Around 2,500 lights adorn the massive Christmas tree that towers over Munich's Marienplatz, fronting the Neo-Gothic town hall. But there's more to do than snap pictures for your friends back home. At this cheery market, festive activities like a Krampus Run (where around 300 runners dressed in the scary costumes tear through the city) and a Christkindl tram with mulled wine offered on board are popular with both locals and visitors. Though it's only been held in Marienplatz since 1972, the market's roots are said to date back to the 14th century.

December 6, 2024 - Nuremberg

We will depart our hotel this morning for Nuremberg.

Why we love it: The Nuremberg Christkindlesmarkt is one of the oldest and most well known Christmas markets in the world—a staple of the city since 1530. This little city of wood and cloth pops up every year at the market in the central square of Nuremberg's old town, the Hauptmarkt, where you can expect such goodies as handmade Christmas decorations, Spekulatius almond cookies, Lebkuchen (honey-sweetened German pastries), mulled wine, and more Nuremberg gingerbread than any one person can handle. The market also goes global in a cool way: Nuremberg's 13 sister cities—Antalya, Glasgow, and Prague among them—are featured in the Sister Cities' Market, just north of the Christkindlesmarkt on the Rathausplatz, and their proceeds go to charity in their cities back home.
