The Significance Of Having A Family and Tayo Adedeji's Wedding Celebration with his wife, Olajumoke Adedeji in Lagos, Nigeria

Note From The Founder/Editor: Tayo Adedeji

During the season of Thanksgiving and Christmas, many family members will gather around and fellowship with each other. Some members may have been away from home for a few years and will use this opportunity to reconnect. Communicating and touching base with your family helps you to grow personally because they know how to motivate and encourage you to move forward with personal and professional goals.

Being a part of a family is very important in our lives because a family can be a wonderful source of support. When you have a family bond, they can help you deal with the issues of life and resolve problems. They can also provide you with the love, resources, and encouragement you need to become successful in life.

I thank God for my family because they have supported me in many ways during my past 20 years as a businessman. In 2013 while attending a Wednesday night Bible Study at Faith Temple Church of God located in Kalamazoo, MI, I experienced a "Brain Aneurysm" and required urgent brain surgery. This was one of the most difficult times in my life and my family supported and assisted me in every way possible. Their words of encouragement, advice, and moral support helped me stay positive and focused as I recovered from that traumatic event. I know I wouldn't be celebrating 20 successful years as a businessman and 10 productive years as a brain aneurysm survivor without the love and support of my family.

Prior to Jeff Bezos founding Amazon.com in 1994, he worked as a hedge fund manager on wall street while starting his e-commerce business. Eventually, he took a risk and worked for his business full-time with the encouragement of his family. His parents loaned him $300,000 to establish his company. Without the support of his family, Bezos would not have accomplished his goal to create a thriving e-commerce business.

I prayed to God to lead me to my ordained mate because I want to start a family. It was very difficult to accomplish that task because the Holy Spirit showed me a description of who she may be. When I ran out of options, I again sought God's guidance through prayer and fasting and asked my family to assist me in choosing the right mate. I also made a list of what I was searching for in a woman. With much fasting, prayer and having patience, I was led to my wife.

Getting married to my wife is the best decision I have made as an adult. Although being married takes a lot of work, compromise, and patience, it feels great when you are with the right person. The actual work in marriage begins as you learn to live together as one.
