

JOSHIAH

www.joshiah.com

Caveat: This document is a direct transcription from the original recording. Although it has been checked for obvious errors, it has not been finally edited. Editorial comments are in parentheses; probable wording is in square brackets.

September 5, 2010

Q and A

Joshiah: Well, now. Well, once again, allow us to express our greetings and our gratitude to each of you and to remind you before we begin that there continues to exist that opportunity for you to be involved in that silent communication, that opportunity for you to be involved in that telepathic interaction and exchange of information with other entities or indeed, once again, with that portion that you refer to as your higher self. And once again, as a result of the energy that you have created, you'll find that it's quite easy for you to alter your consciousness and to enter into that meditative state, you have but to express the intent. And while we would encourage you to do so, we once again, would suggest that that's entirely your choice and your decision. Absolutely.

Now. A rather rare and unusual request from our friend Elias to speak on a specific topic and one which is a topic which becomes very difficult to give any type of an accurate explanation or description for because of your belief systems in time and space that you hold within your reality in this vibrational level.

"Who and what we are." We are a spark of consciousness, as are you, each of you. We are a multidimensional personality, as are each of you. We are a separate entity, as are each of you. And yet we are one with each of you, as you are one with each other and with us and with each and every other entity existing throughout, for lack of a better description, all of creation throughout existence.

You see, it becomes very difficult to put some type of an explanation upon the description of who and what we are and who and what you are for it's all influenced by your belief systems that you hold in your awake and consciousness state, that you put in place as you enter into your vibrational level through your choice. What's referred to as the human consciousness belief systems. And in particular your belief in time and space, your belief that there is a passage which results in certain types of evolutions and changes and they occur over a span of time, which doesn't really exist in the altered states of consciousness from which your reality truly is created.

And so, it becomes very difficult to give you a description of who and what we truly are or who and what you truly are. And it becomes very difficult to suggest to you that you are a multidimensional personality that's experiencing many incarnational periods and yet this incarnational period is separate from those other incarnational periods and yet, should you choose to believe, can be influenced by those other incarnational periods. It exists in the now.

Your awake and consciousness state is not capable of comprehending that type of experience. It's your choice. It's always important to understand that it's your choice to put in place the limitations of the understanding of who and what you truly are. It's your choice to put in place the limitations that take away your ability to experience a reality without the belief in time and space. It's your choice to you have a limiting understanding of the multidimensional personality that you are, of the individual that you are, and yet of the connection that you have with each and every other entity in your vibrational level and in all of the other vibrational levels throughout all of creation.

It's difficult for you in your awake and consciousness state to grasp the understanding that you as entities, each of you, are responsible for and existing in each and every atom of this entire universe. A very difficult concept to grasp because, you see, you believe that it's real. It's an illusion, but in your awake and consciousness state it's an illusion that appears to be beyond your control or your capacity. It's an illusion that appears to be passing through certain stages of time and evolution. It appears in your awake and consciousness state that you have a past.

Many entities existing in this incarnational period in their awake and consciousness state don't hold the belief that they are indeed a multidimensional personality experiencing other lifetimes or incarnational periods. Don't believe in what you refer to as reincarnation. But even the terminology of reincarnation implies that you are reliving as opposed to existing simultaneously, if you wish, in the now as a multidimensional personality throughout all of the experiences in this vibrational level.

And so, we exist as a multi-dimensional personality experiencing various creation processes, if you wish, through, for lack of a better terminology, simultaneous creation, throughout all of the vibrational levels that we choose to experience, existing in and experiences in. We do not, however, choose to exist within this vibrational level. And that's not a past or a present or a future but rather based upon the concept of the now, based upon the concept that there is no time and space, we simply choose not to exist within this vibrational level. We choose not to exist within the limitations that you place upon yourself through what we refer to as the veil. Those limitations that you put in place through this creation in sustaining of the electromagnetic type of energy that we refer to as the veil is indeed an electromagnetic type of energy that limits any capacity for us or any other entity existing outside of your vibrational level to influence your vibrational level. And yet we are connected.

The answers to many of those questions cannot be given through any type of a written material or any expression of the vocabulary but must be experienced by going withinside to get a true glimpse of who and what you truly are, to get a true view of an existence without the limitations of time and space and without the limitation of this veil that you put in place in this vibrational level. The irony of it is that existing within this vibrational level is a choice that you make, to sustain the veil that limits your understanding of who and what you truly are at all levels of your consciousness while you are within this vibrational level.

It doesn't mean that you can't get glimpses. It doesn't mean that it's not possible for you to experience some of the other so-called incarnational periods that you are currently, for lack of better terminology, existing in and creating and experiencing. It doesn't mean that it's not possible for you to get glimpses of the unconditional love from which you create this reality. But it does mean that while you exist within this vibrational level, at all levels of your consciousness, it's very difficult for you to retain an understanding and a true memory of who and what you truly are. Difficult.

You see, it's not impossible. The irony of it is that if you took that away, if you took away that so-called veil, that electromagnetic type of energy, then this vibrational level that you exist in would alter dramatically. you would not exist in the terminology or within the present state that you are familiar with. It's the veil that makes it unique. The method of creation is similar to all of the other vibrational levels. The creation process, the validation of belief systems is, is indeed the process of creation throughout all of the vibrational levels throughout all of creation. But in this vibrational level, you choose to [have] that creation with the limitations that you choose to put in place through the sustaining of the veil, through the establishing, maintaining and perpetuating the existence of the veil.

And to take that away, to have that understanding, in all likelihood would be the ending, if you wish, of your experience in this vibrational level. But you see, almost any terminology that's utilized to attempt to give you an explanation is based upon time and space that doesn't really exist, and there is the difficulty in giving an accurate explanation. One should go withinside.

When one begins to ask the question whether if it's possible for another entity to enter into this vibrational level at this time, or (inaudible) this time, you see there is no beginning and there is no end. It's a now, it exists simultaneously, once again, for lack of better terminology. The past is occurring as readily as your present and is easily altered and influenced and changed as your future because it occurs in the now.

So, there's not a beginning and an end. It's not a thing where, "Well, this entity entered in the last century." You see, the last century is only a concept that you experience in your awake and consciousness state. At various levels of your consciousness and particularly at the level of consciousness from which you create this reality, there is no illusion of time and space. It doesn't occur, it doesn't exist. And so, to ask the question of, is it possible for an entity to enter into this vibrational level at this time is a question that is based upon your awake and consciousness concept of belief in time and space which doesn't really exist. You can enter and leave this vibrational level at will, not only can but do. Time is irrelevant. [You] have this experience as a choice, a choice which we do not and have not and shall not make. But even to give you that particular explanation and description is to utilize your belief in time and space, which doesn't really exist.

We are all that is. We are a spark of consciousness that interacts with each of you, and you are all that is, and a spark of consciousness that interacts with each other and all of the other consciousnesses that exist. And so, there's a one and yet it is separate. It's a contradiction.

We have said many times you are all that is and you are nothing. (Inaudible.) Go withinside to get a glimpse and an understanding of who and what you truly are. You must go withinside to get a glimpse and an understanding of the creation process that you're involved in. And even then, when you bring it back, it will be more of a sense of knowing rather than the ability to have an explanation.

We've used the analogy before that it's trying to explain to another individual what a certain feeling is like. For one individual an experience of a certain event can have an entirely different feeling than another, and yet, each can describe it as being either a negative or positive experience. Each of you can say, "Well, I understand what it's like to experience a sexual orgasm," but can you explain it to the other? Absolutely not. It's an experience that each of you is capable of having but lacks the ability to give an accurate description.

And so it is, but understanding who and what you truly are. It defies explanation, and yet the ability for you to have that experience, even though you will, once again, lack the ability to give the explanation and to describe the experience. It will always fall short, it will never be an accurate definition of a particular experience but nonetheless the ability for you to have that experience exists, you have but to go withinside. To touch, if you wish, that spark of consciousness that you are. To go withinside, altering your consciousness while maintaining consciousness awareness of what it is that you're experiencing. To go into what you refer to as a meditative state and to get a glimpse of who and what you truly are. To get a glimpse of this reality that you're experiencing and its illusory aspects. They have a significance, but nonetheless are illusory and are within your capacity to change.

To get an understanding that you are in this reality by choice, that you choose to sustain the veil and that while you exist within this vibrational level, influences from other entities existing outside of this vibrational level are not possible because of your choice. The irony of it is that entities existing outside of your vibrational level, for the most part, are too interested in their own reality and creation to be preoccupied with your vibrational creation process. We happen to be rather unique in that we enjoy the interaction, we enjoy the experience, be it secondhand, of the intense range of emotions and feelings. We have to utilize your terminology of time and space, to utilize your belief in so-called past history. We have, for many incarnational periods, enjoyed an interaction with our friend Elias, and we continue to enjoy and to appreciate and to value that interaction and that relationship as we enjoy the interaction and relationship that we have with each of you.

And so, that is who we are. That's who you are. It defies a description through the use of a vocabulary but nonetheless, you can go withinside and get glimpses of the understanding of who and what you truly are and bring back, once again, an understanding if it lacks the ability to have, as well, an explanation of who and what you truly are. That possibility is yours.

Individuals who have taken the steps, if that makes sense, individuals who have put forth that effort to go withinside and who have indeed got glimpses of the understanding of the magnitude of who and what they truly are tend to have a better understanding and acceptance of the reality that they experience in their awake and consciousness state. Not always. Many are perplexed. Many are indeed in a state where they desire to be involved in that altered state of consciousness. Many are indeed questioning why they must remain within this vibrational level without accepting that they're in this vibrational level because they choose to be, not because they have to be. They're in this vibrational level because they wish to have certain experiences through a validation of their belief systems, because they choose to, not because they have to. And yet, in the awake and consciousness state, they forget all about that. That kind of gets lost in the experience and they begin in the awake and consciousness state to question, "Why must I be here?" rather than accept that you're here by choice. Rather than accept that that glimpse that you experience in your altered state of consciousness is just that, it's a glimpse.

It's impossible for you, in your belief systems, to bring it into your so-called awake and consciousness state while indeed bringing it into your awake and consciousness state maintaining the level of a mental capacity and understanding that allows you to operate in existence as a, function as a normal individual in this society. We've suggested many times were you to hold within your so-called awake and consciousness state the understanding of who and what you truly are and of all of the particular realities that you're involved in processing and creating, that you would be classified as an individual who was in an, an insane individual and probably put into an institution for the insane.

So. You choose the limitations for the understanding of who and what you truly are. You choose to put in place the veil that limits that understanding and as well limits the influence for entities existing outside of your vibrational level, and we choose to not participate in that type of creation process. All [a choice]. Individuals, and yet the choice that we make indeed in a collective manner, if you wish. In other words, when you're involved in a particular interaction in a day-to-day activity with other entities, each individual as well is involved in that interaction or activity through their choice. And there's an agreement that that's the reality that you would experience.

And so, each of us has an agreement, if you wish, at some level, to interact and to experience and to be connected. It's not something that occurs by accident. Absolutely.

And so it is, when you're involved in relationships in this reality indeed at some level of your consciousness you have made the choice to be involved. And the other entities that are involved have made the choice as well to validate the belief systems, be they what you refer to as a positive or negative reactions and relationships. Once again, the spark of consciousness that you are does not judge whether it's right or wrong, it simply validates the belief system.

If you hold a belief that it's possible for you to be involved in very rewarding relationships that allow you to experience love for one another individuals in [a] various relationships, then indeed that's the type of relationship that you will have an experience. It validates a belief system and each individual has agreed to participate in the validation of that belief system through the creation of that reality.

And when you're involved in a relationship (inaudible) in your awake and consciousness state (inaudible) undesirable then as well it takes the same amount of effort to validate the belief systems. It's the same relationship occurring in terms of agreeing to be involved in the situation [for the purposes], once again, of the validation of the belief systems. One is not put into that situation because of choices that another has made but rather through choices that that entity has made.

It becomes very difficult, once again, in the awake and consciousness state to accept that responsibility, and yet, it's the key, for without acceptance of the responsibility then the alteration of the belief system becomes very difficult.

To believe that you're not in control, to believe that it's not possible for you to have made choices that resulted in the reality that you're experiencing is to indeed hold a belief system that this reality is beyond your capacity to control, that other entities have that capacity to have influences over you that you do not agree to participate in. That's a choice. That's a choice and a decision. And when you make that choice and decision, indeed, the spark of consciousness that you are does not judge whether it's right or wrong but validates the belief that you hold.

And so, you create realities, you create realities that give the illusion that you're not in control. Or you can go the other way, and you can create realities that give the illusion indeed that you are in control. For you see, it's all an illusion. It's a validation of your belief systems.

The spark of consciousness that you are creates the reality you experience to validate the beliefs you hold without exception, without judging whether it's right or wrong. You exist in a vibrational level that you choose to validate and create. This vibrational level that you exist in has limitations upon your capacity to experience certain creation aspects in your awake and consciousness state that you have put in place. Limitations that you have put in place through the creation and sustaining of what we refer to as the veil, the electromagnetic type of energy that puts in place the limitations, not only for you to understand who and what you truly are in your awake and consciousness state and to varying degrees, at various levels of consciousness, but as well limits the capacity for other entities existing outside of your vibrational level to influence your creation process.

It's really that simple. It's not complicated. You make it complicated because, you see, when it's more complicated then it appears to be out of your control; then it's more real. And when it's more real then the intense range of emotions and feelings are indeed more real, and beyond your capacity to control. And that's why you came to this vibrational level in the first place and why you choose to remain. Once again, it is really that simple.

Now, if you have any questions, we would be willing to attempt to answer them for you.

Questioner: I have a question, actually. We're all multidimensional beings in that we have all these different incarnations. What is it that is common between all of our different incarnations. It's not our physical appearance, it's not where we're born or how we live, what's the common part (inaudible).

Joshiah: A very difficult question to answer because the common part is the common part that exists not only with the entities in your vibrational level that you choose to experience but indeed exists with all of the entities that exist throughout all of what we refer to as creation. You're asking for an explanation that's impossible to give, an explanation of who and what we truly are. We are all one and yet we are all separate. It's a paradox. As we've suggested, you are all that is and yet you are nothing.

This is an illusionary reality created by the one and you are the one and yet you are separate. You exist within each and every atom of the entire universe. And while that can be a difficult concept to grasp, if you look at it from the perspective that's it's an illusion then it's not so difficult to grasp. If you look at it from the perspective that it's an illusion that validates beliefs that you hold, then it's not so difficult to grasp.

An illusion, but a significant illusion in that it allows you to experience the intense range of emotions and feelings which is why you and other individuals and all of the entities existing within this vibrational level choose to exist within this vibrational level.

And so, the common thread is that you are one, one with the same intent to have that ability to create a reality where it appears that you're not in control so that each of you can experience that intense range of emotions and feelings and experience it as a one. And as difficult as that is to grasp, you are all that is. We are one, yet you are separate.

Individuals existing within your vibrational level and in all of the other vibrational levels for that matter, have the capacity to experience a range of emotions and feelings, the understanding of the creation process as a one. The explanation is almost impossible to give that you are connected with each and every other entity and it is within your capacity, not only within your capacity but at some level of your consciousness you experience the realities of each and every other entity.

The connection is that you are all one and yet you are all separate. The connection is that you have this desire to experience this intense range of emotions and feelings and that at some level of your consciousness, you share that interaction through a multidimensional personality that you are, involved in a multitude of various activities simultaneously, if you wish, for lack of a better terminology. Sharing the experiences with other entities and understanding as well at some level of your consciousness that you are all that is, understanding at some level of your consciousness that you create from a position of absolute unconditional love and that absolute unconditional love is shared and experienced as the one throughout all of creation, not only your vibrational level.

A very difficult question to answer. Does that answer your question?

Questioner: It helps. [I was] more wondering is there a common thread between me and my different incarnations. Like, is there an additional thread besides me and other entities?

Joshiah: [And then it] becomes very difficult to give an explanation because it ... Well, you are separate and by being separate we mean all of the entities of who and what you truly are. This is what you experience in your awake and consciousness state that you think is it. "This is the existence. This is the real one." You experience that a multitude of times throughout all other levels of your consciousness. Yet, you in your awake and consciousness state are not aware of. You eliminate that, you put in place those limitations. Your choice to put in place that veil that limits the understanding of who and what you truly are.

All of what is who and what you truly are, it's like a lump sum. You can't separate it and say, "Well, this entity is separate from this particular incarnational state and that incarnational state is separate from that incarnational state." It's like an individual who gets up in the morning and they are for a very brief period of time a very angry individual. Something has occurred and it's really ticked you off and there's an area and a sense of your personality that is entirely different from the personality that you express when you're in a joyous and very happy frame of mind. And yet, it's the same individual. It's the various aspects of a personality. And in many that can be quite varied. For some they have a very level, they're in a very calm state of mind perhaps or perhaps exactly the opposite, they are usually in a very upset and very negative, if you wish, for lack of a better terminology, state of mind. But there are those who display and by far this is the majority, a multitude of personality traits and yet it's all the same individual. You can't say, "Well that's separate from that particular personality trait, or that from that one and that's a different entity." You understand that that's the same entity expressing different personality traits. It's the same person, it's the same personality.

And so it is, that you have a multidimensional personality that's involved in different incarnational periods that's the same entity. It's not separate at all. It's all one, it's who and what you truly are, a multidimensional personality. And to go beyond that, you are a piece of the one, for lack of a better terminology. And that's a very limiting explanation because it gives the impression that there is this huge one and that you are but a small part of it, and yet you are all of it.

The irony of it is, so is every other entity. And so, you are all connected. You are all one and yet you are separate.

All of the incarnational periods that you experience are all of a piece of who and what you truly are, and yet you are separate. The personalities that you display in your day-to-day experiences in this particular incarnational period can be quite varied and yet they are all the one. Even though they appear, many times, to be quite different and separate and yet you understand that that's the same personality. You are all that is. They are all one, not separate. Only appearing to be separate.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes, I think so. Thank you.

Questioner: Can I ask (inaudible) question? I know it, whether it makes sense or not, when we die and in the cemetery. Now, the cemetery is there for the living, mostly, like the entities aren't there, they're gone, so the cemeteries are for the living for their own emotions?

Joshiah: What do you believe? What do you believe? And that seems like, it seems like such a put-off, and yet it's something that one must examine in order to achieve some type of sense and understanding. What do you believe? You see, in certain societies the beliefs can be quite extremely different and it's an illusion. First of all, ending of an incarnational period is simply a validation of your belief in time and space. It doesn't really occur, no one dies. You can't die. You can change your levels of consciousness, but you can't die. Dying is simply a terminology that you utilize to validate your belief in time and space. You have an individual who was born and they go through various stages of development until they reach their maturity, and then they get beyond their maturity into their old age and then they die.

You don't die. You go through a process of what you refer to as evolution that validates your belief in time and space, that validates the illusion that makes it real. It doesn't really exist, it's an illusion. Those entities exist within the same time and space. We exist within the same time and space. The reality that you're experiencing within this so-called incarnational period exists within the same time and space as all of the other realities that you're experiencing. It's an illusion.

And so, if you wish to believe that there is some significance to taking what remains of a so-called incarnational period and somehow giving that value, you can do that, it's not a right or wrong. Is it significant? If you believe it's significant, if you believe that it has an impact upon the reality that you're experiencing, then it will. The reality you experience is a validation of the beliefs you hold.

Various cultures throughout your entire Earth system have different belief systems and what occurs after death, it's what we refer to as a societal belief system. Various cultures have different methods of dealing with the burial, if you wish, or the elimination of the remains of an individual who has seemingly died, who has terminated this incarnational period. It's an illusion. It's difficult to give an explanation because you're asking a question based upon time and space which doesn't really exist. Is it important to the individuals to have some type of a space where they can go and go through some type of a termination or understanding or involvement with an entity that has passed and what you refer to as died? If it assists in validating a belief system, if it makes one have a better understanding and acceptance of the so-called passage of one in your awake and consciousness state, then by all means it validates a belief and it's something that you can put in place and you can have it. It's an illusion.

And there are other particular societal belief systems where when an entity passes, when an entity dies, the remembrance, if you wish, the honoring of that particular individual terminates with that individual. They allow it to become part of [their] past, if you wish. One is no more valid than the other. Each validates a belief in time and space. Each validates a societal belief system. Neither is right or wrong.

What do you believe? What do you believe? It's such a simple statement and yet it is so powerful in understanding the realities that you experience in your so-called awake and consciousness state. What do you believe?

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes. Thank you.

Questioner: I have a quick question. In the linear story of our Earth, when did the axis tilt?

Joshiah: We've spoken of various terminations of existences in your so-called Earth systems, in your so-called history, and we referred to them as the Lemurian period and we referred to them as the Atlantean periods and in fact, we've referred to three times that your so-called civilizations, for lack of a better terminology, have terminated existence in your Earth systems [in] various methods.

Once again, your so-called past is readily available to change as is your future. That becomes a difficult concept to grasp. And so when you ask for a timeline based upon particular events that have occurred in your so-called history, it must be given with the understanding that based upon the belief systems that are held by the entities that are existing within, not only this incarnational period, but all of the multidimensional personalities and incarnational periods that we refer to. And so, it becomes difficult to give a time when a particular occurrence appeared, if you wish, on your Earth system because it can be altered. But in your so-called Atlantean periods, there were three very, once again, for lack of a better terminology, disruptive occurrences that terminated the so-called societies that existed within those particular periods of your Earth systems of your vibrational level.

We hesitate to utilize so far in the past that it was so many centuries ago because, once again, it's an illusion that has no significance other than your scientists would like to validate the beginning and end to validate your belief in time and space. But, nonetheless, in your so-called past, in your history, there were those occurrences, and those terminations of societies. Societies, which as we've suggested in the past, were for, in terms of your scientific understanding, more advanced than the present society that you exist in at this time, greater understanding of the utilization of the natural, available energy that exists throughout your Earth system, greater understanding that the energy that exists throughout your Earth systems is you, it's your energy, it's your creation and it's available to you. You have but to utilize your imagination and desires to bring it into being.

The only limitation to your creation is your imagination and in the so-called Atlantean periods, the utilization of imagination and the understanding of the creation process was more advanced than it has been in your so-called recent history. And so, there've been dramatic alterations of your Earth system, to terminate, through the human conscious decision to terminate so-called civilizations occurring within your system at that time.

We have suggested that in the year of 1987, you as a human consciousness were on the verge of terminating this particular era of your civilization, for lack of a better terminology. You as a human consciousness chose rather than to terminate, once again as you do in the so-called Atlantean periods, this civilization that you would rather instead alter the makeup of the energy for this vibrational level which would allow you to experience creation from a conscious level or consciousness state in a manner that has been very difficult for you to achieve in the past.

And so, there was an alteration of the energy which is occurring and is very near completion at this time. In the Atlantean periods, that termination was much more violent, if you wish, much more active, much more direct and instantaneous, through the utilization of and what you might refer to as mismanagement of the resources and energy that was available at that time; mismanagement only from your awake and consciousness state. From your altered states of consciousness where you create the reality to validate your beliefs, it was indeed a choice that was made from a human conscious level. Absolutely.

To give you a time frame is very difficult and before what you refer to as your so-called modern man type of understanding of this particular era of your civilization. Time is irrelevant. An understanding that your belief in a passage of evolutionary processes gives you a much better glimpse, for you see, what your scientists can believe has occurred several centuries ago, through an alteration of belief systems, not only in this incarnational period but of the multidimensional personalities that you are experiencing all of the other incarnational periods, a time frame of your so-called past, is as easily altered and changed as is your concept of the ability to change the future.

And you do it on a regular basis and continuously in your so-called present time discover various ancient civilizations that seemingly, the entities who existed in the centuries before you have walked over and somehow never had the mental capacity to understand what it was they were walking on. [Does it] ever occur to someone that just perhaps, just perhaps it wasn't there, but you have altered your past, once again, as readily as you alter your future.

A difficult concept to grasp, but nonetheless, the reality you experience is a validation of the beliefs you hold. The beliefs you hold in this incarnational period, as well as the various other incarnational periods of your so-called past, are still in place to have an occurrence of the alteration of the makeup of this Earth that you suggest. The irony of it is that it could all change. Your choice. It's your reality. It's the reality of the human consciousness and you're creating each and every element of it constantly, simultaneously, in the now.

Does that answer your question?

Questioner: Yes, that was helpful. Thank you.

Joshiah: Well, now. It has indeed been a very enjoyable afternoon once again and we would like to express our gratitude to each of you for offering us this opportunity to interact and to share with each of you. And we would remind you, once again, that we are not separated by time or space but rather by a vibrational level and should you choose to interact with us you have but to express the intent and we would welcome that opportunity to interact and to share with you. And so until you, once again, express the desire for our interaction we would bid each of you farewell, with love and with peace. ❀