Food, Wine, Vodka? The 3rd Annual Hawaii Food & Wine Festival returns

The festival's finale, Savory Ever After will take place fronting the lagoon in Ko Olina on Saturday, September 8th, 2013. Photo(s) courtesy of the Hawaii Food and Wine Festival

The 3rd Annual Hawaii Food & Wine Festival, September 1st through 9th, is a culinary adventure beyond the wildest expectations of your taste buds. Held on both Oahu and Maui this year, this is the who's who of internationally acclaimed master chefs, plus four master sommelier, five mixologists and more than ten top-tier winemakers from Hawaii, the U.S. mainland, Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Philippines and Australia. Stir in the newest ingredient, vodka, with an Exploring Vodka seminar. Saying "something for everyone" seems a bit too mundane considering all the amazing info and various events listed at HawaiiFoodandWineFestival.com.

The festival was co-founded by two of Hawaii's own James Beard Award-winning top chefs, Roy Yamaguchi and Alan Wong. It has grown in scope and stature to attract 70 of the worlds best known chefs, all using the freshest island ingredients the Hawaiian islands have to offer. The festival has the best possible buzz. For the past two years every event has sold out in advance. Tickets are on sale via the web site.

A dozen or more events, running daytime and evenings, include tours of a loi, taro field, and an ancient Hawaiian fishpond – an outdoor classroom with a fish and poi lunch – and a Sunday brunch that puts Harumi Kurihara of Yutori No Kukan (Toyko) and Emma Hearst of Soreilla (New York) together with more than a dozen superstar chefs and Hawaii farmers.

The Hawaii food events blend chefs and tastes. Alan Wong says, "the events give guests chefs, visitors and residents a unique opportunity to connect through food.

Yamaguchi says, "in partnership with the tourism industry, we created this festival to give travelers to Hawaii and residents alike an exciting and educational food festival featuring great chefs and winemakers." He encourages local residents and visitors to buy tickets early. The theme, highlights agriculture and participants are required to use local ingredients, seafood, beef, poultry, and locally sourced produce, all found here in Hawaii in the creation of their dishes. He calls this the "key element" that sets the Festival apart from other food events across the country.

New this year to the chefs roster, Grant Achatz of Alinea (Chicago), Art Smith of Table fifty-two (Chicago), Chris Costention of Incanto (San Francisco), Ricardo Zarate of Mo-Chica (Los Angeles), Anita Lo of Annisa (New York), Floyd Cardiz of North End Grill (New York), Chris Kajioka of Vintage Cave (Honolulu), and Sheldon Simeon of Star Noodle (Maui).

Returning chefs include Iron Chef Masaharu Morimoto of Morimoto Waikiki, Nobu Matsuhisa of Nobu Waikiki, Ming Tsai of Blue Ginger in

67TH YEARS OF CELEBRATING ALOHA

ALOHA FESTIVALS

"Moana Nui Akea - Celebrate Ocean Voyaging" is the theme for the 67th year of Aloha Festivals. The theme and the events celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Polynesian Voyaging Society, and the beginning of the historic world-wide voyage of Hawaii's great voyaging canoe, Hokule'a.

The Festivals honor the accomplishments of the Polynesian Voyaging Society, founded in 1973, inspiring generations of voyagers who have boldly retraced the paths of Hawaii's Pacific island ancestors, fostering the revival of the wa'a kaulua, the double-hulled sailing canoe, and the traditional wayfinding, non-instrument navigation, reading the sun, stars, wind and wave patterns. Now in its 67th year, Aloha Festivals is one of Hawaii's most highly regarded and oldest cultural celebrations. The 2013 Aloha Festivals take place from September 12th to 28th at various locations on Oahu. Events share the history and traditions of Hawaii and the unique spirit of aloha with both local residents and visitors.

"The 2013 Aloha Festivals honors the important Hawaiian value of Moana Nui Akea by celebrating the brave and inspiring canoe builders, voyagers and navigators who have strived tirelessly to help keep our native culture vibrant," said Helene "Sam" Shenkus, co-chair of the Aloha Festivals board of directors. "Each event this year will capture Moana Nui Akea by perpetuating our

Publisher's Letter

Time to review and improve

With Kathryn's departure, I felt it was time for many things to change. By taking back the editorial reins, with some extremely valuable assistance from Lynn Cook when necessary, I felt it was time to take a look at what we were doing and perhaps fine-tune it. This was a crazy issue to start with - as once again - there is so much going on that I skimmed on pictures just to get in all the pertinent info and things are squeezed in so tightly there wasn't much room to play with. However for starters, a friend of mine recently did a great hike in Hawaii Kai and had some stunning pictures she sent me, so I have added in a Featured Hike of the Month to spotlight this great hike. Unfortunately my schedule doesn't allow me to take advantage of all those great hikes out there, but I can tell from Facebook that many of you guys do. I would love it if you were to send in a couple pictures of your hike as well as brief synopsis of what it was like so we can keep this section on a regular basis. I'm going to need your help though, so please remember to send that info in. Also, if any of you have any other thoughts on how we can tweak the edit on this book to make it even more valuable to you, please feel free to send me an email. I welcome your feedback, especially now, as I am actively reviewing what we're doing.

September has some great events in it to keep us all busy, but what you most likely won't be seeing is any concierge events. As the Na Wahine draws near, I'm afraid I lose complete control of my life just trying to fit in all the work responsibilities and paddling practices. As any of you that paddle know -- long distance season might as well be another full time job. Beyond that, there's barely any time to sleep - let alone go to some of the events I've been looking forward to all year. The Hawaii Food & Wine Festival couldn't fall on a worse weekend for me - but I'm going to give it my best shot! Too bad I'll have skip some of those amazing wines. Hopefully my schedule will clear up enough to start putting more events on the schedule in October, so please don't give up on me.

Lastly, I wrote about this in Newsflash this month, but especially given some of the wine-driven events on the horizon, I wanted to tell you all about the latest service in Honolulu, Uber, Everyone's Private Driver. It's like calling a taxi, only better because you will get a fancy black SUV, Mercedes, Town Car, etc., with a driver show up at your door. It's all done via app on your mobile device and tells you everything from the type of car coming to get you, to how far away it is, its make and model and license plate and even a picture of the driver dispatched to get you. Talk about security measures. It's like your own private driver on demand, only at normal taxi-like fares. Once the car arrives, the driver awaits with chilled water and since you've already preregistered your credit card, no monies every change hands - not even tip, since the app allows you to predetermine what that will be in your profile. Thanks to Uber, readers of The Oahu Concierge can now enter a promo code that will give you a $20 credit in your account just for registering. Simply download the app, enter the promo code OAHUONCIEERGE and get $20 immediately credited to your account. It's that simple. I am definitely a fan - and so are all my friends tired of me asking for them to pick them up. Try it yourself and arrive in style.

The Aqua Lotus Honolulu has hired Joshua Gray as their new general manager replacing former GM Matthew Pickett who has transferred over to the Polynesian Plaza. Gray comes to the Lotus from the Wynn Las Vegas where he cultivated a strong background in front office operations, guest services, sales and problem resolution over the past eight years. The 51-room hotel has also promoted Joshua Gahret to hotel manager from guest services manager. With a new restaurant just opening the "Joshua-team" is primed to take the hotel to new levels. • Brandon R. Barbour has joined the Hawai'i Lodging & Tourism Association as its new Director of Government and Community Affairs. In his new position Barbour will oversee many of the Associations community and charitable programs, including the Annual Visitor Industry Charity Walk as well as be the liaison with government and elected officials on behalf of the Association members. Previously he worked for U.S. Senator Brian Schatz as his Community Affairs Representative. • The Kahala Hotel & Resort has promoted Carmine Iomazzo to the role of general manager. Previously Iomazzo was Director of Food & Beverage for the property prior to heading over to Makena Beach & Golf Resort in 2011 as resident manager than general manager. He returned to the Kahala in March of this year as hotel manager. Returning to the Kahala to take over hotel manager duties is Ryan Fitzgerald who was previously Director of Rooms at the property before moving to the Mauna Lani Bay Hotel & Resort as hotel manager in 2011. • The Royal Hawaiian has named

Carmine Iomazzo

Charlene Nakamura director of sales and marketing. Most recently director of sales at The Kahala Hotel & Resort she brings over 30 years of experience with her. • The Hokulani, a Hilton Grand Vacations time share resort is scheduled to open soon at the end of Waikiki Beach Walk and Outrigger Enterprises Group has been contracted to manage the property. They have named longtime employee Pam Yagi as general manager who has spent the last seven years as assistant general manager at the Holiday Inn Waikiki Beachcomber Resort. • The Hyatt Regency Waikiki Beach Resort has brought over David Nadelman from their San Francisco property as their latest general manager. • Last but certainly not least, lots of changes over in the Starwood properties. First off we want to send out a big congratulations to Kelly Sanders, general manager of the Sheraton Waikiki Resort who has just been promoted to area managing director for the Starwood Hotels in Waikiki. He will remain GM of the Sheraton Waikiki but his responsibilities will now also include overseeing the Royal Hawaiian Hotel, the Westin Moana Surfrider and the Princess Kaiulani. Also at Starwood, Paige Cabacungan has just been named complex director of sales and marketing for the Starwood Hotels in Waikiki. She most recently was at the St. Regis in Princeville while Stephanie Dowling will be taking over the reins as new regional director of public relations for Starwood Hotels and Resorts in Hawaii. She was most recently the director of marketing at the Westin Kierland Resort & Spa in Scottsdale. • Speaking of Dowling's, it's nice to see Ben Dowling back in the general manager world. The former GM of Nick's Fishmarket is now the man in charge over at the Elk's Club. Say hello if you're over that way. ~ Pam

Polynesian Cultural Center's 50th Anniversary Celebration Kicks off with Free Concert Series

They've been celebrating it all year but the actual date that the Polynesian Cultural Center first opened their doors is almost upon us. PCC officially opened their doors to the public back on October 12, 1963 with over 1,500 people in attendance. Since then more than 37 million people have walked through the main entrance and learned about the people of Polynesia and Hawaii as those that work at the Center share their native cultures with others and help to preserve their cultures and tradition.

As the celebrations of their 50th Anniversary start gaining speed, the Polynesian Cultural Center invites you to join them for a free concert series at their main entrance area all month long. Each concert is preceded by an winning hula halau performance paired with a local musician for a week of song and dance sure to please.

arts with aloha

What do a Chinese detective, an English cabaret singer and a New Jersey superhero have in common? Well at first glance nothing, but if you take a closer look, you'll notice that this month they can all be seen in front of the footlights at some of Honolulu's best theatres.

One of our most respected theatres is KUMU KAHUA THEATRE and it has just opened its 43rd season with the world premiere of Nancy P. Moss' Will the Real Charlie Chan Please Stand Up?

Many of your older guests are probably familiar with the fictional Chinese-American detective Charlie Chan who was a popular film character from the 1920s to 1940s; however, many fans are unaware that the character of Charlie Chan was loosely based on a real life Honolulu detective named Chang Apana. In her new play, Moss has the fictional Charlie Chan join forces with the real-life detective he was modeled after to fight crime in Honolulu. The play opens with detective Chang Apana single-handedly cleaning up the gambling houses and opium dens of Honolulu's 1920s Chinatown and Iwilei districts. But when a corrupt racist cop threatens to undo his good works and remove him from the force, Apana is assisted in uncovering crime by a stranger (Charlie Chan) from San Francisco who speaks in Confucian aphorisms, many in mangled English. The play entertains the audience with a creative blend of historical theater, crime drama and comedy. Shows run Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., and Sundays at 2 p.m. through September 22. Tickets can be purchased using a credit card by calling 536-4441 or by visiting the box office at 46 Merchant Street (corner of Bethel & Merchant) in downtown Honolulu. Tickets are $20. Kumu Kahua Theatre is a perfect place to end the day while checking out Honolulu's Capitol District. Tell your guests to spend the early afternoon at IOLANI PALACE and the MISSION HOUSES MUSEUM to learn about Hawai'i's monarchy and how the missionaries shaped our island's history and then suggest that they stop for an early dinner in Chinatown then head off to the theatre to see what life was like 90 years ago in the very spot they just had dinner.

Perhaps your guests are looking for something a little off the wall. If that's the case, you should send them to MANOA VALLEY THEATRE for a little Off-Broadway magic. The 150-seat theatre opens its 45th season with a musical comedy by Joe DiPietro and David Bryan called The Toxic Avenger Musical. Clearly this isn't a Rogers and Hammerstein type of musical and there is some adult language and situations. The show opens with Melvin Ferd the Third, a mild-mannered, scrawny, geeky, would-be environmental champion, who wants to clean up Tromaville, the most polluted town in New Jersey (just off Exit 13B on the Turnpike). Foiled by the mayor's bullies, Melvin is dumped into a vat of radioactive toxic waste, only to re-emerge as THE TOXIC AVENGER, New Jersey's first superhero. Affectionately known as Toxie, the new hero is a seven-foot mutant freak with superhuman strength and a heart as big as Newark. As a result he is out to save New Jersey, end global warming and woo the blind liberation in town. The musical features a rock score by Bon Jovi's David Bryan. The show runs Wednesday & Thursday at 7:30 p.m., Friday & Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m. from September 12th to 29th. For more information call 988-6131. Choosing mainstream contemporary plays and musicals from Broadway, Off-Broadway, and major regional theatres, Manoa Valley Theatre's annual season is a showcase of great theatre productions that features some of the best talent in Hawai'i.

Another theatre that features great local talent is DIAMOND HEAD THEATRE, which is located at the foot of Diamond Head Crater. The theatre is the third oldest community theatre in the United States. It began in 1915 as a company of theatergoers knows as "The Footlights" and over the years its stage has graced many Hollywood and Broadway stars. Bette Midler, Carol Burnett and Tom Selleck are but a few stars that have made the theatre their home during the past century. The latest production is the musical Cabaret by the musical team of Kander & Ebb (the musical Chicago) which follows the lives of a young English cabaret singer named Sally Bowles, a young American writer named Cliff Bradshaw and the seedy nightlight inside the Kit Kat Klub in 1930s Berlin. The cabaret scenes in the musical provide a social commentary to what is happening to the characters in the show and as a result the musical numbers are equally entertaining and thought provoking. Many of your guests may be familiar with the film version that starred Liza Minnelli and may also be able to hum a few bars from one of the film's famous songs Money (Makes the World Go Around). The show opens on September 27th and runs through October 13th with performances on Thursday, Friday & Saturday at 8 p.m., Saturday Matinee at 3 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m. To order tickets call 733-0274 or visit www.DiamondHeadTheatre.com. A visit to this theatre is a MUST for your returning hotel guests who are looking for something a little different to do after dinner one night.

Hawaii Food & Wine Festival

Wellesley, Mass., Charles Phan of The Slanted Door and Hubert Keller of Fleur de Lys, both of San Francisco. Nancy Silverton of Mozza in Los Angeles, Christina Tosi of Momofuku Milk Bar in New York, Celestino Drago of Drago Restaurant Group in Los Angeles, George Mavrothalassitis of Mavros, Chai Chaowasaree and Ed Kenney all of Honolulu.

The impressive list of wine seminars reads like the shelves of fine wine stores, including Harlan Estate, Justin Vineyards, Stags Leap and Au Bon Climat to name a few. These seminars will be led by world class experts such as master sommeliers Richard Betts and Joseph Spellman and even one of our own favorite mixologists, Dave Newman. The list of signature events is a delicious read including the Master Chefs Gala Series Around the World with Seven Chefs, Taste our Love for the Land, and Savory Ever After.

Topping off the sipping experience will be the first-ever Exploring Vodka & Vodka Based Cocktails featuring modern mixologist Tony Abou-Ganim, author of Vodka Distilled.

The Festival week will be a true palate-bending series of events that will all sell out. Due to the success of the festival over the past two years the HFWF has fulfilled an important mission, providing nearly $500,000 in funding to support the missions of food sustainability through various beneficiaries. Make sure you get your teeth into this one before it's too late.

The Aloha Festivals Celebration kicks off on Thursday, September 12th with the Investiture of the 2013 Aloha Festivals Royal Court at 3 p.m. at the Hilton Hawaiian Village as the ceremonial court of king, queen, prince and princess receive the symbols of their reign. This ceremony is celebrated with traditional chant and hula.

At 5 p.m., at the Royal Hawaiian Center Royal Grove, traditional chant and hula will mark the official beginning of the 2013 Aloha Festivals on Oahu. The new ali'i, royalty, will be introduced and honored with a celebration of hula.

On Saturday, September 14th, from 9 a.m. to noon, the Outrigger Reef on the Beach celebrates the festivals and the great voyaging canoes with a morning of activities. Canoe builders from the Friends of Hokule'a & Hawaiioloa, carvers and artisans will demonstrate canoe restoration, talk about the world wide voyage. Open to everyone, activities include demonstrations of restoration techniques, ti leaf lei making, voyaging petroglyph, rock art, card making and talk-story time with crew who have sailed across vast oceans on the canoes.

The Aloha Festivals Keiki Ho'olaulea, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. takes place at Pearlridge Center Uptown & Downtown. The Center will celebrate the Festivals with a variety of activities, demonstrations and continuous stage performances by keiki, childrens, hula schools, musical groups and hula halau, schools, from around the island. The afternoon will include a special appearance by the Aloha Festivals Royal Court.

On Saturday, September 21, the King of the royal court will proclaim, "Let the party begin," as the annual Waikiki Ho'olaulea fills Kalakaua Avenue, between Lewers Street and Kapahulu Avenue. This is Hawaii's largest block party, with food booths, children's multiple stages for live entertainment, plus food and craft booths.

On Saturday, September 28th, from 9 a.m. to noon, the Aloha Festivals culminates on Oahu with one of the most highly photographed and unique parades in the nation. The Aloha Festivals Floral Parade features floats, marching bands and horse riding groups with a princess representing each of the Hawaiian Islands - with the riders and horsed draped in flower lei. The gown of each princess is made of hundreds of yards of velvet and satin while the flowers in her lei may number in the thousands. At the end of the parade, at Kapiolani Park, parade fans have a close up look at the floats and riders who are happy to pose for photos.

Auntie Lynn's Adventures X

September, Remember. The month begins with the September 1st celebration of the Onipa'a, Honoring Queen Lili'uokalani. It is her 175th birthday. Our Queen was a gentle and gracious monarch who served her people with dignity not awarded to her by foreign invaders. Her government was overthrown and she was held prisoner in her own home. This is the month to re-read her book, The Queen's Story.

Beyond the day of celebration, visitors and local residents are welcome to walk back in history on a Hawaii Pono'i Coalition presentation of the Mai Poina Walking Tour, in the downtown historic district surrounding 'Iolani Palace, September 1, 6, 7, and 8th, at 4, 4:20, 4:40, and 5 p.m. Tours on Friday, September 5th are set for 5, 5:20, 5:40 and 6 p.m. Meeting place is the steps of the Hawaii State Library. Volunteer actors present turmoil and drama in the days leading up to the overthrow of the Hawaiian monarchy.

HONORING OUR ROYALTY – On September 6th, at Hawaii Theatre, The Brothers Cazimero step out to present A Tribute to Lili'uokalani, celebrating Hawai'i's last reigning queen. Lili'uokalani was born in 1838 as Lydia Lili'u Loloku Waliana Wewehi Kamaka'eha, was the last monarch and only queen regent of the Kingdom of Hawai'i. She was also known as Lydia Kamaka'eha Paki, with the chosen royal name of Lili'uokalani, and her married name was Lydia K. Dominis. Robert Cazimero's Halau Kamalei O Lililehua and the Ladies of the Royal Dance Company join The Brothers in royal tributes to mele, song, hula and chant.

HOW ABOUT HAU – or any of the other wonderful woods that grow in the islands. From September 1st to 15th Linekona at the Honolulu Museum of Art will be filled with creations by Hawaii's finest wood workers and carvers. Prepare to drool, but not on the inlaid koa table.

HOT HOT – Don't miss guitarist John Pizzarelli at the Hawaii Theatre on September 28th at 7:30 p.m. You will hear totally amazing talent that will take you to a place where the music can move you. His quartet will be there propelling the ensembles signature bounce, including Pizzarelli's younger brother, Martin on bass, the drummer, Tony Tedesco, and Larry Fuller on piano. To get the first hand story from the Na Hoku Hanohano winning jazz man and leader of the Hot Club of Hulaville, I sent an email to Sonny Silva, producer of the concert and one of my very favorite musicians. Sonny told a tale, "I first encountered John at the East-West Center in 1992. I had not heard of him before going to his performance. I went to the concert on a lark. I was blown away. His playing, well, I had not seen anything quite like it before. Super fast rhythms. I mean fast. Yet., he swung. He did not rush a thing. His humor, both with his music, his words and stories, was again, so fresh. And he could croon like nobody's business.

"I promptly stole everything I could get from this guy. His repertoire. His style. I could never quite carry it. We met backstage. I had a San Francisco Giants Jacket on.. He had a three piece suit. And we took a picture together. He kind of forgot who it was. I met him years later at the Honolulu Pops concert where he blew everybody away again. He took one look and yelled "Giants Jacket! Giants Jacket!" Such was his mnemonic device. He's a great, great player. A great raconteur. Everybody will have fun." P.S. The Hotclub of Hulaville will add their own bounce to the night.

HUNTING THE NIGHT – As long as you are hanging in Chinatown, click on a ticket to Kumu Kahua Theatre's nights of Hotel Street history. Through September 22, there will be a moment to ask, "Will the Real Charlie Chan Please Stand Up?" as the actors present the show, written by Nancy Moss. Chan Apana was a real dective, so much so that HPD officers have been known to say, "where's that Charlie Chan when we need him.

HOWL – that's what some of the zoo critters do at night. Let's face it, we all want to take a nap in the afternoon so the best way to commune with the wild side of life is a night at the Honolulu Zoo. They call it Snooze at the Zoo, personally, I didn't have much time for a snooze. I spent the entire night listening and wondering what jurassic sound that was coming from the cave behind me. OK, it's true, Auntie Lynn's imagination can't always be counted on for reality. Call the Honolulu Zoo for dates. The overnight includes a delicious buffet dinner, an evening tour as the zoo keepers tuck in the wild things followed by campfire s'mores and a place to spread your bed roll. The breakfast buffet starts a new day and you are welcome to stay on for the early morning wake up call to an elephant or two. This isn't just for kids. If you feel you need one, borrow your brothers kids. You will all have fun. See you there!

Hudson Valley Foie Gras Executive Chef Michael Ginor

Michael Ginor is the chef and co-founder of the most comprehensive Foie Gras producer in the world. This James Beard award winner is a food historian, fascinated by everything about the culinary world and involved in all aspects of it and will be one of the chefs featured at the Ko Olina event.

What first sparked your interest in the industry?

I always loved food. Since before I can remember. My parents said that "I was a natural born Foodie". Going to restaurants was my favorite childhood pastime. It was only natural that I would eventually choose it as a vocation and career.

What came first, your fascination with Foie Gras or your culinary training?

Foie Gras, a product which I felt was missing from the culinary landscape in the late 80's came first. That really provided the gateway to everything else which followed.

When you first opened Hudson Valley Foie Gras back in 1989 what were your expectations?

I loved foie gras and it became my favorite food item. I was only able to enjoy it during my foreign travels as it was rarely available in the US back then. At the same time cuisine in the US was taking such a dramatic turn, I felt that foie gras was a product which was missing from the chefs pantry and decided to study it and eventually produce it. I felt that it would certainly find a place on chefs menus but never expected it to become the "staple" that it has. It is just an additional testament to the greatness of the product and its place in culinary history.

Your thoughts about the ban in California?

It was completely misplaced and ordered by legislators who were manipulated by activists. The powers to be did not at all examine the situation and demonstrated a complete misunderstanding in the process by which foie gras is produced.

I'm told you know more about world cuisine than just about anyone. What feeds that fascination?

I am an explorer at heart and a food traveler. I have been fortunate to travel around the world extensively and my favorite pastime was walking for hours and exploring the local cuisines and markets, stall by stall, sampling and cataloging as much as possible. I enjoy strong flavors and find very few things to be 'bizarre'. Through travel, reading and exploring...I brain catalogued all that I have seen and learned and encompassed much of it into my cooking.

What was the one dish that impacted you the most?

I would say my first foie gras experience. I was a student in Israel and my father came to visit and took me to a restaurant that specialized in a variety of grilled skewers including various innards. They were famous for simple skewers of seasoned and grilled foie gras. It was the most delightful thing that I ever tasted. It was also the meal that launched my career and made so many of my dreams come to reality.

Which cultural style of food intrigues you the most?

I find amazing food almost anywhere. I am really multi-dimensional food-wise in the sense that I still love the food in France and the fundamentals of french cuisine but overall, I love Thai food. It never fails to please. However, I must emphasize that I find great food anywhere. If you look for it, you'll find it.

What's the furthest you have ever traveled in search of an ingredient?

I would say South East Thailand. I spend many months there exploring as much of the cuisine as possible. I did travel to Turkey once just to learn about Caviar.

You became a restaurateur late in your career. What brought on that decision?

After founding Hudson Valley Foie Gras and spending twenty years cooking and surrounded by chefs and working at various restaurants I felt that I explored many aspects of the food world with the exception of having my own restaurant in which I was responsible for every single aspect of the operation. Finally I opened my own restaurant, Lola, in New York. I felt that I had to truly 'earn the right' to proudly wear a chef jacket. I also wanted a real stage from which I can share all that I have learned through the years with guests who appreciate it.

What words of wisdom would you give to culinary students today?

Make sure that you enter this field for the right reasons. The love of food and cooking. Make sure that you have the right genetics for it. Some kind of natural born ability to do that. You need to start with that and then follow it with hard work. If you don't have the natural-born ability for it...it could be a very frustrating career. For every one chef who makes it to TV, there are 10,000 who don't.

Who would you be most excited to see dine in your restaurant and why?

Chef Jean Louis Palladin, one of the greatest, and most influential chefs to cook in the US who was my mentor and who passed away too young. I would have loved the opportunity to share with him what I have learned from him and infused into my own style of cuisine.

You are involved in nearly every aspect of the culinary field. What keeps your interests so varied and which intrigues you the most?

I love working with chefs who I find to be so creative and whose personalities remind me of my fellow officers with whom I served in the Israeli army. Many chefs possess that 'x' factor combining the creativity of an artist with the determination and physical and mental toughness of a special force soldier. A very winning combination. That is why we are now found to be so 'sexy'. So working with chefs, on so many different levels, is most self rewarding. It gives me a very natural way to explore food around the world with people who are like-minded. I also wanted to understand the world of food from as many different angles as possible and attempt involvement in every aspect. Production, cooking, restaurant ownership, economics, etc. I think the one wish that I still have is to be offered a TV program, exploring the world of food, which would provide me with a stage from which I can share my VERY DEEP passion with a much wider audience and hope to make a difference in their life.

What do you have planned for the Festival?

We are doing a dish around a new version of 'torchon of foie gras' with a spice bread crumble and guava. All served in a small planter. A bit kitsch on the presentation but should be fun.

Michael Ginor will be one of the 14 chefs featured at Savory Ever After, the Hawaii Food & Wine Festival finale held on the beach on the lagoon fronting the Aulani and the Ihilani. HUDSONVALLEYFOIEGRAS.COM • Twitter: @HudsonValleyFG

Dining Dish

If you know me, you know I love my happy hours, and you also know that Wolfgang's is one of my favorites, so I was thrilled to hear that they have extended it. They are now offering their $7 happy hour drinks and menu items from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., and no, that is not a typo. Happy hour now goes for seven and a half hours in one of Waikiki's top restaurants. I can see late lunches taking on a whole new dimension! 922-3600 • Adding more options to the social scene, Japengo has added a weekly ladies night to their menu. Specially priced cocktails and select menu items will be featured every Thursday night from 8 to 10 p.m. 237-6180. • They Hyatt's been busy as they added three new chefs last month. Local fave Jon Matsubara, most recently executive chef at Azure has taken over the helm at Japengo, while Hyatt chef Jake Andrews has been named chef-de-cuisine at Shor. Former Oahu Country Club Chef Dean Matsushita will be responsible for terrace and ballroom functions as well as overseeing the Kou Ballroom culinary team set to open later this year. Waikiki.hyatt.com • Lance Kosaka was recently named Executive Chef for Skybar Waikiki, the extravagant bar being designed on the 19th floor of the Waikiki Business Plaza. Now he has also been named Executive Chef for the Top of Waikiki and is in the process of a complete redevelopment and of the menu, add in more local flavors and ingredients make more items from scratch. Both restaurants are run by the same group of owners. 923-3877. • The Hard Rock Cafe has also brought on a new chef. Executive Chef Rey Baysal brings over 25 years of experience with him to spice up the menu. Remember Hard Rock offers twice daily happy hour from 3 to 7 p.m. and again from 9 p.m. to close with $4 beers, $5 wells and $6 wines. Kamaaina get 15% off all food just by showing ID. 955-7383. • For those of you looking for dim sum on the run, Canton Dim Sum has opened at Market City Shopping Center. Open from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, pieces start as low as $0.79. Order from what's available or call ahead for takeout at 735-1688. • 3660 on the Rise celebrates 21 years in business with a special menu featuring some of their all time favorites such as Steak Alaea, Chinese Steamed Fish with black bean broth or Shichimi Seared Breast of Chicken for only $36.60 from September 8 - 29. 737-1177. • Recently I was invited to Mari's Garden in Mililani to participate in a special dinner by Elmer Guzman of Poke Stop fame. This is not your typical tourist attraction but it was an amazing event and something all you 'foodies' should know about and let your more food-educated repeat guests in on. The event starts with a tour of their nursery and aquaponic farming. They are growing everything from herbs and lettuce to eggplant to blueberries and macadamia nuts to mango trees and farming fish. They are continually exploring how to better grow certified organic crops and the tour was both educational and interesting. This was followed by dinner in the garden on a beautiful table decorated with much of the produce around us that even had fish swimming underneath our plates! Chef Elmer created a delicious meal from which over 80% of the items were sourced on the farm. We were able to snip and serve our own greens for the salad and chef played with culinary boundaries with items like Star Anise Sous Vide Duck Breast w/ Foie Gras Caramel and Aku Bottarga. Limited to 24 people, the dinner is $90 (w/out wine) and $105 (w/wine) and happen once or twice a month. The next dinners take place September 14th and 29th. See more at chefelmer.com. ~Pam

FEATURED HIKE THIS MONTH

We continue to welcome input from those of you who get a chance to go try some of these hikes or others on your own. Please send us your reviews, information, and photos to: publisher@oahuconciierge.com.

THE DEAD MAN'S CAT WALK

This hike up to the Kamehame Ridge Trail is an easy hike with a steady incline that is entirely paved and gives hikers amazing views at the end. The trail entrance is a little difficult to find at the very end of Kamehame Drive in Hawaii Kai. Hop the fence and take and take the paved road all the way to the top. Once there, go through the gate if it's open or around it on the left if it is locked. The stairs (with railings) will be in the brush on the left and the catwalk is around one of the buildings on the right to the right. This is a launch location for paragliders and hang gliders and if you're patient, not only will you see amazing views of Makai Pier, Rabbit and Turtle Islands and Waimanalo all framed by the Ko'olau's but you could catch an exciting show as the gliders jump off the cat walk and soar away. Definitely one of Hawaii's hidden treasures.

NAME: Ewa Jachimczyk
COMPANY: Doubletree by Hilton Alana Waikiki
TITLE: GSA Supervisor

Congratulations Ewa! Nominated repeatedly by her coworkers this shining star leads by example and winning personality, and when all else fails - there are always those cookies! Just kidding, ok not really!

Q: How long have you been at the Doubletree?
A: I started at the Doubletree in 2005. This September it will be 8 years.

Q: How big is your team there?
A: We are lucky to have 9 at the Front Desk.

Q: How did you come to work in the industry?
A: I've always wanted to have my own bed and breakfast and working at a hotel to gain experience seemed like a perfect match.

Q: What do you think makes your desk unique?
A: We have a great team each with their own strengths, different backgrounds, and unique perspectives all working together to provide our guests with great service and helping them to have a memorable time here in Hawaii. We also have the amazing Doubletree chocolate chip walnut cookie!

Q: What's the biggest perk of being a concierge?
A: I think becoming aware of and personally experiencing so many of the great activities, restaurants and services that our community has to offer has been such a fun and great experience and valuable tool in my position.

Q: What do you think is the one skill that a good concierge has to have to succeed?
A: Being able to multitask as well as having a good memory is a definite must have! Knowing your resources & creative thinking is essential for success.

Q: What's been your biggest challenge at the desk?
A: Time! With all the hats we wear at the front desk time always seems to be in demand. We would love to be able to give all the options and suggestions to our guests but unfortunately that isn't possible.

Q: Any stories of memorable guests you can share?
A: We've had many guests that have come back year after year that we've grown close to. Recently one of these guests retired and wasn't going to be coming to Honolulu anymore. The team got together and had a potluck with him. He was very touched and appreciative. Even though he doesn't visit anymore we still keep in touch via phone calls, emails, etc.

Q: What's a favorite restaurant to recommend?
A: For fine dining I like sending guests to Bali Steak and Seafood. The food, atmosphere, and service are all top notch. I also like sending guests to Side Street Inn for local food, and Tenkaippin for ramen.

Q: If a guest only has one day on the island, what would you suggest they do?
A: I really love recommending the Polynesian Cultural Center. It is such a special and unique place that really gives visitors a wonderful and memorable experience that you can't find anywhere else.

Q: What question do you hear time and again?
A: I think it would have to be anything relating to Pearl Harbor: How do you get there? When does it open? How much time does it take to get there? Can I buy tickets in advance? Etc, etc, etc..

Q: Are you from the islands originally?
A: My family comes from opposite sides of the ocean. I was born in Poland, moved to Japan as a little child, raised in Massachusetts, and came to Hawaii after attending college in Utah. I've lived here ever since.
