

A Wave In the Ocean

Picture the ocean if you will See the sunlight dancing upon ripples Feel the salty breeze brush against your cheek Hear its roar in your very core A boundless mysterious wonder
The very essence of life.

Now picture a wave in the ocean
See it in your mind's eye
A powerful arm rising out of the sea Reaching up towards the sky
See how the light refracts as it passes through Feel its spray as it gains height
You can see it hear it feel it taste it.

It's a wave
Emerging briefly as a separate entity
Before it crashes on the shore
And returns to its watery form
As it merges back into the sea Where it came from Where it belongs.

You, too, are a wave
You may be the most beautiful powerful awe-inspiring remarkable

Wave in the ocean
But one day your wave
Will merge in the ocean of existence
And return once more someday somewhere
On a different shore.