will be there sharing their talents. There will be pottery, photography, plants, jewelry, fiber arts and more!

Little Free Library

There's a new child-centered Little Free Library at the Royal Road Park. Retired schoolteacher Anna Sabate initiated this project to encourage a love of reading in elementary-aged children. She beautifully painted the box. Robert "Tully" Keith donated his woodworking skills to build a post and mount the box. Check out his planters if you drive down Segovia Road. SASIA supported this project and helped fund getting the library registered and installed. Anna and Ingrid Jones will act as the stewards for the library. They welcome primary K-2 level books to add to the collection. Email info@staugsouth.com if you have some to donate. There are now five Little Free Libraries in St. Augustine South. Libraries are located on Wisteria, Segovia, Argonaut, and now two on Royal Road. Information about Little Free Libraries can be found at littlefreelibrary.org/.

You can nominate your house or your neighbors by emailing info@staugsouth.com. Nominations are due by December 13th and judging will be on Friday, December 15th. We will email and post a map of the houses participating so SAS residents can vote for their favorites! Winners will be announced at our December community meeting.
