

The People's Princess

She was chosen for her beauty,
For her breeding, for her smile
No-one knew what she'd become
With confidence and style

Not staying in the background
A mother and a wife
But taking up the causes
Others shrank from in this life

Raising our awareness
Making headline news
Living in the limelight
In smart designer shoes

Bur fairy tales don't always work
They went their separate ways
To follow different destinies
In the public gaze

She had the power to do such good
Not long upon the scene
But she will be remembered
For what she might have been
