

JOSHIAH

www.joshiah.com

Caveat: This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited. Editorial comments are in parentheses; probable wording is in square brackets.

February 1, 2009

Joshiah: Well, now. Well, it is indeed a pleasure to be invited back into your vibrational level once again and we would like to express our greetings to each of you and as well to express our gratitude for you once again offering us this opportunity to interact and to share with each of you.

Now. Before we begin we would, once again, suggest to each of you that there exists this opportunity for you to be involved in what we refer to as a silent communication, a telepathic interaction or exchange of information with other entities that would be with us on this afternoon or indeed that portion of your consciousness that you might refer to as your higher self or that spark of consciousness that you are indeed with other entities that exist within your vibrational level that also welcome that opportunity to interact and to share in your reality and to have that opportunity to telepathically interact and exchange with each of you.

And once again, as the result of the synergy of the energy that you have created in this place on this afternoon you'll find it quite easy to alter your consciousness, to enter into what you refer to as a meditative state. You have but to close your eyes and express the intent and that opportunity most certainly exists for each of you. As always, while we suggest that that opportunity exists, the choice is yours, absolutely.

Now. We continuously suggest to you that you exist in a vibrational level by choice. A vibrational level that you not only choose to exist in but create and put in place many, what we refer to as, types of energy that limits your capacity to understand your choice to exist within and to create this vibrational level.

You are the creators of your reality. [You,] in conjunction with the human consciousness that choose to exist within your vibrational level, create the reality that you experience. You are that god that you search for. One of the three so-called absolutes that are beyond your capacity to change or to exist without within this vibrational level or any other vibrational level throughout all of creation.

You are the god that you search for. Absolutely. And yet, you put in place an electromagnetic type of energy that we refer to as a veil that limits your capacity while you are in your awake and consciousness state and indeed in all of the other levels of altered consciousness that you can experience in this vibrational level to understand that you are the creator of your reality, absolutely. Completely.

We are not, once again, just referring to your day-to-day activities in terms of creation, but your entire creation, of this entire universe that you exist within.

Your reality is a reflection of your beliefs, absolutely. Completely. It's the method that you use to create the reality that you experience in your day-to-day activities. And yet once again, as a result of that electromagnetic type energy that you put in place you in your awake and consciousness state are as far removed from the understanding of who and what you truly are and of the processes that you use to create this reality. And yet, in your so-called awake and consciousness state you understand at some level that there is indeed an energy, if you wish, that exists throughout the vibrational level that's responsible for the creation of this vibrational level and of this reality. You just don't understand at that conscious level that it's you. That it's you as the entity existing within this vibrational level in conjunction with the human consciousness that's creating this reality.

You are all that is. And yet, in that awake and consciousness state, while you have difficulty in recalling that you are the creator or recognizing or understanding it, as a result of your choice to limit that understanding and that capacity to have that recognition, you nonetheless, once again, get glimpses of some type of energy that's responsible for the creation of your reality. You just don't understand, once again, that it's your energy.

And so, you have a tendency to reflect upon that energy as being an energy that's separate from who and what you truly are. You have a tendency to believe that there exists other entities that are responsible for the creation of your reality and are responsible for the creation of this universe that you exist in.

You have a tendency to allow your beliefs to influence your reality creation with the supposed influence of other entities, or entity, that's creating the reality or at least having an impact upon the creation of your reality.

It doesn't matter what society you exist within in this so-called vibrational level. The majority of entities existing within that society and therefore through a societal belief system, you hold that concept, that there are [the] other entities, other spirits, if you wish, that are responsible for the creation or at least influencing the reality that you're experiencing.

In your primitive, what you would refer to as, your primitive types of societies, the entities in many instances believe that there are a multitude of spirits that influence and create their reality. And they have all types of rituals to exist within and to have some type of experience they believe whereby they can influence those entities or those spirits that are creating their reality.

Entities who believe that even all parts of your so-called nature have different spirits or entities involved in that creation. And they utilize various methods in order to influence the spirits and (inaudible) have a passive type of existence, if you wish, and interaction with those spirits that allows them to, as entities existing in the conscious awareness state, experience what they believe would be a joyful or desirable type of activity or interaction with each other and indeed with their surroundings.

They allow through their beliefs to have others influence their reality. They allow. It's important that you understand that they allow. You see, there is no right or wrong concept in your creation process. The spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality that you experience to validate the belief that you hold and it does so without judgment as to whether it's right or wrong. Right or wrong is a human and awake consciousness concept. Good or bad is an awake human consciousness concept. The spark of consciousness that you are, from the level of consciousness from which you create this reality does not judge whether or not it's right or wrong, it simply joyfully creates the reality to validate the belief that you hold. And if you believe that there are a multitude of entities or spirits or whatever other terminology you wish to apply to it, that are creating and influencing your reality for you then that spark of consciousness that you are creates realities that validate that belief system. And it seems to be real, in your awake and consciousness state.

The irony of it is that this reality that you experience in your awake and consciousness state is an illusionary reality. And once again, that doesn't imply that that's insignificant, absolutely not. We're not suggesting that there's no significance to this reality or to the creation process that you're involved in, absolutely not. It's entirely the opposite. It has great significance. But nonetheless, it's illusionary. This reality that you're experiencing in your awake and consciousness state is the most illusionary reality that you will exist in in any other state of consciousness.

But when you're in this state of consciousness, and in this awake state, the consciousness that you're experiencing while you put in place that electromagnetic type of energy that limits your capacity to interact with or to understand or comprehend who and what you truly are, but rather allows you to believe that in this state of consciousness that's the most important aspect of your creation process and your reality. That limits your capacity to understand indeed that you are the creator of the reality that you in your awake and human consciousness aspect or understanding believe is beyond your capacity to control.

And so, that electromagnetic type of energy, once again, allows you or puts in place the understanding or belief system that, in your awake and consciousness state, this is the most important state. The rest are all illusionary. The rest is like when you enter into a meditative state or a dream state, that that's somehow the illusionary or the imaginary part of your reality. And it's not that way. It's exactly the opposite.

The most difficult conscious state for you to sustain is in your awake consciousness state. You will eventually go to sleep. And you will eventually alter your conscious state. You cannot sustain this awake and consciousness state. You can sustain other levels of consciousness for a much longer period than you can sustain the awake and consciousness state.

Speaking, once again, in terms of your belief in this time and space, where you believe that there is certain elements of time that must pass if you exist within certain levels of your consciousness, including what you refer to as the between incarnational state or when you die. When you enter into a state that you believe is, for some, a never-ending state, for others who believe in the reincarnation process it's a state which has a very limited extension in terms of its length of time before you reincarnate. And that limitedness can be, indeed, a very brief or a very extended period.

The irony of it is that you exist within the now and when you're in that altered state of consciousness time and space have absolutely no meaning. They exist only in your awake and consciousness state. They do not exist in those altered states of consciousness. And yet, in this awake and consciousness state you continuously believe that the passage of time must occur before you can so-called reincarnate.

And so, this level of consciousness, this awake and consciousness state that you exist in is the most difficult for you to sustain. Absolutely.

And yet once again, in this awake and consciousness state you believe or understand at some level that there is so much more. And yet, because of the veil that you put in place the awake and consciousness state which believes that that's all that there is has difficulty comprehending that you are all that is in other levels of your consciousness.

Your awake and consciousness state, once again, understands at some degree that there is so much more. And has a tendency to put that “so much more” in a belief system where other entities or entity is controlling your reality or at least influencing it.

And so once again, you have those primitive societies that understand—that what you would call primitive societies—and you have what you might refer to as other societies, more modern societies, where the tendency is to be that there is the belief that there is one entity—or perhaps two or three, depending upon which type of religion you believe in—that has the influence over your reality.

The irony of it is that that energy that has the influence over your reality exists withinside each of you. Many of your so-called religions believe that there is some type of heaven, to refer to your so-called Christianity belief system, where you will advance to or where you will go to when you end your existence within this vibrational level or at least within this incarnational period.

And you believe that there exists within that so-called heaven an entity who is superior to who and what you are. You even go so far as to hold beliefs where that entity is the creator of all that you experience. You even go so far as to suggest that that entity has unconditional love. Well, unconditional love means that they do not judge, and yet in your religions your continuously allow that entity to judge. You allow that entity to influence your reality by putting in place so-called rules that you must follow, and if you don't follow the rules you will be judged accordingly. That's not unconditional love.

Unconditional love is when there are no conditions. Unconditional means no conditions. When you put conditions on it's no longer unconditional, but it's rather a contract. If you do this then I'll give you this; if you don't then you'll get this. That's a contract. That's not unconditional.

It's important to understand when you begin to use certain terminologies what it means in order for you to in your awake and consciousness state begin to grasp the understanding of who and what you truly are.

The spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality that you experience and it does so unconditionally from a position of absolute unconditional love. And so, there is no judgment as to what's right or wrong. What's right or wrong in terms of some type of judgment is what's put in place in your awake and consciousness state. Good or evil exists in your awake and consciousness state. And we're not saying there's something wrong with that. In fact, when you put in place these contracts and these conditions as to what's right or wrong it allows you to function as a society.

But it's important to understand that the spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality that you experience and it does so from a position of absolute unconditional love, without judging whether it's right or wrong. And so, it gives to you whatever it is that you desire. And it validates your reality and your belief systems. Absolutely. Without ever having an exception. If you believe it, the spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality to validate the belief and it does so from a position of absolute unconditional love.

If you believe in your awake and consciousness state that you're not in control, if you believe that there [are] indeed other entities that are influencing your reality, the spark of consciousness that you are joyously creates the reality to validate the belief and you have all types of experiences [and interactions] that validate the belief that you're not in control and if you wish to believe that there are other entities that are in control and creating and influencing your reality, then the spark of consciousness that you are will create as many types of interactions and experiences to validate it for as many entities as you choose to believe are influencing and creating your reality. It's really that simple.

Whatever you believe, the spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality to validate the belief. And it does so from a position of absolute and unconditional love. If you wish to believe that you're not worthy of having a certain experience or you had that experience but some other entity is in control of that experience and which way it's going to go, the spark of consciousness that you are validates that belief system and gives you that reality. And you will experience certain interactions with other individuals that shows that you are not in control and that shows that you are not worthy and so that you can sit down in your awake and consciousness state and say, “There! See, I told you I'm not in control, and I told you that I don't have the worthiness that's necessary to have that experience and to have that type of reality come to me in my awake and consciousness state.” And the spark of consciousness that you are rejoices because it validated the belief that you hold by creating the reality necessary to have that validation.

The irony of it is that it doesn't matter what type of reality it is that you desire to experience. The spark of consciousness that you are creates it. And that's the irony of it. What you desire in your awake and consciousness state is being a type of reality that's, what you might refer to as, a positive reality, the spark of consciousness you are creates that. And if you believe that you're not worthy, you believe that you want to experience a bunch of negative reality then the spark of consciousness that you are creates that as well. And it does either equally as well, and without judgment.

One is no more difficult than the other. What's difficult is understanding and accepting [your] responsibility for the creation that you're experiencing. What's difficult is in your awake and consciousness state to understand that you are the creator of your reality. That you put in place this electromagnetic type of energy that limits your capacity to have that understanding in your awake and consciousness state and yet, nonetheless, you are in control, absolutely. Without exception. You are absolutely in control of each and every instant of the reality that you experience. Without exception.

And that's a difficult concept to grasp, we understand that. Because you choose to make it difficult. Because you choose, once again, to put in place that electromagnetic type of energy that limits your capacity to understand who and what you truly are.

The god that you search for is within. It's not something that exists outside of your vibrational level, even outside of your consciousness. It's who and what you truly are. You are all that is.

You exist in this vibrational level through choice. If you wish to believe that there are other entities that are influencing and creating your reality then you can have that. It's not right or wrong. We're not suggesting for an instant that [if] you believe that there's some other entity or god-like figure, whatever terminology you wish to use, that's influencing your reality and [is] giving you the type of reality that you desire, we're not for an instant suggesting that you should throw that all away. If that's what you choose to believe, it's not right or wrong. Absolutely not. You can have that. You can have whatever it is that you desire. If you wish to believe that you're not in control, you can have that. It's not difficult. If you wish to believe that all of your neighbors can influence your reality that you're experiencing, you can have that as well. It's not right or wrong. It's a choice that you make.

You see, some of your religions put in place this so-called belief that there is this will of another entity who exists outside of your vibrational level that's influencing your reality and if you follow that other entity's will, if you do their will, then indeed you will have the reality that you desire. Well, to follow that will means that you must give up your own free will. And there's not one entity existing in any vibrational level that would take away or can take away your free will. You can give it away willingly if you wish. You can give it away by holding a belief that you're not in control. You can give it away by believing that there are others who have a will that's better than your will and so you can follow that, if you choose to believe so. But it's your choice.

It's your choice. And by being your choice that's your expression of your will. You can't give up your free will. You can't give up your choice. You can hide from it. And you do that on a continual basis. You can hide from the understanding of who and what you truly are. And you do that quite readily by making your choice, first of all, to enter into this vibrational level. You [agree] to give up that conscious understanding of who and what you truly are.

But you cannot, you cannot, be separated from your spirituality. And you cannot exist in any reality that you do not create. You may allow the belief system [to] be in place, that you're not in control. But that's your choice and it's still your creation.

You see, that's the irony of it. It doesn't matter what you believe, you still create it all. The reality you experience is a reflection of the beliefs you hold. You are the god that you search for. And you cannot fail to come to that understanding. Everything else that exists within your vibrational level is within your capacity to change.

You are the god that you search for. The reality you experience is a reflection of the belief that you hold. And you cannot fail to come to that understanding. Everything else that exists within your vibrational level is illusionary.

If one can grasp those three truths, the three absolutes, then one can easily begin to understand the creation process and to put in place the beliefs that are necessary for you to experience the type of reality that you desire. And we're not just talking about individuals. We're talking about societies of your human consciousness belief system.

You believe that there are certain types of energy that are available to you. If you as a human consciousness would understand that the reality is a reflection of your beliefs and then you begin to believe that each and every atom contains energy that's available without having a negative impact then you can access that energy. You have but to believe.

You see, you now have access to that type of energy through what you refer to as your nuclear systems. But you also hold this belief system that there is a balancing type of reaction that must be necessary in order to have any type of experience. Some of you refer to it as a cause and effect. Or your scientists will suggest that for every action there must be a reaction. And when you hold that belief as a society and as a human consciousness then it's very difficult for you to create a reality where that particular belief system is not having an effect upon that reality and that experience.

And so, you try to develop your so-called nuclear energy. You have this negative impact of nuclear waste. And then you have the difficulty of trying to deal with that particular element. Because, once again, you hold these conflicting belief systems. One that the energy is available, others that cannot have any type of a reaction without some other type of action occurring. And so, the difficulty perpetuates itself.

It's within your capacity to create whatever it is that you desire. Absolutely. And that includes having access to energy that has no type of reaction. Absolutely. You believe that your entire Earth is encompassed by an electro-type of energy that you refer to as a magnetic system, that exists throughout your Earth. And in order for you to sustain your atmosphere that surrounds this global system that you exist on, the molecules and the atoms that are contained within that atmosphere have electrical, magnetic types of energy within them. And they are attracted to your so-called magnetism that you refer to as the gravitational system of your Earth.

And so, that interaction allows your atmosphere to stay and surround your Earth system, so that you as entities who believe that you must consume oxygen and other elements can exist within [this] so-called atmosphere. And as well, you as entities and all of the other elements that exist within your Earth system have within them, as well, atoms and molecules that have a certain type of electromagnetic type of energy that allow the gravitational force to have an effect, so that you can indeed remain in contact with your physical existence in your Earth system and not be in your so-called outer space system, where existence is very difficult without the elements that you have as a human consciousness devised as being necessary for existence.

And it's through this attraction of molecules and atoms to your gravitational system that you have the experience of weight. If you were to understand that it's within your capacity to believe that it's possible for you to alter the electromagnetic type of energy that exists within each and every molecule, then it's possible for you to alter that effect of gravitational effect upon an object. And to refer, once again, to your so-called history there have been elements in your history where entities have understood the relationship between the molecules and your gravitational system and have devised ways to limit the effect of the gravitational system upon [the] elements and have made certain elements appear to be almost [weightlessness.] That's within your capacity. You have but to believe. You have but to believe.

The reality you experience is the reflection of the beliefs you hold. It seems like such a simple, simple statement. And yet, within that statement lies the answer to all of the questions that individuals may have. You are the god that you search for. You have but to go withinside to have that experience. You can't experience it by listening to an individual channeling to you information that you already know and desire to hear. You can't experience it by reading a book. It can't be written down. You can't experience it by listening to tapes or going to seminars where individuals are sitting and speaking and telling you about your existence.

If you wish to experience the true connection with who and what you truly are you must go withinside. And have the experience. And when you had the experience you have the knowledge. You won't need to have someone attempt to explain it to you. The difficulty is that though you may have the knowledge when others ask, you won't be able to explain it to them either. It's a personal experience.

It's like an individual who, in your space programs, is sent to the moon. And he comes back and he attempts to tell you what that's all about. It doesn't matter how one tries to describe it, until you experience it the explanation always is lacking.

And so it is with your search to your identity of who and what you truly are. You must experience it and that answer lies withinside. Not by listening to some tape or not by reading it in a book but by going withinside. And each of you has that capacity, you have that ability. It's very, very simple for you to alter your consciousness and in that altered state of consciousness have access to the understanding of who and what you truly are.

So, you are the god that you search for. You can have that experience and understanding by going withinside. You create your reality. You do it through holding beliefs and belief systems and the spark of consciousness that you are validates the belief or belief systems by creating your reality that you desire. And you cannot fail to come to that understanding. You cannot fail to come to the understanding of who and what you truly are. You exist in this vibrational level by choice. You're not put here by some other entity. There are no lessons that you must learn unless you desire to hold a belief system that you must learn them. Then you'll, once again, have the experience to validate the belief system. But it's not necessary. You're here by choice. You can leave by choice. You cannot fail to come to that understanding.

And so, within those simple, simple three absolutes lies the key to understanding not only who and what you truly are but of understanding your creation process. So that you can consciously influence your reality. So that you can consciously alter your belief systems. And so that you can consciously understand that the spark of consciousness that you are creates whatever it is you desire. And it does so joyously. You absolutely cannot fail.

Now. We would break for a moment or two and if you have any questions we would be willing to return and attempt to answer them for you. And in the meantime we would remind you that we are not separated by time or space but rather by a vibrational level and should you choose to interact with us you have but to express the intent and we would welcome that opportunity to interact and to share with each of you. So, we would bid you farewell, with love and with peace. ❀