2001 EFL PRE-SEASON ADVANCE

All 14 teams in the two conference Eastern Football league are looking forward to the League's debut early in July (see schedule for openers) New team is Eastern Mass Mavericks of Woburn who were last year's champions of the NEFL

It appears that the star studded Marlboro Shamrocks are again the team to beat this season. The Sham's coach, Bob Brennan, is on a roll, having directed his team to 10 consecutive EFL Championships.

Marlboro has many returnees which gives them all around balance and depth. However, there are some teams that could surprise, and be strong contenders One that comes to mind is the Quincy Granites. The Granites were a new entry in the Eastern Football League last year, and finished the season with a 6-4 record

Quincy should be greatly improved over last year, having a big turn out for this season, and especially, having a large amount of players from last year's roster back again for this season

Basically, the other teams in the league to watch include Middleboro Cobras, the Randolph Oilers, Mass Havoc, the Clinton Irish Blizzard and the Springfield Blitzin' Bears, and the Rhode Island Prowlers

Clinton, Springfield, and the Rhode Island Prowlers have improved over last year's squads. And all could be in the hunt. These teams have had good turnouts, and have picked up some players from other teams in the league.

Middleboro is always a threat and has had the most success against the Marlboro Shamrocks. Middleboro is known for its offense, and, more importantly, its strong defense. It has had a number of second place finishes in the league.

Randolph could be another sleeper in the run for this year's title, the Oilers lost some close and tough games last year with 3 to 6 points being the difference.
