

A DIVER SEES RED.
(A WHITER SHADE OF PALE by PROCUL HAREM)

MUSICAL INTRO

He fell down like Ronaldo
Landed on his derriere.
The crowd were bayin' for a foul
And yellin' 'He must go!'
They were shoutin' even louder
As the ref., he waved away
All cries of foul and penalty
As still, that diver lay.

And so it was the full-back,
Came to tell the ref. his tale,
As his face at first, just ghostly
Said 'It is beyond the pale'.

MUSICAL INTERLUDE.

He cried, 'there was no reason
To writhe and fall around'
So the ref. took out a straight red card,
Pointed firmly at the ground

The diver he was sanctioned
Sent off from the field of play

The ref's eyes, they had been open
While the home fans eyes were closed.

And so it was that later
As the game, it carried on
And the home team let in another goal
They blamed the referee.

MUSICAL INTERLUDE

But when the game was over
As the full-back told his tale.
'It was for the sake of everyone,
True justice cannot fail.'

MUSICAL INTERLUDE

And so it was that later
As fairness came to pass
That fans from all around the land
Cried, 'Justice, here at last'.
