BREWERY 99: A BRIEF HISTORY

The name Brewery 99 for the start-up business was decided upon years before a business was ever considered. While homebrewing, recipes were created and at the top of every paper I would title the brew log "Brewery 99" as a tongue in cheek kind of joke. I never knew that someday in the future there would be a brewery and I would be the president.

Years of homebrewing passed, and at the time, North Carolina would only allow homebrewers to brew up to 99 gallons of beer by law.

The moment arrived, paperwork was being filled out, the time came to start the business. The first question: "Business Name?" Guess what? It took no time to answer. We had been using the name for years. Brewery 99. (Side note: we became the 99th brewery in North Carolina!)

There are a lot of other coincidences that come along with the name "Brewery 99". Such as, it is the year I moved to NC (1999) and I was born on September 9 (9/9). Besides being easy to remember and pronounce, easy to spell, unique, simple, not too descriptive, and not trendy, we were able to secure our domain name and grab all our social media handles. IT IS OUR LUCKY NUMBER!

UPCOMING BEERS

The brewers at 99 have been busy brewing the upcoming Fall & Winter Seasonal Beers. We are excited to bring back the Warmer Winter Marzen and the Chaos Agent Imperial Stout! Here's tid-bit of information about our seasonals:

FALL

Inspired by the Oktoberfest Marzen beer style, the Warmer Winter Marzen Lager is slightly darker than most. It has a smooth flavor with hints of cinnamon and nutmeg with a crisp finish provided by whole leaf hops.

WINTER

The Chaos Agent is a beer that has a rich and complex aroma, with a full body that takes on a roasted malt character with notes of dark chocolate. The Chaos Agent has a noticeable alcohol warmth and a dry finish.
