

THE TRUTH

Just when the world turned upside down
And tears were shed upon the ground
The blame was cast upon corona
But why, but how, who was the owner?

Wuhan, the Chinese, they're the ones
Who've taken our beloved sons
And daughters too, they both are gone
And we are left, lost, on our own.

But wait, let's think who told the lie
Who said that very few would die?
Who used the phrase linked to a hoax
To please his ego with more strokes.

Who claimed his nation would suffer little
To save an ego that's oh, so brittle,
Who said, 'No masks? Please blame another,
It just ain't me, you know that, brother.'

We want to live, we need to laugh
To keep us on that good, strong path
To pray, to thank the NHS
Who keep us well, and from sure death.

Who put themselves in mortal danger
To save, protect a ne'er met stranger,
They are our heroes, that we know clearly,
Cos they, not Trump, they love us dearly.
