

ASK WATER SERVICE FOR EAST RAHWAY

DELEGATION APPEARS BEFORE THE BOROUGH COUNCIL AT ITS MEETING LAST NIGHT AND URGES ACTION TO RELIEVE PRESENT WATER SITUATION.

IMPROVEMENT PETITIONS RECEIVED

Say Lack of Water Hampers Progress and Building—Remonstrance Is Received Against Erection of Factory at Washington and High Streets—Bus Situation Again Discussed.

A meeting of the borough council was held last night. Present at the session were Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill, Councilmen Samuel Brown, Joseph C. Child, Hercules Ellis, Frank Andres and Borough Clerk H. V. O. Platt. Because of illness, Councilman Charles A. Phillips was absent.

A delegation of residents from the East Rahway section appeared before the council and urged to take some action to provide East Rahway with water pressure. Spokesmen for the delegation were of the opinion that the town fathers should build a municipal water system in view of the fact that the Middlesex Water Company is consistently refusing to expand its water mains to that district. A plea for immediate action was made.

Russel Miles, agent for the Canda properties also came personally before the council on the water question. He said that he had made efforts to get water connections on properties located on Pershing avenue and that while the company at one time promised to make connections, setting fees at $35 and $25 respectively for each connection, it has now declared that no taps would be made at this time.

Mr. Miles believed that the water company may make all necessary connections should the borough purchase the company's bonds, the money thus raised to be used for extension work in the borough.

Mayor Mulvihill said that the borough is confronted with a big legal battle with the company, although he and the council are doing their utmost to relieve the pressing need for water pressure.

The mayor gave assurance that the council will see that something is done at once. A copy of the delegation's complaints will be forwarded to the water company and Utilities Commission.

Real estate men told the council that their clients refuse to accept lot sold to them because of laxity of water.

Councilman Child said that the borough could legitimately finance a water project.

A letter was received from the Perth Amboy Gas Company advising that a survey will be made of Wheeler avenue to determine whether there can be enough business procured to warrant the making extensions on that street.

A petition was received from residents of Union street urging the council to construct a pavement on that street on motion of Councilman Andres, the engineer and attorney were authorized to prepare the necessary ordinances. Another petition for curbs and sidewalks was also received. It will take the same course.

HERMANN LEADS PARTY'S TICKET

Consents To Run After Dramatic Mass Meeting of Democratic Party In Their Headquarters Last Friday Night.

W. D. CASEY FOR ASSESSORSHIP

Messrs Child, Brady and Misdom Among Others On the Local Ticket—Petitions Are Filed With the Borough Clerk.

Former Mayor Joseph A. Hermann was finally persuaded by the Democrats of the borough to lead the borough ticket this fall. When at the eleventh hour all hope was given up to have Mr. Hermann as a candidate, pleas from some of the old time friends of his, changed the situation. At a mass meeting Friday night, Mr. Hermann seeing the refusal of other candidates to accept the nominations and instigated by the many women, accepted to run as opponent to Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill. The session was most dramatic. The candidate was hailed, applauded and the old time spirit was revived. The entire ticket was completed within a few minutes after Hermann's acceptance, the gathering promising him loyalty and earnest effort to work for the party. The ticket follows: For mayor, Joseph A. Hermann; for assessor, William D. Casey; for collector, Charles A. Brady; for three year term councilmen, Joseph C. Child and Samuel Brown; for one year term councilman, William Misdom; for justices of the peace, Dennis Fitzgerald and Stephen Szymanski.

Petitions for the candidates were filed with Borough Clerk H. V. O. Platt a few minutes before midnight on Friday.

Wasn't Feeling Well, Man Coughs Up Lizard

Houlton, Maine.—Herb Tealing of this place has just gone through an experience he does not care to have repeated. For the last few weeks he has not been feeling in the best of health and complained of something in his stomach, which seemed to be crawling and for which he could not account. He had been losing his appetite and was hardly able to walk.

The other morning he had a coughing spell and a live lizard was coughed up. For a time Mr. Tealing was ill at ease, but he has begun to recover. He thinks he must have swallowed the lizard while drinking alongside the road somewhere.

DARING BOY SCOUT SAVES GIRL'S LIFE

Rescues Her from Wheels of Elevated Train.

New York.—One of Manhattan's crowded subways recently saw a woman saved from death through an alert and fearless scout good turn.

While standing on the Wall Street station early one Saturday afternoon, Scout John H. Jehens, Jr., of Troop 5, Babylon, L. I., noticed a young woman perilously near the edge of the platform and swaying dizzily. She seemed to be trying to move back, but was unable to take any steps. At this moment, as the train came rushing towards the station, the young woman lost complete control of her strength, and would have lunged forward to the tracks, had not the scout jumped to her side, and grabbed her. The weight of the falling woman, however, pulled the pair over the platform. They fell to the side of the track, and landed against the end of the first car. To save the girl and himself from being caught in the wheels or dragged, the boy reached for the lattice at the end of the first car. His clothes were caught in the coupling and torn. He himself was dragged a short distance, but he managed to keep the girl from slipping to the tracks.

When the train came to a standstill, the scout steadied himself and started to lift the woman to safety. Willing hands lent aid in bringing the fainting victim into the car. The boy aided in helping revive the patient. As she was regaining consciousness her nose began to bleed. The boy, applying his first aid training, stopped the bleeding.

At Fourteenth street the girl got off the train to meet an acquaintance who was awaiting her there. The boy went on his way quietly, without even disclosing his name.

The next day the girl's father wrote a special letter of appreciation to the National Boy Scout office, and enclosed the scout's registration card, which had dropped from his pocket in the strenuous rescue, and, when picked up by a bystander, had been placed in the girl's bag by mistake.

Woman Throws Dog to Stop Motor Policeman

Rochester, N. Y.—According to the evidence brought out when Mrs. Clara Nelligan, twenty-seven years old, was arraigned before Judge Kohlmets, Motorcycle Patrolman Louth had an interesting time when he arrested her the day before. She was accused of operating an automobile while intoxicated. She pleaded not guilty.

Louth motorcycled after the woman following her collision with Joseph Pruter, fifty-five, who was sweeping the street in Clinton avenue north, near Marietta street, where the woman is alleged to have run him down. When the motorcycle officer called to her to stop, she answered him by "stepping on the gas." The officer steadily gained on her car and just as he came abreast of it he got the surprise of his life when, he claims, the woman suddenly threw her Alce-dale dog at him. Overcoming his slight discomfort, he renewed the chase, but Mrs. Nelligan finally decided to stop and argue the matter with him. The patrol wagon was summoned and she was driven to headquarters. The dog, being temporarily forgotten, followed the "blue taxi" and was there to greet his mistress when she alighted, assisted by the attendant and was escorted to a freshly dusted cell.

Then the police faced the great problem of what to do with the dog. There was no charge against him, unless it was creating a disturbance by his barking, but even so where were they to house the canine? The situation was finally met by one of the motorcycle officers loading the dog into his side-car and conveying him to the Nelligan domicile.

Find Watch Long Lost

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Twenty-two years ago—"way back in 1902"—Jewett Dyer, Wilkes-Barre business man, had a gold watch stolen from him in Baltimore. The watch was valued at $200. He reported the theft to the police, but never heard of it again.

Recently he received a letter through the local police from the chief of police in Baltimore, saying they had recovered his watch and asking him to identify it. Dyer did so and has become an enthusiastic booster for all police departments and their efficiency.

Through the Glad Eyes of a Woman

By JANE DOE

THEY LOVED BECAUSE—

SHE offered to darn all his socks every week, even though she hated darning.

He took her arm and piloted her across streets that any chicken could have ventured without any danger whatsoever.

She wanted to marry him right away without waiting till he got a better position.

He never looked twice at any other pretty girl and preferred her everyday conversation to the most scintillating wit.

She was horribly upset when he sneezed more than three times.

He always gave a sigh of relief when they were left alone, even if they said nothing for a whole hour.

She couldn't eat any breakfast if there wasn't a letter from him.

He talked over everything with her and made her realize she wasn't to be a mere cypher in his life, but a life partner.

She was always messing about in the kitchen making him dainty dishes.

He didn't talk all his love, but tried to live it.

She carried his photo in her wrist watch, one in her pocketbook, had another in her bedroom and was peevish because the family said that was more than plenty and wouldn't have him in the parlor as well.

He saw in her the one woman of his life, and having seen told her so and then proceeded to make himself the one man of her life.

She snubbed us when we pointed out he was by no means perfect, and told us that she loved him because he was himself; not because of his virtues, which, of course, settled it.

AND THAT'S WHY THEY ARE BOTH LOOKING FORWARD TO A HAPPY-FOR-EVER-AFTER KIND OF MARRIAGE.

WASN'T FOR SLEEPER

Mr. Whaley is a very light sleeper, one who is easily awakened and is a long time getting to sleep.

One night, not long ago, while traveling through New York state he was obliged to stop at a suburban hotel and, after much tossing about, he finally succeeded in getting into a sound sleep. In answer to loud, repeated knocks on his door, he nervously sat bolt upright in bed.

"What's wanted?" he grumbled.

"Package down stairs for you, sir."

"Well, let it stay there; it can wait till morning, I suppose."

The boy shuffled down the corridor and after a long time the guest fell into a sound sleep again. Then another knock came at the door.

"Well, what's up now?" queried Mr. Whaley.

"Tain't for you, that package!"

HELPFUL HINTS

The leather cushions of chairs and couches may be treated with the ordinary tan or black shoe dressing, the cleanser and the polishing wax. Rub it in with vigor and scratches and stains will disappear, the leather be preserved and made to look like new.

A large pink-lined sea shell filled with earth will hold a bunch of pansies or violets, making a beautiful gift for a sick friend. Even a small fern will find a pleasant home in such a receptacle.

House ferns if set in a pan of quite warm water once a week will put forth new fronds very soon. Water ferns or any plant with water used to rinse meat—if that is ever done in your household. If a damp cloth is used, which is the best method for wiping meat, rinse it in soft water and use the water on the plants.

Use any small amounts of paint left over to paint the inside of the garbage can. It will keep it from rusting.

To mend oilcloth, linoleum or congoletum that has become cracked, place a strip of adhesive tape under the broken edges, bringing them together, then put under a weight to dry.

When removing wall paper, wet with a thin paste—it will not dry so quickly as clear water and the paper quickly peels when scraped.

Rugs that turn up at the corners may be moistened with thick starch. When rugs slip and slide, sew strips of old rubber to the sides or corners.

Casters which drop out of furniture may be made to stay by pouring hot paraffin into the socket and then replacing the caster while the paraffin is hot.

Leftover pancakes may be broken into bits and added to the next day's griddle cake batter, improving the mixture. Added to scrambled eggs it makes a good sapper dish.

Renew old brushes after washing by dipping them into strong alum water. An old wire hairbrush is a fine thing to use to comb the carpet sweeper brush.

TOOTH-SOME DISHES

A DELICIOUS dessert which will delight the children is:

Figs and Lemon Jelly Custard.

Pour boiling water over a pound of figs and boil rapidly until the figs are tender. Add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and simmer to form a sirup. Set aside to chill. Soften a package of lemon gelatin or prepare the gelatin and lemon juice, if preferred, adding sugar to taste. Pour into a pan to make a sheet about three-fourths of an inch thick. When chilled, cut into cubes. Set the figs with the sirup in sherbet cups, arrange around them cubes of jelly and pour over all a cold cooked custard.

Caramel Marshmallow Parfait.

Cut twenty marshmallows into four pieces each; add one-third of a cupful of maraschino cherries cut into thin slices; cover with the sirup and let them stand for an hour. Cook two-thirds of a cupful of sugar to a caramel, adding two-thirds of a cupful of water; cook until the caramel is well-melted and add two tablespoonfuls of sugar; pour, when dissolved and still hot, over a stiffly-beaten egg; beat until cold. Fold in the marshmallows and cherries and one and one-half cupfuls of cream, beaten stiff. Turn into a melon mold, cover with paper and pack in ice and salt, using equal measures. Let stand for three hours.

Scotch Shortbread.

Beat one cupful of butter to a cream; add one-half cupful of light brown sugar, then work in four cupfuls of pastry flour. If the flour is warmed slightly it will work better. Form the mixture into cakes seven inches in diameter. Prick with a fork and crimp the edges with the thumb and finger. Sprinkle the top with chopped cherries, caraway candies or preserved citron. Bake in a slow oven.

To Give Better Service to Electric and Gas Customers

New System of Meter Reading, Bill Delivering, and Accounting to be put into effect by Public Service—Will Be Started in Newark District October 1st and Extended Gradually to Other Districts Served by Company During November, December and January.

Will Promote Convenience; Prevent Delays

Now all meters are read the latter part of each month. It is proposed to distribute this work, together with billing and accounting, evenly throughout the whole month. Thus more attention can be given in individual cases, where necessary, congestion will be avoided and customers' time will be saved.

Under the new plan, customers will receive their bills monthly within a few days—instead of ten days or two weeks—after meters are read, thus enabling them to keep a closer check on consumption of electricity and gas, and make more timely comparisons of bills with their household or business budget.

With More Than a Million Electric and Gas Customers, New Plan is Necessary

A feature of the new system that will appeal to many customers who use both gas and electricity on the same premises will be the use of a single itemized bill, instead of two bills each month as at present, to cover the two services.

The change will involve certain variations in the delivery date of bills, according to the routes on which customers are located; also in the period covered by the bills rendered during the month in which the change is made.

Customers whose accounts are to be transferred to the new system in October, instead of receiving their September bills between the first and sixth days of October as ordinarily, will receive their bills for September consumption in September, within a few days after their meters are read.

October bills for such customers will be rendered at various dates in October, depending on the dates of meters are read under the new system.

Our desire at all times is to furnish the best possible service to our customers. The adoption of this proposed new system is in keeping with that policy. Although upwards of one million separate accounts must be handled, we are preparing to make the change with a minimum of confusion or trouble to customers and to that end we respectfully ask the indulgence and co-operation of those whom we serve.

Oriental Designs O. K'd for Season

Bizarre Figures, Vivid Hues Distinguish New Crepes and Chiffons.

The difference between the modes of spring and summer are, of course, not as fundamental as the changes which occur in the autumn and spring, except for the question of fabrics, where distinctions are sharply drawn, declares a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. And the most obvious and assured trend of the new summer materials is toward printed silks—a trend inspired by the severity of the masculine tailleur, which requires the most vivid colorings and effects to provide an occasional relief note.

The design and color of the summer fabrics go back to the cradle of silk civilization for their inspiration. They show the strong influence of China and the East as foreshadowed at the Chinese Grand Prix ball in Paris. Turkish and Arabian motifs, Spanish and primitive African art are crowded for the first place by the most exquisite designs of the empire.

The strongest note in the 1924 printed silks is the traverse or horizontal movement of the design. This is noticeable whether it occurs in the small patterns or in the large repeats. Perhaps this traverse or barre effect is responsible for the mode of scarfs, for the Parisian couturiers are very fond of cutting these silks into the long scarfs with which the gown is trimmed.

From the Riviera indications are that the greatest demand of the summer mode will be for materials in which the designs are made up of very small units distributed over the cloth, both as to color and design, so that from a distance the fabric seems to be almost plain. From so many patterns it is difficult to select those of particular merit, but decidedly the most original are the woodcut motifs. In these an entirely new technique—that of the wood engraver—is introduced into the silk design, with the result that the flat-surfaced fabric resembles a pile material.

Other striking prints are those of the flowered Persian type, an adaptation of certain of the East Indian and Persian designs embodied in new French patterns. Here one finds much variegated coloring and the printed figures wander all over the surface, almost covering the background.

An important note is the polka dot which is distinctly modish this season, although old-fashioned almost to the point of being classic. It appears in brilliant yellow-tans with brown spots, or vice versa, as well as in odd combinations of mauve. It is always monotone and never in white with color.

Printed plaids are quite as important as the woven effects and even more interesting colorings are obtained in these than in the yarn-dyed patterns. This type of printing is confined to crepe de chine and chiffon.

Somali Fond of Song

Musical instruments—even the tom-tom, so dear to the heart of most African natives—are unknown to the Somali, who, none the less, take great pleasure in singing and dancing. Their songs are not by any means casual chants but have special significance, and are applicable to certain occasions. For example, there is a "Song of Thanksgiving for the finding of water, after a long journey," and songs for the loading and unloading of caravans, but most of their music is of a religious nature; and there is a "Song of Burial," sung when the 20-foot mound is raised above the remains of a chief and fenced around with a strong palisade of logs placed transversely between stout posts. Of all their dances the Somali place the war dance first.

Lost Talent

A great deal of talent is lost in the world for the want of a little courage. Every day sends to their graves a number of obscure men who have only remained in obscurity because their timidity has prevented them from making a first effort; and who, if they could have been induced to begin, would in all probability have gone great lengths in the career of fame. The fact is that, to do anything in world worth doing, we must not back shrink and thinking cold and danger, but jump and scramble through as well as Rev. Sydney Smith.

WIDE-BRIM HATS FEATURE IN THE SUMMER COLLECTION

AFTER all the "to be or not to be" discussion in regard to wide brims, the question is at last settled, and to the joy of the "summer girl," in the affirmative. Not only is there a plentiful showing of large drooping shapes throughout the summer collection of French models, but picturesque leghorns and transparent hair bodies are especially featured by American designers of the hat beautiful.

Black chantilly lace as fine as fragile cobweb forms the unique scarf which so gracefully drapes the wide-brimmed hat shown at the top of the accompanying millinery group. This model of both picturesque and style appeal is of the new canvas straw, bleached very white to accord with the glistening snow-white lace-covered satin which scarfs it so charmingly.

The applique flowers covering the crown of the huge chiffon-brimmed hat to the right present a color study which can be credited to the creative genius of no other than an artist born. Artcraft as applied to handmade flowers and fantasies is an outstanding note of millinery designing. The vogue for ostrich is in the ascendency. Pastel ostrich in rainbow effects is one of the delights of this summer's millinery. It is the placement of lovely ostrich plumage all over the crown and part of the brim, which gives so entrancing an aspect to the mauve transparent hair hat portrayed to the small circle in this group.

Even the fascination of such lovely large picture hats as are here shown fail to dislodge the little cloche from its pedestal of fame. There is irresistible coquetry in the demure brim of a bonnet such as is shown to the right herewith. Powder blue pyroxiline braid and gay printed silk combine in the making of this naive model with a cluster of mother of pearl disks to complete its ensemble.

The other bonnet owes its effectiveness to its unique trim of narrow moire ribbon. JULIA BOTTOMLEY. (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

Smart Summer Frock of Blue and Black Crepe

Here is an appealing little summer frock of printed crepe in blue and black, with panels of red and green embroidery, with a scarf to match.

We often hear that Peter Minnet, in 1623 paid the Indians only $24 for Manhattan Island. We are apt to think of this as a ridiculously small sum for what is today the most valuable piece of land of its size in the world; but we do not stop to think that if this original $24 had been invested by Peter Minnet at the rate of 7 per cent per annum and compounded every six months to date, it would have earned a sum equivalent to the assessed value of the entire city of New York, so it is said, including its streets, sewers, railroads, subways, theaters, hotels, skyscrapers and palatial homes.—Thriller Magazine.

Caught a Monkey Stealing

One day in 1910 a well-dressed man, wearing a heavy overcoat, entered a jeweler's shop in London and asked to be shown some valuable rings. Those shown him, he said, were not quite good enough, and he asked to be shown another tray. As the attendant went to get it he glanced in the mirror specially set to show the counter when his back was turned, and, to his amazement, saw a long, hairy arm suddenly come out of the customer's pocket, seize a couple of rings, and vanish.

Assistance was quickly summoned, and the man and monkey arrested. His rooms were found filled with all sorts of valuable objects which had been stolen by this clever monkey.

Elephants at Work

In Burma there are large lumber mills, and elephants are used for rolling the logs into position for the saws, an exchange says. Pushing with their heads, they run the logs up two inclined skids to the platform; two elephants do the pushing and a third elephant acts as boss. In his trunk the boss carries a few links of anchor chain, which he uses as a "warp" if one elephant falls behind.

When the wind blows they all know that it is time to stop work and rest. It makes no difference whether they have a log within a fraction of an inch of the platform; the boss drops his anchor chain and gets out of the way, and the pushers step to one side and let the log crash.

Buckskin

Buckskin, from which gloves are made, for the most part comes from Mexico and Brazil. The skins are usually smaller than those of sheep, and seldom perfect, because of the worms or thorn scratches. The latter do not weaken the gloves, however, and, in fact, a visible scratch is pretty good proof that a glove is genuine buckskin. The leather is dressed in oil and the color is obtained with colored clay dust. Because of this method of coloring, every buckskin glove will dust off or crack the first three or four times it is worn. Buck leather is close fibered, soft after wearing and warm.

INSTALLATION OF MACHINERY FOR BOOKKEEPING AND BILLING

Will Be Placed In Operation By Public Service Electric and Gas Company at its Home Office In Newark, Beginning October 1.

What is said to be one of the largest centralized installations of machinery for public utility bookkeeping and billing to be found anywhere will be placed in operation by Public Service Electric and Gas Company at its home office in Newark, beginning October 1.

Under the new system customers who use both services will receive one monthly bill to cover both electric lighting and gas instead of a separate bill for each of these services as formerly.

The system to be adopted is regarded by accounting experts as embodying the most advanced and scientific methods of public utility accounting in use in this country today.

The essential principle underlying the new arrangement lies in a complete redistribution of the company's commercial work for the purpose of better equalizing each day's work in the accounting month.

The change from the present or periodic system will result in a general shifting of the monthly dates for reading meters and delivering bills and the system is put into effect, district by district, customers will be affected only to the extent of becoming used to new regular dates for monthly meter readings and presentation of bills.

For the majority of consumers the date on which the first new form of bill is presented will be different from the customary presentation date by reason of a general revision of routes.

October, Newark November, Jersey City, Hoboken, North Hudson and Passaic; December, Montclair, Paterson, Rutherford, Englewood, Ridgewood, New Brunswick, Camden, Trenton and Burlington; January, 1925, Orange, Bayonne, Hackensack, Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville and Princeton.

A combined service bill will not, of course, be used in the districts where the company serves gas only, or electricity only. These offices are: Electric: Elizabeth, Rahway and Perth Amboy.

Gas: Summit, Morristown and South Amboy. The new system will be put in effect in these districts during January, 1925, except in South Amboy where it will be installed in December.

The new system comprehends a division of the territory served into twenty-one routes, approximately equal in extent. A district officer's day's work will consist of the meter reading, billing and accounting, and bill delivery for one full route.

Each of the twenty-one routes representing a district officer's daily quota of work will be subdivided into geographical units. The unit will be laid out to cover one day's work of a meter reader. While all Public Service offices will have twenty-one routes hardly any two will be alike as to units, or number of men employed for meter reading.

The billing and accounting for each route will be begun the morning of the day following the taking of readings. It is for this billing and accounting work that the machines will be utilized.

The machines will prepare simultaneously the bill or consumer's record; the bookkeeping coupon or company's record, and the cashier's coupon which the consumer returns to the company as a teller's voucher with payment. The billing and bookkeeping machines are motor driven adding machine type for public utility work.

They were especially designed for the company's requirements and are equipped with automatic carriage shifting devices permitting the printing of the details of consumer's monthly accounting in three separate spaces at one touch of the keys.

An average operator, familiar with public utility accounting, will be able to turn out upward of 1,500 consumer's bills, with coupons attached, in a day.

HOW HE KNEW HIS COAT

After dining at a fashionable London restaurant a man with a shabby character went to the cloakroom, and was astonished to be handed his overcoat before he produced his ticket.

"How did you know that was mine?" he asked the attendant.

"I didn't, sir."

"Then why did you give to me?"

"It's the one you gave me when you came in, sir."

His Opinion
"I dropped into the Tote Fair store this morning," related a guest, "and found the proprietor and his clerk playing checkers."

"Eh-yah," returned the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "I always did say that a merchant that will play checkers before noon ain't got much business nor much sense to attend to it if he had it."

Too Much
"How did you like my sermon Sunday?" asked the modern clergyman.

"I couldn't get you," replied the radio churchgoer.

"Too much theology?" asked the minister.

"No," replied the radio lost sheep; "too much interference."

His Ambition

Second Bo—Don't dat take lot of pep?

First Bo—Nix. As I understand it, it's de pitchers does de movin'—American Legion Weekly.

His Wife—Most of them do.

Motorist—Then why shouldn't this old car!

Appeal

CRIPPLE SLAIN WHILE BOYS ARE PLAYING BANDIT

Comrade Removed Clip From Pistol, but Forgot Cartridge in Chamber.

New York.—For 16 years of his life, Frank Redhill, messenger in the American Trust company, No. 135 Broadway, a cripple, was the butt of games he played with friends. He and Frank Gill, No. 146 Seventh avenue, Brooklyn, were playing with an automatic pistol they had found in the coat of one of the trust company's watchmen. As it usually happened, Redhill had to play he was the bandit, because Gill wanted to be the brave officer with the weapon. Redhill had removed the cartridge clip from the gun. Gill forgot the cartridge in the firing chamber. He pulled the trigger, and Redhill, whimpering and white-faced, staggered from the cloakroom where they had found the weapon into the main banking room.—He fell, shot through the chest, before the cages of the tellers, who were opening up for the day's business.

Boy Collapses.

Gill, with the pistol still in his hand, followed him, crying: "I shot Frank."

He Pulled the Trigger.

"I shot Frank." He collapsed on a bench.

The rumor of a battle brought a Broadway crowd before the offices of the trust company. Police arrived from the Old Slip station and an ambulance from Broad Street hospital. Rev. Father Flynn from St. Peter's Catholic church, Barclay and Church streets, knelt on the floor of the banking room and administered the last rites to the unconscious boy just before he died.

Gill, shaken and hysterical, was arrested on a technical charge of homicide and questioned at the district attorney's office.

Redhill, lame as a result of infantile paralysis, had worked for the trust company 15 months. Gill was a newcomer.

Redhill is survived by his mother and a younger brother. Officials said she would receive her son's share of the insurance carried for employees by the trust company.

Couple Thought Marriage License Was Certificate

Uniontown, Pa.—Under the impression that the possession of a marriage license made them man and wife, Gennaro Damiano and Mariel Pallone, two well-known Italians, have been living together since October 24, 1922, when the license was granted here. They were not aware of their error until recently when with their baby they made application for a passport to Italy.

When asked to produce their marriage certificate Gennaro brought forth the marriage license from his pocket and was amazed when informed that he and Mariel were not man and wife. They went at once before Alderman Robert B. Collins and were married.

Epidemic of Marriage Breaks Out in Family

Fitchburg, Mass.—Ira C. Greene, a local ice dealer, has just announced his engagement to Miss Lucy Becker of Dorchester. Coincident with his announcement came announcements from his daughter, Miss Beatrice Greene, who is to become the wife of Howard Elliott of Winchendon, and from his son, Leon C. Greene, who is to marry Miss Eloise M. Clark, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Henry D. Clark of this city.

Determined to Bob

Canton, Ohio.—Martha Louder, fifteen, wanted to bob her hair. Her father, A. A. Louder, a farmer, living north of Canton, objected, so Martha sheared her tresses the other night, hid her pocketbook and then tied herself to her bed. Her father, after hearing a story of an attack by a burglar, who, his daughter said, bobbed her hair, called Sheriff W. C. Kirk. After some questioning, the sheriff said, the girl admitted cutting her hair herself and tying herself to the bed.

MORBID CURIOSITY RESULTS IN DEATH

Man Wanted to Experience Sensation of Hanging.

Budapest.—Because the owner of Somogy castle was seized by a morbid desire to experience the sensations of a man being hanged, he lost his life and his aged servant became his murderer.

One day Bela Marffy, a Hungarian Junker, was found dead in his study, with a rope around his neck and two heavy weights tied to the end of the rope. The coroner's verdict was suicide, but the family, which knew Marffy to be intensely fond of life, declined to accept it.

Their suspicions rested upon the servant, who finally confessed he was in fact the murderer, though no thought had been further removed from his mind a few minutes before the act was committed.

Marffy, it developed, had read an account the day before of a boy who hanged himself. Curious to know how a man feels just before he is about to die, he arranged that his servant was to stand near him while he tied a noose, at the end of which were two weights, about his neck. The servant was to lift up the weights, thereby relieving the pressure, at the moment it seemed to him that his master was about to expire unless relieved.

The servant declared that while he was awaiting this moment his eyes fell upon his master's purse on the table, filled with bills of high denomination. Instead of relieving Marffy the servant allowed him to die and then possessed himself of the money.

Three Children Wander in Park for Three Days

New York.—Charles Alme, ten; his brother, Oscar, eleven, and his sister, Elizabeth, eight, are home again with their parents at 188 Lincoln avenue, the Bronx, after a three-day exploration of St. Mary's park. The park extends from One Hundred and Forty-second to One Hundred and Forty-ninth street, between St. Ann's and Convent avenues.

Instead of going to school, they set out in search of adventure. When they did not return their stepmother notified the police.

According to Charles they played with other boys and girls until dark. Some of their playmates had given them candy and crackers and when "supper time" arrived they decided to prolong their holiday.

They made a bed in an old shack. While the police were searching for them the youngsters romped along the park paths. Mothers of other children gave them crackers, candy and milk, they said, and that night they went back to the shack.

The third day, Charles said, they saw their father looking for them and they hid behind some bushes. That night the storm drove them to seek shelter on a porch.

They arose wet and tired and dirty and decided that they had obtained all the adventure they wanted. They started for home. As they left the park a woman saw them and notified a policeman, who took them to the station, where their father claimed them.

Ring Torn Off Cyclone Victim in 1880 Found

Jacksonville, Ill.—A wedding ring which 44 years ago was snatched from the finger of its owner by some mysterious force of nature during a cyclone, was found recently in a field on the farm of C. E. Davis, eight miles southeast of this city. The ring belonged to Mrs. Jerry Cox, who was killed during a cyclone which visited that vicinity on May 9, 1880.

Mrs. Cox was killed near the site of the present home of the Davis family. When her body was found two rings which she always wore were found to be missing. One of these was the wedding ring found by Mr. Davis while cultivating corn in a field a half mile from the scene of the tragedy.

Gets Fine, but No Fish

Springfield, Vt.—Harold Comstock paid $90.20 for fishing in the village reservoir here recently when he appeared in court for violating the health laws. A novel feature of the case was that Comstock paid for the privilege of fishing and not for catching fish, for when arrested no fish were found in his possession.

Airedale Put to Sleep, Wakes With New Nose

Vancouver, B. C.—Bob, a particularly well-bred Airedale dog, owned by Tom Brown of Golden, B. C., has learned that beauty is more than skin deep.

Bob was in an encounter with a bulldog recently and lost the end of his aristocratic nose.

His owner feared that the unauthorized amputation would impair the value of his canine friend, so obtaining an ordinary Airedale without pedigree, he proceeded to the dog hospital.

The mongrel was given sufficient anesthetic to put him into the canine heaven and Bob woke up with a new nose.

Folly of Worrying

Our real work does not tire us half so much as worrying over some difficult task which might come to us, but which never does come.

Many Volcanic Craters in the United States

When we think of volcanoes we generally associate them with some foreign country, but here in our own domain we have within a comparatively restricted area a group of 63 volcanic craters. This is in Idaho and the place is called the "Craters of the Moon," because the landscape is so cold looking and so barren of vegetation that it resembles the landscape of the moon as it seems to us when viewed through a telescope. While it is barren it is not without color, for there is considerable variation in the tints of the ground which is covered with the "frozen" lava which flowed from these craters a few hundred years ago. There is one field which is called the Blue Dragon which is lava of a beautiful azure tint and with a polish as if it had been varnished. There are cracks in the deposit at regular intervals and all of similar shape, which makes the mass resemble the scales of a great dragon. These volcanic mounds are of various heights and some of interesting formation, with considerable variation in color. This field is about three miles wide and thirty long and has been recently dedicated to the purposes of a public park. While it is not exactly accessible, it is not a difficult place to get at and at the present time it is little known. It is located between Cary and Arco.

Rich Man Might Better Have Forgotten Penny

In his "Queer Things About London," Mr. C. G. Harper tells the following story:

On the north side of Piccadilly is that famous labyrinthine warren of exceedingly select bachelor chambers, dating from about 1804, and known to most people as "The Albany."

By the smart set who reside there, however, it is accounted absurd to speak or write of "The Albany." If you perpetuate that grave error, you cannot be "one of us."

Albany has always been affected, as a place of residence, by men of rank and fashion. Herein dwelt the millionaire Baron Meyer de Rothschild, and coming from his luxurious chambers one day he dropped a penny on the pavement outside.

He sought long and anxiously for the coin, but vainly, for it had rolled down a grating. Resuming an upright position, he remarked sadly on the fleeting nature of riches. Meanwhile a pick-pocket had relieved him of his watch.

What the Dial Was For

"I see that you don't know how to tune this set," the friend observed, as he began adjusting the knobs. "But don't let that worry you, old man; we all have to learn, you know. Now," he continued, "did you notice the increased volume of sound as I turned the last dial? Just put the finishing touches on reception, as it were. Of course, one cannot teach you the whole game of reception at one sitting; but I will say this much—you would do well to pay particular attention to that dial if you want good quality and plenty of volume. That is one of the most sensitive controls. Condenser, I suppose?"

"So, Bill," replied the host. "You see, it is like this: I bored an extra hole in the panel by mistake and I put a knob there to hide it. It does not control anything, except the imagination."—Wireless Age.

"Go Ahead and Shoot," Woman Tells Bandits

New York.—Defying five armed holdup men with the challenge "go ahead and shoot if you dare," Mrs. G. C. Moorehardt, wife of a member of the Columbia university faculty, prevented robbers from taking her two diamond rings in a drug store holdup near the university campus recently. Ignoring the command of the robbers to put up her hands, Mrs. Moorehardt removed both rings and hid them beneath her waistband.

PEG-LEGGED NEGRO IS ASSET TO FARM

His Wooden Stump Makes Holes for Planting.

Mobile, Ala.—John Marshall, "peg-legged" Negro, who was recently sentenced to the county farm for violation of the prohibition law, was a wonderful asset to the farm. In fact he could serve better than a patented machine planter.

He would walk along the potato rows, and each imprint of the "peg leg" in the soft earth would be a hole to put in the seedling potato. On his return down the row his footprint would cover the planted potato and other holes would be made automatically in the next row.

Officers at the county farm saw a great reduction of expenses and time in their potato planting. But it was all a mistake. The negro should have been sentenced to jail on account of his affliction. The error was discovered and he was returned from the farm to the county prison.

Famous "Devil's Bible Put Before the Camera

Stockholm.—One of the most remarkable books in the world, called "the Devil's Bible" and also the "giant of books," has just been brought out of its hiding place in the royal library of Stockholm, following a request for a photostat copy, from the city of Prague, where it was captured at the Swedish conquest in 1648.

It was written 800 years ago, and legend says that it was completed during a single night by a monk who was doomed to die. He had to have assistance from the devil, however, and in gratitude made a full page portrait of him, horns, cloven hoofs, and all, which has ever since remained in the Bible.

The book is probably the largest Bible in the world, the pages being a yard high by a foot and a half wide. It is written on 309 parchment sheets, for which, according to tradition, 100 donkey hides were required. The lettering is beautifully illuminated in gold and bright colors.

The "Devil's Bible" when brought to Sweden was presented to Queen Kristina, the daughter of Gustavus Adolphus, along with a unique and priceless book, the Codex Argenteus, or "Silver Bible." The name was given to the book because it is bound in covers of heavy wrought silver. The letters of the text are in silver and gold, stamped on purple parchment. The "Silver Bible," which is about 1,400 years old, is a translation of the four gospels made by Bishop Ulfilas, and is considered invaluable because it contains virtually all the extant writing in the Gothic language.

Believed Part of It

The men and officers of the navy are known all over the world for their smart appearance, and it was for this reason that one of the officers on board a battleship was rather disgusted at the untidy appearance of a certain midshipman.

One morning the "middy" strolled into the wardroom wearing a collar that was, to say the least of it, extremely soiled. This was too much for the officer and he decided to tackle the young man on the matter.

"Look here," he said, "you ought not to come in here wearing a filthy collar like that round your neck."

"Filthy, sir," replied the midddy; "I assure you this collar was washed ashore only yesterday."

"I don't doubt that," was the quiet reply, "but from which wreck?"

New Dish

The young man who was accustomed to having an early breakfast every day was absent one morning, having gone to see his wife off on an early train.

Returning to the house some time later he said to the cook:

"Well, Jane, I have no spouse this morning."

"Tain't my fault, sah," she replied, indignantly. "I sho' cooked it fo' yuh, an' you jes' wouldn't come eat it."

The "One-Hoss" Shay

"My grandfather and grandmother once hired an antiquated four-wheeler, driven by a man even older than the cab, whose horse was a greater age than all of them combined, to pay a Sunday afternoon call in a London square nearby. On its funeral way from house to house, the bottom fell out of the cab, and as the aged man on the box was too deaf to hear the by no means invidious expostulation of the hot-tempered old gentleman and the cries of his small and timid spouse, there was nothing for them to do but to run along inside. The laughter of those who gazed with an abandonment of joy at this most unusual sight must have done much to break the gloom of that early Victorian Sabbath."—From "Unwritten History," by Cosmo Hamilton.

Old as Paris is, its citizens still can't manage to protect themselves against flood. Perhaps our judgment in the Yangtse-kiang valley needs to be revised.

Arrangements are being made to have ten college glee clubs at the Republican national convention. A few football cheer leaders might serve to give the occasion a little more of the tolly rah rah atmosphere.

Double Header at Brady's Field, Sunday. Two Twilight League Games: Bel.-Tigers; Cads.-Stars.

SPORTING NEWS OF THE WEEK

Soccer Team Will Start Season at Kearney on Sunday, Sept. 21.—First Home Game Sept. 28.

Near the End of a Perfect Season

Throughout the campaign of the baseball musketeers, the fans saw many youngsters in action giving the veterans the battles of their lives for supremacy. In a majority of the cases the rookies rose to the fore in hitting, pitching and fielding, but when it came time for a rookie to run a team, all was lost.

The veterans were the outstanding figures behind the victories because they were the "brains" of the team. When the Twilight League is brought to a close the standings will show how much the veterans did for their teams.

Rookies Lost Without "Brains"

A team fully comprised of youngsters, disregarding two, is the forces of Willie Mack. This team had a terrible "tough" time of it in winning games due to the fact that players are inexperienced such as the "brains" of the Belmonts and Tigers. The Cadilacs are also young players with Topsy Roth as their mainstay on the mound. Roth has won six of the Cadilacs' seven victories and was only beaten on one occasion. Brady met the young southpaw and defeated him in a 1-0 pitcher's duel, proving his superiority. But, since Roth's winnings exceeded Brady's by five the youngster earns the twirling crown of the league.

The Cadilacs were no blocking stones earlier in the season to any of the other three teams, but when Roth joined the team a remarkable change was noticed in the winnings. The team took a wonderful stride toward the pennant.

There are three more games to be played by the "eaters" and all will have to be won to assure them of the flag and watchfobs. One with the Stars Sunday and a double header on the following Sunday playing the Belmonts and Tigers.

Leaders Have the Veterans

To show how much the veterans are doing for their team, the Tigers and Belmonts, being the only outfits having their lineups consisting of veterans, are leading the league. The Stars hold undisputed possession of last place with a crew of youngsters and the Cadilacs with a lineup with very little difference, are kept in the race by Topsy Roth's wonderful performances, as it was said above.

Joey Elko, Dzurilla, Skurat and Makoski are the four veterans who are responsible for most of the success gained by the Belmonts. All were good sluggers in the younger days and the first three can hit the ball often yet. Makoski has slumped badly in the past year, but was as good as the rest also.

For the Tigers, Brady, Mesick and Clinton Sullivan do great work, backed up by the good hitting of Herb Sullivan, who hasn't saw his good days yet.

In taking a glance at the rookies one can easily perceive the good baseball games to be played next season when the Twilight League opens again. Such promising talent as Sabo, Dzurilla, Adam Ginda, Joe Leshick, F. Mack, Ed. Helley, Beigert, Morgan, Casey, Masckulin, Roth, Coughlin, Szelag, Karczewski, Neiman and others who haven't played steady ball this season.

In all the fans saw some pretty good games at the local diamond and haven't much ground to argue in the negative. The race for the pennant is as tight as could be and if everything goes the way the writer perceives them, there will be some corking "big league" performances, including that of the twirlers, next season.

Mack expects to have a pennant winning machine on the diamond next season and that coupled with the experience that he gained this year will prove a lot more dangerous to the other three teams.

Tomorrow night Johnny Bruskie, who rides under the colors of the Newark Bayview Wheelmen, will take to the race track at Newark after a full week's rest nursing injuries, received in a spill at New York on Friday. Bruskie has not been discouraged by his hard luck and will wait a little while before he will take any more chances of being spilled. When Johnny gets in form, then he will make the others ride, but until then things will be taken a little cautiously. Bruskie was in six mix-ups already this season and during the entire campaign last year he met in but one mishap.

CARTERET LOSES 9-5; STARS WALLOP TIGERS

Weak Pitching Causes Defeat

Curly Sullivan Accepts Another Offer Leaving Locals Flat.

A home run by Fil Mack and a long triple by Earnie Sabo were the batting features of the local field club, which lost out to the Vons at New Brunswick on Labor Day afternoon, 9 to 5. The catching and brainy performance of Brady also put pep into the local's ninth inning rally and previous good playing.

Big Herb Sullivan, who was scheduled to fling 'em over for Carteret received a last minute offer from the Elizabeth Braves and accepted, throwing the local management into a deep sea of frustration as to whom they would get to pitch. At the last minute when nothing could be done Donovan was given the mound assignment despite the fact that his arm was sore and Mack was to be on the scene as a relief pitcher.

However Donovan couldn't stand the pace that the Vons were traveling at and was forced to give way to Mack after four full innings of mound work. Mack, who lacks experience, turned in a neat performance although he was twirling with his back to the wall against an outfit that is supposed to be one of the best in the county. His home run in the ninth inning with Brady on second caused much desire on the part of Carteret to win the game, but Joey Elko was unable to come through and our side was retired in the neck of time by New Brunswick.

SABO PROMING BOY

The spectators almost stood on their ears at the sight of Earnie Sabo's playing and hitting. In the midst of the homester's rallies in the second and fifth innings, Sabo made two nice plays—making a back-hand stop of Karl's hard grounder in the second, to force a runner at third, and again in the fifth he got in front of Wisheart's liner, just missing a double play at second. In the eighth Earnie smacked one of Wisheart's slow ones far, but foul and to show everyone there that he could hit it farther and straighter he poked the next ball far over Karl's head for a triple.

Four chuckers in the fifth enabled the Vons to take the bacon. Consecutive singles by Laurer, O'Conner and Morrals scored a run and left two runners on the bases. Sabo stopped Wisheart's drive, but Karl was passed, filling the bases. When Donovan allowed VanDeveer to single, which tallied O'Conner and Morrals, he was taken out to make way for Mack. Filix was nicked by Hoagland for a single, scoring Karl, before the side was retired.

Two Games Will Be Played Here Sunday

At a meeting last night the officers of the Carteret Twilight Baseball League decided to run the four remaining scheduled games on Sundays instead of twilight, since it gets too dark to play in the evenings. This Sunday there will be two games, the Belmonts vs. Tigers in the first and the Cadilacs and Stars in the night cap. The first contest will start promptly at 1:30 P. M.

There will not be any games on the 14th, but there will be on the 21st. On this date the Cadilacs play two games with the Belmonts and Tigers.

CADILACS TIGHTEN UP PENNANT RACE

Root Tigers at Brady's Field Friday Night By a 5 to 3 Score In Six Inning Game — Losers Stage Rally Too Late.

Playing fast ball and having most of the important breaks, the Cadilacs tightened up the Carteret Twilight League pennant race by routing the Tigers to the tune of 5 to 3 at Brady's field Friday night. It was the winner's fifth straight victory and the second consecutive one at the expense of the Tigers.

The losers put up a real jungle-like roar in the seventh inning when umpire Cunningham, the latest valued attraction, called the contest after they had brought the score as close as 5 to 4 and had two runners on the paths with two out. It was the only way out of it for the "ump," since it was too dark for further play and the Cadilacs, being the home team, not able to take their chances with the willow, the score was reverted to the sixth inning, leaving the score 5 to 3 in favor of the Cadilacs.

Three pitchers, including Curly Sullivan and his brother Clinton, were mercifully treated by the "Eaters." Hamilton also pitched to one batter, but that was all. Clinton started the game and was credited for losing it.

The Tigers took their bats in the seventh and after Brady and Hamilton were retired by Henderson, unassisted, Herb Sullivan and Ballo each singled, Herb talking on Ballo's hit, Mesick walked, bringing Masckulin to the plate. At this stage of the contest Cunningham stopped the game on account of darkness. The score:

Sullivan Hit Hard But Returns Winner

Although his delivery was rounded out for a total of twelve safe bingles, Curly Sullivan, pitching for the Elizabeth Braves, stopped the fierce Rawley A. A. players at the latter's home grounds in Riverside Park, Rahway, on Labor Day afternoon. The Betsaytown lads made up for the hits that their opponents had swatted out by giving big Curly fine support at critical moments in the field and at bat, scoring seven runs to two for their enemy.

Soccer Club Opens Season September 21

Managers Moss and Elliott, of the Carteret soccer football club, attended a meeting held in F. O. Eagle's Hall, Harrison, N. On the following Sunday, Sept. 28th, the locals will play here against the Clan McKay, of Bayonne.

Pitches One Ball And Loses Battle

Here's one for the old book, baseball fans. It's one of the kind you read about, but seldom witness. Billy Sherry, star reliever twirler of the East Orange Police nine, was the unlucky one when he relieved Autwater on the mound in the twelfth inning of the game played at Riverside Park, Rahway, last Saturday afternoon. There were two men on the bags, Russo on third and Charley Brady on first, and none out, the count was even at two all.

Sherry's first toss-up was belted between third and short by Charley Collins and Russo rushed across the plate with the winning tally fine game and in six times at the for Rahway, 3-2. Brady caught a plate he walked twice, singled twice and was retired the other two times. Brady shook up the whole visiting infield with a bunt in that last frame, being partly responsible for the victory.

CHAMP SERIES FOR SENIORS TO START

Carteret A. A. and Hudsons To Start Long Waited for Senior Championship Series in Latter Part of This Month.

At last! The first step will be taken, soon, to settle the light senior borough championship, when the Carteret A. A. and the Hudsons meet at Brady's field. For two seasons the senior honors were squabbled over, the managers of each team using ink and paper as their "deadly" weapons and now the time has finally come when one team will probably have undisputed possession of the senior honors instead of three or four as in the past.

The Carteret A. A. and the Hudsons will undoubtedly perform like the Tigers, Cadilacs and the Belmonts do in their fight for the Twilight League pennant, in their game. Manager Charlie Leslie, of the Hudsons, will probably fling his star battery, Casey and Trusko, into the firing line, while the Carteret A. A. manager will use Horal, the speed ball king, and Adam Ginda for his battery.

Then after this contest is waged, the winners will make a clean finish of the slate by locking horns with Manager Frank Green's All Star combination.

Crescents Drop Heavy Hitting Contest 16-14

The Crescents dropped a heavy hitting game to the Rovers at Liebig's field last Saturday afternoon by the score of 16 to 14. The players of the field last Saturday afternoon by the score of 16 to 14. The players of the field last Saturday afternoon by the score of 16 to 14.

Manager Nemish, of the Crescents thinks it a good idea for both teams to engage in a series to decide the borough championship, since his team was beaten by a slim margin by the Rovers, who copped the junior league pennant in an easy fashion. The Crescents didn't have an outfit entered in the league.

Football Team Beats Favorites; Score 3-1

In an interesting game Sunday the Carteret football soccer club, which will play in the New Jersey State League, defeated the Favorites of Staten Island at Brady's field, 3-1. Although the Island was outplayed they never gave up, always fighting hard. The club expects to arrange another game for Sunday, Sept. 14.

Favorites at Liebig's Field This Sunday

The Staten Island Favorites, who were beaten by the Carteret F. C. at Brady's field last Sunday, will again play in the borough, but this time at Liebig's field against the fast Latin Sport Club, Sunday. The game will be started promptly at 3:30 o'clock.

BRUSKIE WILL RIDE AFTER WEEK'S REST

Local "Flash of the Race Track" Injured Right Arm and Leg In Race Recently and Has Not Rode For Over a Week.

Riding in hard luck for the past few weeks, Johnny Bruskie will again make an attempt to ride ahead of the best amateur championship contenders at the New York City velodrome, Saturday night, (tomorrow). In his last race Bruskie was forced into a spill and injured his right arm and leg which caused him to take a week off.

Against Bruskie, will ride the best amateurs in the country and with him there will be three others to ride from scratch, while a few will start with handicaps. Johnny is considered a flashy rider at both velodromes, in Newark and New York, where he rides frequently.

On Friday night Bruskie was forced into a spill, when riders in front of him, very close, went down and being that he was so near Bruskie also went with the rest to the surface of the track.

In the past there were several bike fans to attend the races at both dromes and were pleased with the performance of the local "flash of the race track."

SISLER SAYS HIS EYES ABOUT WELL

Hopes Impaired Vision Will Become Normal.

Baseball fans generally throughout the country have noted with satisfaction this season the work of Manager George H. Sisler of the St. Louis Browns and the hope is now entertained that eventually his impaired vision will become normal.

Voted the most valuable player in the American league during the 1922 season, Sisler was stricken with influenza in February, 1923; and his condition was aggravated by sinus trouble and tonsillitis, resulting in impaired vision which caused his retirement from the game for the 1923 season. For a time it was feared that his baseball days were over, but Sisler gave his eyes a careful, patient course of treatment and rest.

With the opening of the 1924 season Sisler assumed his regular position at first base in addition to managing the Browns. He admits that the defect in his vision has not entirely disappeared, but with his eyes constantly improving he is optimistic that his sight will gradually return to normal.

Manager George Sisler.

The defect, he declares, hampers him in batting, but its effect upon his fielding is negligible.

Although Sisler has been hitting this season below his usual average he attributes this to periodical slumps which all ball players experience.

Carrol Beats Schanck By Technical Knockout

Johnny Carrol, the local kayo champion, when in his prime, took to the ring again last Saturday night at South River and won over Ray Schanck, of New Brunswick, when the latter failed to appear at the sound of the gong in the fifth round. Carrol dealt out plenty of punishment and it was no wonder that the opposing boy didn't turn out in the fifth.

The scheduled benefit game between the leading team of Tremly, and the Carteret All Stars, was postponed by the Tremly team, last Sunday.

If picture or mirror frames become so damaged as to necessitate their being discarded, try gluing to the old frames ribbon or silk that harmonizes with the color scheme of the room. Braided metallic ribbon is the most effective.

Cellar Champs Set 2 Records

Score Most Runs in one Inning and Also Pole Out Seventeen Hits.

The 1924 cellar champions of the Carteret Twilight Baseball League, set a record last night in the game against the Tigers by scoring fourteen runs, four more than the Belmonts scored earlier in the season. The Stars walloped the once-leading Tigers 14 to 2, knocking the jugglers down into third place, a half game behind the Cadilacs. The Stars made seventeen hits, making another record. The score:

FIFTH AVENUE IS TOO EXCITING FOR MAN FROM THE WEST

Too Many Stick-Ups and "Doggone Many People," Says Guide.

New York.—Joe Jones, one of the best known guides in Wyoming, is counting the minutes until he can get back to the open spaces where men "don't ride like cattle in a cattle car."

"I've seen a man get off a horse on the Injun side and break out in cold sweat," he said. "I've seen 'em run a hoss in a prairie dog town, and I've seen 'em pull going up a steep place and wondered when they were going to pitch backward. But I wouldn't live in New York if you'd give me the whole city with a fence around it. I can't sleep; I can't eat. I keep my hand on my pocketbook in the subway. Good Jupiter! mister, you're liable to get stuck up any minute, and it's as much as a man's life is worth to cross Fifth avenue. Why, I've seen a driverless flivver, standing quietly at the curb, suddenly take after an innocent pedestrian and chase him all over the place."

Gosh! How He Dreads Trips.

So Joe is going back to Wyoming and he's counting the minutes. He came to New York on business and was appointed one of the official guides of the Buffalo Bill American association at 490 Fifth avenue, to conduct parties to Yellowstone park and to the site of the association's bronze equestrian statue of Buffalo Bill on the heights above the Shoshone river.

New York is not new to Joe. He has been coming here at least once a year for twelve years. And, gosh, how he dreads it! Joe has a dude ranch out in Wyoming, fifty miles from Cody and twelve miles from the old T-E estates owned by Buffalo Bill. Wealthy New Yorkers visit the ranch each summer, up at the end of the wagon trail, to hunt bear, moose, elk, deer and big horn sheep in the hills of the Continental Divide. They get hardened, too.

Joe, who has spent most of his life in the saddle, says a saddle is far different from perching on the upholstery of a fine automobile, especially at the beginning. He says, too, that at the end of a forty-five-mile trip, somebody is likely to get careless and fall off a cliff, damaging the heads of the big game they're bringing back, to say nothing of themselves.

Too Doggone Many People.

Joe is keen-minded, but nature neglected him in stature. In fact, back in 1898, when he went to the Philippines with the First Idaho Infantry, he was the smallest man in the army—five feet two inches, and weighing 118 pounds. His legs never will be straight.

But Joe was mournful now. He probably would have cried right into his strawberry ice cream soda if he had had one, but he was so nervous he didn't dare go out on the street. Joe is different at the summit of a mountain crag back home. He shook his head.

Man Buried as Pauper Was Worth $100,000

Hutchinson, Kan.—Supposedly a pauper, J. Eggstein, who died at the poor farm and who is buried in the Potter's field, was worth more than $100,000, according to information reaching the county authorities here. A man who did not leave his name got affidavits of Eggstein's death from the superintendent of the poor farm, saying that the man had $21,000 in a Kansas City bank and $40,000 worth of bonds.

Eggstein was picked up on the street, supposedly a stranded harvest hand, last summer. He refused to give any information concerning himself, saying it was nobody's business.

Redbird Got Its Name From Church Dignitary

At first thought it is difficult to see the relationship between the common redbird, or cardinal, and the hinges of the front door. The explanation is simple enough, however, when the words are traced to their source. The redbird was originally called a cardinal because his plumage bore the coloring of the hat and crossock of a cardinal of the Roman Catholic church. The use of the word "cardinal" as denoting a dignitary of the church came about through the poetic fancy of an early pope, who spoke of the cardinals as "the hinges by which all things are moved" in connection with church government. In the Latin language "cardo, cardinis," is the equivalent of the English "hinge."

Lapps Contented With Few Creature Comforts

No one knows when the Lapps came into Sweden, but for centuries this queer little people, a branch of the Mongol tribe, have wandered about the mountains with their reindeer, living a more or less nomadic life and holding their own in population, although not increasing in any number.

During the summer months, when the reindeer are on the move, the Lapp contents himself with a birch-socket tent covered with canvas or turf, so that it may readily be moved from place to place. Some of the homes have modern comforts, but as a rule the Lapp contents himself with very little, says the Baltimore Sun.

In autumn the young reindeer are marked on the ear with their owner's name. At this time there is a gathering of all the tribes, and, though to a stranger all reindeer look exactly alike, a Lapp will point out his own in the herd with unfailing knowledge. Nor does a Lapp remove his neighbor's mark.

A Man's Prayer

Teach me that 60 minutes make an hour, 16 ounces a pound, and 100 cents a dollar. Help me to live so that I can lie down at night with a clear conscience and untroubled by the faces of those to whom I may have brought pain. Grant that I may earn my meal ticket on the square, and in earning it I may do unto others as I would have them do unto me. Deafen me to the jingle of tainted money. Blind me to the faults of other fellows and reveal to me my own. Guide me so that each night when I look across the table at my wife, who has been a blessing to me, I will have nothing to conceal. Keep me young enough to laugh with little children and sympathetic so as to be considerate of old age. And when comes the day of darkening shades make the ceremony short and the epitaph simple: "Here lies a man."—Illustration Sun.

Moonlight and Mockingbird

Late in the night from some vantage point—the tip-top twig of the tallest tree, the point above the crossarms of a telephone pole or the peak of the barn—flits a mockingbird, pouring forth his song.

The world lies deep in slumber. High over all rides the moon, its radiance veiled by a delicate mist that lightly drapes the ancient Ozark hills and shrouds the valley. Rest, peace possesses all, a silence deep, broken only by the voice of the wonderful bird. His music rises and falls, filling the hours with melodies rare and sweet, and having for accompaniment the soft sound of dewdrops falling from the points of the leaves on the Balm of Gilead trees.

Historic Battle

The name Battle of the Giants is given to a battle fought at Marignano (now Madagnana), near Milan, September 13-14, 1515, between the allied French and Venetian forces under Francis I of France, and the Italians and Swiss, commanded by the duke of Milan. The battle was hotly contested and resulted in a victory for Francis. The total number of slain is said to have exceeded 20,000. Trivulzio, who had been present at 18 pitched battles, called them all child's play as compared with this "battle of giants."

Will Be Record Bridge

What is to be the largest arch bridge in the world, costing more than $5,000,000, will be constructed across the harbor at Sydney, Australia. The total length will be 3,700 feet, more than half a mile, while the single arch in the center will have a span of 1,650 feet. The head from high water will be 170 feet, allowing the largest ocean liners to pass beneath. —Popular Science Monthly.

Loses All His Clothing in an Electric Machine

McFarland, Cal.—"A rag and a bone and a hank of hair," together with the paddings of flesh with which Dame Nature adorned his frame, was the extent of Maynard Schrack's raiment, following a mishap in which his clothing was caught in the drive belt of an electric drill at Colonel's garage. Being of a retiring disposition, it is said that Schrack went home garbed in a barrel, a blush and a nettled expression.

Schrack was operating a drill when his clothing caught in the rapidly moving belt. The belt pulled in all directions but one and Schrack plucked in that one. His socks and shoes were about the only articles left whole when the struggle ended.

Laborer Inherits Million

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Albert Nelson, who has worked as a day laborer on a farm for nearly thirty years, left here recently for Boston, Mass., to take over $1,000,000 of an estate left him by an uncle. Nelson was one of five heirs to the $5,000,000 estate. Lawyers have sought him for years.

40-Pound Wolf Shot

Prairie du Chien, Wis.—A 40-pound wolf which had been the terror of small stock and poultry in the town of Seneca, was shot by D. B. Ames, Ferryville, after lying in wait seven days. On the first day he captured two young pups, but the mother hid the remainder of her young away in the woods.

VOTERS URGED TO GO TO THE POLLS

Movement Is Afloat Among Civic Organizations To Get Every Man and Woman To Vote At the Coming Election.

A movement is under way throughout the country to get out this year the largest number of votes cast at any previous presidential election. It appears from reports that Carteret is joining with the rest of the nation in the most logical plan. Efforts are being made that lodges, churches, societies and other bodies should call upon their people to cast their ballots this year, instead of shirking the duty, no matter what one's political affiliation may be.

Over 40 per cent or more than 620,000 illegible New Jersey voters did not participate in the 1920 Presidential election.

Those behind the movement are pointing out that every man and woman who have the privilege should go to the polls. The polls are open all day, so that everyone can find at one time or other spare moments to cast their ballot. Primary day, which will be held on September 23, is expected to bring out an unusually large number of voters, because of the wide appeal to the voters to go to the polls.

The council also met later with officials of the U. S. Metals & Refining Company and urged action on the laying of a sidewalk on Washington avenue. The copper concern is reported to be in favor of the improvement and the laying of sidewalks on the street is soon to be expected.

By MIRIAM JAMES

"CROTHERS, the warden had said, 'your boy's sick—pretty bad, I reckon. There's a chance, though, so keep your spirits up, and I'll let you know as soon as I get further word.'"

And Jim Crothers, good-conduct man, with a year more of a five-year term to serve, heard these words echoing again and again in his heart as he piled his pick upon the hard road.

His wife—Johnny! He had not seen him since his wife brought him, an infant in arms, to the court detention room to bid him good-by.

It was more than a hundred miles to Renfrew, but by jumping a freight train, Crothers could get there by midnight. And by the following afternoon he could be back at the prison.

No sooner planned than done, he crept cautiously, almost double, down the declivity, and, glancing backward to make sure that he was still unperceived, sprinted for the trees.

He stood still at the door. Mary was seated on a low chair beside the bed, on which lay Johnny, flushed with fever. As Crothers entered she looked round, but her gaze seemed to pass through him and she bent her head again over the boy on the bed.

"O, thank God, doctor!" exclaimed the mother, and burst into silent tears of happiness.

always seemed to meet since his misfortune.

"I understand, Mary," he said, kissing her gently upon the cheek. "God bless you. And the boy, too. I shall be out next year, and I shall begin to make a home for both of you."

He was lucky again in the matter of the return train; and again he escaped detection. It was early morning when the freight pulled into Renfrew station.

"What's wrong with you, Crothers?" inquired the warden kindly. "Touch of sun? Or sort of upset about what I told you?"

"How long? About twenty-four hours, isn't it?" said Crothers. The warden looked pityingly at him.

"Well, Crothers, it's about supper time," said the warden. "I guess you can bring back your pick."

So Crothers made Renfrew. He dropped off at the yards as he had planned, and made his way toward the little house where his boy lay sick.

He stood still at the door. Mary was seated on a low chair beside the bed, on which lay Johnny, flushed with fever.

The doctor did not stay long after he had given his directions. He did not notice Crothers either.

Taxi Driver Finds Case of Valuable Jewels Left in Cab by Woman.

NOW SAFE IN VAULT

Chicago.—Search for a king's ransom in jewelry—diamonds and pearls insured for $100,000 with Lloyds—sent the police scurrying all over the city for the taxicab in which Mrs. A. H. Lamm of the Edgewater Beach hotel had left them when she alighted at the La Salle Street station to board the Twentieth Century for New York.

Mrs. Lamm, whose husband owns a ten-story building at 846 West Jackson boulevard, where he is head of a tailoring firm, could offer little assistance. She knew the taxi belonged to a well-known cab company.

But Barney Schofield, assistant to Charles Grey, president of the company, told the police that wouldn't help much. Some 3,000 taxis are operated here by the company.

Goes Without Jewels.
Come train time, Mrs. Lamm bade a tearful adieu to an army of detectives, railroad police and officials of the New York Central lines.

"My husband's waiting for me and I've got to go," she said. "I never disappoint him."

In the meantime one of the porters, Walter Dagenhardt, who had carried Mrs. Lamm's baggage to the train, strolled into the taxicab arcade looking for more business.

Jewels Placed in Vault.
Ernest Larter, chauffeur, of 5600 West Lake street, who had just received a 25-cent tip for a trip, and was also waiting for more business, called him:

"Say, want this?"

"Say, want this?" and he held out a reticule containing a $40,000 pearl necklace, three diamond bracelets, a diamond bar pin, six diamond rings and a brooch. The look had baffled him, so he didn't know what was in it.

"Huh," sniffed Dagenhardt. "What could I do with that?"

Up galloped Alvin Schnurr, taxi starter, who had just spied the reticule. "Everybody's looking for you. Where've you been?"

"Here all the time, waiting for a fare," said Larter.

Larter's eyes bulged when Schnurr told him what he had. And so a telegram was sent to Mrs. Lamm informing her her reticule was locked in the vault of the cab company.

Parrot Talked Too Much So Neighbor Shoots Him

Niles Center, Ill.—Because it talked too much, a parrot owned by Mrs. William Leugger is dead.

The parrot called Ferdinand Kutz's chickens to feed so often that they became poorly, so Kutz shot the bird. Mrs. Leugger had him arrested.

Crippled Lad a "Hiker."

Birmingham, Ala.—With one foot crippled, Frank J. Vaght, fifteen years old, is "hiking" from New York city to his home here. Each summer the youth travels to a distant city and spends his vacation there, selling magazines to support himself.

Oil City, Pa.—Dragged into the path of an automobile by his pet dog, which was pulling a little cart, William Vowinkel was crushed to death by the machine. Another boy in the cart rolled out of the way of the wheels.

Silence Pigs With Chloroform.

Darlington, Wis.—Authorities believe that thieves used chloroform to silence the 45 young pigs which they stole from the farm of J. W. Mitchell. It is thought they used the same method in stealing 200 chickens.

Bride and Husband Killed by Gas.

Springfield, Mass.—Married two weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Binelli were found dead in their home. Death was caused by gas escaping from a leaky connection, doctors said.

Deaf Mute Gamblers Too Noisy; Raided

New York.—"Some one is tearing down the house next door; at least that's the way it sounds."

This telephone message sent five policemen hurrying to a house in this city, where they found 19 deaf mutes gambling. The gamblers were in the act of pounding their feet on the floor after a good deal when the "cops" arrived.

SLACKER POSED AS OWN MOTHER FOR FIVE YEARS

Death of Woman Discloses Draft Dodging Case in Wisconsin.

Marshfield, Wis.—The strange story of a man who evaded the draft in 1915 by posing as his own mother, and who has continued the masquerade until the present, became known when neighbors visited the little farm of Mrs. Frank Schweighofer, near here, to aid in plans for her funeral.

Mrs. Schweighofer, a widow, and her son, Frank, then twenty-eight, earned a meager living when the war broke out by farming their plot of ground.

Frank, German born, determined not to enter the army, not only because he did not wish to fight the troops of his native land, but because he feared to leave his mother alone.

He disappeared. Nothing had been heard of him until neighbors, learning of the mother's death, came to the cabin home. Frank admitted them. Then he told the story.

"You used to see what you took to be my bent old mother working in the field," he said.

"Well, it wasn't she. I didn't go away. I stayed right here and dressed in my mother's clothes.

"Only one of us at a time would leave the house. I have kept up the deception until now, working the farm in her clothing."

Cat Angered at Seeing Own Image in Show Case

Huntington Park, Cal.—Huntington Park has a cat that fights its own reflection.

The little animal has attracted the attention of many passers-by, who for a moment think the cat has "gone mad." It will start to pass one of the show cases in the shop it calls home, when, on looking in, will see its reflection, and then the battle will begin. It will lunge at the reflection, and not receiving a response when it bounds against the glass, will back up, and with its back in an inverted V shape, will start at the reflection again.

Believing the "cat in the glass" is mocking it, the real kitten will make several attempts to get at its likeness. After trying itself out, it will seek a corner and forget the one-cat battle for a while.

Mother Wants Judge to Send Son to Penitentiary

Philadelphia.—Judge, send my boy back to the penitentiary, he hasn't learned his lesson in good citizenship yet." This appeal was made by Mrs. Alice Devlin, mother of Leo Devlin, when the youth was arraigned before Magistrate Lindell on a charge of highway robbery.

At the hearing it developed that Devlin had been released on parole from the eastern Pennsylvania penitentiary after serving a two-year sentence for robbery.

When this fact was brought out, the prisoner's mother, her face seamed with care and worry, and her cheeks stained with tears, begged Magistrate Lindell to send her son "back to the penitentiary."

Puts 18 Acres of Corn in Silo in One Day

Kenosha, Wis.—Cutting 18 acres of corn and making it into silage within less than a working day was the task performed by John Padden on the Cull farm near here recently. He commanded the aid of neighbors when Jack Frost threatened to destroy his crop. Eighteen men, thirty horses, two binders and eight wagons were used in the work. By four o'clock in the afternoon the entire 18 acres of corn had been changed into silage.

Autoist Who Killed Boy Shoots Himself

St. Louis, Mo.—Four days after his motorcar ran over and killed a little boy, Edward J. Wagoner, of St. Louis, shot and killed himself.

A few hours later a coroner's jury held him blameless for the accident. Wagoner had been unable to sleep since the accident, his wife said.

ADOPTS EIGHT CHILDREN, FORGETS TWO OF HIS OWN

Divorced Wife Says Chicagoan Was Great on Promises and in Arrears on Alimony.

Chicago.—Charles G. Strauss of 1238 North La Salle street, acclaimed a hero when he appeared before Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to adopt eight children and cited by the judge himself as an exemplar of humanitarian virtues, was described differently by Mrs. Mollie Strauss, his divorced wife.

When he applied for adoption papers, Mr. Strauss did not mention Mrs. Strauss, who conducts a boarding-house at 2234 Jackson boulevard. They have been divorced four years.

"He should be adopting children," said Mrs. Strauss. "He's got two of his own that I've been supporting—Carl, fourteen, and Margaret, twelve. The court instructed him to pay me $50 a month alimony and he's in arrears almost a year."

Mrs. Strauss has had her attorney, Richard C. Betts of 70 West Monroe street, file action against her husband. She appeared before Judge Harry M. Fisher and signed a complaint concerning the non-payment of alimony.

"He was always great on promises," she said. "He painted beautiful pictures of a home, an automobile and servants, but all he has ever done so far is to owe me money."

Women Convicts Vie for Beauty Honors in Prison

San Francisco.—Rivalry among the beauties stopping for a period of from ten years to life at San Quentin penitentiary is causing more or less concern to the prison authorities.

The prison regulations allow women prisoners to receive such cosmetics as are considered necessary by modern women. The modern women on the "outside" haven't anything on the modern women prisoners in the care of Warden James A. Johnston. All of the necessities for such beauty required on the outside are all necessary for those on the "inside" according to the orders checked over daily by the warden.

The arrival of Clara Phillips, the "batterer slayer," and a rivalry as to whether she or Mrs. Louise Peete would be declared the most beautiful prisoner in the prison, gave fresh impetus to the demand for beauty preparations.

The fifty-two women prisoners are keenly interested in all the latest processes for preserving youth and beauty, but their supply of these "necessities" is more or less curtailed by prison regulations.

Whirlwind Hurls Oats Into Farmer's Barn

Parish, N. Y.—A whirlwind played a peculiar prank on the George Weaver farm here.

A load of oats was standing near the barn when the storm broke. The wind carried the oats into the barn and piled them on the floor. When the whirlwind spent its force, Mr. Weaver went into the barn and pitched the oats into a loft.

New York.—Declaring that she bobbed her hair because her husband pulled her about the house with his hands gripping it when it was long, Mrs. Dora Anisfield had her husband arrested for cruelty. He was sent to jail.

Pearls Gathered in Many Parts of World

The pearl is a globular concretion found in the shells of certain bivalve molluscs, highly valued for ornamental purposes, and classed among gems. The principal sources of pearls are the pearl oyster, found throughout the Pacific ocean; the pearl mussel; and the freshwater mussel. The chief pearl fisheries are those of Ceylon, carried on principally in the Gulf of Manaar. Those of the Persian gulf were known to the ancients. Pearls are also obtained from the Sulu archipelago, northeastern Borneo; New Guinea, Gulf of Mexico, and Australia. Native divers descend 60 or 70 feet, weighted by a stone and lowered from a boat by a rope. They carry a net and gather the pearl oysters in it. They remain below for 30 or 40 seconds at a time, and are hoisted to the surface after signaling with a rope. The oysters are allowed to rot on the beach in the sun's rays. Then in seven or ten days the decayed oysters are searched for pearls.

Artificial pearls are largely made in France, Germany, and Italy, by blowing a thin globe of glass and filling it with a solution of ammonia and fish scales.

Prometheus

The word Prometheus, the name of a character in Grecian mythology, means forethought, and forethought is the father of invention. According to the Grecian tradition, Prometheus taught man the use of fire, and instructed him in architecture, astronomy, mathematics, writing, rearing cattle, navigation, medicine, the art of prophecy, working metal, and indeed, every art known to man. The tale is that he made man of clay, and in order to endow his clay with life, stole fire from heaven and brought it to earth in a hollow tube. Zeus, who in Grecian mythology corresponds to Jupiter in the Roman mythology, in punishing Prometheus, chained him to a rock, and sent an eagle to consume his liver daily. During the night it grew again, and thus the torment of Prometheus was ceaseless, until Hercules shot the eagle, and unchained the captive.

Old Superstitions

Two very old stage superstitions are never to quote "Macbeth" and never to wear real flowers on the stage. This is seldom done, even now. There may be a good reason for this superstition, because if the petals should drop they might cause players to slip on the stage.

Main Road Lacking in Allurement of Byway

Even before the automobiles took over the main roads it was better to walk in the byways. Along the lesser roads people are not too hurried for a friendly greeting as they pass, and the very animals of the back country are less sophisticated—the horses and cattle look up from their pasture to gaze with frank interest at each passerby.

Then, coming from time to time across the quiet of the countryside, are sounds that men have always heard gladly—the far-off crowing, like a mellow bugle, of a barnyard king—the distant creak and rattle of a farmer's heavy wagon rolling on upon the hills.

But best of all are the moments of discovery: late afternoon, when the shadows are growing long, and the road, bending suddenly about a low hill facing toward the bay, comes out upon a wide view down a valley wooded with dark green pines—and then beyond, a great stretch of fair water, deeply blue.

That is the allurements of the byways; quaintness is all about, and beauty lies in wait—perhaps around the next turning of the lane.—Collier's.

Shakespeare or Bacon?

A heated discussion arose in the Nineteenth century from an attempt, on the part of Miss Della Bacon, to prove that Lord Francis Bacon was the author of the plays commonly attributed to Shakespeare. William H. Smith, an English scholar; Nathaniel Holmes, in his "Authorship of Shakespeare," and Mrs. Henry Holmes have also labored in the same direction. In 1888 Ignatius Donnelly produced his work entitled "The Great Cryptogram," wherein he endeavored to show "that Bacon's authorship is avowed under a cypher in the text of the plays in the folio of 1623." Shakespearean scholars do not accept the Baconian theory of authorship.

The First Ad

The first known English newspaper advertisement concerned, not pills, soap, tobacco, liquor or ladies' clothing, but a lost horse. It appeared in the Moderate, of March 27, 1649, and ran: "Reader, thou art entreated to enquire after a blackish and kind of piebald nag, very poor, his face, feet and flank white, and a little white tip on his tail, wall eyes. He was stolen from grass from John Rotherham, of Barnet, in Hertfordshire. Whosoever will enquire, find him out, and bring or send tidings of him shall have what content they will for their pains."

OUR BUSINESS WOMEN

There are a great many qualifications that are necessary to a successful business woman. But the first among those qualifications is ambition. This may seem a curious statement at first, but how few business women are willing to devote the very best part of her mind and energy to her business, she can never rise to great success.

Ambition helps her first of all to overcome her natural timidity. A young woman in entering employment in an office is apt to discount her own ability and to magnify that of her employer. With a lump in her throat, of which her manner is too likely to give evidence, she knocks at the door of enterprises that seem to her to present real opportunities, and from many of these she is turned away disheartened.

Life is a harsh fact for the average girl and the young woman who enters the business world. Many of our Carteret young women are realizing it or have gone through it. Only the woman who realizes this truth at the very beginning of her career can go on gallantly and lose none of her charm and loveliness that is woman's birthright, if not her real reason for being.

The price our women pay for business is not a slight one. The easy acceptance of the good things of life that the non-working woman possesses, the woman worker loses early in the game. However what one must retain is a passion for work and for the accomplishment of real things, and for making oneself constantly a more useful, a more intelligent, a more idealistic human being.

THE BOY AND HIS GANG

The belonging instincts seems to be natural to boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen and the majority of our Carteret boys belong to gangs at some period or other of their career.

In its essential characteristics, the gang is a real social body, animated by a common consciousness with a completeness hardly found in the associations of later life. It is the budding of the human faculty of membership; the boy is coming to himself as the destined member of a social organization.

Team play is the highest expression of membership in the gang, the most wholehearted surrender to the belonging instinct. The player learns that the team is, in the first place and always, a work of faith. Next to team games come the more direct and primitive expressions of the instincts upon which these are based. The instinct of tribal war, which forms the basis of football and to a less extent of baseball and many other games, finds satisfaction in fights with rival gangs, the preferable weapons being stones, sticks and snowballs.

Our boys must have social and recreational activities. The only question then is: shall we furnish them under the proper control, or shall we continue to permit the commercially minded to traffic with their souls?

THE SCHOOL BELL RINGS

The streets of the borough are again full of life. There is happiness, laughter, gayety and joy. For the schools are wide open. It is a wonderful sight to watch the babes, the grown-up boys and girls tramp to and from the school buildings. To the older resident of the borough, it brings wonderful recollections and a journey back to youth, when they too have enjoyed the stress and flurry of going to school. The happy kids produce a little inspiration for those who believe that the whole world is wrong, and have a refreshing effect upon those who believe that life is a wonderful thing.

Danger in Carrying Good Humor Too Far

There was once a woodcutter who had the reputation of being the most good-humored man for twenty miles round, says a writer in the Yorkshire Post. His life had been hard, for his parents had died when he was barely sixteen, and he had had to support himself by woodcutting, with no help from any one. He had never been able to marry, and lived by himself in a small hut deep in the forest.

One day he was out cutting down a very hard oak tree; he had only struck a few blows when—crack—the handle of his ax broke in two, and the head, bouncing off a knot in the wood, rolled away down the steep hillside, and in a moment had vanished from sight into a deep ravine.

This was the only ax that the woodcutter possessed, but he simply smiled, scratched his head, lit his pipe and returned home. It was cold weather, and on reaching his hut he found that wolves had broken in and eaten nearly all his food. "Never mind," he said to himself. "No use getting angry. It's lucky I still have a bit of cheese locked in the cupboard, and as for the ax, I'll have to try to borrow one."

That night there was a heavy snowfall and the woodcutter woke to find his roof leaking, and snow streaming onto the floor. "I must mend that tomorrow," he thought. "I'm lucky to have a bed to lie in." But during the next hour, the blizzard redoubled; the woodcutter's roof gave way completely; he was snowed under in his sleep and never woke. This story shows plainly that good humor, though a useful quality, is a little dangerous if entirely unmixed.

Esparto Grass Used for Many Purposes

The route to Gafsa is constantly traversed by trains of camels with esparto grass. This grass is very plentiful in the central uplands of Tunisia, but as a depot is sometimes a six days' journey and 60 centimes is the price of a load, there is not much of a fortune in it for the collectors, remarks the Christian Science Monitor.

At the depots it is pressed into bales with primitive presses and then exported. Esparto is of very tough texture and great flexibility, and for centuries it has been used for making ropes, sandals, mats and baskets. In the Spanish navy cables made of esparto are used.

Gafsa is an Arab town with no European buildings except the barracks. Two Arab houses, at a little distance apart, constitute the only hotel. The oasis here is specially beautiful, particularly the apricot trees which are of immense size and apparent age and laden with very small fruit. Arabs never prune their trees; when the fruit becomes too woody to eat, down comes the tree.

Smelling a Rainbow

From time immemorial English country folk have believed that they can smell a rainbow. Of course it is a mistake to believe that a rainbow has any smell, but the peculiar odor may be caused in this way: Rainbows are most common in the warm days of spring, when growing vegetation of many kinds is giving out fragrance and the moist air is filled with a wonderful blending of aromatic odors. How many people believe that the direction of the wind at the turn of the season indicates what is to be expected during the coming three months! There is no scientific evidence that such is the case. Probably the idea arose from the circumstance that British weather tends to preserve its character. Thus, if a certain kind of weather is expected for ten days, the probability is greater that the type will persist for another period, rather than that a change will come about.

High Value of Brick

It is an interesting fact that brick making, the most ancient of all the industries producing manufactured building materials, is today one of the basic industries of the nation. It is difficult to destroy a brick. Vast quantities of the bricks made in the early days of the industry may still be found on the sites of the ruined cities of antiquity. Bricks made nowadays are composed of exactly the same material and manufactured according to the same principles as the ancient product. The composite price of brick all over the United States works out today at a little over $15 per thousand. Brick, therefore, is a manufactured article weighing from four to five pounds, costing about a cent and a half, and capable of giving several thousand years of service. It is the cheapest manufactured material on the market.

Cuckoo Superstitions

There are numerous superstitions associated with the hearing of the cuckoo's first call. In the maritime highlands and Hebrides if the cuckoo is first heard by one who has not broken his fast some misfortune is expected. Indeed, besides the danger, it is considered a reproach to one to have heard the cuckoo while hungry, says the Detroit News.

In France to hear the cuckoo for the first time fasting is to make the hearer "an idle do-nothing for the rest of the year" or "to numb his limbs" for the same period. There is a similar belief in certain parts of the west of England. In Northumberland one is told, if walking on a hard road when the cuckoo first calls, that the ensuing season will be full of calamity. To be on soft ground is a lucky omen.

Something to Think About By F. A. WALKER

JUST A STEP BEYOND

JUST a step beyond the barriers which have so long defied us, and we are sure of our ground, certain of realizing our fondest hopes, and marching on with the victors.

The thought thrills us with elation, but how hard it is to make the final stride when we are worn and weary.

Human nature is prone to lose courage when the chase is tiresome. It inclines to become disheartened when carefully worked out plans and calculations fall immediately to produce anticipated results.

The fatal fault with most of us is lack of patience, coupled with an inclination to be governed by impulse rather than reason at the turning moment when everything is dependent on endurance and firmness of purpose.

We incline to haste when we should go slowly and take accurate account of our energy, where we should conserve it, that our minds may not be filled with fear and finally overcome with sickening apprehension.

In business, as in love, most of our miserable failures result from our refusal to consider seriously the step beyond.

For some paltry reason, a whim of the fancy, or a luxury of activity, we find ourselves at the crucial moment weary of the chase.

So we sit in the inviting shade of a friendly nook, while our more ambitious rivals steal a march upon us and capture the prize, only a step beyond our impatient reach.

The blame is our own. But the truth never penetrates our souls until the clear perspective of years gives us a sharper vision which enables us to see our folly.

It is not until then that we fully understand our shortcomings.

To make amends for our own deficiencies, we proceed to pass around advice to our intimates, which, as a rule, falls on barren ground. They know us!

There is but a step between success and failure, likewise but a step between hope and despair. When the occasion comes for action very few of us, alas, know how to make the step, though it is inviting and has an air of simplicity.

And yet there is probably no other movement so vitally important to man's future success as the step just beyond.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl By HELEN BOWLAND

EVERY man believes that a girl should have romantic and beautiful ideals—but that she should consider them all fulfilled when she succeeds in marrying a fat little man with a double chin and a passion for golf.

Many a beautiful memory of romance has been spoiled by a woman's foolish attempt to cling to the reality, until she choked the last spark of life out of it.

There still exists, here and there, the kind of woman who would not look under the bed for a burglar without first powdering her nose and seeing if her hair looked right.

Sometimes, when one man steals a woman from another, the latter feels almost as a dog would feel if another dog stole his muzzle.

The average man firmly believes that, when a woman pronounces to "love and obey" that she should go right on doing so automatically, no matter what he may do to displease her.

MILK IS NATURE'S PATENT

The only food she ever made solely for food. It cannot be reproduced artificially. Only nature herself can perfectly blend all the elements of a well-balanced diet as she has in milk. Milk sounds like patent medicine when all its virtues are catalogued. It is the oldest prescription in the world—Nature's prescription for the building of strong, healthy bodies, Nature's revitalizer, Nature's maker of rich, red blood, Nature's nerve quieter, Nature's antidote for that "tired feeling." If milk were put up in bottles of different shape and size, if it were given a fanciful name and announced for what it really is as "The Greatest Body and Health Restorer in the World," people would flock to buy it at fancy prices. But because it costs so little and is delivered every morning at your doorstep, we seldom give its virtues thought. We are apt to disregard the value of familiar things. "LITTLE ROBINSON CRUSOE" A BIG HIT

Jackie Coogan's Newest Metro-Goldwyn Picture Great Entertainment—To Be at the Local Theatres Next Week.

Seemingly there is no end to the possibilities of Jackie Coogan's genius as an actor; no limit to his powers of appeal. He is at the Crescent Theatre, Wednesday, Sept. 17, matinee and night, and at the Majestic Theatre on Thursday, Sept. 18, matinee and night, in a production, supervised by Jack Coogan, Sr., and directed in its principal elements by Eddie Cline. It is called—with far more propriety than most pictures are named—"Little Robinson Crusoe," and it is a story written expressly for little Jackie by Willard Mack.

This is the first time the picture has been shown in the state of New Jersey.

The Why of Superstitions

By H. IRVING KING

THE BURIED PAPER

A VERY interesting superstition is found among children in some sections of the country. They write the names of two or three hundred—in some sections it is one hundred—persons on a paper and ask each person whose name is written to bow to the document. As the bow is made it is recorded opposite the name by a sign which resembles a crude capital H. The collection of names and signs being completed, the paper is buried face down in the ground. After two or three months it is dug up with the expectation of finding money under it; or, some say, left there until it is decayed, when whatever you wished for at its burial will "come true." It has been suggested that the sign placed after the names on the paper was originally the zodiacal sign for Pisces, the fishes.

The fish, on high authority, was "the most obvious and ancient symbol of the reproductive power of water." The fecundation of the earth by water is the basis of some of the most ancient and prominent mythological cults. Thus burying the sign of Pisces in the earth results in production. The names on the paper represent human sacrifices to, say Panmix and Ishtar, who, in the ancient Semitic legend, were the god and goddess typifying this union of water and earth and who were thus invoked. It is well known that human sacrifice, once universal, was replaced as civilization developed, into the sacrifice of a substitute for the human victim.

"Will-o'-the-Wisp" is a popular name for a phenomenon called ignis fatuus, which in Latin means "foolish fire." It is a light which appears floating in the atmosphere a few feet above the ground in marshes or other places where there is decaying animal matter. When approached it appears, as a rule, to recede. It has been attributed to phosphorated or carbureted hydrogen escaping from decaying substances.

GOOD EATING

When the oven is in use and one wishes to utilize all the space, try baking small sausage cakes with quartered potatoes, basting the potatoes occasionally so that they will be a golden brown when tender. Serve the sausage on the platter with the potatoes around it.

Braised Ducks. -Lay three slices of fat ham upon the rack of the roaster, next a minced onion, a stalk of celery chopped, a sliced carrot and a tablespoonful of chopped parsley. Clean and truss but do not stuff the ducks. Lay them on the vegetables and pour boiling water over them. Cover the roaster closely and cook in a moderate oven for two hours. Take up the ducks, strain the liquor from the pan and let it stand sufficiently to harden the fat. Skim the gravy carefully and return to the fire in a saucepan, keeping the ducks closely covered over boiling water. Boil up the gravy, add a teaspoonful of lemon juice and thicken slightly with browned flour. Have the giblets ready boiled and chopped and add them to the gravy. Pour this sauce again over the ducks in the roaster, bring all to the boiling point and serve fowls with the sauce poured round them. Serve with apple sauce and currant jelly.

Cabinet Pudding. -Sprinkle the bottom of a well-buttered pudding mold with chopped citron, raisins and currants; add a layer of sponge cake and sprinkle lightly with cinnamon and cloves. Alternate these layers until the mold is full. Pour over the mixture two cupfuls of milk, two beaten eggs, a pinch of salt and two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Let stand for an hour, then steam well covered in a pan of boiling water for an hour. Turn out and serve with lemon hard sauce.

Green Onions With Cream. -Slice small green onions into rich thick cream, add salt and cayenne and serve. This is a delicious salad to serve with bread and butter sandwiches for a night luncheon.

Schools in Early Days

The first schools were started in the early history of mankind. Schools were first held out of doors and the teaching was conducted orally, similar to the Hindu Brahmin schools. Among the Hebrews the laws were expounded by oral teaching from the porches of the temples. The amount of instruction greatly increased from the mere oral teaching of the law until it involved letters and arithmetic. Among the Spartans the education was almost entirely along new lines. Elementary schools became common after the Christian era and in 64 A. D. they were made obligatory. In Athens nearly all of the schools were private, teaching music and literature, reading, writing, arithmetic, geography and drawing. In early Rome the schools taught reading and writing and sometimes arithmetic.

Our Country

We inhabit a country which has been dignified to the great history of freedom. We live under forms of government more favorable to its diffusion than any other the world has known. A succession of incidents of rare curiosity and almost mysterious connection has marked out America as a great theater of political reform. Many circumstances stand recorded in our annals connected with the assertion of our rights.

Statistics guard my slumber deep. If I should die, I'm not concerned, I may get wet but I won't get burned."—Haven Talk.

MAKES PLEA FOR THIEF WHO HAD MENACED LIFE

Banker Shattuck Asks Mercy for Man Who Had None for Him.

Paris.—At the end of a trail of vengeance that led half way around the world and cost two lives, hundreds of thousands of dollars, Albert R. Shattuck, American millionaire, found pity.

The story goes back to a day in 1922, when the soft-spoken butler in the Shattuck home on Washington square, New York, turned with a snarl upon his employers, and blew sharply on a whistle.

The gardener and one of the kitchen boys dropped their masks of servility and became snarling bandits, like their chief. Three other apaches, waiting outside, were admitted. Revolvers and ugly knives were whipped out.

No Hesitation to Kill. The astonished banker, his wife and four loyal servants were driven down to the cellar at the pistol's point.

There Mourey insulted Mrs. Shattuck vilely. Only the certainty that the apache would not hesitate to kill restrained the white-haired millionaire from violence. Into an alighting wire vault the handiwork forced their victims, with curses and degrading remarks.

The door was slammed shut upon them and locked.

Death was but a few hours away for all, as the air was bad and scarce.

Upstairs, the bandits swiftly ransacked the house, took jewelry valued at $70,000 and made away scattering them over the world.

Some were caught, but Mourey disappeared.

Inside the vault, Shattuck alone kept his head. With a dime's edge and a broken penknife, the banker attacked the hinges of the heavy steel door. Loosening the screws with the utmost difficulty, he pried the door open and tottered, with his wife in his arms, into the cellar, just as every one was on the point of collapse.

From that day, Shattuck swore vengeance upon Mourey. He did not talk of it much, but private detective agencies learned quickly that there was no limit to the reward if they could trap the apache.

Mourey was heard of first in this country, then in that, hunted day and night, but always eluding pursuit.

Shattuck kept on the trail. It led to the Indies, then to Europe, then to Africa. Still the handiwork kept ahead of the international police put on his track. Justice became the banker's one aim. Some called it vengeance. Then Mourey was trapped. A woman was the leader in the deed—his sweetheart, with whom he kept in touch throughout the flight.

Trapped With Sweetheart. Growing bolder, the bandit came to Paris, or rather to a little villa outside the city, where his sweetheart used to meet him.

One day the gendarmes of Paris followed her to the villa and a revolver battle ensued before Mourey threw up his hands. One was mortally wounded. First an attempt was made to have the apache king taken to New York, but it was decided the French charges against him were the more serious.

The jury found Mourey guilty as charged, resisting an officer with violence, which resulted in the fatal wounding of the police. The judge sentenced him to die on the guillotine.

The Shattucks, their long pursuit ended, wrote to Doumergue: "Justice cannot ignore pity. This man has expressed regret for his crimes. We believe he is sincere."

Sought to End Life Where Son Is Buried

North Bergen, N. J.—Charles Alexander attempted suicide on the grave of his son in Fairview cemetery, according to police, who found his body washed up on the grass-enclosed pavement.

The police state Alexander went to the cemetery and remained at the grave throughout the night. It is said poison was used by the brooding man in his suicidal attempt. Physicians at a local hospital declared he will recover.

Edgar was the son's name. Seven years ago, at the age of nine, the boy was killed in a railroad accident.

Fall Asleep on Floor Near Father's Cell

Ossining, N. Y.—Tears of sympathy trickled down the cheeks of attendants in the death house at Sing Sing when the daughter and son, three and two years old, respectively, of Frank Minnick, a Buffalo prisoner, fell asleep on the floor of the corridor outside the door of the cell occupied by their father.

Death-house guards obtained pillows and blankets for the children, while their mother and father, who had not seen each other since he was brought to Sing Sing two months ago, talked together for the last time.

MEN IN HARD FIGHT TO BEAT OFF SHARK

Sea Monster Attacks Fishermen in Small Boat.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Saved from death after a struggle of an hour with a huge saucer-eyed shark with double rows of spear-shaped teeth, which sought to devour them, Richard Gunther and Donald Cavanaugh are seeking the body of the giant killer which they hope to keep as a souvenir after it is washed ashore.

Gunther and Cavanaugh, who is fourteen years old, were fishing in an open boat a mile offshore from Newport beach when the shark attacked them, evidently attracted by the bait.

The huge killer, 20 feet long, circled the boat several times, then raced toward it and attempted to seize the boy.

Commanding the youth to crouch in the bottom of the boat, Gunther grabbed a spear which he keeps in the boat and slashed the shark with it. This only seemed to infuriate it. It attacked again, drenching the water with its blood. Then it seized the gunwale in its jaws and tore a jagged hole in the craft.

Just as Gunther, exhausted, believed he could no longer ward off the shark, two men in a boat, nearby, attracted by the boy's cries for help, came to the rescue and renewed the attack. Apparently mortally wounded, the shark swam slowly away.

Dies When Success Is Within Her Grasp

San Jose, Cal.—Driven by fear that she had failed in her final examinations, pretty Miss Ina Sarah Luix, twenty-one-year-old student of the State Teachers' college, shot herself in the head and died, while a letter telling she had passed her examinations was in the postman's bag.

The girl had failed one examination last winter, after she had been attending the college for two and a half years. She was reinstated, given another chance, and she was taking her final test.

For several mornings she had been rising at three o'clock to cram with facts before she entered the day's examination. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Luix, heard her moving about in her room. At five o'clock they heard a shot.

Housed from sleep, the girl's father ran to her room and found her lying in a pool of blood, her books, papers and notes by her body. She died a short time later. On the morning delivery of mail the postman brought a letter from the college, telling the girl she had passed her tests.

Liquor Tested on Rats Lands Couple in Jail

Omaha, Neb.—Thirteen sleek rats, penned in a cage in a chemist's laboratory, were instrumental in government agents obtaining conviction of an Omaha man and his wife on a liquor selling charge, with subsequent sentence of a year in jail and a heavy fine for each in Federal court.

The question of sampling the liquor which the pair sold was brought up in court, and to determine whether it was fit for human consumption, the agents submitted it to a chemist. He fed it to the rats and then watched their reaction.

The rodents displayed many of the characteristics of an intoxicated human, the chemist reported. Not one died, rather they all thrived, he declared on the witness stand. Although defense counsel questioned the admissibility of the experiment as evidence, it was allowed to stand as indicating the potency and possibilities of the liquor for beverage purposes.

"Too Happy to Live"; Rich Youth Kills Self

Quebec.—The body of an unidentified young man who apparently had committed suicide because wealth had made him "too happy," was found beside a house bearing a New York state license, near St. Come de Beauce, about 75 miles from Montreal.

"I'm not afraid, my house is useless to you. But I wish the world to know that I committed suicide because I was too happy. I always got what I wanted in my life. My parents are millionaires. I do not find life good enough to remain in it. I have a strong longing to find out what there is in another life."

There was a bullet wound in the head.

MAPLE SUGAR TIME

There are so many delicious dishes which may be made with sugar and sirup from the sugar maple that a few thoughts about it may be a sweet reminder of what we may enjoy.

In frozen dishes, filling for cakes, sauce or puddings, candies and many other ways we may use the delicious sugar and sirup.

Maple Fudge Frosting.—Take one cupful of maple sugar, one-third of a cupful of cream, one tablespoonful of butter, beat slowly until the sugar is dissolved. Now boil to the soft ball stage and beat until thick enough to spread without running off.

Maple Parfait.—Beat the yolks of four eggs until thick; add a little salt and pour over them a cupful of hot maple sirup; stir until smooth and the eggs well cooked, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, add a pinch of salt and a quart of thin cream. Freeze, pack and let stand to ripen.

An ordinary vanilla ice cream is delicious served with a maple sauce, hot, and sprinkled with chopped nuts.

Maple Biscuit.—Sift two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, then rub in two tablespoonfuls of fat, add three-quarters of a cupful of milk. Mix and roll out to one inch in thickness and cut into rounds. Brush half of them thickly with grated maple sugar after spreading with butter and put together in pairs in the pan. Bake in a hot oven. Nice to serve with afternoon tea.

Maple Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of shortening, add one-half cupful of sugar and one cupful of maple sugar; beat well, add two whole eggs well beaten or the yolks of four, and one-half cupful of hot water. Sift two and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, add to the first mixture, add a flavor of maple and bake in layers. Put together with fudge frosting.

"Prestige"

Strange are the ways of words. Of which there is no better example than the fact that "prestige," which names the power or influence of a good reputation, should have had its beginning in the tricks of a juggler! Yet that is how it started.

"Prestige" goes back to the Latin "praestigiae," meaning juggling tricks—the same derivation as our "prestidigitation" which is sleight-of-hand. And the explanation of this strange transition is in the fact that in the myth and goblin-tenanted days of the far-distant past, juggling tricks were supposed to manifest enchantment, which was regarded with the very highest admiration and respect hence "prestige."

Not for Himself Alone

Man was not made for himself alone. No, he was made for his country, by the obligations of the social compact; he was made for his species, by the Christian duties of universal charity; he was made for all ages past, by the sentiment of reverence for his forefathers; and he was made for all future times, by the impulse of affection for his progeny. The voice of history has not, in all its compass, a note that does not answer in unison with these sentiments.—John Quincy Adams.

Kerbau's Sensitive Nose

Malay bull fights are not like those we are accustomed to read about, a writer in the Youth's Companion tells us. The contestants are generally water buffaloes—animals that, says Mr. Carveth Wells in Asia, the Malays call kerbau.

A kerbau, or carabao, as it is often written in English, makes, continues Mr. Wells, a white man's life miserable because he does not like the white man's smell, though he doesn't mind the smell of a Chinese or a Malay. If you think you have no smell, just go near a kerbau! He not only sees you a long way off, but he instantly begins to sniff the air. Then he lays his ears back and rushes at you. I remember once being chased out of a rice field by a kerbau. The rice was growing in deep mud, and I was rushing along up to my knees, with the great animal floundering behind me. While I was shrieking for help a little Malay boy about four years old and quite naked ran up, caught the bull by the nose and led him away! Never in my life had I felt such a fool!

Spanish Swamp Home of Wild Camel Herd

Wild camels exist in western Europe, within two days' journey from Piccadilly circus, writes a correspondent of the London Mail. There are a considerable number of them in this mysterious "colony," but no one knows exactly how many. To survive they have actually become semi-aquatic.

On the Guadalquivir in Andalusia is the dreariest malarial swamp in Spain, and perhaps in the world, an endless vista of waterlogged wilderness, broken only by occasional low islands covered with willow scrub. Here, among enormous flocks of gulls and greylag geese, teal, widgeon, pochard and mallard, dwell the outlaw camels. In another five years the colony will have completed a century of life in western Europe. Their ancestors were brought over from Africa in 1829 by the Marquis de Villafraanca for farm work.

Villafraanca's horses panicked, however, as horses will unless carefully "acclimatized" to camel, and there were some nasty accidents. Rather than have the work of his estates upset by labor trouble, the marquis turned his camels loose. Some were killed. The descendants of those who took to the "marisma" survived.

Vision of Cookhouse Reads Like Gulliver

In Paul Bunyan's camp there was a great cookhouse with a kitchen like another Mammoth cave, and a dining hall wherein, under huge and lofty beams, the tables were ranged like the ranks of an army corps drawn up for parade on a plain. Here were served breakfasts of ham and eggs and hot cakes, and huge and incomparable Sunday dinners and the simpler weekday meals of which the coffee was most highly praised, writes James Stephens in the American Mercury.

Paul Bunyan invented a machine for the mixing of the hot-cake batter, so perfectly devised that paving contractors now employ small models of it for mixing cement. The range on which a battalion of cooks fried the hot cakes was greased by a ski champion from Norway, who skied to and from with sides of bacon strapped to his feet.

And that the men in the far end of the cookhouse might be served before the hot cakes cooled, the flunkies speeded on roller skates. It required a crew of 11 teamsters with teams and scampers to keep the yard back of the cookhouse cleared of coffee grounds and egg shells.

URGE TRUNK SEWER OVER NOE'S CREEK

MAYOR MULVIHILL WANTS TO ELIMINATE DEPLORABLE CONDITION AT CREEK WHICH IS HAZARDOUS TO THE HEALTH OF THE PEOPLE—TO GET ESTIMATES.

SIDEWALKS FOR TWO MORE STREETS

Residents of Randolph Street Petition the Council For Bluestone Curb—To Advise for Bids for The Construction of Sidewalks on Emerson St. —Council at Short Session on Monday Night.

The borough council at a special meeting held Tuesday night indicated considerable interest in the suggestion of Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill to build a trunk sewer at Noe's creek, passing through the centre of the town, or if that was too expensive to cut a straight ditch and clean-up the present bad state of affairs. The mayor said that the civility of the creek is rapidly building up, yet the odor is exasperating for those who live in that immediate vicinity. The unhealthful condition should be abolished, the mayor said and proposed that the engineer prepare a tentative estimate as to what it would cost to build a sewer or cut a straight ditch. The motion was unanimous and the engineer was instructed to proceed to submit figures. Councilman Child suggested the building of a septic tank at that point, if possible. Every member of the council was of the opinion that the taxpayers would back up such a project, should the council and the mayor put it before them. "I will get the figures and present the matter to the people," the mayor said.

A petition was received from residents of Randolph street from Pershing avenue to Lafayette street for blue stone curb. It was referred to the engineer and the attorney who will prepare the necessary ordinances. Two resolutions were passed instructing the clerk to advertise for bids for the construction of sidewalks on Emerson street from Carteret avenue to Washington avenue and sidewalks on Roosevelt avenue from Washington avenue to Carteret Ferry. Permit was granted to Richard Mathiasen, contractor of Perth Amboy, to erect a two-story dwelling at 11 Hudson street for Steve Topa. A note for $11,000 for two months was issued.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Doings Among the Local Boy Scouts During Past Week.

The Defense Day program held at Columbus School on last Friday evening was well attended by the Boy Scouts of the borough. They were the only organization that turned out for this event and made an extremely fine showing, and were given loud praise by the various speakers.

Mayor Mulvihill included in his Defense Day speech his appreciation of the scout organization in Carteret, and hoped to see many more troops organized here.

The pledge of Alliance and the Scout oath were features of the Scouts presence, Scout William Schmidt was called upon by the scoutmaster to recite the scout oath for the benefit of those present. This was followed by a twenty-minute talk on preparedness by Scoutmaster Robinson of Troop No. 2, who gave the audience to understand just what a real Boy Scout stands for; he also told some humorous stories on military, scout and civilian life that were well taken. Mr. Robinson also explained how Boy Scouts all over the United States are conducting an intensive non partisan campaign in getting every qualified citizen to register and vote both at the primary and general elections of 1924. Statistics prove, Mr. Robinson says, that only 49 per cent of qualified citizens voted at the 1920 general elections.

Mr. Wilgus followed with a talk on citizenship and defense day and he gave the Scouts an enthusiastic greeting.

Troop No. 2 will meet as usual at the Presbyterian Church basement on Friday evening at 7.30 P. M. Regular meeting. Tests on signaling; map making. First air will be the program, followed by eats. Let's go.

WIFE BEATING IN MARYLAND TOWN IS HALTED

Ancient Law Recently Re- vived in State a De- terrent.

Hagerstown, Md.—Wife beating is out of style in Hagerstown.

Before Lewis Longbeam battered his wife's face almost to a pulp and then asked the judge what he was going to do about it, wife-beating was commonplace. But when Judge Scott Bower answered Longbeam with: "I'm going to sentence you to 15 lashes," the practice suddenly waned.

Along with several others of the blue laws, the whipping law still stands good on the Maryland statute books. It had seldom been invoked, but Judge Bower, glancing down the docket, noticed the growing number of wife-beating cases. He announced that the next case to come before him would be treated as of old. And Longbeam's case happened to be next.

With a blackened, swollen eye and several teeth missing, Mary Longbeam looked on interestedly as her husband was haled before the bar. But as the judge pronounced sentence, her manner changed.

Wife Would Wield Lash.

Pressing her way to the front of the courtroom, she addressed the judge. "Let me lash him, judge! I'll stand on my toes and cut the blood out of his back. Let me give him a dose of his own medicine. What chance has a frail woman against a brute like him? He slaps me as if I were a child. He throws me about like a chair. He beats me like a dog. Let me lash him, judge!"

But the Maryland law provides specifically that the lashing be administered by the sheriff, so Mary Longbeam lost her chance to hand her husband a bit of his own medicine.

The Man Gaped and Grit His Teeth.

Sheriff Duffey got out the old cat-o'-nine-tails, with its five rawhide thongs each split in two. As Longbeam had been sentenced to 15 lashes, this meant 150 stinging cuts in his back.

Thousands Listen for Walls.

Longbeam was taken to a vacant section of the jail, handcuffed to the bars of a cell, and the sheriff began his punishment. Outside thousands waited, hushed, hoping to hear the screams of the wife-beater getting a dose of his own medicine.

The cat-o'-nine-tails whistled through the air and its ends bit into the flesh of Longbeam's bared back. The man gasped and grit his teeth. After ten lashes the flesh shaded from a fiery red to a greenish blue. When the fifteenth lash cut in, it tore the flesh on his left shoulder blade and the blood trickled down and soaked into the white underclothes drawn back over his belt.

Outside the jail gate his wife was waiting. As he came out she shook her fist in his face and cried:

"You brute. I hope they gave it to you good. If only they'd let me lash you! You'd never walked out of here. You'd have been carried."

But, regardless of whether the lashing was severe enough to suit the beaten wife, wife beating has taken a decided slump in Hagerstown.

Girls Must Not Wear "Knickers" in Louisiana

Hammond, La.—The newly ordained law of the county commissioners of Livingston parish prohibiting, among other things, the one-piece bathing suits, kissing, "petting" parties and the wearing of trousers by women, had its first tryout when two pretty nurses, claiming to hail from Mississippi, were arrested at Denham Springs, charged with wearing "knickers." They were taken before a justice of the peace, entered pleas of guilty and were assessed fines of $5 each.

Plans to Cross Sea in "Unsinkable" Boat

Manchester.—A craft 12 feet long will shortly start on a journey across the Atlantic with its builder and skipper, William Oldham, at the helm, according to an announcement given out by Oldham.

The boat is made of steel, with eight water-tight chambers, which the builder claims makes it unsinkable. Oldham proposes to propel the boat by his feet, and is fixing pedals for that purpose, but the pedals can also be used with the hands, which will give William an occasional rest.

Telephone to Teach Better Enunciation

Men who are trying to improve telephone service believe that the telephone will teach its users to speak clearly—not with one conversation, but in the course of time. And, certainly, business would be expedited with perfect enunciation over the telephone. Even a simple name like Dix, say, when passed over the wires may become almost anything—and then it is spelled for verification, thus: "D for Dan, I for Ike, X for X-ray"—words as difficult as the one to be understood.

Progress in plain talking does seem to lag, in the opinion of The Nation's Business. Any optimism in that direction is blighted by the hash in our daily speech. Ideas seem to have transmission as much by telepathy as by telephony. "Wassatugottad 'nighthuh?" But a jumble of letters will make sound and so may give a message to sophisticated ears. The eye is more expert than the ear at registering words. Whoever was fooled by the blanks in the penny dreadfuls of the long ago? The d—s were promptly accepted at their full brimstone content, but a curse by telephone might easily be garbled into a compliment. It's a wise ear that knows its own tongue.

Snake Does Not "Sting"

The stinging snake is a myth. Although thousands of people apparently believe there is such a thing as a stinging snake, and many of them insist that they have seen such snakes, no competent scientist or observer has ever had the privilege of seeing one. Rewards for stinging snakes are occasionally offered, but no such snakes are ever produced. The nearest approach to the supposed stinging snake is the "Farancia abacura," a small, harmless snake with a needle-like spine on its tail. In different parts of the South this snake, along with kindred species, is known variously as the hoop snake, the rainbow snake, the mud snake and the stinging snake. But the notion that these snakes sting with their tails is all poppycock.—Exchange.

Why He Changed Name

Sam was the new office boy in the Business Girl's office. When he was hired she asked him if his whole name were not Samuel, but like Topsy he claimed he was "Just Sam." Several weeks went by. Sam was a very small boy for his age and not at all strong for his size. As there were several men in the office Sam had very little heavy work to do, and it was understood in the office that the heavy work would have to be done by some one huskier than Sam.

One day Sam confided to the Business Girl that he had changed his name to Sam—he said his name had been much worse than that. When the Business Girl asked what his name had been originally he replied, modestly and rather sheepishly, "Samson!"—New York Sun.

A Compliment to All Men

"The love of a good woman for a man is a compliment to all men."
"Women are always making themselves miserable about what they don't see in a man, as though what they did see wasn't quite enough."

"It is a commonplace about women that every woman must now and then make a 'grimace of distaste' into a looking-glass."—From "The Green Hat" by Michael Arlen.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

OPHELIA

OF ALL the fanciful names which appeal to feminine taste, Ophelia possesses perhaps the tenderest memories. Though the name signifies "serpent," only romance, youth, and tragedy are connected with it.

Etymologists declare that Ophelia is an out-and-out invention of Shakespeare. Certainly her claim to immortality is based upon the touching story of the bard of Avon who makes the gentle maiden a striking contrast for the melancholy Dane of "Hamlet." Without her "rosemary for remembrance," Ophelia would still exist among the readers of Shakespeare.

It is possible that Ophelia is a translation of the old Ormilda, a northern appellation derived from the serpent names through the Greek "ophis." There is no other explanation of her existence, unless she was purely an invention of Shakespeare, although a woman does appear in the old story of Amleth. The curious coincidence is, however, that the master dramatist should have placed her in the land chiefly favoring serpentine names.

The opal is the gem assigned to Ophelia. The unfortunate influence which it is said to exert for others will prove a tallman against that very evil if Ophelia wears it. It will bring her good fortune and her heart's desire. Monday is her lucky day and 5 her lucky number. The chrysanthemum is her flower.

Admit Possibility of Metal Transmutation

Nothing better could illustrate the new conceptions of matter now existing in scientific circles than the tone in which the orthodox physicists comment on the report from Germany of the turning of mercury into gold. A few years ago no real scientist would have had the patience to dignify such claims even to the extent of denying them, says the New York Times.

The difference between the elements then was held to be essential and unchangeable. At present there is more than doubt if any essential difference separates any so-called element from any of the others, and to claims of transmutation the answer is "Not impossible!"

The old assumptions as to the indestructibility of matter and the conservation of energy—they, too, have fallen upon evil days, and the respect that used to be theirs has waned to next to nothing. Yet science need not confess fallibility, since it never asserted infallibility. The old hypotheses fitted all of the known facts of their day and they met the pragmatic test—they worked.

It was said of Herbert Spencer that his idea of a tragedy was the overthrowing of a beautiful hypothesis by an ugly fact. In these days no horror at all and not even disquietude is caused by such happenings.

Women and Courtship

Man views it as a great testimony to his prowess at amour to yield up his liberty, his property and his soul to the first woman who, in despair of finding better game, turns her appraising eye upon him. But if you want to hear a mirthless laugh, just present this masculine theory to a bridesmaid at a wedding, particularly after alcohol and crocodile tears have done their disarming work upon her. That is to say, just hint to her that the bride harbored no notion of marriage until stormed into acquiescence by the moonstruck and impetuous bridegroom.—H. L. Mencken, in "In Defense of Women."

Yerba Mate

Yerba mate is a plant from which a beverage is brewed much like tea and yet quite different in many particulars. It is consumed largely in South America, where it is grown and shipped to all parts of the world. It may be drunk by persons who cannot drink tea, and yet it has some of the stimulating qualities of tea. Feuds and even international wars have been waged on account of this plant, the warriors' efforts being in the direction of securing certain secrets regarding its cultivation and preparation which have been held sacred by those who have them.

Deadly Cocklebur

The cocklebur, troublesome as a weed because of its stiffly armed burrs, has been definitely demonstrated to be poisonous to live stock in the early stages of its growth.

INFANTS STARVED TO DEATH FOR DOWRIES

Eight Murders Charged to Tokyo (Japan) Couple.

Tokyo.—A crime that reads like one of Cynthia Stockley's African horrors and makes the story of Bluebeard mild by comparison has been discovered in a Tokyo suburb.

Jukichi Tanaka, thirty-five years old, and his wife, thirty-one, have been arrested on a charge of starving to death eight children whom they had adopted in consideration of dowries amounting to about $35 each.

The crimes, covering three years, were discovered by the police when they were called to investigate the rumor that the couple were starving two children whom they had recently adopted after receiving the dowries.

When the officers rescued the children one was so weakened by hunger that he died and the other is being cared for by the authorities.

According to the Japanese institution of adoption, parents who cannot afford to give their children the best opportunities may offer them to more affluent families who are childless or lacking in a male heir.

A gruesome collection of human bones was discovered in a closet in the Tanaka home.

Tortures Invalid to Secure His Property

Berlin.—Diabolical cruelty inflicted on a wealthy invalid of seventy-five years by his nurse to force him to make a will in her favor has been discovered by the police in the Berlin suburb at Weidmannslust.

The victim is a retired jeweler named Schade, a widower, without relatives, who lived as a recluse with a woman named Goldhelm acting as nurse and housekeeper.

For two years Schade never left the house. A few days ago, however, the nurse was called away from Berlin, and during her absence the old man was found on the pavement outside the house. He was filthy and emaciated, his mind was unaltered, and there was a gaping wound in the back of his head.

He had retained sufficient reason to see a chance of escape from his prison, and had crawled through the window into the street, where he collapsed from exhaustion. He was starving.

The police forced their way into the villa, where they found a small garret, in total darkness, containing a filthy, tumble-down bed and the remains of bread and water—probably the only food the man had been allowed for more than a year.

Father Kills Baby Who Kept Him Awake

Fredericksburg, Va.—Willis Franklin, a farmer, twenty-one years old, is in jail at Warsaw charged with the murder of his four-year-old baby.

According to the police, he confessed that he wrapped the infant in blankets and smothered it because its cries kept him awake. He went back to sleep when the voice was still, the police were told.

Franklin, who lives in Richmond county, of which Warsaw is the seat, was arrested on complaint of two physicians to whom he had applied for a burial permit. The first refused the permit because he did not believe the child died of natural causes, as represented, and Franklin applied to the second. Their suspicions aroused, the physicians reported the case, and an inquest was held. Franklin was charged with smothering the infant. He then told his story.

Cities' Suicide Rate Stationary in 1923

New York.—The average suicide rate of 80 American cities for the year 1923 remained at 15.2 per 100,000 of population, the 1922 figure, the Spectator, an insurance journal, announces. The paper pointed out that this reflected a nation-wide prosperity.

San Diego continued to have the highest proportion of suicides among the cities considered, the rate there being 59.5. The Pacific coast generally, as in former years, had a high rate, the journal said, while in cities of the lake region the rate was low. Suicides were few in the coal and steel districts.

The tendency toward suicide among the well-to-do and more highly educated is more pronounced than in former years. Deaths from suicide in 1923 were reported as 3,827, as compared with 3,872 in 1922.

Kills "Nagging" Wife and Attempts Suicide

Philadelphia.—Alexander Oberton, 528 South Second street, fired a bullet through his wife's heart. He is thirty-eight and she was thirty-six.

When placed under arrest the husband declared he had not meant to shoot her, that the act was due to impulsive anger. He declared she had driven him to desperation by nagging because of his continued unemployment.

New Explanation for Disasters on Ocean

In explanation of collisions at sea it is said to be a scientific fact that a very large liner moving through shallow water will attract small craft toward her. This theory was first put forward when the White Star liner Olympic collided with the British destroyer Hawke, whose captain stated on oath that his vessel was sucked toward the big liner and refused to answer her helm at all. He was laughed at then, but not so long afterward the ill-fated Titanic started on her maiden voyage. As she steamed down Southampton docks the American liner New York, an eleven-thousand-ton ship, began to get uneasy at her berth alongside the quay.

Old Weather "Saws" Based on Good Sense

Admiral Fitzroy, who invented the barometer and commanded the brig Beagle on its expedition to the American coast in 1831, declares that most of the old "saws" regarding weather are reliable and based on common-sense investigation. As a weather expert he commended an old saying to the effect that the glow of dawn light in the sky denotes wind, and a low dawn fair weather. He bade us believe that soft-looking, delicate clouds mean wind-fair weather, and hard, ragged ones wind. Mist on a hilltop means rain and wind if it stays long or comes down—fine weather if it rises and disperses. Rain is due when distant objects look near as on what is called a good hearing day. And rain is foretold by pigs carrying straws to sties. The pig as a prophet appears in an old riddle: Question: Why is a storm to follow presently when a company of hogs runs crying home? Answer: A hog is most dull and of a melancholy nature; and so by reason doth foretell the rain that cometh. In time of rain, most cattle doo pricke up their ears; as for example an ass will, when he perceiveth a storme of raine or hail doth follow.

Story of Elgin

We might use the glamorous words of childhood's fairy tales, "Long ago and far away," to tell the tale of Elgin cathedral, whose seven hundredth birthday was celebrated last August 5 and 6. So long ago as the twilight time of the early Middle ages, so far away as Rome, must we go for the beginnings of the story of this hoary old pile, whose influence has been casting its spell upon the lives of the dwellers in the old province of Moray from that far-off time to the present. There is an old tradition that the Culdees founded the church to begin with, just as they did that of Birnie. In any case, the site was already hallowed by many sacred associations, when Bishop Andrew Moray, scion of the powerful house of De Moravia, moved the Cathedral of Spynie to the Church of Holy Trinity in Elgin.

Up-to-Date

Mark Twain's home at Redding, Conn., was at one time visited by burglars. After their visit Mark Twain tacked the following sign on his front door: "Notice to the Next Burglar: There is nothing but plated ware in this house now and henceforth. You will find it in the brass thing in the dining room over in the corner by the basket with the kittens. If you want the basket, put the kittens in the brass thing."

"Do not make a noise; it disturbs the family. You will find rubbers in the front hall by that thing which has umbrellas in it; chiffonier, I think they call it, or pergoia, or something like that. Please close the door when you go!"

Shall Service Count?

WALTER E. EDGE United States Senator

SENATOR EDGE is standing as a candidate for renomination to the United States Senate on his record of constructive business service as Governor and Senator.

State Highways, Hudson Tunnels, Delaware River Bridge, Budget, Consolidation of scattered departments, Central Purchasing Agency, stand out among his accomplishments as Governor.

Senator Edge was one of fourteen of fifty-one Republican Senators who consistently supported President Coolidge.

Senator Edge's accomplishments have for years been the subject of praise and commendation, from those who inspired by political ambition are now his critics.

Inspired by personal ambition his opponent's campaign has been one of petulant, peevish, criticism, and deliberate misrepresentations backed by hypocrisy and destructive political expediency.

Mr. Kean's so-called platform only pledges support to the public activities already inaugurated by Senator Edge.

Senator Edge's opponent seeks the office on the plea that the Volstead Act is the major issue upon which to select a Senator. The Republican National Platform upon which Coolidge and Dawes are standing does not even mention this act, but declares for law enforcement upon which Senator Edge likewise stands four square.

When Mr. Kean, searching for an issue, introduces the Volstead Act in the campaign, he invites a repetition of the crushing defeat of two years ago and in effect repudiates the platform upon which Coolidge, Dawes, Edge and all other Republican candidates are running.

If the National Republican Convention, representing every state in the Union, had wished to declare the Volstead Act sacred, the delegates would have so decided. They did just the opposite and any such selfish appeal is a deliberate failure to back the Republican party and the President of the United States.

Senator Edge has consistently backed the President and the Republican party and will continue to do so. He will not be a hypocrite to gain political support.

Serving a second term he will bring to New Jersey the added prestige and influence of an experienced legislator.

Shall the personal and selfish ambitions of a National Committeeman whose office should be used to harmonize, rather than disrupt, and who is suddenly dry for political effect, be permitted to bring further disaster to the Republican party?

GET THE TRUNK SEWER

Mayor Mulvihill's suggestion at last Monday's special session of the common council to construct a trunk sewer at Noe's creek was most timely. The deplorable condition of the creek and the swamps which surround it should give proof and indication that a trunk sewer is needed. The conditions there are filthy, the flies and mosquitoes breed heavily, molesting the health of the people and the children. The growth of that section has been hampered considerably by the looks of the swamps.

The odor at the creek is worse than the smell of the gas fumes coming from some of our local factories. Citizens have always lamented that some action be taken to rid the borough of the health menacing swamps, located in the heart of our big borough. The mayor and council will no doubt have the fullest support from the people in getting a trunk sewer. Nothing else, but a trunk sewer, because it would take care of future conditions. A straight ditch, while it may help temporarily, will not answer the purpose. Quick action by the engineer with the figures, quick action by the council in this direction will be watched with keen interest by the people of the entire borough.

Get the trunk sewer.

THE CHILD'S HEALTH

The Board of Health, of this borough, through its director, Frank Born, has opened a drive to safeguard the welfare of our children. Parents are told to give particular care to adequate breakfasts for children going to school, pointing out that there are many undernourished youngsters in the borough. Proper amounts of sleep and a good exercise are also recommended by Inspector Born for the health of the growing child.

While the advice is nothing new, yet its merits are splendid. The child that goes to school without all these things, particularly without breakfast, cannot be as keen minded or display the same self-control as the one who is well fed, and clad in warm togs. There is no doubt that the advice of the inspector is timely and that the parents of our children will heed it accordingly.

PRIMARY DAY

Next Tuesday is Primary Day. Voters should not let the day pass without casting their vote. We admit that there are no local contests, but that should not keep us away from the polls. There are some hot fights on among the national, state and county candidates, that should interest us as well. The votes from Carteret may help a candidate to win the race. Lack of a few votes may be his downfall.

Vote next Tuesday. Let us show that Carteret is on the map, that its citizens are interested in government affairs and that they have used good judgment in picking the right men to represent them. Let us make this the biggest Primary vote in the history of the borough.

Big Dance October 1

Through the Glad Eyes of a Woman By Jane Doe

TO ANY PRETTY GIRL

YOU know, of course, that I envy you immensely. In fact, I'm rather jealous of you. But my jealousy isn't altogether of the green pea-tinted variety. A good deal of it should be spelled with a "Z"—Zealously—if you will. I feel toward all you little kitty bits of womanhood with your deliciously fresh and engaging ways, your sublime and unconquerable optimism, much in the same way as your own mother does, or should. If you belonged to me I should want, oh, so much, to see that those first wonderful eighteen years of your life were filled with the joy and beauty of existence. I should try to give you all the sunshine during your flapperhood, so that you would always have your memories to compensate you when the clouds which are so deadly inevitable come to shadow the brightness in your eyes and put a weight on your heart. Of course, I should want to spank you—occasionally! And the very hardest spanking I should administer would be when I discovered you allying yourself too closely to the powder puff and bunny's foot, and wasting your money on "facial treatments," vibro massages and such-like beauty restorers only intended for the thirties and forties. I am aware that to be pretty and good to look at is often pretty overwhelming if secret ambition, and you wouldn't hesitate one second if you were offered the choice of the charms of Helen of Troy and the brain box that would help you to carve a niche for yourself in posterity. And all of us of the sex, with a few misguided exceptions, would do the same, seeing that we are all very much aware that beauty, when it is beauty and not camouflage, is the easiest and pleasantest known method of achieving fame and fortune yet discovered. But, if you are lucky enough already to possess the loveliness that makes of your flapper years a triumphal procession, do take care of it as you would some very precious thing and remember that if it is to be lasting it must be backed up by a foundation of good health. So much for the quest for beauty. I should also want to spank you if I found you were side-tracking your intelligence. Believe me, there is no more delightful and intriguing combination than the girl who is as interesting as she is pretty. It is easy enough to remedy dullness. Get the newspaper habit, keep your eyes wide open and take a real and vivid interest in everything and everybody. Live—don't stagnate. So many of you start out in life electing to be butterflies. Few pass the grub stage when it comes to the intelligence test. Just a word about charm. If you want the world at your feet, pretty girl, go out of your way to be charming. You will astonish yourself when you realize the power of a bright and frequent smile, the sympathetic little air, the scrupulous courtesy, the frank speech and the absence of all "side" and cattiness. When one thinks of the multitudes of snappy, depressing and uninteresting women one comes daily in contact with one little wonder that men seem to veeer with one accord to the fluffy, the frivolous and the flirtful. Stake your claim on fair manners, fair speech and, above all, fair play, as well as fair looks. And believe me, you won't go far wrong. My love to you! (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

MILK IS NATURE'S PATENT

The only food she ever made solely for food. It cannot be reproduced artificially. Only nature herself can perfectly blend all the elements of a well-balanced diet as she has in milk. Milk sounds like patent medicine when all its virtues are catalogued. It is the oldest prescription in the world—Nature's prescription for the building of strong, healthy bodies, Nature's revitalizer, Nature's maker of rich, red blood, Nature's nerve quieter, Nature's antidote for that "tired feeling." If milk were put up in bottles of different shape and size, if it were given a fanciful name and announced for what it really is as "The Greatest Body and Health Restorer in the World," people would flock to buy it at fancy prices. But because it costs so little and is delivered every morning at your doorstep, we seldom give its virtues thought. We are apt to disregard the value of familiar things. Body Found Recalls Hall-Mills Murder

Two years ago, the bodies of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, were found on the outskirts of New Brunswick. On the second anniversary of the Hall-Mills crime, which has not been solved, the body of Miss Sara Elizabeth Johnson, a fifteen-year-old girl of Acqueduct, is found near the county seat. The body carefully laid out, is so similar to the Hall-Mills crime, that today, New Brunswick and the prosecutor's office recalls vividly the murder. The city is alive with reporters from New York, Philadelphia and other sections, as it was when the Hall-Mills murder was committed.

"VET" OF MANY WARS STILL CARRYING ON

Steeplejack at 67, After Life of Adventure.

Syracuse, N. Y.—"I've got to carry on!"

So said Frank Clark of Arizona, when his brother, Melvin Clark, fell off a high belfry in Detroit, Mich., and was killed. And Frank has been carrying on ever since. At sixty-seven he is a human fly and steeplejack.

All his life Frank has climbed. He is one of the survivors of the battleship Maine, blown up in Havana harbor; served as a drummer boy during the Civil war, and has brought up a family of 19 children.

"Yes, 19 of them," said Frank, exhibiting for the benefit of the wondering newlywed from New Orleans his youngest son, Mike. "Two girls and 17 boys. And each of the boys has done one or more stiches in the army, and Mike's gonna do 'is, or he ain't no son o' mine."

"How old are you, Mr. Clark?" asked the youthful husband, meekly. Frank wouldn't tell so Mike chirped the information.

Exposed, Mr. Clark admitted he was "sixty-seven and maybe more." "Served in the Civil war as a drummer boy, fought during the Indian uprising, in China during the Boxer uprising, and put in three years with the First division in France during the World war," Clark recited, proudly. "I got my upward start on the battleship Maribhead."

Fate Was Against His "Making Good"

Kingman, Ariz.—Antone W. Wroblewski, Detroit war veteran, who was released from the California state prison after a skull operation to relieve him from criminal tendencies resulting from shell shock, was buried here with full military honors. He was on his way home to his fiancée when he died from "delayed effects" of the operation. After his conviction for robbery, as a "dangerous criminal," he was adjudged insane, but the judge was convinced of his recovery after the operation and helped obtain his release.

OLIVE'S DANCING PARTNER

By C. O. FISSON

(© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

OLIVE'S short holiday was nearly ended, and she did not know how she was going to take up the old life again, it had become so distant during those two weeks.

She sat in front of the farmhouse, staring out at the sea. In her hand she held a letter from Bert Dempsey. He was coming to take her to Boston, he wrote, and hoped, facetiously, that her rest in the country would enable her to produce "the live thing" in imitations when she returned to the boards.

He was coming at five o'clock that afternoon.

At twenty-six Olive was already celebrated throughout the country for her inimitable parodies of theatrical celebrities. Add a talent for dancing which drew crowds wherever she appeared, and a face which was not the least of her commercial assets, and one can picture her. Whatever had induced her to cancel her engagement in the middle of the fall season and run away to the remote New England coast, she could not imagine.

It might have been a growing distaste for the tawdry theatrical life, the hollow shams of enjoyment, the stale company of her fellow actors; or perhaps some memory of her early days in the little town where she was born, when the stage had seemed impossibly wicked to her.

She had given the impression that she was a city stenographer to Farmer Joyce and his son, Ralph, the young physician, who lived with him.

A step at her side made her start and secrete the letter hurriedly. She looked up, to see the young doctor at her side.

"So you are going to leave us, Miss Freyne?" he asked. "We shall all miss you. But will you come back?"

"Perhaps," she answered, vaguely. But she knew that she would never come back.

"Well, dinner is ready," he replied, offering her his arm as she rose. "My mother will miss you—we shall all miss you," he reiterated.

Old Mrs. Joyce kissed Olive as she entered the parlor.

"I declare, I don't know how we shall get along without you," she said. "It's as good as a play having you around—no offense meant, my dear. But you are such good company. And Ralph—"

Ralph was studying his plate. Presently Farmer Joyce came stamping in and sat down to his meal.

"Well, Miss Freyne, I guess you won't be sorry to get back to your office again after two weeks of farm life," he chuckled. "Though I wish we could have had you longer. If ever you get run down in health again, there'll always be a bed and a welcome for you here."

Olive felt herself choking. She hardly knew how she got through with the meal. But it ended at last, and once again she found herself outside. And she gave way to bitter tears. How differently the homely welcome of these simple folk from the facetious gibes of Bert Dempsey, her dancing partner. Bert Dempsey, his pale face and sleek hair, his talk of affairs, seen through the cynical eyes of the city-bred man, whose acquaintance with the world had been only in its least pleasant aspect.

And Ralph—the country doctor! He would never know that she had learned to care for him during those two weeks. She knew that he admired her, but so might any country man admire a woman from a big town, versed in the ways of the world. If only she could be simple-hearted again!

She heard him coming toward her along the piazza, and she dabbed frantically at her eyes with her little lace-edged handkerchief.

He stood beside her, looking down, and Olive looked up at him and tried to smile. There was an expression of alarm upon his face.

"You are crying, Miss Freyne," he said, assuming the doctor's role. "Your nerves are still unstrung. You ought to stay here longer."

"How much longer?" she asked, still trying to smile.

"For ever," he answered. "I want you to be my wife, Olive."

Then, seeing the frightened look in her eyes, he knelt down beside her and put his arms about her.

"I love you, dear," he said, "and I want to make your life happy. I know it has not been happy. I can see that. I don't want you ever to tell me anything—just stay here with me. You will grow used to this little village. You are made for the country."

"Yes," she said. "But you don't understand, Ralph."

That was the first time she had called him Ralph, and the word came to her lips so easily.

"I don't want to understand anything you don't wish me to," he answered. "Don't you think it over—and stay here until you decide?"

Suddenly she found herself sobbing in his arms. How strong and protecting he seemed. She put her head against his shoulder and let it rest there. Oh, if only she might; if only she dared!

How long she lay there she never knew. It might have been five minutes or fifteen. She was aroused by hearing a quiet step behind her, and, freeing herself, looked round to see Mr. Bert Dempsey standing there. There was a sneer on his heavy face, and he looked as though he had been drinking; at any rate, he was ripe for trouble.

you in this manner, I shall apologize to him, much as it is distasteful to me."

"You'd better," sneered Mr. Dempsey. "I don't stand for a country Jay like you playing the fool with my Olive."

"Your fiancé?" inquired the doctor, coldly.

"No, no!" cried Olive, hysterically. "You don't understand, Doctor Joyce."

"I've had my arms around her every evening for the past two years," observed Mr. Dempsey, enjoying the doctor's discomfiture, "and when I see another fellow doing the same, I'm naturally curious to know why."

Doctor Joyce did not deign to answer, but turned to the girl.

"Miss Freyne, will you please tell me whether that statement is true?" he asked. "If so, permit me to take my departure and express my regrets. But I have a right to know."

"Yes, it is true," answered Olive.

"Sure! Ever since the tango craze came in," observed Mr. Dempsey. "Say, Olive, that was a fine spiel you told 'em about your being a stenographer, and I wouldn't have given you away if you'd played fair. But you've turned me down a dozen times, and now you let a country Jay put his arms round you. I guess you don't know who this young lady is," he added to the doctor, snarling. "If you ever traveled ten miles in your life you'd have seen her name on the posters—Miss Olive Freyne and Mr. Bert Dempsey, the famous tango dancers, the Siamese Twins, stage inseparables. Well, Olive, ready to start?"

Doctor Joyce swung round impulsively.

"Are you going back to—that, Olive?" he whispered, drawing his breath through his teeth.

"I must," she answered, staring stonily at him. "You—understand now, and—"

"Yes, I understand now—and I have understood from the first, Olive," he answered. "Do you think nobody here knows? My father knows—my mother knows. They wouldn't say anything that would seem to contradict you. But they know that you are as heaven above such a creature as that!"

He turned scornfully to the amazed Mr. Dempsey. "And they know that I want you, Olive. Will you stay with me?"

"You're mad!" shouted Dempsey, furiously.

Olive Freyne looked from one man to the other; and if ever the old life had held her in its spell, the spell was broken in that moment.

She did not speak, but she looked steadily at Ralph, and there was a look in her eyes that told him better than words could tell what her decision was. "Get out!" said the doctor to Mr. Dempsey. And Mr. Dempsey "got."

He "got," snarling and muttering threats of legal action. But Olive hardly heard him, for there was a sure shield of her lover's arms about her.

He Didn't Fit
A new reason for being excused from jury duty was offered recently to a California court. Eleven jurors had been accepted and sworn in. The twelfth man glanced at the already well-filled box where the other jurors were seated and objected that he was fat, and that there was no room for him to sit. The objection was accepted as valid. The fat man was excused and a thin one was sworn in.—Youth's Companion.

Legends of the Rose

Many are the legends concerning the rose, many the stories of love, hate war and death. There is, indeed, scarcely a great name in the vast realm of literature which has not paid tribute, in some form or other, to the rose. One finds in Herodotus, the celebrated Greek historian of antiquity, mention of the double rose. In the "Song of Solomon" is found the phrase: "I am the rose of Sharon and the lily of the valley," though, alas, that rose is believed to have been the crocus or the narcissus. However, the Bible is crowded with references to the real rose, the rose we know today.

Rouge Et Noir

Dinah, a dusky belle, had purchased a stunning red hat and she was showing it to her friend Mandy. The latter regarded it rather dubiously. "I think it's a lovely confection," she remarked, "but it don't suit you."

"What's de reason it don't suit me?" demanded Dinah.

CARTERET A. C. LOSE TO ISLANDERS

Local Team Defeated Sunday at Brady's Oval by Staten Islanders By the Close Score of 2 to 1—At Kearny Sunday.

Last Sunday at Brady's oval, before a good crowd the Carteret A. C. again opposed the Favorite F. C. of Linoeumville. Mat Sloan lost the toss and Chapman started the game for Carteret towards the Washington avenue goal. Both teams played good football as the leather was quickly passed from wing to wing and from goal to goal, but it was soon to be seen that the home team was playing the better ball but trying gamely they could not score and about twenty minutes after the start with all the home players packing the Island goal the Favorites inside left broke away with the ball, raced down the field and beat Nugent with a hard drive, thus placing the Island in the lead. Carteret again began to pass and Johnson was seen to advantage at outside right but his centers went to waste and the game was still hot with the boys still trying to equalize. Sloan at center half was giving his forwards some nice passes but they could not take the chances until Forrester scored and tied the score.

Bill Elliott was playing good ball until a kick over the left eye pulled him out of the game to be patched up. Both Forrester and McInnes were fine in wing half positions and half time arrived with the score tied 1-1.

On resuming play Carteret again bombarded the Island goal where Cook was playing a wonderful game and no matter where the ball was put he was there to receive it. This half was very uninteresting and one-sided as the home team was continually pressing but could not score, when the Favorites again broke away and scored again. That was the last and only time in that half that Nugent was called in the game but with all the efforts Carteret could not score so the game ended as the Favorites won, 2 to 1.

The Carteret team was as follows: Nugent, goal; Taylor, right back; Buchanan, left back; Elliott, right halfback; Sloan, center halfback; McInnis, left halfback; Johnson, outside right; Workman, inside right; Chapman, center; Forrester, inside left; Anderson, outside left. Referee—Cook.

Several changes are expected to be made in Sunday's game against the Erie A. A. at Kearny on Sunday, in the opening league game.

The bus will leave A. & P. corner at 1 P. M. as the game is called for 3 o'clock sharp.

The following Sunday the Carteret team will open their home league schedule at Brady's oval against the fast McKay F. C. of Bayonne. Kick-off will start at 3 o'clock sharp.

St. Joseph Juniors Reorganize To Play

The St. Joseph Junior basketball quintet, which created much interest in the court games last season and who are responsible for the change of rules used by teams in the borough from professional to amateur, will again take to the court this season with a fast quintet. The following players will perform: Will Sexton, Joe Sexton, Casey, Comba, Harrigan, Hoagland, Dinsmore, Shutello and Cunningham. Gervase Harrigan is manager and would like to hear from any junior cagers, who wish games. Address all communications to 32 Washington avenue.

"Men of Leisure" are Walloped By Steel

In a bowling match featured by low scores, the Steel Works defeated the Business Men on Coughlin's lanes, Friday night, two games out of three. "Peanuts" Cassaleggi kept his team as close as it was with a 169 average, but the pinning of Petersen offset Cassaleggi's bowling. J. Kocis tumbled the pins for the highest score of the match in the first game, when he rolled for a 191 score.

Carteret Lads Out To Make Rahway Varsity

Clifford, Jacobowitz, Quin, Nadel, Garber, Calderhead and Yuckman are the local boys, who are trying hard to make the Rahway High School varsity football eleven, which opens its schedule with Plainfield at the Queen City on Friday, September 26.

Of the boys named above, Clifford Jacobowitz, Nadel and Quin made last season's eleven.

Young Yanks Claim Light Jr. Championship

Manager Joseph Comba of the Young Yanks claims the light junior championship of Carteret, winning fourteen of the seventeen games played. The Rovers defeated the Yanks twice and the Cardinal A. C. of Rahway beat them once.

The Young Yanks defeated the Rovers in the beginning of the season. Migletz won 12 games and lost 2. Cunningham won 1 and lost 2. Szlag won 1 and lost none on the mound.

Young Leslie Expects Busy Winter Campaign

Young Leslie is training hard and will continue to do so for two or three weeks more, after which he will fight in New York City with some of the best men in his division. Leslie was idle during the summer months, but was always training to keep in condition for the indoor season. He expects a busy campaign this winter and believes his training at the Hudson A. C. gymnasium has put him in shape pretty well.

Mike O'Neill Worried Over His Easy Money

Leo Browne, the former umpire, tells a story on Mike O'Neill, manager of Syracuse, then in the New York State league. It had become a custom on the part of the management of a large industrial plant in a small city to have two of the league teams play a regular game once or twice a month at the factory that the employees might have a treat. Syracuse was one of the teams chosen for the game and O'Neill collected a check for $500 for his team's end of the exhibition.

MORRIS WINS OVER HARRY STANFORD

In Sensational Eight-Round Bout At Englewood Ball Park On Monday Night—In Position to Claim Championship of State.

Carl Morris defeated Harry Stanford at the Englewood Ball Park on Monday night in a sensational eight-round bout, the greatest fight seen at that club this season. Morris led in every round and only Stanford's ability to take it, saved him from a kayo. Morris had Stanford practically out at three stages of the bout. Stanford was floored twice, once in the third and again in the fifth and the local boy had him hanging on at the bell in the last round.

Stanford is considered the junior lightweight champion of the state, but his defeat at the hands of Morris places the local boy in a position to claim that title.

Morris is now under the management of Tom Stanly, the clever New York manager of Larry Goldberg, Jack Perry and other stars. Morris expects to locate in New York City in the near future.

Football Eleven May Be Formed With Township

Reports circling around the football enthusiasts indicate the planning of a football eleven, which will play at the local field on the Sunday afternoons when the soccer team travels. Carteret will couple with Woodbridge in the proposition to insure better support than that which was given to the grid team last season. When the soccer outfit plays here, the gridiron warriors will perform before Woodbridge spectators. There will be Carteret and Woodbridge players on the proposed team.

Cancel Oriole Battle

The Carteret Juniors, figuring that they are out of the race for the county heavy junior title, after being beaten by the Port Reading Mohicans, cancelled their scheduled contest with the Orioles at Perth Amboy, last Sunday.

Football Challenge

The Columbia Football eleven, midgets, through manager Bennie Teth, of 125 Lowell street, challenges any midget gridders in the borough and in fact games will probably be arranged with some light juniors.

LAST LEAGUE TILTS SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Cadilacs To Battle For First Place Against Tigers and Belmonts at Brady's Field—Another Big Attendance Expected.

Another record attendance is expected to turn out to see the Cadilacs battle with the Tigers and Belmonts in the two remaining games of the Carteret Twilight League's baseball schedule, next Sunday afternoon at Brady's Field. The Cadilacs are resting peacefully in first place, panting heavily, after a long run to the place where they now are at.

The "lunchers" will be without the valuable services of their southpaw pitching ace, Topsy Roth, and either Casey or Sabo will pitch one game, while Chippy Cutter will probably get back into the fray, after a rest with a dislocated finger, and pitch in the other contest.

The Belmonts, who were walloped by the Tigers in their most recent game, will take special pains in seeing that they have a pitcher for their game, because they are just as anxious as the others to cop the pennant. When the Belmonts opposed the Tigers, their most effective pitcher, Rusty Donovan, did not arrive to do his work, and Skurat had to start, being knocked off the slab due to the lack of confidence.

Sullivan will probably pitch for the Tigers and Brady will catch.

W. E. Garrett Gillmore of Philadelphia, who won the Olympic single sculls title by defeating Beresford, the British diamond sculls champion. Gillmore's time was 7:3 1-5, while Beresford was just a second behind the American.

Sullivan and Scally are close behind with 15 and 14 runs in respective order.

English Stars Will Coach Yankee Teams

Tempting offers which some of the stars of the association football game of England are receiving from America to come to the United States and act as coaches are causing concern among England's soccer fans.

One of the big surprises, however, is that a player named Hill, for whom a large fee was paid by his club, Burnley, last year, has not yet signified his intention of staying with the club for next season. The reason for this is stated to be that he is considering an offer to take up coaching in the United States.

Have You This Habit?

By Margaret Morison

DRIVING A BARGAIN

PERHAPS there had come to life again in Phoenicia Flint the spirit of some old Roman-British ancestor, a grim trader in pelts, and tin. Who knows? At all events, there was the same aquiline profile, the same tight, thin lips, the same love of a bargain for its own sake and the rigor of the game.

When she was a young girl of seventeen, her habit of making a good deal was already fully developed. That is the age when femininity enjoys extravagantly exchanging its various frivolous possessions. It was a question of a brooch of Phoenicia's for the party dress of one of her friends. The friend was doubtful; and Phoenicia, with that old inherited trading instinct of hers, did not press her bid.

Many ribbons and furbelows had changed owners when finally Phoenicia said as with an after-thought, "I tell you what I'll do; I'll give you this pin of mine for those gloves of yours—if you throw in your old party dress!" And the dress was Miss Flint's.

At the reduction sale at a small shop, one saw the glitter in her eye that meant business. She would hold a French hat off at arm's length critically with the expression of one who knew a good thing—really. Then she would ask for the original price and smile like an expert unbuggled. Finally, picking up her gloves to depart, she would say casually over her shoulder, "I will give such-and-such for the hat," naming a figure several dollars below the marked price. Usually she got what she was after. And her habit grew apace.

Then Phoenicia fell in love—in love, that is, with as much of her emotion as had not been diverted to business. At all events, she wanted to marry a certain young man. Therefore, there naturally ensued a conflict within her personality. She went to her father; her fiancé was poor; they couldn't afford to marry on his present income; her own allowance from the family increased somewhat would meet all needs so long as there were no children, etc., etc. And the bargain was made. That same day, Phoenicia called upon her aunt to announce her engagement. She had decided upon an early wedding, she said, although her husband would not be in a position to support her according to their standards for some time; of course her father was doing what he could, but that was not much. And so forth and so forth. The upshot was that aunt doubted the allowance, and Phoenicia faced matrimony with the sense of having successfully combined business and pleasure.

That evening she divulged to her fiancé what a useful partner he was taking into his life. Phoenicia, however, struck no answering spark. Indeed there was coldness, silence, and a somewhat abrupt departure where she had looked for endearments and congratulations. When eventually her engagement was called off, she was for the first time in her life baffled. She had come upon a situation where business methods would not work. Her habit of driving a hard bargain had met its Waterloo.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

OUR UNWORTHY SELVES

TO BE constantly discussing the deficiencies of others without considering our own, is a common human failing. It requires no special perception to see the faults in those around us, but to discern our own, is quite a different matter.

Indeed it is not strange that we balk at the effort. It is a job that we do not like to contemplate, even when we are in a good humor. But if we would achieve, attain and be highly respected, the obvious thing to do is to stand up and face the music, though the notes be disquieting.

Whoever is not doing his utmost to overcome his own defects, is cheating himself. The first sane step we take toward self-improvement is the one taken arm-in-arm with self-dissatisfaction. We tread then on ground in a new world, where we discover to our amazement sins within us equal in every respect to those we so loudly condemn in others.

Humans who are living in one sphere cannot understand those in another position. They have been trained in a different camp. Yet each person has his or her own problem to solve, its correct solution being dependent upon individual discernment and ability.

If by being considerate of others we should pull the weeds from our own gardens and patch up the open fences, we might become more charitable. We would be so busy overcoming our own imperfections, so pleasantly and profitably occupied, there would be no time at our disposal to search for flaws in our neighbors.

The whole world would be brighter. The brotherhood of man would be knit closer together. Men and women everywhere would be better, more hopeful and happy. There would be less heartaches and fewer tears.

Let us pack our hearts full of love and sympathy. Let us look first for defects in ourselves. Let us not be satisfied until we have found them and flung them away. Then we shall know how to live—how to bring heaven's sunshine into the lives of our kin.

Mother's Cook Book

As you grow ready for it, somewhere or other, you will find what is useful for you in a book.—George McDonald. A book's a magic thing. That makes you sailor, chief of king.

COOLING DISHES

THIS is the season of the year when aspic and gelatin dishes appeal to the taste as they supply food easy of digestion.

Aspic jelly is made from clarified meat broth solidified with gelatin. One two-ounce package of gelatin softened in one cupful of water is used for each five cupful of broth. Meat broths are flavored with vegetables freed from fat and clarified with crushed egg shells and white of egg. Aspic made of chicken or veal is a very delicate color. Consomme gives a darker color as it is prepared from beef, veal and fowl with spices and herbs. Beef broth is darkest of all.

The amount of gelatin used is sufficient to hold slices of tongue, or similar solid substances as well as whole eggs in an upright position after molding. It is also firm enough for croquettes, but a jelly that will not hold its shape, as far as taste is concerned, is much more desirable. As flavors are lessened by chilling, all broths used for aspic should be strongly flavored with the particular vegetable or herb that is desired in the particular dish.

The qualities of a good aspic are strength of flavor, transparency and delicacy of texture, that is, as soft as possible, though able to stand up.

Aspic Jelly From Consomme. Take five cupfuls of cleared consomme, one to two ounces of gelatin, one-half to one cupful of cold water. The quantity of gelatin depends upon the solidity desired. Let the gelatin stand in the cold water until completely absorbed, then pour over the consomme heated to the boiling point.

Delicate Aspic Jelly. Clean a chicken about a year old, cut up as for frying, cover with cold water, heat quickly to the boiling point, then let simmer until tender. Strain off the broth through a double cloth. Season with salt and pepper and set aside to chill and use. Two stalks of celery and one onion may be added to the fowl while cooking.

Molded Custard. Soften one-fourth of a package of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold milk. Make a custard with three egg yolks, one-third of a cupful of sugar, a pint of milk and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Add the softened gelatin; stir until dissolved and let cool; add a teaspoonful of vanilla and strain into a mold.

MONOTONY OF RUM ROW LIFE LED TO MURDER

Tragedy Revealed Through Complaint of Mother of Victim.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The cordon of silence which surrounds Rum row, outside the 12-mile limit off Atlantic City, was punctured recently by the tale of a murder committed months ago on one of the veteran vessels of the booze trade. Two governments, the British and American, joined hands in the case.

It is a tale of fierce hatred induced by the monotonous life of the sailors, who pass weeks riding at anchor in waters safe from revenue cutters. And if it had not been for the mother of the murdered man, who waited in vain in Ireland for the money he sent her each month, the account never would have reached the ears of the authorities.

November 26 the body of Robert Pike, a twenty-four-year old sailor, was sewed in a sack and slid off a board into the Atlantic.

Pike, according to Robert D. Clarke, Department of Justice agent from Philadelphia, was shot and instantly killed in a brawl on the British steamer Genevieve.

From his talks with sailors now aboard the Genevieve, Clarke is sure that the brawl was the outcome of the galling life the men lead, a life of ostracism from all the glittering joys of port and all the quieter joys of home.

Only One Passenger Put Out From the Genevieve.

According to tales that filtered through from Rum row all efforts to escape seemed futile. One night a fight started and Pike was the victim. Chalmers the Slayer. A short time later a lifeboat bearing only one passenger put out from the Genevieve. That passenger, so Clarke relates, was Louis "Frenchy" Chalmers, erstwhile able seaman of the vessel and thirty-four years old. The crew of the Genevieve heard no more of Chalmers.

A short time ago Atlantic City police, who have been working with Clarke, had a telegram from New Orleans detectives. The telegram said Chalmers had been captured there as he was about to board a vessel for France. He will be held for the British authorities. The crime is one for the British to deal with, as it was committed on high seas under the flag of England.

The United States Department of Justice became involved when the British ambassador at Washington, at the request of Pike's mother in Dublin, started an investigation.

The mother knew the name of her son's vessel and through it he was traced. Pike was a British subject. His home port is listed as Kingston, Jamaica.

Boys Pull Tombstone Over on Companion

Jamaica, N. Y.—A boyish prank came to a sudden, tragic ending when a heavy gravestone which five school-boys were trying to uproot in St. Monica's cemetery toppled and fell on Chester Obatelewoz, fourteen, of 47 Church street, Jamaica, and pinned him to the earth.

The boys' companions ran screaming from the cemetery, which is at Prospect and Beaver streets, and called Patrolman Patrick O'Hannon of the Jamaica station.

With the assistance of several passersby the patrolman succeeded in lifting the 200-pound monument from the boy, who was taken to Mary the Immaculate hospital, where he died half an hour later of a fractured skull. According to the incoherent story told to the policeman by the boy's playmates, among whom were two brothers of the injured lad, they had tired of baseball and swimming and had entered the cemetery seeking new amusement. A long rope was procured by one of the lads and fastened around a large monument. Exerting their full strength the boys tugged at the stone. Suddenly it fell, pinning Chester beneath it.

Make Experiments on Disasters in Mines

Millon, England.—Closer co-operation between the safety in mines research board of Great Britain and the United States bureau of mines, will be hastened by the results of work at the experimental station at Eskmeals, Cumberland, said Dr. Foster Bain, director of the United States mines bureau, after a recent visit to the Cumberland station.

A remarkable demonstration of a coal dust explosion was witnessed. Coal dust was strewn along the floor and on shelves inside the explosion gallery for 350 feet. The gallery is cylindrical, 750 feet long, 7 feet 8 inches in diameter and constructed of half-inch iron. Pit props were placed inside to make conditions approximate those in mines when explosions occur.

A cannon was placed under the gallery at the center and fired into the dust zone. A great explosion followed, the flames traveling along inside of the gallery and into the open air at a speed of 1,000 feet a second. The pit props were sent flying in all directions, while a great volume of smoke and dust rose several hundred feet.

Amateur Dentistry Fatal

Cincinnati.—Sam Allen, waiter on the steamer Cincinnati, Ohio river boat, had a toothache. He tied a string to the painful molar, fastened the other end to the ship's anchor and cast it into the river. With it went the tooth and part of Sam's jaw. He thought the wound superficial and went to bed. During the night he bled to death.

"Iberian"

The Iberian peninsula was so named from the ancient inhabitants, who were known as the Iberes. According to some authorities the word merely means "inhabitants." The name seems to have been applied by the earlier Greek navigators to the peoples on the eastern coast of Spain, probably originally those who dwelt by the River Iberus, the modern Ebro. Iberian thus means sometimes the population of the peninsula in general and sometimes the peoples of some definite race who formed one element in the population.

"Little Rock"

The principal city of Arkansas derived its name (originally "Le Petit Roche" and "The Little Rock") from the rocky peninsula in the Arkansas, distinguished from the "Big Rock," the site of the army post, Fort Logan H. Roots, one mile west of the city. The big rock is said to have been first discovered and named "Le Rocher Francois" in 1822 by Sieur Bernard de la Harpe, who was in search of an emerald mountain; the little rock is now used as an abutment for a railway bridge.

A Ford touring car containing three adults and two children was struck by a fast line trolley of the Public Service Railway crossing on Rahway avenue Saturday afternoon, resulting in one of the occupants receiving serious injuries. The accident was caused by the failure of the bell at the crossing to ring at the approach of the trolley, according to the police.

The winning team brought out as some of their points, more drinking than ever is now indulged in; bootlegging, causing trouble with other countries; loss of revenue the government used to collect before, and the country has too great an expense keeping up the "prohibition navy."

The outstanding speech, according to the audience, was made by Louis Lehrer of the winning side. Team consisted of Louis Lehrer, Wanda David and Madeline Reilly on the affirmative, and Joseph Kiraly, Sophie Zelag, and Sophie Zimba on the negative.

STOREKEEPER SHOOTS NEGRO

Bullet Enters Left Leg of Man As Result of An Argument In- dulged In At a Local Store Over the Week-End.

IN HOSPITAL AT PERTH AMBOY

Proprietor Charged That the Negroes Broke Up House and He Tried To Stop Them— Men Had Been Drinking.

Arthur Jones, colored, thirty years old, of this borough, is in the Perth Amboy City hospital with a bullet hole in his left leg, as the result of an argument in which he and William Smith and Lee Milsap, both colored, indulged in at the store of Louis Winkasinowich in the borough over the week end. The storekeeper is an ex-soldier and has an excellent record for overseas service. He conducts a store, pool room and soda fountain in the home in which he has lived for years.

Sunday night the three colored men came into the store. They had been drinking and they started to argue. When Winkasinowich tried to prevent them from destroying the furniture they pounced on him. He got to his feet in the midst of the scuffle, went behind the counter and secured a revolver. In trying to scare the negroes the storekeeper did his best to avoid hitting any of them. His shot however found its mark in the upper part of Jones' leg.

Officers Harrigan, O'Rourke, Rusnak and Chief of Police Harrington went to the scene and broke up the fight.

REPUCLICANS LAUNCH ELECTION CAMPAIGN

LADIES' UNIT HOLDS SUCCESSFUL RALLY WITH NATIONAL, STATE, COUNTY AND LOCAL CANDIDATES IN ATTENDANCE LAST FRIDAY NIGHT.

500 ATTEND CLAMBAKE ON SUNDAY

Party Is Enthusiastic Over Election Outing—Con- tends Entire Ticket Will Win At the Polls Next November—Many Events Are Being Arranged for the Month of October.

With primary day over, the Republican organization of the borough have launched their election campaign and is now in full swing. A series of meetings, socials and similar functions will be held between now and November 4, which is the date of election day.

All the candidates from Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill down to the justice of the peace are putting forth every possible energy to succeed at the polls at the fall election. Their contention is that success is in sight, because of the good men on the ticket and the record accomplished by the Republican party since it took over the reigns of borough affairs.

LOCAL BOY SCOUTS GET MERIT BADGES

James S. McCulloh, Who Has Been Operating Vice-President Succeeds Howard A. Thurber, Who Resigns From Office.

Boy Scouts of this community as well as all other parts of the Perth Amboy Scout District attended the biggest Court of Honor yet held by the Scout Council. The event took place last Friday night in front of Public School No. 7, Paterson and Madison avenue, Perth Amboy.

Scouts Alan Phillips, William Selton, Andrew Kondas and Sidney Curhie of the two Carteret troops received merit badges in such subjects as camping, swimming, pioneering, and public health. These represent tests which they passed while at Camp Pamboro last summer. Scoutmasters C. Rapp and J. D. Robinson accompanied their troops to Perth Amboy.

Chairman Glenworth Sturgis of the Court of Honor presided. The speaker was Principal Paul Steel of Perth Amboy Grammar School. Mr. Steel's remarks were along the line of vocational guidance and its importance. He pointed out the wonderful possibilities of the merit badge scheme in use by the Boy Scouts of America which has as its underlying motive purposeful self education in vocational activities and character-health activities of an avocation nature. His remarks were well illustrated by the parts of the program which followed his address. This feature of the meeting, the awarding of scout badges for advancement was very inspiring.

Tenderfoot badges were also awarded to a number of new recruits in different troops and there were also some second class awards for scouts who have moved up a scout grade. These awards were made by Scout Commissioner C. H. Kalquist and Court of Honor member L. E. Smith.

The following scouts received First Class Badges: R. Coan of Troop No. 1 of Avenel; Harold Bedell and Harold Jensen of Troop No. 13, Perth Amboy; David Platt of Troop No. 2, Perth Amboy; Joseph Halasz, Vernon Achenberg, Frank Szentmiklosy, Frank Dako, William Rabold of Troop No. 4, Perth Amboy; Mervin Anderson, Thos. Christopher, Albert Jacobson of Troop No. 6, Perth Amboy; and F. Leisen of Troop No. 2, Woodbridge.

The boys of the Naval Battalion Band under Captain Krogh were in line and provided excellent music.

The next big event in the district is the get-together meeting of the District Scout Leaders Association which takes place Tuesday evening, Sept. 30, at the Log Cabin, 555 Rahway avenue, Woodbridge, the headquarters of Troops No. 1 and 3.

An interesting program has been worked out. Refreshments will be served. A large attendance is expected.

Democrat Women Hold Business Session Friday

Police Benefit Sept. 30

The Carteret Police Social Club will present "The Silent Command" featuring Martha Mansfield and Edmund Lowe at the Crescent and Majestic theatres on Tuesday, Sept. 30. Matinee and night performances will be given at both playhouses.

LADIES' UNIT MEETS

A capacity gathering attended the meeting of the Ladies' Republican Club which was held at Fire House No. 1 last Friday night. Never before has there been such a collection of national, state, county and local candidates at one meeting. It was a pre-primary day affair and each of the candidates wanted to present their views, at the same time urging support at the primaries. Mrs. J. H. Thayer, Republican candidate for the nomination to the assembly, believed that she could be of great assistance at the legislature, because the government needed some "good house-keeping."

Mrs. Martin told of her work in civic clubs, parent-teacher associations, etc. Senator Morgan F. Larson asked the people's vote for re-nomination on his record. Albert W. Appleby, out for the senatorial nomination, also asked for support. Dave Brown, of Woodbridge, one of the three Republicans who sought the county clerk's office, presented his point and pleaded for support at the primaries. County Treasurer F. William Hilker, running for the county clerk's office also asked to be nominated, pointing to his fine showing while county treasurer. William D. Hoy spoke on his behalf, as one of the Republicans out for the freeholders' nominations. Freeholder George S. Applegate, who was out for the re-nomination said that he was always fair, not partial to any district or section as to improvements and concluded that the freeholders deserve great credit.

Other candidates who gave interesting talks were Freeholder Robert R. Vandenberg, Former Assemblyman Harold G. Hoffmann, the latter speaking in behalf of T. Frank Appleby, Republican who sought the nomination to congress; Assemblyman Thomas L. Hanson, Douglas M. Hicks and Major Stanley Washburn. The candidates pleaded support at the primaries, each one presenting their side of the story as to why they should be nominated and elected.

MAYOR MULVIHILL TALKS

Mayor Mulvihill gave an inspiring talk in which he urged the candidates to leave personalities alone, pleaded against the blackening of the names of the opponent. The mayor also touched on local affairs, telling of the road improvements, general progress, the new borough hall, the competitive bidding and publishing of minutes. The other speakers of the evening were John H. Nevill, candidate for assessor; Edward Wilgus, Walter Vonah and Richard J. Lyman, candidates for council; Frank Andres and Charles A. Phillips.

Mrs. Frank Andres, chairman of the club, presided. She introduced the speakers. Following the business session, cards were played and delicious refreshments were served.

CLAMBAKE SUCCESS

The Republican clambake held last Sunday was a monster success. Some five hundred Republicans attended the affair. The caterer was Max Cohen, who surely provided the best dinner available. It included clam broth, clam chowder, fried spring chicken, corn on the cob, salad, radishes, tomatoes, bread and butter, ice cream and coffee. A large number of national, state and county candidates again were present. Each spoke briefly. Talks were made by Mayor Mulvihill and local candidates. Frank Andres, acted as chairman.

The clambake committee included Fred Gunther, chairman; Walter Vonah, J. Duncan, Frank Pirrong, Peter Lerner, James Capetti and Charles Ellis.

HISTORY OF OLD HOME TOWN

Reader Notices Article Briefly Telling of Celebration of One of Scotland's Greatest Cathedrals' Birthday, in Elgin.

BUILT IN 1224; IS NOW IN RUINS

Write of "The Northern Express" a Scottish Newspaper, States It Was Beautifully Constructed, Although In "Dark Age."

A NEWS reader, on noticing an article in last week's issue, was surprised to find that the NEWS had a story which was in the form of history, concerning his old home town, in Scotland, where he was born and had lived during most of his younger life. The story was headed "Story of Elgin" and gave a brief account of the two days celebration of the seven hundredth birthday anniversary of Elgin Cathedral, the greatest of Scotch cathedrals, only a few paces from his former residence.

This reader as a favor to his local paper, gave a NEWS reporter a newspaper printed in his old home town, the "Northern Scot and Moray & Nairn Express," which gave a detailed account of the celebration, so that the correspondent may write up a more explicit article in the NEWS to give its readers valued knowledge of the historic church, which had been burned down over five hundred years ago at the time of the great religious war in Scotland, and remains in ruins.

All Scotland was interested in the celebration and although everyone could not join in the activities, the largest throng of people, including 1,350 Cubs, Boy Scouts and school children were in Elgin to participate in the ceremonies.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH

It was a Roman Catholic Cathedral of magnificent structure, when standing in its fullest array of splendor before the time it met its fate by fire. The walls of the building were seven feet wide, permissible for a team of horses to drive over them.

From a detailed story in the "Express," we quote the following: "In a quiet night in June, 1390, the glouce burghers of Elgin were snoring behind their barred doors—the place was wrapped in darkness, except for the dim glow of the candle-shrine in the Cathedral. The Wolf (Alexander, Earl of Buchan, fourth son of King Robert II), clanked down the street from the West Port at the head of his mounted men-at-arms and set fire to the beautiful cathedral, leaving the town, after not much of a battle, with the skys behind him glowing in red."

The church was founded in 1224 and another writer described it in the "Express," in magnificence of conception, in quality and in beauty of adornment, the present has much to learn from the past; and when the wealth of modern times in contrasted with the poverty of former days, the munificence of those, who provided for the building and the maintenance of the Lantern of the North must have been princely compared with the Christian liberality of today.

More One-Man Cars For P. S. Railway Co.

Two hundred and sixty additional cars of Public Service Railway Company are to be equipped for one man car operation at the Newark Plank Road shops. They are being turned out at the rate of ten to fifteen a week and will be allocated to various lines as they are changed over from the two man to the one man system.

The equipping of the cars at the shops involves first the installation of an air operated door mechanism, which not only opens and closes the door on the front platform but at the same time unfolds and folds the steps. In other words, as the door is opened the steps automatically unfold, and when the door is closed the steps fold back into place. One touch of the lever by the operator accomplishes the dual operation. The door in the rear, operated by the conductor in the two man type of car, will be closed except for emergency purposes. At points where it is necessary to unload a large number of passengers, the rear door may be opened by an air controlled lever in the hands of the operator.

In that type of car on which the rear platform is larger than the platform front, the new equipment for the operator will be installed on the larger end. Each car also is being equipped with a rail to separate the oncoming and outgoing passengers, and the positions of the fare box and registers are being changed.

F. & A. M. Lodges Visit Burlington Home

Theodore Roosevelt Lodge No. 219, F. & A. M., joined in line with other lodges of Middlesex county on Sunday and made the trip to the Masonic home at Burlington, N. J. There were over 250 cars in the procession. August Fink, of this borough, headed the local delegation.

GAS MAINS UNDER THE PASSAIC RIVER

Gas Department of Public Service Electric and Gas Company Complete Laying of Gas Main 65,000 Feet Long.

To meet the constantly increasing demands for gas in the Passaic division, the gas department of Public Service Electric and Gas Company has about completed the laying of a gas main 65,000 feet long running from the Harrison holder station to the Chestnut street holder in Passaic. The construction of this main has necessitated the digging of a tunnel under the Passaic river at Belleville and the building of a viaduct across the tracks of the Greenwood Lake division of the Erie Railroad at Arlington.

Incidentally the building of this main ties in the Passaic, Hudson and Essex divisions of the gas department, as the Harrison holder at present is supplied both from the Market street gas works at Newark and the West End gas works in Jersey City. Work will start soon on the erection of a huge 15,000,000 cubic foot holder at Harrison, details of which were told recently, and eventually a new gas works will be put up in Harrison.

The new main, which connects with the present main running under the Passaic River from Market street works to Harrison, consists of three sections, of which 17,000 feet are of thirty-six inch cast iron pipe laid through Harrison, East Newark and Kearny. This section of main will constitute a much needed reinforcement to these rapidly growing towns.

The second section is 15,000 feet long and is of thirty-inch pipe, running from the end of the first section through the tunnel under the river to a point in Newark about 175 feet south of the Belleville line, thence through Belleville and ending near the Nutley line. From this point, 33,000 feet of twenty-inch main runs northward to the Passaic holder.

The entire main requires about 17,000,000 pounds of cast iron, to transport which more than 400 freight cars were used, or nearly three miles of cars.

The tunnel is 345 feet long, eight feet wide and six feet high. Two thirty-inch mains are laid side by side through the tunnel.

The construction of the Tunnel was begun on the Newark side where a shaft was sunk to a distance of thirty-five feet. The tunnel was then dug through the rock under the river, at a rate of about twelve feet a day. For blasting, gelatine dynamite was found to give best results and about five pounds to the cubic yard of rock were used. The excavated material was handled in a dump bucket on a flat car.

To make the tunnel as short as possible the shaft on the Newark side was located close to the bulkhead line. This necessitated a road twenty feet wide and approximately 100 feet long from the shore line. A bulkhead was built to protect the shaft from the spring freshets and ice. The bulkhead is of standard dug through the rock under the river, inch rods and filled with rock.

The viaduct over the Erie tracks at Arlington spans a gorge, the gas pipe being laid on a bridge ninety-eight feet long and elevated sixty-five feet above the railroad tracks. The bridge was made by the American Bridge Company's Trenton plant. It was raised into position by a derrick from flat cars. The operation of raising the bridge took only thirty-five minutes.

TO CLEAR TRIUMPH MINE OF DEBT

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"IT'S a rather forlorn proposition," remarked Biggs, the only lawyer in the frontier town of Sierra.

"I have already taken that view of the case," responded Maurice Allen in a rather gloomy tone.

"Too bad you wasted the time and money coming way out here. If you have four thousand dollars cash you can fix it up."

"I have scarcely four thousand cents," replied Maurice, definitely. "Still, I am not sorry that I came," he added to himself, and the thought brought a brighter expression to his face.

"You see," explained the lawyer, "the Triumph mine is penalized for two thousand, five hundred dollars. Then there are some outside claims against it. There is still an equity of redemption, but it runs for only thirty days."

"I cannot raise the money," declared Maurice. "Miss Dale, as you know, has no means. We will have to let the property go by default."

As Maurice left the attorney's office and rather gloomily walked along the poor streets of the primitive mining settlement he had a deal to occupy his thoughts. His father had died in the East a few months previous, leaving barely enough to pay his debts. Only one possible asset was discovered—a half interest in the Triumph mine at Sierra. His partner in that enterprise had been Samuel Dale.

Maurice had come West to see if there was anything tangible to the proposition. It was to find Samuel Dale dead and his daughter, Vinnie, teaching the one school in the district.

He found her as helpless as himself in the way of finances. He marveled to discover this educated girl, the graduate of a high-class Eastern college, among such crude environment. In fact she and himself were about the only persons in the settlement of any refinement and culture.

He was interested in her the moment he met her, and her sad story won his deepest sympathy and regard.

It appeared that her father was an old friend of the father of Maurice, who had financed the mine. Its value was undeniable, but Mr. Allen had died at a time when more capital was needed, and Mr. Dale broke down under the strain of hard work and worry, and died also. He left a few debts. His daughter had become surety for these and was nobly striving to pay them off before she went to relatives and another school position nearer civilization.

The little township school had just been dismissed as Maurice reached it. Vinnie came out to look up as he approached. She greeted him with her usual sunny, friendly smile. They sat down on the long bench just outside the door of the rude log structure.

"I am through," said Maurice blankly. "It is a question of several thousand dollars, and of course neither of us can arrange for that."

"I am sorry," replied Vinnie, sadly, "more on your account than my own, because it was your father's money that is lost in the mine. To the last my father believed that the sinking of fifty feet more of tunnel would uncover a rich vein."

"And from what I learn that is true," said Maurice. "Well, we must bear our disappointment. I am going to return to my old work. I would feel much happier, Miss Dale, if circumstances were so that you could leave an environment so unsuited to your tastes and desserts."

"Oh, I am quite contented here," declared Vinnie brightly. "Besides, I shall soon have paid up the few debts of my poor father. You—you will not remain here much longer, then?"

She flushed slightly as she observed that the eyes of Maurice were fixed upon her as she asked the question.

"It is useless for me to remain," he replied soberly. "My work calls me home."

"There are good people here," said Vinnie. "They have been very kind to me. It is not like the old times when my father came here. The children are anxious to learn, their parents have ambitions to create a better social condition. There is quite an entertainment at the hall this evening. I am sure they would be glad to have you come."

And Maurice went. He could not resist the privilege and pleasure of being in the company of Vinnie. That evening amazed and enlightened him. The homely folk fairly idolized the popular young school teacher. Vinnie sang and recited for them. Then there was a dance. It was as Maurice led Vinnie to a seat after a waltz that she indicated a dark-featured young man who had sat grim and silent all the evening watching those present, especially Vinnie and Maurice.

"I wonder who that young man is?" she spoke. "He passed me on the street with an embarrassing stare yesterday, and this morning I noticed him walking by the schoolhouse several times."

"I will try and find out for you," volunteered Maurice, and made some inquiries. The young man had disappeared by the time he had returned to Vinnie. It was with somewhat startling information.

The young man, Maurice ascertained, was the son of Black Burt, a notorious outlaw who had been driven out of Sierra with a price on his head. He was reported dead. This was the first appearance of the young man in Sierra for over a year.

The next day Vinnie Dale was missing. She had gone out in the morning for a walk. She did not return. Evening came and still no trace of her. Maurice became anxious. He started a search. Finally from what some children told him he was satisfied that Vinnie had been kidnaped by three men. One of them, from the description, he was satisfied was young Burt.

For nearly a week Maurice wandered over hill and dale in a vain search for the haunt of the Burts. Wan, disheartened, one afternoon he was resting in the midst of a dreary waste when a horseman came galloping toward him. He dismounted. It was young Burt.

Instantly Maurice's hand shot toward the revolver at his belt. The abductor of Vinnie, his rival, he fancied, stood before him. Maurice was half mad with anxiety.

"Hands up!" he ordered furiously. "That's all right," observed Burt, obeying, but smiling the while. "Won't you first let me deliver a letter I have for you?"

"For me—from whom?"

"Miss Dale," was the reply. "Whom you kidnaped!" burst out Maurice, fiercely.

"Perhaps. She don't regret it. Read the letter and see," and he lowered a hand and took an envelope from his breast.

Maurice perused it. The signature was Vinnie Dale. It simply asked him to come with the bearer of the message.

"I will go with you," said Maurice, but distrustfully. "If you are leading me into a trap I will shoot."

"You won't shoot—you'll be glad," declared Burt, still smiling.

It was dusk when he led Maurice up to a rambling lighted structure in the midst of a dense wood. The astonished Maurice saw within a room Vinnie Dale, graceful, sprightly and happy-faced as ever, teaching a girl companion a dancing step.

"You see, we Burts are pretty closely watched and father is still alive and in hiding," explained young Burt. "He is going to Alaska and Sis and I to some high-toned relatives in the East. I stole your girl to teach Sis how to play the lady—see? As soon as Miss Dale found that out she was willing to stay. She sent that note to you, but you had left Sierra."

Precious note—it proved that Vinnie had a certain interest in him, how deep, Maurice soon knew.

And when the explanations had been made the happy lovers knew that for teaching Sis to be a lady enough to clear the Triumph mine of all debt was to be the reward.

Honduras Pictured as Land of Vast Riches

If true peace and order were introduced into the most backward of states, and even its friends admit that Honduras is this, the country should have an astounding future, says Morley Roberts in the London Morning Post.

It can grow almost anything; its fruits are innumerable; maize is here from time immemorial; the banana, introduced from the Canaries to Haiti, and then to the Spanish mainland, is now universal; the mountains are full of minerals, of gold, silver, copper, antimony; the jungles, a primeval forest of palms, ceiba trees, and strange hard woods other than its known mahogany, abounds in game.

El tigre or the jaguar haunts its trees, since it is a tree cat; there is the little ounce, the puma, amigo del Cristiano, the tapir and many deer. Its fauna is not yet fully described; its insect life, which is, it must be owned, too abundant, forever calls the entomologist.

Another "Don Juan"

"I was not engaged to one of them, but I was on the verge of it with the whole five. They had letters of mine, but I'd followed the advice of my dying father, and never used the word marriage in any of them. I'd never given any of them presents—when you're starting business from what's little more than a nucleus you don't throw your money about! Tea or an ice at the confectioner's was as far as ever I went—and not that unless my hand was forced. But there had been discussions of the subject of love, and there also had been an opportunity offered what may be called preliminaries."—From "Tampala's Tales of His Family," by Barry Pain.

REGRETS

A lot of these business men who are grumbling at high taxes are really sore at a different situation, though they don't realize it. The objection is not so much against taxes as the fact that business is in what looks like a long period of small margins of profit. The easy picking of war-time is gone, probably never to return.

Business will be big. Profits smaller.

ANOTHER HOUR'S SLEEP

Carteret citizens will gain back next Sunday the full hour of sleep that they have lost last May when daylight saving time went into effect. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning it will be 1 o'clock, sending all watches in the borough back from daylight saving time to Eastern standard time. The ordinance which was adopted by the Mayor and Council for the daylight extension provides for automatically shifting back to standard time on the last Sunday in September.

So, don't forget that extra hour of sleep next Sunday. If your wife, father or mother wakes you up too early—just turn over and nap some more.

MEXICAN OIL

It is rather interesting to note that more than a billion barrels of crude oil have been taken out of Mexico since the first well was drilled in 1901. We understand that a great bulk of the oil was transported from Mexico to Carteret by freight tankers and refined in this borough.

Figures also show that some of the wells there were fabulous producers. One well flowed more than 150,000 barrels every day. That such wells were golden plums for oil companies is no doubt. Rivalry for ownership of the big Mexican oil fields is well known throughout the country.

But Mexican oil production is dropping swiftly, they say.

INSURANCE

More life insurance policies are being taken out by Americans than ever before, says Miss Dagmar Koed, of this borough, who is one of the most active young women in that line in the State of New Jersey. The total has been at the rate of about eight and a half billion dollars a year, Miss Koed relates from figures at hand and says that it is a third more than 1922. Few people realize the large extent of the insurance business, the young insurance impressario assures.

There is no doubt that the figures are correct. The public is living less for the present and thinking more for the future, incidentally taking fewer chances and thus playing safe. Such is the psychological undercurrent, and it will gradually assert itself in politics and business.

NEW PRESIDENT FOR TELEPHONE CO.

Scouts Alan Philips, William Selton, Andrew Kondas and Sidney Currie, of Local Troops, Honored by Scout Council.

The directors of the New York Telephone Company on Wednesday accepted the resignation of Howard A. Thurber, as president and elected as his successor, James S. McCulloh, who has been operating vice-president since August 1922. Mr. Thurber will continue in active telephone work as chairman of the Board of Directors. He has been connected with the company for thirty-five years and was elected president in October, 1919.

Mr. McCulloh is fifty-six years old. He was born and educated in Englewood, N. J., and began his business career in 1885 as a clerk in the North Shore Railroad. He gained knowledge of the telephone and telegraph in the general operating offices of the railroad and the Western Union Telegraph Company, in the Long Lines Department, where he engaged in Central Office Operating and Maintenance Work. After serving as division superintendent in the Middle West and New England, Mr. McCulloh was transferred in 1908 to the New York Telephone Company, where he became superintendent of buildings and disbursements.

He was appointed general contract agent in 1908 and in the same year when the company took over the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and five other Bell companies in New York state, his title was changed to general commercial superintendent. He was elected vice-president, in charge of general commercial work and public relations in 1919 and in August, 1923, his duties were further enlarged by his election as operating vice president.

Brings Back to Mind Days of Golden Youth

His youth was spent in a castle of dreams in an enchanted forest. He danced with the wood-nymphs in the dusk and leprechauns, laughing, whispered the secrets of the woods to him. The sun and the moon filled a wayside pool with gold for him. One day a stranger in a scarlet coat told him of the gayety of cities and sang him the "Song of Clinking Gold," and out into the world with him he went, writes Whitelaw Saunders, in "All's Well." Now he is old. The golden song has, suddenly, dissonant harmonies, and his own scarlet coat hangs ragged and faded. A blossom in a market stall, swayed by a passing breeze, brings him dreams of long forgotten dances and in the park he hears the echoes of forest laughter. The oak tree whispers, he cannot understand the muttered words but, somehow, he knows it is telling the legend of forgotten youth.

MEN YOU MAY MARRY By E. R. PEYSER Has a man like this proposed to you? Symptoms: Looks priest-like and calm. When out with you he is the Gibraltar of solidity. At first you think he is the Chesterfield of manners and a chaperon born. He is so particular about your clothes—their propriety; about your voice—its higher cadences. Yet, when you are alone with him, he is— IN FACT Mr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde were mild lightning-change artists. Prescription to the bride: Be a master of the four dimensions and learn to jump from crag to crag with agility. Absorb This: CHANGE IS CHANGELESS. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

HIS IDEAL

By Louis Lehrer

I have a friend, He loves a girl, She's not a jewel, but He calls her Pearl.

She's large as an elephant, Wide as a door, And when she walks She shakes the floor.

Her feet are like tugboats, Her arms like limbs, And she's got a sock That makes you hear hymns.

She's got a glass eye, A false head of hair, And the first time I saw her She gave me a scare.

Her teeth are like stars, They are so petite, They are a dentist's masterpiece, They come out every night.

She isn't very cross eyed, Only a little bit. She wears a shoe size eleven And that size will hardly fit.

She weighs about three hundred, Her mother about the same, Just spend two days with them, And you surely would be lame.

You'd be as weak as a jellyfish, As ambitious as a mule, You'd always be pointed out, As the town's biggest fool.

Coming back to my subject, Continuing what I said before, My friend still went with this woman, And he intended to go with her more.

I pleaded and pleaded with him, To give up this human wreck, But if I kept on pestering him, He claimed he'd wring my neck.

There was only one way to save him, To think of it makes me provoked, But now he mocks and laughs at me, She and I eloped.

Moa

The moa was a wingless bird found in New Zealand, somewhat like an ostrich in appearance. It varied from the size of a turkey to birds 12 feet in height. They were edible and their extermination more than 500 years ago is probably due to that fact.

MILK IS NATURE'S PATENT

The only food she ever made solely for food. It cannot be reproduced artificially. Only nature herself can perfectly blend all the elements of a well-balanced diet as she has in milk.

Milk sounds like patent medicine when all its virtues are catalogued. It is the oldest prescription in the world—Nature's prescription for the building of strong, healthy bodies. Nature's revitalizer, Nature's maker of rich, red blood, Nature's nerve quieter, Nature's antidote for that "tired feeling."

If milk were put up in bottles of different shape and size, if it were given a fanciful name and announced for what it really is as "The Greatest Body and Health Restorer in the World," people would flock to buy it at rancy prices. But because it costs so little and is delivered every morning at your doorstep, we seldom give its virtues thought. We are apt to disregard the value of familiar things.

NOT TO HAVE AN AUTOMOBILE IS TO BE JUST HALF ALIVE

One of the saddest sights in life is a wild goose, caught; its wings clipped, so that it cannot fly, wandering about a pasture with the tame geese, looking up wistfully as the wild birds fly past.

Many human beings are like that wild goose, and unlike him, their condition is their own fault.

Once the human race was entirely wingless. It moved slowly over the earth at such speed as its own legs or a horse could supply.

Then came steam and the locomotive to carry human beings in CROWDS on journeys of necessity.

Now there is the automobile, the individual wings for every family, for every little group and for every little individual.

You wouldn't think much of a goose that COULD fly if it did NOT fly.

The man that MIGHT have wings, that MIGHT go out to see the country, the lakes, the hills, the beautiful Summer sunsets, and come home feeling that he is part of the world and KNOW THE EARTH ON WHICH HE LIVES, is to be pitied if he lets the chance go by him.

But there need be no such man.

Some suffer from lack of imagination. They have walked or ridden in street cars or trains all their lives. They know that millions have found happiness, closer family life, better health, thanks to the automobile. But they have put it off.

They have said, perhaps, "I cannot afford it, JUST YET." The fact is that they cannot afford NOT to have an automobile.

The most expensive thing is poor health.

The most depressing thing is a dull life.

We are on the earth for a few years. We ought to see the earth, travel it, know it, and possess it.

And that the automobile alone makes possible.

If you haven't an automobile, GET ONE.

Picking An All-League Team

With the aid of six of the best known baseball critics of the borough, I produced the following as my selection of an all-league team comprised of players, who performed in the Carteret Twilight League this season:

Roth, Cadilacs, and H. Sullivan, Tigers, pitchers; Brady, Tigers, catcher; Scally, Tigers, first base; Elko, Belmonts, second base; Sabo, Cadilacs, third base; Leshick, Belmonts, shortstop; W. Dzurilla, Belmonts, left field; Cutter, Cadilacs, center field, and Ginda, Stars, right field.

A thorough discussion was taken in the choice of picking the best all-league outfit, taking into consideration the hitting as a very important factor. After a ballot the following was the result:

Second Base a Difficult Spot

Second base seemed to be the only hard position to award to any player and Szeleg, of the Stars, who was the only man to play at that post at a regular spree, was given four votes, but as Sabo is a good hitter and played third base very well and Joey Elko, the veteran, is experienced to play second base, I would give to the latter and have Sabo take the far corner post.

Roy Dunn proved a sensation with the Belmonts at first base in picking up grounders and bad throws, but his weak batting deprived him of the right to that position. Scally, in my opinion, is the logical man for the position as his fielding was par and his batting average was well in the three hundreds, a hundred points above that of Dunn. Bob Henderson, who played with the "Lunchers" for a while at the mentioned place, was good, but could not be rated above either Scally or Dunn.

Both Roth and Curley Sullivan received popular votes and are no doubt the two best selections for the "big league" team on the slab. Brady also seems to be the choice behind the bat, being well experienced and is a good batter.

Johnny Leshick, a Belmont tosser, received five votes and takes the shortstop job handily. Bill Casey got a vote and a half, while Karcewski was given the other half ballot.

In left field Dzurilla took four ballots, a sufficient number to give him the honor of being an all-league outfielder. Center and right fields were undecided places to fill as there was quite a number of players covering the positions at different times of the season. As my choice, Chip Cutter, being fast and having a good arm and, whose batting was coming along in great shape in the final games of the season. As my choice, Chip Cutter, being fast and having a good arm and, whose batting was coming along in great shape in the final games of the season.

A Good Question

Some baseball fan in the borough, unquestionably interested in the Carteret Juniors, submits the following as his "masterpiece":

"Carteret, N. J., Sept. 22, 1924.

"The Carteret NEWS: "Dear Sports Editor:—What is the matter with the Carteret Juniors in the baseball world? Did they die of a natural death or did they get cold feet? "Please answer me in 'Quibs' of Sport," and oblige

"AN ANXIOUS FAN."

It is a pretty fair question, but the writer hasn't an advanced knowledge of the fact questioned. It could be a case of a recent trifling defeat at Port Reading, otherwise no answer can be given.

LOCAL TWILIGHT LEAGUE FINISHES WITH TIE EXISTING

CADILACS FAIL TO CAPTURE PENNANT

Are Smothered by Tigers and Whitewashed by Belmonts, 9-0

A poor crowd saw the disappointing downfall of the Cadilacs in their race for the Carteret Twilight Baseball League pennant, Sunday afternoon at Brady's field when they were severely trounced by both the Tigers and the Belmonts in the final games of the schedule. In the first affair of the double header, the Tigers, with Curley Sullivan on the mound, held their rivals well in hand while they hit the ball hard, winning by a 12 to 3 count, and the Belmonts, handed the "lunchers" a 9-0 whitewash facing in the second tilt of the afternoon.

Both of the winning pitchers, Sullivan and Love, were in good form, but Sabo and Casey, both Cadilacs, were treated mercifully. Simmons had to finish the job for Sabo, but Casey lasted the rout, which covered six innings.

Both contests, or just plain games, as these sort of events are generally called, were slow. The hitting was frequent but not far, although one three-bagger was maced out in the night-cap fracas by Skurat.

SCORE SEVEN IN THIRD

The Tigers upset the Cadilacs with seven runs in the third frame of their game, when the losers made a few misplays. Maskulin raised a high foul fly to Morgan, who made a fine catch, to start things moving and Helley was safe when Coughlin mused up his easy roller to third base. Donovan was hit by a pitched ball, Kelly singled through third and short, Casey led Scally's hopper get away from him and Brady walked. Sullivan popped into right center for a hit, that cleared the bases. Sabo hit Ballo between the eyes with a fast one and play had to be halted for a short time. The Tigers, fearful of the fact that the clouds were threatening to burst any minute, brought Ballo to his senses in fast time. Hamilton got to first safely when Coppola covered his grounder between first and second, there being no player to force the runner at the initial sack. Sullivan scored on the play and Ballo stopped at third.

Maskulin, batting for the second time in this frame, reached first on Coppola's error, Ballo scoring in the meantime. Helley's single tallied Hamilton and "Moosel" counted on Donovan's bingle to right. Helley was trapped between third and home, retiring the side.

Sullivan had one bad inning, the eighth, in which the losers were successful in getting two markers on four safeties. Coughlin singled to center and after Olsen fanned, Morgan, Casey and Sabo dropped singles into the outfield in succession, producing two runs.

LOVE INVINCIBLE The Cadilacs, disheartened by their previous poor showing, threw the nightcap tilt away by making all sorts of errors and by being helpless with the bat. Three hits were all that they could carve out of Love's southpaw slants.

On successive bingles by Bill Dzurilla, Donovan, Keating, Dunn and Johnny Dzurilla the Harmonizers scored but two runs in the second round and with one hit in the third they tallied the same number of times.

As a result of their failure to win at least one game the Cadilacs finished in second place. The Tigers and Belmonts are tied in the topmost berth. A play-off contest between these two clubs will be played on Sunday, October 5th, to settle the question as to which outfit is deserved of the pennant. "Topsy" Roth's great hurling for the Cadilacs was wasted by their defeats Sunday, but the Cadilacs probably are not afraid to admit that the Tigers and Belmonts hit and played better in both games.

The writer nearly forgot to mention at least two of the fastest plays of the day. The first was made by Casey in the first inning of the opener. Bill, while running fast, made a one-handed stabbing pickup of Brady's hot grounder inside of second base, and threw the runner out at first. The other was made by Bill Donovan in the first canto of the second battle. Donovan pulled down Sabo's hard drive with his bare hand, depriving Earnie of at least a triple. The belt was hard and the sound of the ball hitting Donovan's hand was heard at home plate. The scores:

PENNANT FIGHT

Sunday, Oct. 5, at 2:30 P. M.: Tigers vs. Belmonts for league pennant.

SHARKEY LOSES, BUT ASTONISHES ROOTERS

Hossie, Who Ruled Favorite, Hands Out All That He Had and Fails to Topple Fast Rising Middleweight, at Perth Amboy.

Young Sharkey, another promising inexperienced scrapper, although a failure to beat his fast opponent, took all and had room for more punishment that Johnnie Hossie, a Perth Amboy lad, could give in their special six-round bout at Perth Amboy, last Monday night. Sharkey weighed in at 160 pounds and his opponent at 166. The many Hossie rooters were astonished when their favorite failed to put Sharkey away.

Sharkey, being new in the game, lacks the "polished off" finish that the best boxers obtain, but if he puts in some strict and stiff training sessions will in no time prove a real match for Hossie, who won Monday night's affair without much trouble. The local lad needs to learn the aggressive and defensive tricks of a boxer and his showing then, in regards to the better, would never be in doubt for he has the ability to take much pounding.

His "mits" have the power of a gorilla's grip and all he needs is the training, which always proves for the betterment of a "pug's" career, instead of the worse.

Great Battle Looked For On October 5th

Even today there is much enthusiasm on the part of a great number of the local baseball fans in regard to the "big game" in which the Tigers and Belmonts will battle for the Carteret Twilight League pennant, on Sunday, October 5th, at Brady's field. Both clubs finished their schedule in a tie for the lead and this play-off is a necessity in order that one team should be the pennant winner. There will be only one game because the season is so near the close.

The Cadilacs, who made such a strong spurt of seven straight victories, with the aid of Topsy Roth's pitching, failed in their double-header with the Tigers and Belmonts last Sunday as their star moundman had left the club to resume his studies in Middletown, Conn. The team finished second and the Stars third or in last place.

In the big battle the rivalry between the two teams will make sure that the game will be good, although no riots are expected to turn up.

Crescents Demand Series With Rovers

The Crescents through, Manager Nemish, it is reported, is demanding a championship series with the Rovers, who challenged the Carteret Juniors recently. If the Rovers do not play the Crescents, the latter will claim the championship, since, it was learned this week, that the Carteret Juniors are no longer seeking the heavy junior crown of the county.

There will be a two-out-of-three game series between the Crescents and the Rovers, providing the latter outfit agrees on the terms laid down by Manager Nemish. The Crescents would like to meet the Rovers this Sunday in the first game.

BOWLING TOURNEY ON LOCAL ALLIES

Registration Day Closed Yesterday and a Number of Contestants Have Enrolled—Four Prizes Will Be Awarded.

With the close of baseball well at hand, a sport which many local men love and participate in in other localities, but not in the borough, in the past, will open with the first bowling endurance contest for men ever held here, tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at Coughlin's bowling and billiard academy, in Pershing avenue. There are a number of contestants registered, having compensated a fee, and no more are eligible to enroll as the date for the purpose closed yesterday.

There will be three gold prizes awarded and a special high score man prize will also be given. The contest will last for eight hours, closing at ten o'clock in the evening.

Donnelly Rolls For High Tryout Average

Candidates for the two bowling teams of the Rahway Elks, which is to have a team in the New Jersey State Elk's Bowling League and the City League, continued their elimination tourney last Monday night. There will be seven pinners picked for each team and Bill Donnelly, local sharp shooter, is pretty well assured of a berth on the quintet that is expected to represent the Rahway lodge in the state loop this winter. "Bill's" average for seventeen games was 182.7, the fourth highest average. Donnelly has eight more games to roll before he is through with the present tourney.

The averages of the pinners follow:

HIGH SCHOOL CAGERS ARRANGE SCHEDULE

Manager Berson's Challenges Accepted By South River, South Amboy and Cranford High School Teams.

The local High School will have another basketball quintet on the court this winter and Manager Jacob Berson has sent numerous challenges to schools in the county as well as in Essex and Union counties. Games have been arranged with South River, for December 6th and South Amboy December 19th. Both engagements will be played on the courts of the opposition. Another game has been arranged with the Cranford High School seconds for a game at Cranford.

The quintet will line up with Sexton, Harrigan and Rosenblum, forwards; Nadel, center; and Lehrer and Abrams, guards.

A big obstacle stands in the way of the cagers, as they will get in very little practice before meeting these teams.

LOCALS BEATEN IN FIRST LEAGUE GAME

Conquered By Fast Erie A. A. Eleven at Kearney, Sunday, By 4 to 2—Will Engage Strong Clan McKay, of Bayonne Here.

With the important breaks against them, the Carteret Soccer Football Club was defeated in their first New Jersey State Soccer League contest by the Erie A. A. eleven, by 4 to 2, at Kearney last Sunday afternoon, before a good sized attendance. The locals showered their opponents' goal with attacks, but such breaks as hitting the cross-bar of the posts obstructed in their scoring any more than two points.

The Carteret outfit showed great stamina and form throughout the battle and played equally as well or better than their enemy. At center halfback the Erie team had, J. Douglas, who played at that position with the United States Olympic team in Paris a short time ago.

The winners had Carteret 3 to 0 before Buchanan tallied with a shot between the posts, after the entire team rallied to do so. Sloan, Elliot, McInnes and Buchanan proved to be good at the game, in this fray, with their fine performances, which held the Eries from counting on several occasions.

This Sunday the locals will engage the Clan McKay, of Bayonne, at Brady's field, in their second league game. Mayor T. J. Mulvihill will make the first kick-off to start the local season's eleven in their first home league game, at 3 P. M. sharp. Carteret will be without the services of their classy left halfback, J. McInnes, who will perform with the Newark F. C. just for the day. This tribe will oppose New York in the National League. Ken Giegall, of Staten Island will be secured as substitute for McInnes. Columbias To Engage Juniors On Gridiron

Important trick plays and others, such as line plunges and cross-plays will be learned by the backfield at their sessions. Title Shoot To Be Held Here Shortly

An opportunity will be given the fans who are interested in gunning, soon, after the challenge of Joe Toath, of East Rahway, to meet Bill Thompson, of Rahway, in a match shoot is made good. The match will be held at Brady's gunning field and much interest is expected to be aroused by the event, especially among the gunners of East Rahway and Rahway.

Toth is a member of the Carteret Gun Club, which is to be organized very soon, and at a practice session held Saturday at Brady's field, the title match with Thompson was brought into discussion.

At that shoot high scores were registered. Bill Trustrum crashed shots through twenty out of twenty-five pigeons. The following are the scores of the practice shoot:

Hudsons To Have Team On Court Against Best

The Hudson A. C. will form a basketball quintet this winter to travel and play against the best senior teams in the county. Manager Charlie Leslie expects to get his schedule arranged shortly and it is proposed to get the following players on the team: Shutello, Casey, Beisel, Beigert and himself. If the Carteret Separates are desirous of playing the Hudsons they should write to Manager Leslie, 24 Lowell street.

STARS AND A. A. TO FIGHT FOR HONORS

Both Machines Will Start Hostilities At One o'Clock At Brady's Field—Prize Will Be Borough Senior Championship.

A battle, which has been looked for by those fans who are interested in the light senior baseball teams of the borough, will take place at Brady's field next Sunday afternoon, when the Carteret All Stars and the Carteret A. A. will play for the borough championship. The game will start promptly at 1 o'clock.

The Stars will have a nifty lineup to put against the A. A., which will also be very strong, backed up by the notable hurling of Andy Horai, of Staten Island. Frank Green, manager of the Stars, will most likely start Langstaff on the mound and Grant will receive his shoots. For the other outfit Ginda will probably receive Horai's curves.

The A. A. will chose the remaining part of their lineup from the following players: Sabo, J. Dzurilla, T. Dzurilla, Beisel, Masekulin, Skurat, Lee and Patoenig. Green will pick the rest of the nine from Toth, Scally, Casey, Fred Green, Clifford, Morgan, McGuire, Beigert, Szelag and himself.

The Athletics will not be off form for this fight, since they have been playing regular ball. They defeated the leading light senior team at Elizabeth last Saturday by a score of 7 to 2. Horai twirled a fine game and besides hit a home run with two on the paths in the fifth frame. The Stars, although having taken the scalps of some of the best teams of the county, have not played together for quite some time.

Yanks Defeat Another And Strengthen Claim

By defeating the Carteret A. C., the Young Yanks strengthened their hold on to their claim of the borough light junior championship. Saturday afternoon at Brady's field. The final score was 11 to 7. The winners' opponents were gathered up to relieve them of their claim, but after seven innings, failed. The tilt was called in that inning on agreement. The score:

Baseball Teams To Start Tour Oct. 5th

Preliminary arrangements for the European tour of the New York Nationals and Chicago American League baseball teams were announced this week by President Charles A. Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox. It will be the first baseball expeditionary force since the world tour of the same teams in 1913.

While the other trip, despite an initial outlay of $100,000, was a profitable venture, the agreement signed this time provides that all profits shall be turned over to charity.

The countries to be visited by the teams are British Isles, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium.

The forty members of the official party, besides wives and friends, will leave New York the night of October 10, it was announced, and according to present plans, the first game of the tour will be played in Montreal, Sunday, October 12. President Comiskey and John J. McGraw will be in active charge of the trip, an umpire from the American and one from the National League, will officiate at the games, and two American newspaper men will be official reporters.

HELD PRISONER IN ICE WELL

Workman Climbs Forty Feet and Then Falls Back When Pegs Give Way.

SAVED HOURS LATER

Canterbury, England.—A remarkable adventure befell Frederick Tuff, a workman on the Chatham Castle estate, near here. He fell into a disused ice well, from which he tried in vain to escape by means of a ladder of pegs, and remained a prisoner for 26 hours.

Tuff had heard fellow workers talk of the well and on his way home from work he decided suddenly to investigate it. He pushed open a door, walked along a passage and in the darkness stepped over the sill and fell to the bottom, a distance of 20 feet, amid a shower of bricks, bruised, but not much hurt.

Tuff had heard fellow workers talk of the well and on his way home from work he decided suddenly to investigate it. He pushed open a door, walked along a passage and in the darkness stepped over the sill and fell to the bottom, a distance of 20 feet, amid a shower of bricks, bruised, but not much hurt.

Shouting failed to attract help, and he tried to make his own way to safety. "I found some bits of board on the well bottom," he said, "and shaped six pegs. Then I dug holes with my knife in the cement between the wall bricks and pushed the pegs into them.

Each Hole Took About Half an Hour to Make.

Each hole took about half an hour to make.

"When I got half way up I found I had not got enough pegs. I came down again and tied string to the lower pegs, and then as I went up pulled them out behind me to use higher up.

"I had got almost to the top when the peg I was standing on gave way and let me down. After that I gave up. At the time I could hear a cricket match being played in the field outside and children playing round about.

"Rescued by Brother-in-Law." "I could make nobody hear." (It seems that Tuff's shouts were heard, but nobody could discover where they came from.) "I cleared the toads that were in the well down a drain to have the place to myself and tried to get to sleep. It was very cold and uncomfortable, but I slept fairly well. I heard twelve and four o'clock strike, and then nothing until the church bells woke me.

"Just before two p. m. I heard my brother-in-law shouting, and I answered. He then found me and fetched a ladder and got me out. I walked two miles home to Shottenden and had a jolly good dinner."

Have You This Habit?

PULLING YOUR WEIGHT

JACQUELINE PRINCE grew up, after her mother's death, on a big, old-fashioned place in the country. Her experience was bounded by the low, rambling house; the wide, fragrant gardens, presided over by the genius of the place, an old gardener; her indulgent father, and relatives.

Jacqueline's formal education was under the direction of a governess. During the mornings Jacqueline was supposed to pursue knowledge. The procedure was somewhat as follows: Jacqueline would be asked to recite the first eighteen lines of "The Canterbury Tales"; after the opening phrases she would slow down and look expectantly at Miss Smith; thereupon Miss Smith would supply and prompt to the end of the selection. Then they would turn to mathematics. A few judicious questions on Jacqueline's part would tap successfully the springs of Miss Smith's knowledge; she would seize the pencil from her pupil's hand and eventually, with a minimum of effort on Jacqueline's part, the sums would be accomplished.

At twenty Jacqueline was left an orphan and penniless. The relatives gathered in conclave. "We were fond of your father," and "There will always be a place in our house for you," followed by, "Of course you can make yourself useful if you want," were phrases frequently in use in those days. Then Jacqueline threw a thunderbolt by announcing that she had a job and proposed to be self-supporting. "But how?—how? in heaven's name!" was the answer. And when Jacqueline explained that she really knew something about gardens, and that she had found a position in a florist's shop, they were all divided between relief and hurt pride.

Ten years later, when the Prince greenhouses were becoming known, a reporter called upon Jacqueline Prince to interview her and get the story of her success. Great stress was laid in the forthcoming article upon Miss Prince's philosophy of production: "Everything that receives sunlight and food and shelter must produce," she said. Then she abruptly changed her figure of speech. The habit of pulling one's own weight in the boat is essential, she ended.

Nothing but quietness and comfort and ease and good cooking, that is—the best things that ever happened.
