

'Red, Hot, Blue' opens Sunday at Town Dock

"Red, Hot and Blue," a musical comedy presented by the Teen Summer Theater, will open this Sunday, Aug. 18, at 8 p.m. at Town

Dock. About 50 local junior and senior high school students will participate. Past productions by the group have been "Anything Goes," and "Bye, Bye Birdie."

Stars of "Red, Hot and Blue" are Michele Britton, Mark Mastrocinqe, Lynn Groskinsky, Robert Fieldsteel, Rosemary Pierce, and John Brull. It is presented as part of the expanded summer concert series of North Hempstead Town's Department of Parks and Recreation, with the co-sponsorship of the Port Washington Play Troupe and local residents and businessmen.

Other performances will be in Manorhaven Park on Monday, Aug. 19, and Friday, Aug. 23; at Clinton Martin Park on Saturday, Aug. 24; and again at Town Dock on Sunday, Aug. 25. All performances begin at 8 p.m.

The show is directed and produced by Pamela and Ron Meadows, and the musical director is David Barnett.

"Red, Hot and Blue," written by Cole Porter, Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, was first presented on the Broadway stage in 1936 and starred Ethel Merman, Bob Hope, and Jimmy Durante. Originally very long, it has been revised and adapted by Mrs. Meadows and Fieldsteel.

Instrumental in gaining town assistance for the production were Councilman Jerome Weinstein, June Mackey, and Amy Pett. Rehearsals have been at the Port Lutheran Church of Our Savior.
