

Schmidt's Sausage Shop, 1035 Eisenhower Blvd., Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 2020

Schmidt's Sausage Shop in Harrisburg (formerly in Steelton) has been a fixture in the region since 1961.

It's been over 50 years since Henry Schmidt made his first sausages in Steelton, PA. Fresh meats and all-natural spices and flavorings were the secret of his recipe, when he handcrafted his German-Hungarian sausage. Schmidt's soon became famous for delectable fresh and smoked meat products. His daughter Mary Ann took over the business in 1975. Today, Henry's grandsons Doug and Don Jorich, proudly carry on their tradition of quality.

Schmidt's moved from their original location in Steelton to Eisenhower Blvd., in Harrisburg in June 2012. The new building looked surprisingly similar to the older one, just larger by about one third.

This is what the "old" Schmidt's looked like the day before the move.
