About our guest teacher:

Linda Mae Dennis

Linda Mae Dennis was born and raised in Alberta, Canada, and first ventured into tap dancing at age five. After moving around with her family to California and Texas, she became a professional Tap dancer in her early 20s, and toured with Austin on Tap Dance Theater for several years.

Upon retiring from touring, she began to partake liberally of the vibrant Scottish Country Dance Culture in Texas, attending lots of workshops and dances. In 2002 she moved with her husband, Patrick, to the Pacific Northwest.

She attended her first TAC Summer School in 2003, where she got the teaching bug. After a lot of hard (but supremely fun) work, she attained her Prelim in 2005 and her Full Certificate in 2007. In the meantime, she took some Cape Breton Dance lessons, and started a "Celtic Tap" class in Vancouver, WA, teaching that along with Scottish Country Dance classes in Portland, OR, Stevenson, WA, and Vancouver, WA. Her current teaching schedule is slightly less strenuous.

Linda Mae taught her first workshop in Lethbridge, Alberta. Since then she has taught workshops in Washington, Oregon, California, Texas, and British Columbia, Canada, and was very excited to be invited to teach in Dublin, Ireland in 2015.

Professionally, Linda Mae is a free-lance graphics and textiles artist, now semi-retired. She is also a flourishing tenor drummer in three bagpipe bands, and a part-time drum major for one of them, and a Master Gardener, mostly volunteering in the 1845 garden at Fort Vancouver.

A Scottish Heart

has been teaming up with Bend's Scottish dancers since 1994. The two groups have developed their arts, as well as community awareness of Scottish dancing and culture. Fiddle, piano, and bodhran, plus the occasional bagpipe, and penny whistle, makes foot-stepping tunes and rhythms come to life in dancers' feet. Band members are: Irene Goodnight and Becky Duncan from Bend, and Steve Allely from Sisters.

About our guest musician:

Steve Scott

Steve Scott, an original member of A Scottish Heart, joins us again from Cheyenne Wyoming, where he has taught orchestra for the last 15 years. Steve continues to play with the band as often as possible, while keeping busy as a tune-writer, musician and instructor at fiddle camps.
