

JOSHIAH

www.joshiah.com

Caveat: This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited. Editorial comments are in parentheses; probable wording is in square brackets.

November 2, 2008

Joshiah: Well, now. Well, it is indeed a pleasure to be invited back into your vibrational level and we would like to express our greetings to each of you and as well to express our gratitude for your, once again, offering us this opportunity to interact and to share with each of you. And then, once again, before we begin on this afternoon we would like to suggest that there exists for each of you, once again, that opportunity to be involved in what we refer to as silent communication, that opportunity to alter your consciousness and to enter into a meditative type state, and in that altered state of consciousness the opportunity to interact and to share with other entities that may be with us on this afternoon, or indeed that portion of your higher self that you might refer to, that spark of consciousness that you are.

And once again, that interaction many times is more pertinent to your individual needs and desires, to your individual personal questions than is the answers, indeed, information that we attempt to express in this rather limited use of a vocabulary. And once again, many times in that altered state of consciousness you may have no recollection in your conscious state of an interaction with another entity or another part of that inter, higher consciousness that you are, but nonetheless we assure you that that interaction occurs.

And indeed many times in your so-called future, in your day-to-day activities, in your conscious and awake state, you receive intuitive suggestions, bits of information, to assist you in bringing into your reality that which you desire to experience as a result of the interactions in this altered state of consciousness, in a communicative state, in what you refer to as meditation. And once again, as always that choice is yours. And it is certainly not only available to you during these interactions that you participate in but as always the energy that you create as a group indeed enhances your possibilities and indeed your probabilities of successful interactions, and entering into that altered state of consciousness the energy exists that is available to you will assist you in altering that consciousness and achieving that desired result.

And so, we would encourage you to participate in the opportunities that you have created to enter into that altered state of consciousness. And as always, once again, the choice is yours, absolutely.

Now, you exist in this reality, once again, through your choice. You're not put here by some entity that says that you must exist within a certain type of experience in order to enhance or to grow or to become enlightened. You can have that experience if that's what you desire but it's important to understand that if you choose it, it's your choice, it's not some other entity's choice or group of entities that decide that you must be influenced or must be participating in a certain type of reality creation in order to have a certain influence upon your so-called development. That's a choice that you make. It's not something that's forced upon you. Absolutely not.

It's not wrong if you choose to have that choice, but understand that it is a choice. It's a personal choice. It's not a choice made by some entity that exists outside of who and what you truly are. And so, if you choose to believe that you're here because you must grow or through some type of an enhancement, that's your choice. And you can have it, absolutely. It's not a right or wrong, but it is a personal choice, not something that's inflicted upon you. You're not here because some entity decided that you must grow. You're not here because there's some entity who's decided that you must experience some enlightenment. You're not involved in relationships because there's some other entities that are influencing your reality to the point where you don't have that opportunity to make the choices on the interactions and relationships that you choose to be involved in. Absolutely not.

You're here because you choose to be here. You're here because of the opportunities that you create to experience the realities in your so-called awake and consciousness state that allows you to experience the enhanced emotions and feelings. It's really that simple. You can make it more complicated, not only can but quite often go to great lengths to make it more complicated, but nonetheless it's really that simple. You exist in this vibrational level because you choose to be here. You're existing and experiencing these day-to-day activities because they're your choices, not because some other entity has decided that you must experience that. Absolutely not.

And it's important to grasp that concept, for until you grasp that concept and until you own it then it becomes very difficult for you to feel in control of this reality that you are experiencing in your day-to-day interactions with others, and indeed with your own personal creation process. Until you can grasp that and own it, that you are in absolute control—even if it's a reality that you might in your awake and consciousness state believe is less than desirable, we assure you that some level of your consciousness, the spark of consciousness that you are from which you create this reality, is overjoyed at the success of creating the reality that validates the experiences and allows you to experience the feelings, the enhanced emotions and feelings that are not possible in your altered states of consciousness or indeed in your other vibrational levels that exist outside of this vibrational level, where you put in place, once again, that electromagnetic type of energy that limits your capacity while in your awake and consciousness state to understand the creation process and to get a firm grasp on the reality. The reality that you experience in this awake and consciousness state is illusionary. Significant, but illusionary nonetheless. And until you can accept the responsibility or understanding that it's within your capacity to alter it. Absolutely.

You, in this vibrational level in your awake and consciousness state, once again, believe in a passage of time. And you, as a group of entities, as a human consciousness, have chosen to alter the energy that makes up this vibrational level. Your energy, not an energy that's [subject to you or that's] being composed by some other entities that exist outside of your vibrational level, absolutely not. Your energy, your energy as a collective consciousness that are responsible for the creation and maintaining the creation of this vibrational level that you exist in. You, as a human consciousness have chosen to alter that energy and you're in that transition stage, if you wish, that involves the passage of time and space. For you see, once again, you hold beliefs that validate this reality and one of those beliefs that are the human consciousness belief, is that there is time and space. And it's very difficult to alter either one or the other and that passage of time validates the reality. It makes it more real.

And so, you've chosen to allow for some type of a transition period for this alteration of the energy that comprises this vibrational level that you exist in. And we've suggested many times that you are in that transition period, and that now you are becoming very near to the conclusion of that transition. Indeed, we've also suggested many times that the transition for many individuals is proceeding faster than what you as a human consciousness put in place as a timetable for to create and to perpetuate and to complete that transition. You began that transition, to use your belief in time and space, in the year of nineteen and eighty-seven and in the year of two thousand and twelve is when you had put in place the so-called completion date. You could have done it in an instant, absolutely.

But you see. to do it in an instant in your awake and consciousness state would not give it the credibility that you desire, that you can achieve through this allowing for it to evolve and therefore to become validated, to be more real, to be more acceptable in your awake and consciousness state.

This alteration of energy, in this vibrational level that you exist in, is an alteration of energy that you perpetuated and completed based upon the beliefs that you hold, will allow you in your awake and consciousness state to have a much greater grasp of the concept of creation. To allow you in your awake and consciousness state to have a much greater influence upon the creation and the experiences that you perpetuate and are involved in from your day-to-day activities and to have that effect upon that creation from your awake and consciousness state. We've also suggested that it's not necessary for individuals to believe in, or to accept, or to be participating in that conscious creation process. Absolutely not. It's not a right or wrong concept. It's not something that if you don't do you're going to be failing. It's not something that if you don't participate in conscious creation that you're somehow not as enlightened as another individual who chooses to be involved in that participation.

Once again, this is not a right or wrong concept. Right or wrong only exists in your awake and consciousness state. It's not affected by your so-called spark of consciousness that creates this reality that you participate in and you are involved in in your awake and consciousness state. The spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality that you desire to experience, and it does so unconditionally without judgment if it's right or wrong. Right or wrong, once again, is awake and human consciousness concept, and so to believe and to judge something is right or wrong in your awake and consciousness state indeed is not influence upon the creation process. You can have it if you wish. If you believe that indeed you must be involved in this particular path of conscious creation to become enlightened, then that's what you choose. You can have it, absolutely. It's not necessary.

When you become involved in this conscious creation process, the goal is your [identity] to bring the creation process closer to your conscious and awake state than to have it come from your so-called inner self or your higher consciousness or whatever it is that you desire to label that spark of consciousness or that spark of creation that you are that's responsible for the reality that you experience, that creates each and every atom that exists throughout your entire universe. And so, it's a choice, not a right or wrong choice, but one that you can make, absolutely, should you choose to do so. And in making that choice allows you to consciously have a greater influence upon the reality that you're experiencing.

Many individuals are experiencing that ability at greater numbers in your so-called current state than have in your so-called past. And it becomes very difficult to give explanations because, you see, true explanations are based upon the concept that time and space are illusions, that this reality that you are experiencing are illusions. And yet, you believe in time and space and in order to give it some type of validity you wish to have it explained in a time and space concept. And so, the two basic ideas are conflicting, very difficult to mesh together, to give an explanation that fits both, that is comprehensible to both concepts—of time and space are illusionary and time and space are real.

In your so-called past, in your beginnings, if you wish, of your existence in this vibrational level, your existence in this universe, indeed, individuals entering into this vibrational level and participating in the involvement of the creation, chose to put in place belief systems that they brought into a particular incarnational period and were validated throughout that particular incarnational period. It wasn't that it's not within your capacity, or was not within your capacity in those particular incarnational periods, to alter your reality consciously. You chose to put in place that electromagnetic type of veil and make it very intense, if you wish, that made it very difficult for you to consciously alter your reality. Instead you chose to put in place those belief systems in your so-called altered state of consciousness, in what we refer to as your between incarnational state. And it becomes difficult because, you see, to say it's between your incarnational states you believe that you must indeed not exist within an incarnational period to have that occur and it's really not that way.

You see, you have access to those particular levels of your consciousness throughout your entire existence and your incarnational periods are occurring simultaneously, if you wish, in the now. But nonetheless, in your so-called between incarnational periods, in your state of consciousness in which you were as far removed as it's possible for you to be from this so-called awake and consciousness state and yet to still exist within this vibrational level, you put in place the belief systems. You continue to do so. It's not something that's in your so-called past, absolutely not. Something that you continue to do so. But nonetheless, in your so-called past, to validate this history, to validate your belief in time and space, you put in place these belief systems in your between incarnational states and you laid out, if you wish, the blueprint for an existence within an incarnational period. You laid out what it was that you're going to experience in that incarnational period.

You had what you might refer to as a reality that was based on fate. It was very easy to predict what was going to occur within a particular existence of a century, for example, because the individuals existing within that particular time period chose [and] put in place belief systems from within their so-called altered state of consciousness that we refer to as the between incarnational state, and entered into that particular incarnational period to validate the belief systems, to have the experiences, to experience, indeed, the realities to enhance the emotions and feelings.

And so, it was put in place in altered states of consciousness, and it was very easy, if you wish to use that terminology, to predict the so-called future of individuals, not only individuals but indeed entire societies throughout a period or a span of time. And there were individuals who were quite adept at tapping into that so-called human subconsciousness and expressing the belief systems and prophesying, if you wish, the future. It was put in place. Put in place by your belief systems, not by some other entity. Not something that was beyond your capacity to alter, absolutely not. The only reason that it seemed to be beyond your capacity to alter it is because of your desire to choose the belief systems and hold them in place in that altered state of consciousness that we refer to as the between incarnational state and very difficult for you to access from your so-called awake and consciousness state. Your choice.

It's important to understand that all of these existences and all of your incarnational periods and all of your experiences are your choice. Not some other entity that has decided that you must go through this type of enhancement experience in order to experience [the] emotions and feelings. Your choice, absolutely.

And so, you put it in place. And so, you came into those existences with belief systems that you chose at your so-called level of consciousness that's the between incarnational state. If you wish to use that belief in time and space, you're going to go through an incarnational period experiencing many realities, perhaps realities that you might describe as being very desirable and perhaps realities that were not so desirable, based upon your belief systems and based upon what you choose to experience in your awake and consciousness state.

You see, it's important as well to understand that an experience for one individual can seem to be very desirable, very pleasant, very uplifting, and that same experience for another can be exactly the opposite, based upon your belief systems, your belief systems that influence your attitudes, that influence how you participate and how you interact with other individuals in a certain set of circumstances. And so, it's not necessarily that the experience was different for other individuals, but one that the belief systems indeed influence the reality and the emotions and feelings that are generated by your interpretation of that particular experience.

And so, you put in place the beliefs, in your altered state of consciousness, and you came into incarnational periods that were laid out, if you wish.

The blueprints were there and you followed the blueprints without any type of attempt to alter them. What many would call fate; what, in your so-called past history, put in place; what many religions began to base upon as realities, and incarnational periods that were influenced by other incarnational periods. Ironically, they were influenced by your between incarnational periods where you chose the belief systems. And it's not impossible for you to believe that indeed in another incarnational period you had a certain experience and you wish to repeat that experience, so you wish to be involved in the other side of that experience in terms of interactions with other individuals, and so you come up with belief systems and various types of religions that profess that your realities were influenced by other realities. It's not necessary wrong unless you believe it's wrong, and not necessarily right unless you believe it's right, you see. The right or wrong concept, once again, is a human awake consciousness concept; does not exist in that level of consciousness from which you create your reality.

And so, in your so-called past history you put in place your belief systems in your between incarnational states, and you existed through them. And as you came into the incarnational period the blueprint was laid out and one could predict your future quite accurately, that understanding, what it was that you held as belief systems, and what it was that was going to be created in your reality to validate the beliefs that you hold. [And] not only was it possible for individuals to prophesize and to predict the particular incarnational periods for one individual, but indeed it was possible to predict the incarnations and the happenings for individuals throughout their incarnational periods, various generations, if you wish to use that terminology, to validate, once again, the belief in time and space.

Those individuals that were adept at tapping into that so-called belief system ran into a very difficult prophecy when they attempted to predict beyond the turn of this century that you're currently involved in. And so, for many individuals the year of twenty and twelve (Joshiah said "nineteen and twelve.") was a year where the prophecy was that the predictions would end. You see, the predictions would end because at the year of nineteen and twelve (Joshiah said "nineteen and twelve.") is when you have chosen to alter the energy that exists within this vibrational level. And as a result of that alteration indeed the energy that you know and that your so-called ancestors—who ironically are the same individuals existing within this incarnational period—your so-called ancestors were tapping into that energy, tapping into other incarnational periods, tapping into your so-called future, and experiencing a difficulty in predicting at the year of two thousand and twelve is because at that particular time in your so-called progression, your so-called evolution, the energy changes. And so, metaphorically this existence that you're experiencing in this vibrational level, to a certain extent, ends, should you choose to believe and should you choose to participate in that alteration.

And as a result of your ability to bring into your conscious state your capacity to alter your reality, it becomes very difficult to predict your future. It's not that that capacity has not always been there. It's not that it's a possibility that's been beyond your capacity or beyond your realms of expressing, absolutely not. It's simply a possibility that you chose to not put in place. It's a possibility that you chose to not make a probability, ever. You chose to take that possibility off the line, if you wish, and to have realities that were predictable, realities that were put in place by subconsciousness belief systems and very difficult to change consciously. Not impossible, absolutely not. Entities throughout your so-called history have used that ability to consciously influence and to create their reality.

Many of your so-called ancestors had the tendency to put those individuals up as being somehow different, more enlightened. The enlightenment was simply their understanding of the creation process and the ability to influence that creation process consciously because they believed that they could. They were no more and no less than any other entity existing within this vibrational level, and indeed all of the entities including all of the entities existing in this particular incarnational period who existed within those other incarnational periods had within them the same capacities. They simply chose to hold in place a much stronger type of a veil, if you wish, that limited their capacity to bring that belief system into their conscious state to consciously influence their reality. Their choice, not a choice that was subjected to them by some other entity, absolutely not. Not something that was imposed upon them but rather their choice. Their choice for so that they could experience a reality to validate the beliefs that they held. It's really that simple.

It's not that some entity is somehow more enlightened or more advanced—simply holds a different set of beliefs. That's not something that's not available to each and every individual. And it's not something that you have to go through certain experiences or certain levels of lessons in order to achieve that type of understanding, absolutely not. You have but to believe. The irony of it is that it's no more difficult to create one type of a reality than it is to create another. Absolutely not. It takes exactly the same amount of effort to create one reality than another and in fact there are some individuals who might suggest that it's more difficult to create the less than desirable types of realities than it is to create the other. We would suggest that it takes exactly the same amount of effort. You have but to believe. You have but to hold that belief system. You have but to hold the belief, and that spark of consciousness that you are will create the reality to validate the belief system, without exception. It's really that simple.

You create the reality to validate your belief. If you wish to do it consciously, and as you enter into this so-called new age and new energy and as you complete this transition of the energy that comprises the reality, this vibrational level that you exist in, then it's going to be much easier for you to accomplish that consciously. Your choice. Not because some other entity has decided, "Well, we guess the individuals who are existing down on Earth are now somehow reached a level of understanding and of evolvement where we will simply allow them to have more access." Absolutely not. It's a choice that you have made as individuals and as a human consciousness. And it's a choice that you can become involved in as you enter into this new age and new energy. Not a choice that you necessarily have to make. Absolutely not. If you have to make it it's never a choice, is it? It's a choice that you can make, or not make. Not right or wrong.

The irony of it is that as you enter into this so-called new age and new energy, and you alter the energy that comprises your vibrational level and you do so as a human consciousness, this is not an individual effort, it's something that every individual that exists within your vibrational level, every entity has agreed to participate in. It's what we refer to as one of the human consciousness belief systems. It's like the belief in time and space. It's like the belief that you must breathe oxygen in order to exist. It's a human consciousness belief system that is held as a group consciousness, if you wish. And so, the energy that comprises your vibrational level is being altered as a human consciousness effort.

You can choose as an individual to not believe and not participate, but at some level of your consciousness you are participating. And so, when you—to use your belief, once again, in time and space—when you end your existence in this incarnational period, when you die, should you choose to reincarnate, should you choose to continue to perpetuate your existence in this vibrational level, chances are when you reenter or when you come back into this vibrational level you will come in holding that belief that you have altered the energy that creates your vibrational level, that's responsible for the creation of your universe, and that you indeed will have the capacity to understand at a conscious level that it's within your capacity to alter your reality.

Many individuals are entering into your vibrational level, are reincarnating, if you wish, and bringing with them that understanding and your so-called new agers are referring to them as the indigo children, the children who seem to be so advanced. They're no more advanced, they simply hold different belief systems.

They're exactly the same entities that have been existing within this vibrational level since it was begun.

You see, time and space are illusions. They don't really exist. And so, the explanation becomes very difficult to allow you to comprehend and to understand, that those so-called indigo children are existing indeed in other incarnations where they are not so advanced, if you wish to use that terminology, so they are not so aware of their ability to consciously create their reality.

The irony of it is, that so are you. You are existing in a multitude of incarnational periods simultaneously and you're existing in these so-called future incarnational periods. It just becomes very difficult to give some type of a prediction as to which way your so-called future reality will evolve or will be carried out, if you wish, because it's within your capacity as your choice as a human consciousness to alter the energy that surrounds your reality, that surrounds your universe, that will allow you to consciously alter your belief systems in a manner that has not been experienced on a so-called universal level.

And so, your future becomes very difficult to predict and yet you, as individuals, are existing in all of your incarnational periods simultaneously, your future as well as your past and your present. It's all in the now. Time is an illusion, absolutely.

And so once again, because of that concept and understanding that time is an illusion it becomes very difficult to give you an explanation. To attempt to predict your future is absolutely impossible. Even in your so-called past, while many individuals were quite adept at tapping into belief systems and understanding what your so-called future held as a result of the validation of those belief systems, indeed, even in those incarnational periods it was completely within your capacity to consciously alter that reality. You just didn't believe that you could do it, that's all.

You put in place that energy, that electromagnetic energy, that limited your capacity to have the access to the understanding of your creation process and as a result, difficulty in altering the reality. It's never been impossible. Simply, you've made it, you've made it, more difficult. Not some other entity. Not someone who's imposed upon you and said, "Well, you must experience this, and you must go through this in order to learn so that you can transform into this." Absolutely not.

You chose to put in place the limitations of the creation process in your awake and consciousness state. And so, that even in your so-called past, should individuals choose to alter their belief systems, it was in your capacity to do so. And as a result, even then, your so-called predictions of your future, while they may have been very accurate in the most instances, were not necessarily written in stone. It was within your capacity to alter your reality, absolutely.

In this new age and new energy the difference is that you have put in place an alteration of the energy that will make it much more feasible for you to be involved in the conscious creation process than what you had in your so-called past. The choice is yours, and it's not a right or wrong choice. It is not something, "Well, if I don't do that I'm somehow going to be left behind." Absolutely not.

You create your reality, you are the spark of consciousness that you search for, you are the god that you search for, and you absolutely cannot fail. That never changes. Those are the three absolutes that exist, not only in your vibrational level but in all of the other vibrational levels throughout all of creation. You can alter your beliefs and you can indeed alter the energy that surrounds your vibrational level, but you cannot alter those basic realities, those basic concepts of creation. You create it all, you are the god that you search for, and you cannot fail. Even in the so-called new energy, that doesn't change.

In this new energy what changes is your capacity to consciously influence your reality. And it doesn't really change so much as it becomes more accessible, should you choose to believe. You are seeing these so-called indigo children that are achieving feats of understanding and of creation that many individuals look upon as being absolutely amazing. And yet, these children accept it as being normal. They accept it as being within their right to have the access to the knowledge and understanding, to have those types of creations and experiences. It's always been there. It's not something that's been unavailable.

You in this incarnational period look upon this so-called technology that you're involved in and you believe that it's the greatest technology that's ever existed upon your Earth system. Once again, you believe in time and space. And so, it becomes difficult to give you the understanding of the concept that there was indeed an existence within this vibrational level and incarnational periods where you have access to technology that's even superior to the technology that you're involved in in this incarnational period, access to types of energy that you have lost the understanding, if you wish to, once again, to believe in that concept of time and space, that you have lost the understanding for. But it's still there. It's not something that you changed. It's an illusion.

You can create whatever it is that you desire. You see, that's the irony. That's the part that becomes difficult for you to grasp in your awake and consciousness state. The difficult part is not having something for you to experience in your awake and consciousness state. The difficult part is owning the belief that you can have it. That's the difficult part. If you look in your history—and once again, you like to validate things by looking into your past—you will see many types of realities that have been created. Not because some individual indeed discovered some type of phenomena that was existing in your Earth system, but rather that the first person first of all believed that it is possible. And they, as the result of the belief, created the reality to validate the belief. It's always that way. There's no exception.

If you used to experience some type of alteration of energy used within your so-called Earth system, you have got to believe that it's within your capacity to create it. That's the first step. If you don't believe ... if you believe that it's not within your capacity then you'll never have it within your capacity. And that's not a right or wrong. It's a validation of a belief that you hold.

And your so-called indigo children, these new entities that are entering into this period of time, if you wish to use your belief in time and space, are bringing with them in their conscious state a basic belief that they can have whatever it is that they desire. And ironically, many individuals are viewing them as being somehow superior. And they're not superior. Once again, they simply hold a different belief system. A belief system that's available to each and every entity that exists within your vibrational level.

You can have whatever it is you desire. Not only can, but do. If you wish to change your reality, change your belief. If you wish to develop techniques to change your beliefs, then you must first of all accept the responsibility for the reality that you're experiencing. And if you don't like it, then you change it. And if you have difficulty changing it, then you first of all look at certain methods or techniques, and once again, the method or the technique that you apply to alter your reality is not nearly as important as your belief in that method or technique.

If you don't like yourself consciously, you're going to have difficulty in creating your reality consciously. Because the spark of consciousness that you are validates the belief that you hold that you're not worthy. Because if you don't like yourself you're going to have difficulty in accepting if you are worthy of experiencing those types of realities that you desire, realities that seem to come to other individuals quite easily, and yet seem to be beyond your grasp. If you don't believe that you're worthy, then once again, the spark of consciousness that you are joyously creates the reality to validate the belief. If you don't love yourself consciously, you will have difficulty in accepting responsibility for the reality that you're experiencing consciously. And as a result of accepting the reality that you're experiencing consciously, you can develop the ability to consciously alter it. It's really that simple.

You create your reality. You are the god that you search for. And you cannot fail. The rest is illusory, and it's all up for grabs. You can change it if you wish, or leave it as it is if you wish, or enhance it if you wish. It really doesn't matter. It's your choice. It's your reality and it's your creation.

Now. We would break for a moment or two and if you have any questions we would be willing to return and attempt to answer them for you. And in the meantime we would remind you that we are not separated by time or space, but rather by a vibrational level and should you choose to interact with us you have but to express the intent and we would welcome that opportunity to interact and to share with each of you. And we would bid you farewell, with love and with peace. ✨