

Putting It Together | Quality Management Takes a Connection

Putting it together is about connecting the dots...

It's about introspection

It's about self-awareness and self-discovery

It's about interdependence

For a company it's about;

- Commitment to shared goals,

- Jointly developed structure,

- Shared responsibility,

- Mutual authority,

- Accountability,

- Collective frames of reference and consensus building,

- Sharing resources; risks and rewards

Cooperation between people

Collaboration as a team

To achieve it, it's about ...

an on-going conversation and developing relationships, connecting people, processes and products, constant improvement from within ourselves, and with each other,

a greater purpose.
