SYNOPSIS

The Boy Friend is set in the South of France at Madame Dubonnet's School for Young Ladies in the roaring 1920s. Maisie and the girls live with Madame Dubonnet and her saucy maid, Hortense. As the show begins, Hortense orders a costume for "a Miss Polly Browne" and Maisie and the other girls, Dulcie, Nancy, and Fay, interrupt to sing "Perfect Young Ladies." Polly arrives and tells everyone about her boyfriend, who is "motoring down from Paris" to meet her for the upcoming carnival ball. This turns into a musical celebration of "that certain thing called the boy friend." Only later do we learn that Polly's boyfriend is imaginary.

Polly's widowed father, Percy, then arrives at the school, only to discover that the headmistress is an old flame of his. Polly, though a millionaire's daughter, continues feeling left out because she is the only one of her set who does not have a boyfriend. Maisie's boyfriend, Bobby, is even on the verge of proposing. However, when the errand boy, Tony, arrives to deliver her Pierrette costume, they are immediately attracted to each other, and sing "I Could Be Happy With You."

Later, the flirtatious Lord Brockhurst and his uptight wife arrive on the scene, leading to more shenanigans and even the threat of lost love. Ultimately, all is resolved in true musical comedy fashion, with dancing, marriage proposals, and everyone sure to live happily ever after.

The Port Summer Show would like to thank all the parent volunteers for their efforts on behalf of this production and the company of "The Boy Friend." It would not be possible to run this production without you.

Love forever and always,
BUBBA

Katie,

Your devotion to theater, diversity of roles, wit, and professionalism have impressed us throughout the years. With time, each of us has joys and disappointments. Each summer our joy has been watching you perform on stage, singing, dancing, convincing us of a different but very real place. In your final Summer Show (as an actor), warm thoughts of past shows are rekindled as you perform. Our family has gained so much by our involvement in these annual adventures. And, just think, it started as the promise of a dream for a little girl. Your ability to let emotions flow from your face, your body, your feet and your voice will be valuable tools in the future. We love you and are confident that "A Whole New World" of even bigger things are yet to come....
