Project

Programming course

In November, all groups finished learning Microsoft Word and started learning Microsoft PowerPoint.

We managed to create animated images, presentations of different levels of complexity, and a group of teenagers who studied the program at a professional level got experience creating tests in different ways.

The teenagers also learned the skill of animating cartoon characters, which made it possible to create short videos. In turn, a group of seniors created animated quizzes. Purpose: Familiarization with the basics of working in the PowerPoint program, creating presentations, designing and animating slides.

Main topics and activities:

1. Introduction to PowerPoint
2. Formatting and design
3. Multimedia elements
4. Animation and transitions
5. Working with tables and diagrams
6. Saving and showing presentations

Project

Programming course

In December we finished learning Powerpoint and created greeting cards using the skills we learned.

All groups actively work on the skill of fast writing on the Typing.study website.

3 groups of children familiarized themselves with the TuxPaint editor

Getting to know the basics

- Language Syntax: Students will gain an overview of the syntax of the Python language, including the rules for creating variables, using strings, numeric values, logical operators, and more.
- First programs: For practical consolidation of knowledge, students wrote their first simple programs, such as programs for outputting text, calculating mathematical expressions, and interacting with the user through the console.

Main topics and activities:

1. Introduction to Tux Paint
2. Working with colors and filling
3. Use of graphic tools
4. Adding effects and animations
5. Saving and presentation of works

Polish and English language course

Today, the Center employs 6 teachers. Language learning is available for children and adults. Priority is given to offline classes, but there is also the possibility of online classes
