level to influence the creation process on this vibrational level. It's really that simple. It's not a complicated aspect of creation. Absolutely not.

And so, you put in place this electromagnetic type of energy that limits your capacity to understand who and what you truly are. And then when you're in this so-called awake consciousness state, you're as far removed from your capacity to understand who and what you truly are as is possible for you to be. And so, in that state, in this so-called awake consciousness state, many entities feel like they are missing something, like they are searching for connection to this understanding of who and what they truly are. And in your awake consciousness state you also believe that somehow it's been taken away or that it's not something that's available to you. And it's not that way at all.

Understand when you make that connection—and you shall make that connection, we absolutely guarantee that you cannot fail to come to the capacity to understand who and what you truly are—but when you make that connection and you hold it in the conscious state, that conscious state will, in all probability, not be in this vibrational level. That's not right or wrong. It's a choice that you can make. Not only can make, but do make on a continual basis. And so this search for who and what you truly are—and it's like you think it's out there somewhere, or it's a separation, or you have to discover your so-called entities or energy or god-figure, if you wish to use that terminology—and you search for that connection. You search for that understanding.

The irony of it is that you cannot lose that connection. The irony of it is that you cannot be separated from who and what you truly are. This is an illusion that you exist in in your awake consciousness state. You don't have to search for who and what you truly are. When we suggest that you "go withinside" to make that connection, that's simply a figure of speech. For you see, there is no withinside. And the irony of it is when you go withinside—to use that figure of speech—when you use some type of exploration and you make a, if you wish, a connection, if you get a type of an understanding that gives you a glimpse even of the unlimited capacity that you have to create, you realize that it's not withinside that you go, for it doesn't really exist. It's like you're everywhere. It's like you're in everything, because you are.

You see, it's an illusion. It's your illusion. It's your illusion as individuals, and it's your illusion indeed as what we refer to as a human consciousness concept and agreement. It's your illusion. You agree to participate. And so to "go withinside" is a figure of speech. Absolutely. For when you make that connection, if you wish, and you get even a glimpse of the understanding then you begin to understand that it's not withinside, for that's an illusion. And it's not outside of this particular atmospheric existence as well, because that's an illusion. And it's not outside of your so-called universe, because that's an illusion. You begin to understand that you exist in each and every atom of this entire vibrational level, and that's the connection. That's the understanding that it's within your capacity to glimpse, if you wish.

Now. If you wish to hold that in your conscious state, once again, in all probability you will not remain in this vibrational level. And that's not a right or wrong. You'll make the choice to leave this vibrational level. You will make the choice to leave this vibrational level—not some other entity, not some other energy, not your so-called universe that's going to swoop down on you and say, "Okay, you're done. You can leave." Absolutely not. You will make the choice to leave. You're here by choice and you will leave by choice. You are not separated from who and what you truly are. That separation is an illusion. It's an illusion that you put in place when you agree to participate in the creation process in this vibrational level. It's an illusion that you agree to put in place when you establish that electromagnetic type of energy that you put in place that exists throughout your entire vibrational—in each and every atom, if you wish to refer, once again, to a reality [that's] of some substance.

It exists in each and every atom of your entire universe. It's not something that's out there and you're on one side and it's on the other. Absolutely not. It's an energy. We refer to it as a veil simply because that gives you some concept that you indeed have so much more than what you're able to perceive, that you have this, seemingly, veil that limits your capacity to understand who and what you truly are in your awake consciousness state. But it's not a veil. It's not something that separates you, and you're on this side and it's on that side. Absolutely not. It's an energy that exists within each and every atom of your entire universe and in your entire being.

And it's an energy that you put in place. And it's an energy that you perpetuate in place. It's not something that's forced upon you. Absolutely not. You are not separate from who and what you truly are. You cannot be separated. You cannot be separated from that spark of consciousness that you are. You cannot be separated from your spirituality. You can choose to hide from it. You can choose to ignore it. You can choose to put in place and establish a very strong electromagnetic type of energy so that that enhances the experience, so that it enhances the emotions and feelings that you experience in your so-called awake consciousness state, but you can't be separated from it. It's who and what you truly are.

You exist in an illusion. This awake consciousness state is as far removed, if you wish to use some type of terminology, from who and what you truly are as it's possible for you to be. And even to use that terminology infers that perhaps there's a separation, and there isn't. But in this particular awake consciousness state, that veil—that electromagnetic type of energy, if you wish—is at its strongest and it limits you the capacity to consciously understand that this is not real. And you agree to participate in that type of limitation. You agree to participate in this reality that is a reflection of the beliefs that you hold, and you put in place what we refer to as the human consciousness belief systems and you agree to participate within the limitations of that human consciousness belief system—what we might refer to as your laws of physics.

You see, you believe indeed that there are solid objects and not so solid objects. You believe, for example, that you can move freely through your atmosphere, which is comprised of molecules, which in turn are comprised of atoms. And yet, your so-called solid objects are also comprised of molecules and atoms. And within that atom you have a nucleus, and within that nucleus there are protons and neutrons. And surrounding the so-called nucleus are what you refer to as electrons.

Now. It's amazing that you have that capacity to use your imagination to believe that such a thing exists when it's so small that you can't even begin to have any type of visual affirmation. And yet you believe it exists, and so it does. You see, it's a reflection of a belief that you hold. But you believe that there are these atoms with their nucleus and their electrons that are floating around inside that atom and they rotate around the nucleus. And you believe that that's a tiny, tiny particular aspect of your creation and yet you also believe that each and every aspect of the creation is composed of atoms. And these atoms that exist in everything, indeed that you believe are so small if you were to use them in a ratio compared to your galaxy [i.e. solar system]—which has your so-called sun as its center and your planets and particular aspects of the moons that surround the planets, and you continuously discover other planets that are within your galaxy—if you were to compare in a ratio that atom to your so-called galaxy, you would discover that there is more space between your electrons and your nucleus than there is between your so-called sun, which is the nucleus of your galaxy, and the particular elements of planets and other elements that revolve around your [centrifugal] center of your so-called galaxy similar to the electrons that float around the nucleus which you believe is indeed the center of the atom. There is more space, in the ratio comparison, in the elements of the atom than there is in the elements of your galaxy.

So, what's in between? What's in between all of those elements in the atom? Energy. Your energy. The spark of consciousness that you are exists as that energy within those atoms. Not only do you have the capacity to alter the energy within those atoms, but you are the energy within those atoms and you do alter it constantly. For time and space are illusions, they only exist in your awake consciousness state. And this reality that you experience in your awake consciousness state is an illusion and is made up primarily of energy, and that energy is who and what you truly are. And it doesn't exist in time and space. And because it doesn't exist in time and space, that allows you to get a potential glimpse of an understanding of the limitlessness of your ability to create, the limitlessness of who and what you truly are. And as well, an understanding that you exist within an illusion, that you are the energy that you experience, and that you cannot be separated from who and what you truly are.

And when we suggest that you "go withinside," that's, once again, a figure of speech. For you are indeed in this entire vibrational level, in the entire illusion, you are the energy. You can't be lost from it. You don't have to search for it. Absolutely not. Just take a look around you—everything that you experience, everything that you perceive, contains your energy. You are so much more than what it's possible for you to comprehend in your awake consciousness state. You are all that is, and yet you are the most minute part that it's possible for you to comprehend. You are everything, absolutely, that you experience in this vibrational level.

Now. If you have any questions, we would be willing to attempt to answer them for you.

Questioner: Are there any variations in this vibrational level?

Joshiah: This vibrational level, once again, like all of the other vibrational levels throughout all of creation, is an illusionary reality. It's a reflection of beliefs that you hold. So, if you wish to have variations, you can have that. If you wish to believe that there's no such thing as a variation, you can have that as well. The irony of it is that whatever you choose to believe will be reflected in the reality that you experience. Absolutely guaranteed. If you believe that you're not in control, then you create realities to validate the belief. And you do so as joyously as you create any other reality.

If you believe that there is a universe, for example, that has all of this ability to provide for you, then you can create the reality to validate that belief system. The irony of it is that before that can occur, you create the universe. That's the irony. The irony of it is that it's all your creation. If you believe that there is some entity existing outside of your vibrational level that creates for you, you can have that as well. But first of all, you create the entity. If you believe that you have guides and spirits—and many individuals do, and again, it's not a right or wrong—but if that's a belief that you wish to hold, you can have that and you can create them, because that's how it occurs. You create them because you believe that they exist, and then you give them powers and they come back and validate the belief that they can influence your reality.

It's not right or wrong. It allows you to experience a reality that you believe is beyond your capacity to control and it enhances the emotions and feelings, and the intensity of those emotions and feelings is indeed magnified when you believe you're not in control. And that's why you exist within this vibrational level in the first place. We, once again, would challenge any individual in your awake consciousness state to take some particular activity, or some event, or some particular element that you desire to experience, and to break it down to the basic elements of why you want that, and you will come to the understanding that it's because you wish to experience a particular emotion or feeling—be that the emotion of joy, or be that the emotion of having this illusion that you have abundance and that brings to you a sense of well-being, it doesn't matter. You can break it down to its basics and it will come down to your desire to have a certain experience of an emotion or feeling, because that's why you're here.

And so, if you wish to have variances in this vibrational level, that's your choice. Absolutely. You can have whatever it is that you desire. If you believe that there are variances that exist between one particular element of one's ability to create versus another, well you will have all types of experiences that validate that belief. And it's not right or wrong. Once again, right or wrong is an awake human consciousness concept. It does not exist at that level of that spark of consciousness that you are that creates this reality that you experience. If you wish to believe that there are some entities who are better able to control their reality creation process and there are others who are not so capable, then you will have all types of realities and experiences to validate that belief.

But understand that it's validating your belief, not their belief. When you interact with another individual, many times two individuals come together and they become involved in a particular interaction and one individual has a certain reaction to that particular activity and the other individual has an entirely different reaction to that particular activity, but nonetheless they both agree to participate in the creation, and they both take away emotions and feelings that they desire to experience. And it's not right or wrong, it's why you exist in this vibrational level. It's why you put in place rules and regulations; and within your society, it's why you establish relationships; it's why you attempt to achieve certain particular goals—it's because it allows you to experience the emotions and feelings.

It's really that simple. You can make it more complicated. And in fact, not only can but many individuals go to great lengths to make it more complicated because it makes it more real. But there are but three truisms, if you wish, that exist not only in your vibrational level but in all of the other vibrational levels throughout all of creation: you create your reality; you are the god that you search for, you are that spark of consciousness, if you wish, that has the capacity to create; and you absolutely cannot fail to come to the understanding of who and what you truly are. The rest is up for grabs. If you wish to believe that there are various variances in one's capability versus another, or variances in one's beliefs versus another, you can have that. Absolutely. It's not right or wrong. It's a choice that you can make.

The irony of it is that every individual creates their reality and they create it by holding belief systems and beliefs. And the reality that they create validates the beliefs, and that spark of consciousness that you are reacts joyously and continues to create to validate the beliefs. And if you don't like the reality, change the belief. It's that simple.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes, it does. Thank you.

Joshiah: Well now, it has indeed been a very enjoyable interaction and we would like to, once again, express our gratitude to each of you for allowing us this opportunity to interact and to share in your reality and in your vibrational level. We would remind you, once again, that we are not separated by time or space but rather by a vibrational level, and should you choose to interact with us you have but to express the intent and we would welcome that opportunity to interact and to share with each of you, and to offer you our unconditional love and our unending support. And we would bid each of you farewell, with love [and with peace.] ✨
