BREWERY 99: NOT YOUR TYPICAL SPORTS BAR

When you walk up to Brewery 99 from the gravel parking lot, under the archway, and around the corner, the last thing you would think is “Sports Bar”. There are no TVs, no light beers, no bar food, and no neon lights. What you will find is great company, compelling conversation, boisterous laughter, delicious beers, giant jenga, cornhole boards, and inside there is a foosball and ping pong table.

On any given day, you can strike up an interesting conversation that leads to an energizing game of table tennis. Parents bring their kids (of all ages) to play foosball, like they used to play when they were kids. We even have a low-key chess champion that frequents 99 and if you beat him, you get a free beer (I’m looking at you Dave White).

So even though there are no 99 inch TVs blaring the latest sports game, Brewery 99 is in every way a “Sports Bar” in its own right. These are the sports that initiate conversations and a little friendly competition. So if you’re down to roll up your sleeves and pull from the giant jenga, we challenge you to bring a friend or make a new friend and join us at 99, not your typical Sports Bar.
