

A Martian's view of Earth

Far far away
In time and space
There was a land
For the human race

They called it earth
I don't know why
All you could see
Was sea and sky

There used to be flowers
And animals too
But the people there
Caught some kind of flu

Some deadly virus
Went everywhere
It was on the ground
And in the air

That virus killed
Billions of lives
And now it's the planet
Where no one survives

I visited once
But never again
I didn't like
The cold and rain
