

JEWISH RECKON PASSOVER WEEK

Began Pesach at Sundown On Monday and to Continue Until Tuesday—Synagogues Here Invite Zionist Speakers.

PROMOTE DRIVE

United Palestine Fund Spoken Of Carteret Jews to Try to Raise Quota of $1,000—Some Contributors Have Given Already.

The Passover, or Pesach, the Feast of the Unleavened Bread, began at sundown Monday and to continue throughout the week for eight days, ending Tuesday. Informed Jews set aside only the first and seventh days for services of religious character. The festival opened with the Seder, or relation of the story of the exodus from Egypt to the Promised Land.

Carteret Jews joined in with their co-religionists in celebrating the holiday. The nation-wide drive of fifteen million dollars for the Palestine Fund was given prominence in mostly all the sermons everywhere, and the two synagogues here co-operated in the cause.

Speakers from out of town were guests of the local Hebrew societies and at the synagogues. Mr. Levenson, Zionist and social worker, of Newark, spoke to an audience here Sunday and dwelt mainly upon the suffering Jews in the Near East.

"The House of Israel is in distress," Mr. Levenson said. "Millions of Jews are suffering a catastrophe of poverty, disease, starvation, homelessness and despair—in Poland, Russia, Galicia, Bessarabia, Austria and other countries.

Jews Here Should Help

"I feel that in the hands of American Jews, who are blessed with prosperity and happiness, lies the possibility of saving the stricken Jewries of Europe from annihilation," Mr. Levenson also quoted in his talk.

Mr. Levenson called upon the Jews in Carteret to help the fund which was established to help the needy ones in Palestine and other places where poverty has stricken them.

Mr. Kepler, a noted lawyer of Newark, also spoke here, comparing

P. Mahar Causes Truck to Collide With Pole

Randolph Street Man Gets in the Way of Truck, Which Runs Into Jam at Roselle Park.

A peculiar accident occurred at Roselle Park Sunday night, in which Peter Mahar, of 110 Randolph street, took part, but was not responsible materially with the damage done. He was driving along Walnut street, Roselle Park, and a truck, controlled by Maximal Marlines, of Newark, came into such a position that Marlines had to do quick thinking in order to avoid a crash with the local man's car.

Instead of squeezing out of a smashup, Marlines' wheel head long into one, colliding with an electric light pole and snapping it off about ten feet from the top. The truck was damaged considerably, with its windshield broken and radiator pretty well bent.

FERRY CO. BEING SUED

Peerless Trucking Company Truck Goes Overboard Into Sound.

The Carteret Ferry Company is being sued for $5,000 damages in a supreme court suit brought by the Peerless Trucking Company. It is alleged that a truck of the company, while passing over the gangplank onto the ferry, fell into the Kill von Kull when the chain of the gangplank broke.

Bradford, Edward A. Strack, Julius Kloss, John Groom, Edward S. Wilgus, Joseph Young, A. W. Hall, William W. Walling and Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill.

Another similar session will be called together next Tuesday evening when interesting discussions will be dwelt upon by prominent speakers, just as occurred in the meeting on Wednesday.

CHILDREN INJURED IN CAR ACCIDENTS

Three Youngsters, Julia Shinsky, Steve Farkas, and Francis Compton, are Figures in Spring Shakeups—None Severely Hurt

The Spring is here. And so are the children on the borough highways, playing, little aware of the fact that they may be permanently injured or killed under the wheels of automobiles.

A number of automobile accidents in which children were hurt took place in the borough during the past week, despite the effort of the police to check the accidents by warning.

On Monday night at 5 o'clock, Julia Shinsky, of 61 Randolph street, was struck by a car in front of Leo Reckman's home. The girl sustained injuries to the back of her head, lacerations on her face and right leg. Dr. J. J. Reason gave her medical assistance. Officer Donoghue investigated the accident.

At 8:20 on Tuesday morning the car of Holger G. Helm, of 186 Madison avenue, Perth Amboy, struck six year old Steve Farkas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Farkas, of 26 Essex avenue. Dr. I. Kemyen treated the boy for lacerations on the head. Patrolman O'Keefe investigated the case.

On Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Henry Scheiber of 770 Ocean avenue, Jersey City, struck five year old Francis Compton of 305 Pershing avenue. The boy was only slightly injured. He was examined by Dr. H. L. Strandberg. Report of the accident was made by Officer Donoghue.

Carteret Board of Education Will Remain Intact Until July 1, 1927

Although the State Legislature at Trenton passed a new school Bill last month giving the mayor of municipalities having a population of ten thousand and over the power to appoint five members to the Board of Education of his particular district, Carteret will not be affected until July 1, 1927. Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill will not be able to use his new authority until that date.

TERMS TO VARY

The mayor will appoint five men between the fifteenth and thirtieth days of June, 1927. In making the appointments the mayor will assign positions ranging from terms of one to five years. One man will serve a single year, another two years and so on until all the five men are appointed.

In case a vacancy is left the mayor will commission a man to occupy the position until the end of the term. Appointments of this character are to be made within thirty days after the vacancy is reported to the executive. The term of office of a member of the Board of Education, except one appointed to fill an unexpired term, shall begin on the first day of July following his appointment.

The present board in this borough will remain intact until June 30, 1927. The five members appointed by Mayor Mulvihill will take their positions on the following day when inauguration ceremonies will be held.

CREDITOR GOES FOR CITY HALL

New York Consulting Engineer Given Judgment by District Court Against Perth Amboy—Decided to Take Over Hall.

MONEY DELAYED

Was Not Paid for Work—City Believed to Have Been in Debt—Garretson Denies Report City Has Over-borrowed.

Professor George F. Swain, of New York, a consulting engineer, has decided to seize the city hall in Perth Amboy to satisfy a judgment of $3,000 awarded him in the United States District Court at Trenton Tuesday. The city owes Swain $3,000 for street paving he had done and when his money was not forwarded after a delayed time he took drastic action, being permitted to seize city property.

It was reported that Perth Amboy was in debt and was unable to meet Swain's bill, having over-borrowed money already. Thomas A. Garretson, chairman of the Board of Aldermen of the city, denied Wednesday that the legal debt limit of Perth Amboy had been exceeded and said that there would be no occasion for Professor Swain to seize the City Hall.

"The report is all bunk," declared Mr. Garretson. "At the present time there is a fund of about $70,000 in the city's treasury to pay just such claims as this. The matter will come up at a meeting of the aldermen next Monday night and in all probability be adjusted then.

"Under the law we are permitted to borrow up to seven per cent of the assessed valuation of property here, and at the present time we have only borrowed up to 6.804 per cent."

Deputy United States Marshal Frederick C. Snyder was in the city Wednesday afternoon with the writ of attachment, ready to nail it upon the City Hall, he said, but was decided to wait until after the meeting on Monday night.

"His People" with Joseph Schukraut in the leading role, will be the feature picture at the Crescent Theatre on Thursday, April 8, and at the Majestic Theatre on Wednesday, April 7, both matinee and night.

Busses May Do Away With Trackless Cars

Staten Island Lost $300,000 With Present System of Transportation—Busses May Run.

The trackless trolley system in Staten Island has proven a failure, in as much as the government of the City of New York lost over $300,000 in five years on the three lines operated at the present time.

Owing to the fact that the lines do not pay, the City of New York will probably issue franchises for the same routes to bus companies, which will charge a bigger fare. It is expected the present five cent fare will be doubled. The same fare for school children will remain, that is, 2 1/2 cents one way.

The bus companies are also applying for the four franchises now held by the Midland Railroad Company, which lost about as much as the trackless trolleys in the course of five years.

The birth rate declined more than thirty-eight per cent and the death rate held its own in the borough during the month of March, according to figures issued by Edward S. Wilgus, registrar of vital statistics. There were eight babies born, two of which died, and ten deaths, not including the babies, during this month.

CHIMNEY FIRE PUT OUT

Both Companies Respond to Alarm and Put out Blaze at Kasha House.

The fire companies were called out, Tuesday night, by an alarm signalled at 7:50 o'clock to put out the small blaze on top of Daniel Kasha, Sr.'s home in 8 Charles street. Quick work featured the summons and in a half hour the fire was extinguished with the aid of chemicals. Little damage was done.

The blaze is believed to have started due to an extra large quantity of soot in the chimney caused by the use of soft coal during the winter. It was the third fire during the month of March to which the companies had to respond.

Miss Anna Willis, of Elizabeth, visited Mrs. Jesse Foote of Pershing avenue, yesterday.

The pursuit came to an end Monday morning when Motorcycle Officer Sheridan found it abandoned at East Rahway. The machine was slightly damaged.

CASEY DECIDES FOR MAYORALTY

Borough Tax Assessor "Throws Hat Into Ring" to Show He Is in Race for Nomination on the Democratic Stub This Year.

LOOKS FOR AID

Experts Party to Give Him Full Cooperation in Campaign—Has Clean Slate in Politics Both in County and Boro, He Says.

Those memorable words, "I threw my hat into the ring," uttered by the Honorable Theodore Roosevelt when he infamed the people throughout the country that he had decided to be a candidate for the presidency—when "Teddy" was in his political prime—were well implied, but in a moderated degree, by William D. Casey, borough tax assessor, Saturday night.

About four hundred patrons at the Firemen's fistic show, in Dalton's auditorium, saw Mr. Casey toss his hat into the fighter's ring, which carried out the idea Roosevelt stated in words fourteen years ago; Mr. Casey declared his candidacy for mayoralty nomination on the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Casey stated that, after a long period of intense thought, he finally came to the conclusion that the best thing he could do is "to answer the call of his many Democratic friends and even others outside the party" to which he belongs. Popular sentiment in his ranks agitated him to accept the mayoralty nomination this year, according to reports.

Ready to Enter Field

"I am ready to enter the field if you give me your approval at the primaries in June," the borough assessor stated to his audience at the fight show.

He also said a few words about his good record made in the county, as well as in Carteret, during the last twenty years of public service. "There's not a single blot on my whole political career," Mr. Casey continued, "and I will be a winner in November if you nominate me."

Mr. Casey also greeted several men and women members of his party on the same day and issued a statement in regards to his intentions of accepting the nomination.

Before this date Mr. Casey's plans were vague. No one knew what way

Casey Lauds Patrons of Firemen's Benefit

Before making his announcement concerning his intentions in the political field, William D. Casey, borough tax assessor, extolled the patrons of the Firemen's boxing show, at Dalton's, Saturday night, for their helping the "red coats," who are continually at the peoples' service.

"I am glad to see you out tonight," Mr. Casey said. "The men who are presenting this fight show are men who have to meet with all sorts of dangers in serving you, and I am very pleased to know that you are showing your gratitude by attending their affair here this evening."

The event was the first in the borough for quite some time. Hugo expenses have discouraged the promotion of boxing exhibitions here, although the firemen of Company No. 2 have undertaken the proposition several times during the last two years, formerly running their shows at Coughlin's auditorium.

MAYOR RUMOR LULLED

William J. Lawlor Says It Is Too Early to Talk of Proposition.

Rumors to the effect that William J. Lawlor former Democratic councilman, was thinking seriously of being a mayoralty candidate for nomination in his party this year were practically lulled last night when Mr. Lawlor stated it was too early in the year to talk about it.

"It is entirely too early in the year to speak of such a thing," Mr. Lawlor stated over the phone last night.

he would make his final decision: whether he would enter the political fold as a mayoralty nominee was an important question, and it wasn't solved until Saturday when Mr. Casey voiced his conclusion.

Announcement a Surprise

The announcement was not at all expected, for it was believed that Mr. Casey had not come to a definite understanding with himself, since he stated very little about the matter in conversations. It came as a complete surprise, particularly to those at the boxing exhibition, who applauded Mr. Casey, after he finished speaking.

The Democratic party's undivided support is expected by Mr. Casey in his campaign. He feels that the issue will "never be in doubt" as long as he receives the cooperation of his organization here.

Mr. Casey was a member of the Board of Freeholders in Middlesex county for three terms, thus gaining political recognition in this section of the State.

TROLLEYS ARE RELIEVED

Will Have to Pay Only Part of Cost Incurred in Street Paving.

Street railways will be relieved of part of the expense they now bear in connection with street paving, as a result of a new bill passed in amended form in the State Legislature this week.

Under the new bill the companies are required to repair any damage done to pavement between tracks and eighteen inches outside by reason of operation of cars over the tracks.

Municipal, county and state authorities can apply to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners for an order compelling the companies to comply with this law and the board is given authority to issue and enforce such orders.

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN

Guests From In and Out of Town Surprise Mrs. Wm. Sharkey.

A surprise party was tendered Mrs. William Sharkey at her home in Lowell street, Sunday. A very delightful time was had by everyone. A wonderful dinner was one of the prominent features of the affair.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Reiche and son of Garwood; Mr. and Mrs. N. Beatty, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Parr, Misses Helen Williams, Violette Mason, Gladys Beadle, Mr. Arthur Hall, Will Clifford and Mr. and Mrs. William Sharkey of this borough.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

AT OUR OWN DOOR

WEBSTER was a young Englishman whom I met in St. Malo on the Brittany coast of France. He was a charming young fellow of good taste and pleasant manners and education. He had come to St. Malo to spend his holidays and to lie in the sun for a few days on the clean sand of the broad beach that stretches away from the promenade along the bay.

He had traveled a good deal, I found on talking to him. He had been to Lake Como for an outing, he had spent a summer vacation in the Pyrenees, he had enjoyed the watering places of Belgium and Holland, and now he was in France.

By chance I asked him something about the English lakes—a heavenly region if there ever was one on earth—but he had never been there. More strangely still, he was quite uncertain as to just where in England one would find Windermere and Derwentwater. He had never been to Scotland, and all he seemed to know of England was confined to the little strip of countryside between his own home and London and what he might see on his way to a continental steamer. Britain was full of people anxious to see the historic spots of England and Scotland and he, close by, had seen none of them and, what was even more surprising, knew very little about them.

Many of us hold the same point of view. We value little, often, the greatness or the beauty that is near us. Jackson was telling me only a few days ago of his seeing the Jungfrau, but though he lives in the West he has never been to the Grand canyon; he has never seen Mount Robson, or Long's Peak, or the Yosemite. In fact, he knows very little about the magnificent scenery of his own country. "You know Baldwin," I said to a middle-aged man with reference to one of the best-known scientific authorities of the country who was born and brought up in the town from which the man to whom I was speaking had come.

"Jim Baldwin? Oh, yes. He and I played together. He always seemed a little queer to us. I don't know whether his stuff amounts to much or not. It doesn't seem to me that Jim Baldwin could ever be a great man."

And yet he was quite mistaken, for when present-day history is written Baldwin will have no insignificant place in it.

Distance does, too often, lend enchantment. Our own country, our own friends, the beautiful things which lie at our door are too often undervalued because they are so near.

the Jewish people here "in the land of the free" with those in Europe who face hardships untold.

Kosher provision stores report the unusual heavy sales of matzo (unleavened bread), poultry, sacramental wine and other Passover food this week. Jewish philanthropic societies have gotten together to aid the needy.

Contribute to Drive

A week ago Sunday night local Jews met and decided to try to raise the quota of $1,000, assigned to Carteret, towards the United Palestine Fund which has a nation-wide quota of fifteen million dollars.

Isadore Zimmerman was elected chairman of the committee to raise the fund here. Thomas Shapiro, was made treasurer, and Frank Brown, secretary. Another committee of six was formed to canvass the borough and promote interest in the drive here. The group consists of: Bernard Kahn, I. Schwartz, Frank Brown, J. Weiss, and Isadore Zimmerman.

At the meeting held two weeks ago donations were plentiful; $354 was raised. The following men donated to the cause up to this date: T. Garber, J. Brown, F. Brown, M. Jacobowitz, S. Schwartz, Grocer; J. Weiss, T. Kahn, Joseph Morell, C. Roth, D. Lehrer, M. Carpenter, I. M. Weiss, J. Klier, S. Rosenblum, B. Kahn, Jacob Daniel, T. Shapiro, H. Mittelman, M. Prinz, J. Hopp, Rudolph, Joseph A. Hermann, I. Zimmerman and I. Schwartz.

Another meeting will be held in the near future to enable the committee to make reports. A canvas of the borough will be made, after which the session will be called.

Those who took part in the review from Carteret are, as follows: Carl Morris, corporal; Leo Schonwald, Andrew Kondas, Cornelius Troost, Jr., Edward Duncan, John Sears and Patrick Donovan.

Where Name Gamaliel Occurs in the Bible

Two men by the name of Gamaliel are spoken of in the Bible. The periods in which they lived were widely separated. The name of the first is found in Numbers 1:10. He was the son of Pothanah, a prince or captain of the tribe of Manasseh, and he is here mentioned in connection with the census of Sinai. He again mentioned in chapters 2:20; 7:54 and 10:23; the latter reference being to Gamaliel as captain of the tribe of Manasseh at the starting of the Israelites on their march through the wilderness. The second Gamaliel was a Pharisee and celebrated doctor of the law, who gave sound worthy advice to the Sanhedrin respecting the treatment of the followers of our Lord. This will be found in Acts 5:34. It is also learned from 22:3 that he was the teacher of St. Paul when the latter was a young man zealously devoted to Judaism. He is generally identified with the very celebrated Jewish doctor, Gamaliel, who was the son of Rabbi Simeon, and grandson of the celebrated Hillel. He was president of the Sanhedrin, the great council of the Jews, during the reigns of the Roman emperors Tiberius, Caligula and Claudius.

Study of Revelations

The book of Revelation is an apocalyptic book first mentioned in the Epistle of Jude 14-15 and quoted by Clement of Alexandria, Origen and Tertullian. It purports to be a series of revelations of God made to John and gives a history of the kingdom of God and the secret origin of laws of nature. It was much quoted in Jewish and Christian writings during the first five centuries after Christ; but disappeared with the exception of a few fragments about 800 A. D. The book furnishes information concerning Jewish theology and speculation during the centuries immediately preceding the Christian era—Kansas C. Stat.

The Trunk Sewer

WITHIN the next six weeks work will be started on the trunk sewer over Noe's Creek at Pershing avenue and Cooke avenue. This project marks the beginning of things great for the Borough of Carteret. It is surely a positive evidence that the effort to build a sewer has been successful at last.

It takes no great imagination to realize what the sewer will mean to Carteret. It is an assurance that we will no longer be made to suffer from the odors and mosquitoes when the year of 1927 rolls around. In the opinion of Borough Engineer Oliver F. Mitchell, the construction of the work should be completed in six months.

That the activities of the borough will have a marked effect, immediately after construction of the sewer, next year, goes almost without saying. Thousands of dollars will be spent in improvements and this will increase the valuation of borough ratables and at the same time eliminate Carteret's greatest sore spot.

Squelch the Gambling Evil, Now!

THE gambling situation here is perplexing, especially to parents who are unwilling to see their sons imbibe the disgraceful habit of gaming for money through cards, dice, machines, horseshoeing bookies and other means common to many leisure hours.

It is true that good parents prohibit their sons from frequenting pool rooms and undesirable places were bad language, bad habits and traits not seen in descent gentlemen are noticed, but young men will be contrary at times. When this is the case action should be taken to rid the town of things with which the boy should not come in contact. The overflow of gambling machines is one evil that could stand oblivion at the hands of the police.

The Carteret News implores the Police Department of Carteret to take immediate action and save future lives from destruction. Gambling is one of the primary steps toward threatening habits.

A report was issued by the Children's Aid Society of New York City this morning showing that eighty per cent of the crimes in that city are committed by youths under twenty-one years of age, and gambling is pointed out as the greatest evil causing crimes.

There is such a thing as giving people what they want; but a majority of the people do not want what is best for them.

Fools who think they can beat gambling machines are to be pitied and protected.

Nowadays a Girl Makes No Secret of the Fact She Is Helping Nature

By MRS. THOMAS WHIPPEN, in Baltimore Sun.

It seems to me our young folks today are more honest than those who lived when I was a young lady. Take the matter of make-up, for instance. In those days the belles of the time put coloring on their cheeks, darkened their eyebrows and often added a touch of ruby to their lips. But they would not dream of letting their suitors know they did this! For all that they ever confessed otherwise, their cheeks were natural roses, their lips like the cherry itself, and their skin milk-white, although they had carefully seen to that a few minutes earlier with a swan's down puff and a very fine grade of powder.

But nowadays a girl makes no secret of the fact that she is helping nature along by applying rouge to her cheeks and a lip-stick to her smile.

I feel, of course, so much make-up is a pity, because it spoils the naturally pretty skin of a girl. And then, too, perhaps I'm just an old-fashioned grandmother, but I can't feel that it is quite the ladylike thing for a nice sweet girl to be attending to her personal appearance in public.

Women to Be Heads of Their Families and Marriage to Be Eliminated

By CLARENCE DARROW, Chicago Lawyer.

Society eventually will work out a system whereby women will be the heads of their families and the practice of marriage will be eliminated. It is only preachers and religions which say the family is the foundation of society.

What is a family? Whether children of the same mother have the same father is not an important matter, so long as they are of the right kind of fathers. Heredity and environment make the child, and the latter is most important, to my mind. Mating is no less right because words are said by a preacher. In time children will come to be looked upon as assets, rather than liabilities.

Certainly birth control should be a part of woman's knowledge, but as a solution of crime it could be used only as a temporary and local remedy. Probably the practice would eliminate some causes of crime, as it is the poor that have the large families, and it is poverty that is one of the causes of crime.

VOGUE FAVORS SOFT-LINE SUITS IN MODULATED PASTEL COLORS

THE task of selecting a new spring costume isn't going to be a task at all. It's going to be a delightful experience. Couldn't be otherwise with everything pertaining to the vogue so joyously springlike in material, coloring and styling. Even the most blasé fashion connoisseur is due to find thrills in the doings of the mode this season. At sight of the gay togs for spring one's spirit just naturally tunes into a spring song of gladness and appreciation for the styles that be.

Along with the rest of our apparel the tailored spring suit has departed from the severity of its wings, having taken on marvelous pastel coloring while both materials and styling are distinctly novel. Of course one may wear a man-tailored navy cloth suit and be up in the foremost rank of fashion, for there is a revival of navy this spring, but one may also wear a "dusty" native or an almond green, a bois de rose or some equally as delectable a pastel colored tweed tailleur and be attired quite as much to the mode's liking.

In the new models there is a tendency to feminized tailoring, which is most flattering in its youthful soft lines. Analyzing the chic suit in the picture from the standpoint of charm, firstly, it has color fascination, being made of a novelty silk and wool tweed in two tones of green of the almond cast. Secondly, with it is worn a tunic blouse which is of printed silk even in exotic coloring, for crepe prints, mind you, are the last word in silken fabrics. Thirdly, this blouse interprets the vogue for fine plaits—which suggests the idea "when in doubt" have your spring tunic plaited, for plaits have taken on a new lease of life, playing a most important role throughout the designing of new clothes. Lastly, the crowning touch of smartness is achieved in the metal fabric the "wrapped" choker fashion about the throat. The latest novelty is a scarf of this sort which resembles a tie and is worn tied about the throat as pictured or with a bow at the side with flowing ends. Plaid taffeta ties with tailored suits or coats are tres chic.

Attractive soft-line suits which are youthful show a coat of solid colored cloth worn with a plaited skirt of plaid or stripe material. Later these fancy plaited skirts will be topped with plain cloth capes which are lined with novelty material to match the skirt. Both capes and coats are apt to be finished with scarf collars.

HOW CLUB AT CENTENIAL

Gathers Members Together in Sol's Store—Plan Another Meeting.

The How Club, which was organized when 1926 was born, held its first "centennial" meeting at Sol Soler's music store the other day and Al Feldman was elected chief Howlitzer. Other officers chosen were: Howcome, Sam Berkowitz; Howhigh, Joseph Kiroly, and Howcow, Pete Herman.

The next "centennial" meeting will be held in the store of Sam Berkowitz's grandson, if not at the home of his nearest kin. If the present members will not be too old to attend the session, then write to Howhigh and let him know. It is expected that a campaign fund will be raised at the meeting to defray the expense for the funeral of the Dead Sea. Peter Herman may bring his cow for a mascot.

Ripe Butter for Riffs

The natives of Tangier are reputed to be extraordinarily fond of butter, but not the fresh, sweet kind that Americans like. To satisfy the taste of a Riff his butter must be at least a year old before it attains the proper aroma and tang.

THE YOUNG LADY ACROSS THE WAY

The young lady across the way says she sees they're burning corn in the West and it's a great comfort to know, in case the coal should give out, that her mother always buys these things in quantities and they have six dozen cans of it in the cellar.

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

AUDREY

AUDREY is closely allied with Ethel. Both signify "noble throner," since they have their origin with the Anglo-Saxon feminine name Etheldred or Aethelthryth, which in turn comes from the German Ediltrud, noble maiden.

The first Audrey of note was the Anglo-Saxon Saint Audry. She was in reality Queen Aethelthryth; who was rather an unsuccessful wife and retired to a monastery, later being canonized as St. Etheldreda. She was revered as St. Audry and many fairs are given in her honor by the peasantry. It is said that the garish little articles sold at these fairs have given rise to the term "tawdry."

Because of her saintly reputation, the name of Audry reached a high estate of popularity in England and has never ceased to be in common usage. Particularly of late has it been revived and set to rival its counterpart, Ethel. Adly, which is commonly believed to be the contraction of Adelaide, is really the Devonian diminutive for Audrey.

The name is Audrey's talismanic gem. It is believed to have the power to draw success and good fortune to its wearer, and to guard her from all harm. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

Grenade Duel Fails

In Germany two university students, each seeking the hand of a comely girl in marriage, decided they would have to fight it out in a duel. They chose hand grenades as weapons, paced off the required distance and when the referee dropped the handkerchief they each threw. The grenades went sailing through the air but nothing happened. Two other grenades were offered them and these exploded, but only splattered mud on the duellists. They then decided to allow the girl to choose.

Bridge Fire Delays Carteret Commuters

(Special to The Carteret News)

The railroad spanning the Raritan River between the two Amboys, South and Perth, went into flames about 6.25 o'clock this morning and the trains of the New York and Long Branch line were unable to proceed beyond that point. The fire was extinguished before any considerable damage was caused; but passenger trains could not cross the river until after several hours.

Local commuters coming to and leaving the borough via Port Reading were unable to arrive at their destinations until late in the morning due to the accident. New York workers living here were especially delayed in getting to their offices.

Reports ascertaining the result of the fire have not come in yet, but it is believed sparks from a passing train lodged among the timbers of the bridge and started the fire. Some claim that sparks from a boat passing through the draw caused the fire. The correct source has not been learned, however, but it is being investigated by railroad officials.

Lady Democrats Will Play Cards On Monday

Organization Expects Affair at Dalton's To Be a Success—To Distribute Prizes.

General indications point to a big success of the card party and dance which the Ladies' Democratic Organization of the borough will hold next Monday night at Dalton's auditorium. A large advance sale of tickets is reported by the arrangement committee.

Various games will be in play, following which a large and handsome collection of valuable prizes will be awarded. It is expected that approximately 200 prizes will be distributed to the high score holders, thus giving most of the players an opportunity to obtain a valuable prize.

Immediately after the game there will be dancing to the tunes of the Pine Tree Orchestra. This orchestra is well known to all radio fans, since it is a favorite broadcaster of dance music. The orchestra usually draws a large crowd at dances.

Delicious refreshments will be another feature of the annual event. The affair will begin promptly at eight o'clock, according to Mrs. John Adams, who is president of the organization and an active worker.

The various officials are as follows: Mrs. William Coughlin is chairman of the party; Henry Staubach is chairman of the refreshment committee; Edward Lloyd and Francis Coughlin are floor managers; and Mrs. William Duff and Cornelius A. Sheridan, Jr., are members of the Finance Committee.

Growth of Hair

Hair grows much faster in the summer than in any other season of the year. This is due partly to the heat of the sun and partly to the opening of the pores of the skin, and the escape, in the form of perspiration, of body poisons which, unexpelled, arrest the growth of the hair. It has been noticed that those whose work induces perspiration nearly always have luxuriant hair.

Remarkable Remarks

I have read many bad books, but none of them ever harmed me. I have heard much bad conversation, but it never harmed me, most of it proved a warning. If I fall into a sewer, you may be sure I will scramble out as soon as possible. So will anyone.—E. W. Hows.

Would Like to Arrange Game With Leading Carteret Semi-pro Nine.

The Cranford A. C. baseball outfit, which made a good record playing semi-pro baseball last season, would like to book the leading representative nine of this borough for a game very shortly, or at any other time during the campaign. L. Pecina is the booking manager, residing at 206 Amsterdam avenue, Roselle, N. J.

Stanley Harris is the youngest manager in baseball. He already has won two pennants for the Washington club although he is not yet thirty.

Adrian C. Anson and Frank (Husk) Chance, former managers of the Chicago club of the National league, won three pennants each for their club before they reached thirty years.

Charlie Comiskey of the St. Louis club of the '80s and Fred Clark of the Pittsburgh club led their respective teams to pennants before they had reached their thirtieth year.

In fact, Chance was the youngest manager to lead a big league team to a championship. Born in 1879, he won his first pennant in 1906, then followed with successive pennants in 1907 and 1908.

Playing Cards Known

Since Earliest Ages

Doctor Le Cour, delving in Carthaginian ruins, says the ancients had a play similar to our card game. They used small tablets on which were painted figures. There is also mention in one of St. Augustine's works of cards that are used for gambling. Still the playing cards we now use were invented in the fourteenth century by a French painter named Jacques Gringonneur. It is said that he invented them to amuse the mad King Charles VI of France. The kings were David, Alexander, Caesar and Charles; the queens were Argine, Esther, Judith and Pallas; the four knights, now called knaves and vulgarly "jacks," were Ogier the Dane, Lancelot, La Hire and Hector de Garland, knights of old romance. The Cardmakers' company was incorporated in 1629, and as early as the reign of James I cards were taxed. Probably the first game played in England was called "trump." All the most important historical events have been at one time or another depicted on playing cards, and some of the packs are very rare and valuable.—Pierre Van Pausen, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Blood Analysis Helps

Doctor in Diagnosis

The doctor who used to feel his patient's pulse or gaze into a gaping mouth to determine the cause of illness nowadays takes a drop of blood to analyze. The guilt for much of human suffering, has been traced to the germs, tiny but deadly, which force their entrance into the human body, and which can only be detected by such analysis.

"Blood tests provide us with clues to an ever-growing number of ailments," said a doctor to the writer.

"It is being found, for instance, that eye complaints are often due to the absorption of germs which have affected other parts of the body, such as the tonsils. We can often detect them by testing the blood.

"Many cases of illness are due to something taken in from without—usually microscopic germs. More and more of these germs are becoming known to us every day. There is reason to believe that the origins of other diseases which are still unknown may be found in the same cause."

High-Sounding Names

It seems to be the practice for leading towns or cities to adopt titles in self-praise. The old Venetians used to say, "See Venice and die," and Rome has always styled itself the Eternal city. Boston calls itself—the American city, not the English town—the Hub of the Universe, whilst London has not shrunk from calling itself the Metropolis of the World. It is a moot point whether Brighton or Scarborough was first in the field with the subtitle "Queen of Watering Places," but it is certain that both use it and believe in its truth. Edinburgh styles itself the Modern Athens, and Glasgow boasts that it is the second city of the empire. Seville says that he who has not seen Seville has seen no marvel. Manchester calls itself Cottonopolis; and Liverpool the Gateway of the West.

Italy Guards Antiques

In Italy one of the most serious crimes is the stealing or unauthorized excavation of antiquities. The government claims as its property all objects of artistic or archeological interest over 100 years old, and permits for their exportation are obtained only rarely and with difficulty.

Rights to excavate or even to study while excavations are proceeding are rarely granted to foreign students. The other day some archeological pickpockets who removed some ancient vases and marbles from tombs that were being excavated near Comacchio were convicted in court. The leader was sentenced to seven years in prison—a punishment rare in Italy for any crime less than murder.

COMPLETE DENTISTRY

MANY of my patients come to me for a complete dental overhauling.

They have permitted their teeth to get in bad shape. They have "stumps" and "razor blades" and old pus sacs that are laying the foundation for systematic weaknesses such as heart trouble and chronic rheumatism. A few treatments and the process of dental restoration is complete. The results are so astounding and the cost is so extremely low they have regretted that they had not come to me sooner.

No matter how extensive is the dental work you require the price is always low and you can pay as you go—a little at a time.

Only a Buick Could Stand this Test!

Buick has the only chassis built today that can take a "shower bath" while the engine is running and driving the wheels.

Only Buick provides the design which can undergo such punishment. Of all cars built today, Buick alone has the complete protection of the "Sealed Chassis" and "Triple-Sealed Engine."

Every Buick operating part is "sealed" inside a dirt-tight, oil-tight, water-tight iron or steel housing. The "Triple Seal" (air cleaner, gasoline filter, oil-filter) keeps dirt, grit and moisture out of the engine.

Road slush and grit cannot reach Buick vital parts. Rain and moisture cannot cause short circuits in the Buick electrical system. Even the spark plugs are protected!

Come in and see, with your own eyes, why Buick motor cars are more dependable. Only a Buick could stand the "shower bath" test!

JOHNNY CARROLL FIGHTS IMPRESSIVE BOUT AT FIREMEN'S CLASSY TUSSLES

Several hundred people, mostly men, witnessed the boxing bouts staged by the firemen of Company No. 2, of the borough, at Dalton's auditorium, Saturday night. All of the bouts were corkers with the exception of the main event between Dick Lynch and Kid Karslick, of South River.

MAIN BATTLE SLOW

Neither battler did anything in the way of action, for some reason or other. The six rounds of dancing looked more like a pink-tinted tea than a scrap.

Both opened up a little in the early rounds, but things grew tiresome and slow towards the end with both men doing everything but fighting. It was a true burlesque, and it drew first prize as far as comedy was concerned.

The best battle of the evening was that fought between Irish Kid Brown, of Elizabeth, and the veteran Johnny Carroll. This duel sure did fight. Brown was willing, and Carroll was in a similar frame of mind. The Betseytown puncher tried hard to solve Johnny's style of war, but he did not meet with success, although he gave the popular hero from town a mean proposition to deal with in his two-handed fighting.

Carroll a Popular Hero.

When the tussle was brought to a close, Carroll received a hearty applause from the fans, mainly because he fought his best scrap since his comeback campaign was inaugurated four seasons ago. Brown also drew a good hand for his fighting spirit and game efforts. The weights were even, 136.

Charley Leslie, 143, did a lot of hitting in his setto with Charley Sharkey, 147, but all went for naught, as Sharkey took everything Leslie could deal out. The latter hit Sharkey with ease, but tired himself more with his exertion than his opponent, who remained vertical, catching what came in his direction.

Sharkey lost the scrap by a wide margin, but he was none the weaker after the affair was stopped at the end of the sixth. He was applauded loudly for his gameness and ability to take punishment.

Makes Sensational Finish.

Young Delaney, 156, made a sensational finish to win from Young O'Dowd, 165, in a four-round bout. The winner's stock was not very high during the first five stanzas, but he finished up so well that the decision could not be kept from him. The scrap was fairly even throughout, with Delaney leading by a scant margin, due to his rangy build, which was an advantage. Both boys employed the jab consistently.

The evening's card was opened by Young Trosko, 117, of this borough, and Laddy LaFarr, of Woodbridge, who weighed 121. The local boy put up a good battle against LaFarr and held him to close terms. Newspaper men at the ringside were of the opinion that Trosko lost, although he deserves credit for his showing, which impressed the writer considerably, mainly because the local lad was much smaller than his opponent, who had the advantage of long reach.

Mr. William D. Casey addressed the gathering of fans before the card was put into action, declaring himself a candidate for nomination in the race for mayor this year. Mr. Casey was given a good hand when he finished his brief, but to-the-point, talk.

Three Pitchers Expected to Help Their Teams in 1926

TWILIGHT LEAGUE DOES NOTHING AT FIRST CONFERENCE

Belmont Club, Member of Circuit, In Past Seasons, Not Represented at Tuesday Night's Session at Brady's Store Here.

TO MEET AGAIN

League Will Meet Tuesday Night and Invitation Will Be Accorded to Hold Out—Complications Feature Problem.

There was very little business transacted in the first meeting of the year of the Carteret Twilight Baseball League, Tuesday night, at Brady's Store, in Washington avenue, due to the fact that the Belmonts, a team in the circuit for two seasons, were not represented.

The Tigers, Cadillacs and Mack Stars had delegates present, but since the Belmonts were absent it was decided that a notice be sent them to appear at the meeting next Tuesday night in the same place. The Belmonts are requested to attend this session, and if they don't another team will be put in their place; probably the Carteret A. A., which was also represented at Tuesday's session.

Some one stated that the Harmony Social Club would supplant the Belmonts with a team this year, but the club was not present with any delegates. It will take a few meetings, doubtlessly, to straighten out the predicament in which the league finds itself.

ST. JOSEPHS DAZZLED

Do Not Know Why They Should Have to Play for Championship.

Carteret, March 29, 1926.

The Carteret News:

I have heard that the Young Yanks claim the Midget championship because they beat the St. Joseph's twice. The St. Joseph's still claim it because last year they beat every team in the borough twice and yet had to play for the title. They had to play the Boy Scouts for the championship of the borough although they had beat them three times; I think that the Young Yanks have no right to claim it.

Yours in sport,

JOHN KINNELLY.

"Brick" Muller a Star Performer on Gridiron

One of the greatest of the greats, athletically speaking, ever turned out along the Pacific slope was "Brick" Muller of California.

Muller was an all-round athlete, par excellence. A star football performer, the big fellow could also hold his own with the best in track and on the diamond.

Muller, as you probably know, gained his most fame as a gridder playing end. He was good on both offense and defense. But his forte was throwing passes.

Endowed with an extremely large pair of hands, which permitted him to obtain an unusual grip on the ball, he could hurl with speed and accuracy.

In a word, Muller was one of the greatest passers football has produced.

In the famous intersectional game with Ohio State, New Year's day, 1921, Muller's passing was one of his outstanding features. His aerial work played a prominent part in sending the middle westerners back home with a stinging 28-0 defeat as a reminder of their jaunt to the coast.

Ohio, it will be recalled, won the Big Ten championship the preceding fall with one of the best teams that institution ever put on the field.

It was in that brush that Muller tossed one pass that traveled from deep California territory into the waiting arms of a Californian, perched almost on the goal line. Out in the West they still talk about that heave whenever football is the topic.

Youthful Britisher Is New Fighting Sensation

Teddy Baldoek, a stripling of seventeen, has taken the boxing world by storm.

Since he left school three years ago he has been in 124 battles and never has met with defeat. Often he fought twice daily in the East end, where he is regarded as a hero.

The experts are hopeful that he will prove to be a second Jimmy Wilde and retrieve some of Great Britain's lost pugilistic fame. The lad comes of fighting stock.

His grandfather fought in the bare-knuckle days of the squared circle, and his father also was a fighter. Baldoek's latest victory was the other night when he defeated a Frenchman, Antoine Merlo, in a brilliant exhibition.

English Schools Intend to Continue Rugby Game

One elementary school after another in England is deserting association football for rugby because rugby still remains strictly amateur.

The situation has reached such a stage that the head masters who are seeking means of saving "soccer" as a school sport realize they have a difficult task before them.

It is pointed out by the headmasters and others that association football has many fine qualities, and that it would be a pity to turn it over entirely to professionals.

BOSTON SOX SEE HIGHER POSITION

Recent Deals Expected to Improve Standing.

Bolstered in the infield and catching departments by several deals, the Red Sox have higher hopes of success than they had last season, when the club trailed the American league pack.

Among the infield prospects are Emmett McCann, obtained from Portland of the Pacific Coast league; Ramon Herrera, Cuban star, who displayed his ability at the keystone bag in the closing part of the 1925 campaign, and Fred Haney, late of Detroit.

The battle for infield positions centers about second and third bases, for Phil Todd at first and Dudley Lee at short, last year's regulars, are favored to retain their jobs. Herrera, if he meets expectations, likely will get the keystone portfolio in preference to McCann or Bill Roxell, a regular most of 1925. Haney will have a rival for the third base post in Chet Fowler, drafted from Minneapolis.

The backstopping brigade has been strengthened by the acquisition of Alex Gaston, formerly of the Giants, from Toledo. Preinich, Bischoff, Stokes and Bill Moore, Kansas City product, are other receivers available.

The Red Sox have their veterans Ehnke, Ruffing, Wingfield and Zahniser as a nucleus for a pitching staff. Dehnar Lundgren, right-handed pitcher, has been drafted from the Birmingham club of the Southern association.

The outfield is well fortified with Flagstead, Carlyle, Rosenthal and Jenkins, besides two rookies—Elton Langford, who was bought from Des Moines, and D. W. Shaner, purchased from Lincoln.

Pete Herman Believes Board Was Fastened To His Hand By One.

Pete Herman, one of Carteret's rising sons—no he isn't connected with any breweries—nor the Japanese embassy—was practicing end runs in secret in his back yard the other day and he met with a strange incident.

Pete was circling about on a twenty-yard sweep and a barrel hoop made a perfect tackle. Well boys, the writer wishes to state that Pete was sure out. Getting up in a dazed condition he looked down at his hand to find a board stuck to it. After several futile attempts to brush the board off, Pete thought there was something wrong so he went down into the cellar and fastened his hand into a vice and pried the board loose. Pete claims to this day that there must have been a nail in that board.

LIZZIE ON WILD JAUNT

Cat's Pet Car Does Not Like Rain and Searches for Shelter.

Joseph Cat's pet "Lizzie" resenting the neglect of its owner on being left out in the rain Monday and decided to find shelter. "Lizzie" met with hair-raising experiences on her wild jaunt for a dry place. She left the corner of Pershing and Roosevelt avenues and crossed the street where she peered into several store windows looking for some one to have pity on her. Deciding not to wait too long, "Lizzie" ducked down under one of the Railway buses, but the bus had a flat tire and she couldn't make it.

The moral to this item is: Do not leave her standing in the rain unless you throw out the hitching iron.

Young Howard and Young Powell will fight for the lightweight championship of Plainfield in the semi-final of six stanzas. Other bouts are to be staged.

WITCH DOCTOR IS LANDED IN JAIL

Southerner Accused of Conjurary by Mail.

Memphis, Tenn.—After a recital of a weird tale of how cats, dogs, horses, mules were being slowly put to death by some mysterious force, and of how a woman claimed her health was ruined because she had been "conjured," Dr. John Farmer was sent to jail for six months.

Doctor Farmer was accused at Norfolk, Va., of using the mails to defraud Stella Johnson of Holland, Va., principal witness against him, said the doctor had gotten $80 from her and did not restore her to health nor stop the killing of her live stock.

The Tennesseean, who operates a drug store in Memphis, declared he was innocent of any wrongdoing and that the $80 he obtained from the woman was sent him through the mails voluntarily.

Stella Johnson said Doctor Farmer, accompanied by a woman, had visited her home at Holland and had given her mother something to drive "hants" away.

She was so much impressed by his knowledge of "hants" she took his address and later sent him $80 to cure her of "hants" and "hysterics."

Farmer explained that he had visited the home of Stella Johnson and her mother and could see there was nothing physically wrong with them. So instead of selling them the patent medicines which he carried, he listened to the older woman's pleading and gave her a "hant" cure in the form of a medicine which she was to wear around her neck. He wanted merely to relieve the woman's fears, he said.

Leaves $1,000 to Teach Son's Fiancee to Cook

Boston.—Colonel Lyford A. Merrow, Boston and Ossipee, N. H., millionaire, thought knowledge of domestic science so necessary for a prospective bride that when he died he left $1,000 to his son's fiancee to be used in educating her to be a good housewife.

With the filing of his will in Middlesex court it was revealed that Miss Grace L. Woolley of Malden already had started a course in cookery to fulfill its provisions.

To carry out the letter of the legacy the $1,000 must be used for her education in domestic science and in developing skill as a home-maker and companion.

Miss Woolley's engagement to Parker M. Merrow, son of Colonel Merrow and chief beneficiary under his will, was announced last November. She is a graduate of Boston university.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

THE CAPABLE MIND

Men and women with penetrating judgment go about the filling of their minds with cool deliberation, separating the grain from the chaff, and using only the precious kernel.

If students of art or literature, sincere in their desire to advance and achieve, they use good sense without vanity in packing their memory with things of use which can be turned to profitable account when they sit at their desks, to begin their life-work.

If in the trades, prompted by a wish to succeed, they are none the less cautious in the appropriation of ideas and methods which will prove helpful and speed them on the way of accomplishment.

The capable mind, controlled by calm judgment, is ever the master in the manifold vocations in which humanity are engaged in the stern contest for competence and comfortable existence.

On the other hand, those persons deficient of judgment and mind, inclined to "catch as catch can" store their brains with veritable trash, and keep idly, at their wearisome and fruitless task until they realize to their dismay that there is no longer room in their thoughts for things of real worth.

Instead of burning the midnight oil sitting at the feet of Wisdom, they have wasted their time and vigor in pursuit of frivolity and ignorance.

Their brains are as empty of sap as an autumn leaf.

A little while ago they were fellow parts of the world, humorous, strong, supple and living a life of thoughtfulness, given to flashy dress, moving with a rakish abandon among their chosen associates, forgetting in their vanity the emptiness of their foolish minds and the futility of making a tawdry show.

And there is another side to this, for now and then a sudden jolt wakes them up, and they become their own best critics!

But repentance comes too late. Uneducated, frayed out in nerve and body and incapable of making another effort to redeem themselves they gradually lose their remaining self-respect, turn their backs on Hope and drift till the end of their days among the failures.

AN ABBREVIATED STORY

THE GREAT SECRET

IT WAS raining, it had been raining, and it looked as though it would keep on raining. Conklin Waterman bit down his coat tighter about him as, jostled by the dense throng, he continued his dissertation.

"Yes sir," he cried, "the reason why this is the greatest ill country in the world is because everybody's absolutely free and equal and on the same social plane, and one man's as good as the next and he knows it, and so does the next."

The rain grew a trifle thicker and much colder. Conklin Waterman went on: "The great secret of it is, there's no social caste in this country. We value our neighbors for their moral worth; and who their grandfathers were, is a mere bag of shells. Offer the average citizen a title, and he'll kick you from here to hereafter for insulting him. That's the great secret."

A loud assenting murmur went up from the crowd. And, while we are on the subject of the crowd, let us idly learn why it is assembled and for what purpose it waits so patiently in all this disagreeable weather.

It is waiting to cheer the king of Spain's brother-in-law as he whizzes past in his automobile.

Horses "Inside Out"

According to a French technical publication devoted to the horse breeding industry, a Chinese visitor was recently taking notes at a prize stock farm in France. When he reached the stable where 20 fine horses were standing in their stalls, the celestial turned to the owner.

"I cannot understand," said he, "why you Europeans always put your animals in their stalls inside out." "Inside out!" exclaimed the breeder. "Exactly. You stable them with their noses to the wall. They cannot see anything, are easily frightened and are apt to kick. In my country we turn them around so that they can see what is going on and who is approaching them. You westerners always start at the wrong end of things."—From La Bulgaria, Sofia. (Translated for the Kansas City Star.)

Churches in Business

An old Jewish synagogue in Maiden Lane, London, is now used as a theater for rehearsals, and a Methodist chapel in Southwark, where Wesley preached, is used as a paper warehouse.

The famous Surrey chapel, where Rowland Hill preached, is today the great boxing rendezvous known as the Ring. At Willesden an old chapel has been converted into a draper's establishment, the pulpit being used as the cash desk; another, in the Hampstead road, has been turned into a picture palace.

The Union Jack club, opposite Waterloo station, stands on the site of a Methodist chapel which had lost its worshippers, while St. Andrew's, Tavistock place, was once a fashionable church, but has been in turn a cycle store and a club.—London Answers.

Ford

Costs More to Build Is Worth More—Yet Sells for Less

If any other manufacturer endeavored to produce a car similar to the Ford according to the high standards of quality in material and workmanship used by the Ford Motor Company and with the same tried and proved design it would be impossible to offer it at anything like the present low Ford prices.

If, on the other hand, the Ford Motor Company would substitute ordinary design for the basic Ford features, Ford cars could be produced and sold for less than the present Ford prices. Yet by so doing, Ford simplicity, durability and reliability would fall below the standard insisted upon by the Ford Motor Company and established throughout twenty-two years of leadership.

Just think! 13,000,000 model T Ford cars have been produced since 1908—almost as many automobiles as were built by all other manufacturers combined. In 1925, almost 2,000,000 Ford cars and trucks were built and sold—and plans for 1926 call for the production of even more than 2,000,000.

Today, more than ever, the Ford car is the most popular automobile in the world.

It was the superiority of Ford design in 1908 that established Ford leadership. It is this same Ford design, improved but basically unchanged, that is continuing to make the Ford car the outstanding leader among all automobiles.

Features that Contribute to Ford Simplicity—Durability—Reliability

- Simple, Dependable Lubrication
- Thermo-Syphon Cooling System
- Planetary Transmission

MAYOR IS NAMED BY REPUBLICANS

Thomas J. Mulvihill Again Chosen to Run for Office by Party—Councilmen Andres and Ellis Also Given Nominations.

GIVE TALKS

All Were Willing to Permit Better Men Take Their Places—Point to Accomplishments in Borough in Last Four Years.

Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill and Councilman Frank Andres and Hercules Ellis were nominated for reelection to the Borough Council by the Republican Organization here, at a meeting Tuesday night. The rooms of the organization were filled to capacity with about 175 interested party men and women in attendance.

The nominees spoke in behalf of their accomplishments while in office since the Republican administration gained control of local government affairs.

Mr. Mulvihill stated that he would step aside to give another candidate an opportunity, but the gathering entertained the opinion that the present mayor is the best man for the nomination. He said "I point with pride to the accomplishments of the Republican administration during the last four years. The Municipal Building, or Borough Hall, which was looked for with eagerness for many years, was finally erected by the Republican council. The trunk sewer will be completed before the year is out, I hope, and the creek will be eliminated, taking with its doom the many disgusting characteristics that have discouraged Carteret visitors in the past and present. General progress in various improvements and building, in spite of the effects of creek filth, has been good, probably better than in any four years previous in the history of the borough.

Showed What Could Be Done

"We have shown what we could do, and the people should place their confidence in us with continued vigor," the mayor concluded. He believed he would be a winner, if nominated again. His co-party workers are optimistic in regards to another successful campaign for the mayoralty by Mr. Mulvihill.

Councilman Andres likewise offered his present position to other prospective politicians, stating that he would gladly surrender the nomination if another man is in sight. He was nominated unanimously, as was Mr. Mulvihill and Councilman Ellis.

"This will be the fifth time that I will have occasion to contend for the seat I now possess in the Council," Mr. Andres said. "I have done my best, and I will try to do even better, if given an opportunity at the election in November. Few people realize what difficulties and propositions a councilman meets." He also spoke of the fact that the Republican platform did not merely contain promises, but the carrying out of those promises, saying in addition, that the Republican administration had done more in four years than its rival party had been able to do before.

Councilman Ellis was nominated and he said a few words about the raise in taxation. "You will note," he said, "that the rate for 1926 has jumped $5.33 from $5.08 for 1925. That increase was due partly to the fact that the salaries of the patrolmen and firemen were increased at the request of the people at the last election; and the Board of Education has also done everything it could to make taxes higher for Carteret," Mr. Ellis concluded.

John H. Nevill, building inspector; Louis N. Bradford, and Theodore Bishop, members of the Board of Education, also spoke. Mr. Bradford said, "I want to call your attention to the fact that the tax rate in Carteret is as high as it is this year partly because the Board of Education made an increase of $40,000 in its budget for this year. Figures show that the board is spending about $1.75 to every dollar of the council's. This is not necessary, and it clearly shows that the board is not co-operating with the Borough Council in keeping the tax rate low."

Charles A. Phillips was chairman of the meeting and Edward S. Wilgus was secretary.

E. J. HEIL NOT IN RACE

Denies Intentions of Contesting for Mayorality Nomination.

Edward J. Heil, president of the Board of Education, emphatically denied this week to The News that he was in the race for the mayoralty nomination this year on the Democratic ticket. There are too many candidates in the field, Mr. Heil said. Rumor had it that Mr. Heil was one of the most important candidates for the Democratic nomination, but such reports were soundly squelched by Mr. Heil himself in stating his intentions to a News correspondent.

Construction Here In 1925 Shows Increase

Statistics Revealed by John H. Nevill, Inspector, Indicate Heavy Building Work.

Construction work costing a total of $524,910 was undertaken in the borough during the year ending April 1, according to the official statistics compiled in the office of Building Inspector John H. Nevill this week. No comparison of figures for the previous year is available, since the office of building inspector was established only fifteen months ago.

The peak during the year was reached in the month of August, when permits calling for construction work of $76,735 were issued. September of 1925 was the next best month with $73,030. The month of December was lowest, when only $8,722 was planned for building work.

The figures for the year beginning April 1, 1925, until April 1 of this year follow: April, $59,580; May, $41,790; June, $7,250; July, $46,675; August, $76,735; September, $73,030; October, $54,850; November, $26,356; December, $8,722; January, $17,450; February, $9,000; March, $40,550.

There is some doubt whether building activities during this year will exceed those of 1925 in view of the increased prices for labor as well as material.

PREPARE FOR WORK Council Finds That Much Is to Be Done During the Future Months.

MONTHLY REPORTS Lists for Various Departments Sent In for Inspection As Accomplishments in March.

ASK FOR EXTENSION Hansen and Brown Petition Council to Lengthen Fitch Street and Put Crossing at Sharot.

The Borough Council held a regular meeting in the Memorial Municipal Building, Monday night, and showed clearly that several important projects have to be dealt with in the coming months.

Ordinary business was carried out in usual efficient fashion. Due to the fact that the session was the first of the present month, reports were brought into discussion from various departments of the government for March.

John H. Nevill, building inspector, issued a monthly statement which revealed that permits for building were given out to the extent of $40,550 during the last month. The report in detail is as follows:

Building Report. Brick extension steel and tile, John Gural, 626 Roosevelt avenue, $2,500; two factory buildings, Warner Chemical Company, Tompkins avenue, $7,000; fire repairs, Max Janofsky, 29 Hudson street, $800.

Frame and extension, Tony Toppo, 21 Hudson street, $500; frame dwelling, John Ginda, Grant avenue, $3,500; frame dwelling, John Ginda, Grant avenue, $400; frame dwelling, Paul B. Harrington, 125 Pershing avenue, $10,000; frame dwelling, Kurde & Stark, Randolph and Thornall streets, $5,000.

Storage building, Charles Conrad, 535 Roosevelt avenue, $900; garage, Jacob Weiss, 99 Washington avenue, $200; hollow tile dwelling and garage, W. Akacks, 87 Warren street, $6,250.

Police Work Commended. Councilman Frank Andres, chairman of the Police Committee, commented upon the good work done by the Police Department during March, as the monthly report for that department was read.

Eight automobile accidents were reported; forty-seven men applied for night lodging during the month; and nearly $100 was collected in fines. "I hope that such good work will be continued," Mr. Andres said.

John Andres, motorcycle officer, was appointed roundsman by the council by an unanimous vote. He will have the rank of sergeant. The addition of Robert Shanley to the traffic division made this promotion permissible.

James J. Mullan asked for permission to break the sidewalk in front of his building on Roosevelt avenue where he is doing some renovating.

To Look Over Roads. The Streets and Roads Committee reported that sections of Pershing avenue, Washington avenue, High street and Lincoln avenue needed improvements. The matter will be continued on Page Three.

Water Pressure Is 40 Pounds Below Normal

It was revealed by Councilman Hercules Ellis, chairman of the Fire and Water Committee, at the Borough Council meeting, Monday night, that the water pressure in the borough is very poor and far below standard. "A test was made last week," Mr. Ellis stated, "and the pressure ranged from 18 to 20 pounds, while ordinarily it should be at 60 to 80 pounds. A fireman stepped on the hose during the test and the water stopped flowing through it. This, you see, is very bad, and should a fire of considerable size break out there will be a disastrous loss to property."

"This fact is another point that the borough has against the Middlesex Water Company in the present fight. When the matter brought into discussion in the higher courts the water company will have a severe argument to oppose."

PRESBYTERIANS AT INTERESTING MEET

Church Parish Assembles and Elects Trustees—Receives Reports for Last Year—Much Enthusiasm Shown by People.

A very enthusiastic meeting was held by the parish of the First Presbyterian church Wednesday night. Trustees were elected and reports for the last year were received. One of the largest turnouts in the history of the church was in attendance.

Financial reports were submitted by Mrs. William Morrow for the Ladies' Mission Band; Dayton Hopper and Heprn Holland for the trustees; Merrill Huber and Sumner Moore for the Sunday School; Mrs. Wallace Van Pelt for the Mother-Teachers' Association; Mrs. William S. Dayton Hopper, William Morrow and Sumner Moore were elected trustees for a term of three years and Merrill Huber and Charles Walling, trustees for two years. Mr. Walling fills the unexpired term of Leon Chase, who moved from the borough.

John Beech suggested that the church collect funds to buy a motor for the organ. Mr. Beech was appointed chairman of this committee. He will have the assistance of Russel Miles, Joseph Young, president of the board of trustees, presided.

Announcement was made that a reception will be given tonight to twenty-seven new members of the church. Rev. E. P. Brown, of Dunellen, will be the speaker of the evening. The event will be in charge of Rev. Charles Benzet Mitchell, pastor of the church.

A rummage sale will be held in the near future to raise money for Memorial Day expenses.

The Legion and Auxiliary will give a play "The Milk White Flag," in three acts, and a very good comedy, at the high school auditorium, Tuesday, April 27. Dancing will follow the play, and a double prize will be given to the two best Charleston dancers.

WOULD HAVE WATER Battle in Courts Does Not Permit Borough Council to Do Anything.

C. SLUGG SPEAKS Appears Before Council and Implores Body to Give His Section Square Deal.

WANT OTHER THINGS

Demand Other Improvements in Return for Money They Pay in Taxes—Received Nothing Yet.

Clarence H. Slugg, resident of East Rahway, spoke to the Borough Council, Monday night, in behalf of the people living in his district of the town and asked for long-needed improvements, mainly the installation of water lines.

"I come here this evening, Mr. Mayor, and Councilmen, to speak in behalf of the residents of East Rahway in petitioning for a 'square deal'." Mr. Slugg stated in opening his talk. "The consideration of extending water lines into this section of the borough is very important; and as we have asked for action before we implore you to do something now."

"There are about forty-five houses in this section, the owners of which, along with others, pay $20,000 taxes annually into the borough coffers—for what? We received nothing all these years for our money; we are merely financing improvements that are being made in the borough proper; we realize that they are more necessary there, but we think that we ought to receive some consideration."

Fire Insurance Rate High. "Our fire insurance rate is $2.50 higher than in the borough because we have no water but that which we draw from wells, which are, at present, not giving much."

"In the line of street improvements, we have none. The county upkeep the only road we can boast of. Besides, we have no garbage collection, as the people have in the borough. We pay taxes for this service, but we are deprived of what we are coming to us."

"Sidewalks are something not seen. They would probably be a benefit to the people living in the borough proper who would like to take walks into our section in leisure moments, in addition to being a very good boon to our property holdings there."

Want Fire Protection. "Fire protection is necessary above all, and water must be put in to assure that. It would also be a tremendous relief to be able to get water from pipes, instead of from wells, which are inadequate," Mr. Slugg continued.

Mayor Thomas J. Mulvihill made an answer to Mr. Slugg's statement to the effect that the trouble with the Middlesex Water Company for the last few years has hindered all progress in putting water lines into that section of the borough which Mr. Slugg referred to.

"Mr. Slugg, you were a member of this council for three years," the mayor said, "and why didn't you do

MR. BROWN IMPROVING

Bank Teller Expected to Return to Work at First National Shortly.

George Brown, teller of The First National Bank, is very much improved from the severe beating that he received from the bandits several weeks ago, and is expected to be back to work in about a week. Mr. Brown has just returned to his home in Perth Amboy from a week's stay at Allentown, Pa.

EAST RAHWAY IN WATER SQUABBLE

something for your district then? We realize that East Rahway is the coming section for Carteret and that improvements are necessary there; but the present fight with the water company is holding us back. The unreasonable rates in charges would have to be paid, and the borough would have to finance the project of laying lines, because the company claims that there would not be sufficient revenue received from that section, thus causing the loss of money if it had to undertake the entire expenditure itself.

Mr. Slugg replied that East Rahway still pays taxes and receives nothing in return.

"Is Investment Warranted?"
The question whether the investment in street improvements is warranted was put before Mr. Slugg. The petitioner asked for only "what is fair." Mayor Mulvihill declared that the Council has tried to give East Rahway what it wants, and after all improvements are hurried, that section will be duly considered.

Councilman Andres joined in to say that the garbage department was instructed to make collections in East Rahway already and that nothing was to be collected. Mr. Slugg retorted that the people knew nothing of the collection and therefore put nothing out. Mr. Andres assured that the garbage wagon will make regular trips hereafter.

"A petition was put before the Utilities Commission by the borough, some time ago, asking that body to force the water company to lay lines in East Rahway," Councilman Ellis said, "but the commission answered that the water concern could not be compelled to put down lines if a reasonable revenue would not be received after the pipes were installed."

Conditions Discourage Builders
"Yes, but such an improvement would help the building up of that section greatly. It is the present condition that discourages home builders," Mr. Slugg replied.

Councilman Vonah said that the water pressure in town is so low now that there would be scarcely ten pounds left if a new main was opened, meaning that the water company is incapable of taking care of any additional lines.

This brought the present fight into the mind of Mayor Mulvihill and he stated that Mr. Bergen, head of the Middlesex Water Co. will have to give Carteret better water pressure and service, and until he does, "Carteret will fight him to the last ditch." "This council is doing all it can concerning the trouble with the water company, and the people of the borough should be satisfied with what is being done," the mayor stated. "We'll fight the people's fight to the end and we have a good chance of winning out."

The matter will be discussed at future meetings, for the East Rahway water situation, along with the present fight with the water company, is one of the borough's biggest problems.

A GOOD OLD STOVE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S nothing like a good old stove.
Try what you will, say what you will.

The more I live, the more I love,
The more I had, when days are night.

The only thing to warm you through
Is something you can get up to.

A furnace, yes, it's mighty nice;
But it's down cellar hid away.

When you come in all snuggled and ice
You want to see the freight play.

The heat that's right, the heat that's real,
You have to see as well as feel.

There's something cordial in the light
That glisters through the isinglass.

It lends a comfort to the night,
And redder makes the ruddy lass

To any man who has to roam.

There's nothing like a good old friend
They're so much like stoves, it seems to me.

Whatever wisdom books may lend,
You want a friend that you can see.

Some hard to touch, a faith to feel,
The kind of friendship that is real.

However wise the wisest men,
However great they may appear,

When you're in difficulty, then
You want a friend you needn't fear.

When cold and weary, weak and blue,
A friend that you can get up to.

Storing Flour

Under proper storage conditions flour should keep entirely satisfactorily for three months. Much of the high-grade wheat flour is kept for a considerably longer period of time, even for a year or more, and such flour is satisfactory for bread-making purposes.

What is a One-Cent Sale?
It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenco Dental Cream is 50c; you buy a tube at this price and by paying 1 cent more, or 51 cents, you get 2 tubes. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at the regular price.

A Profit-Sharing Method of Advertising
THIS sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for 1 cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, as we know the goods will please you.

COUNCIL MEETS AND DOES MUCH

investigated by the council at the earliest possible date.

Councilman Vonah stated that the Warner Chemical Company was carrying ashes on Lincoln avenue for an individual owner recently and the company's truck ran over and crushed the sidewalk there. Vonah stated that the company should make the damages good. After considerable discussion the subject was referred to the Streets and Roads Committee for investigation. Mr. Vonah also said that Randolph street was in poor condition, having bad holes in it and not permitting very comfortable transportation over it.

Noe's Creek Ordinance

Councilman Andres introduced an ordinance in connection with the elimination of Noe's Creek and the trunk sewer. The ordinance will be open for correction at the next meeting.

Oliver F. Mitchell, borough engineer, expressed his belief that the work could scarcely be completed with the $225,000 appropriated by the people at last year's November election. Mayor Mulvihill suggested that the ordinance state that the work be financed with $25,000 more, in order to assure work not being interrupted, due to the shortage of money, after being started. Councilman Coughlin did not approve of this idea, and, after discussion, it was decided that only the appropriated amount be included in the ordinance, and that if more money be needed a referendum be made to the people of the borough. This was decided by the council.

The ordinance was passed on first and second readings.

Want Street Extended

Hans Hansen and Isadore Brown both appeared before the council and questioned the progress being done in regard to their petition of several weeks ago, concerning improvements on the Fitch and Sharot streets in the uptown section of the borough.

It was asked that Fitch street be extended right through to Lafayette street. At the present time the street is cut short and fails to meet Lafayette street by about a half block, and it is conjectured that one house would have to be bought over by the borough to make the extension possible.

Mr. Hansen said that if the street was open all the way through it would mean a great deal to the property owners there and that the expense incurred in the improvement would mean nothing in comparison with the earnings that would result.

Edward J. Hill owns a house and property on Lafayette street at the point where Fitch street would meet it, and Mr. Brown joined in the discussion to say that he understood Mr. Hill would sell the property very reasonably to make such an improvement.

Grade Crossing Question

The matter shifted then to the place where the Central Railroad tracks cross Sharot street by the lumber yard. There is no grade crossing there and traffic is not capable of going through. The two petitioners also requested that the council take action and have the railroad put a suitable crossing there.

Mayor Mulvihill replied that several attempts had been made to have a grade crossing constructed, but that the railroad refused to do so. The clerk will, no doubt, communicate with the company and see if anything can be done, for the present state of affairs at that point are a hindrance and should be bettered, according to popular belief among the residents in that particular section who have been longing for a grade crossing there for quite a few years now.

Forces That Control

The tone of society is the result, not so much of the deliberate attempt of the members of it to influence each other, as of the unconscious action and reaction of their characters. Nor can anyone easily measure how great his own contribution has been to the good or evil spirit that prevails around him, or how, by casual deeds or actions, or even looks, he may have influenced the lives of others. We do not carry on our warfare at our own charges, but the whole weight of the evil that is in our society is dragging us down, and the whole force of the good that is in it is helping us up.—Edward Caird.

Lace-Making Old Art

Lace-making, embroidery and the needlework in general are credited to the Greeks, and its antiquity goes back to mythology almost. Minerva is said to have originated the art of pictorial needlework. Many books on lace-making and embroidery have been traced back to the Middle Ages. The Greeks are thought to have brought it from Egypt, and the Christians, whose civilization was earlier than that of the Egyptians, had developed it to a fine degree also. France gave it wide popularity after the Christian era.

Hating Oneself Ill

Hate, in the course of time, creates poison in the system as well as in the mind, and all evil emotion is bad for the health. One of the earliest-discovered truths was that health and morality depend on each other, and many religions are built largely upon hygiene.

P. S. Stockholders Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the stockholders of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and forty-three underlying companies was held Monday, Thomas S. Gates of Drexel & Co. of Philadelphia was elected a director for one year in place of Randall Morgan who died recently.

These five directors whose terms had expired were re-elected for three years: David Baird, Jr., William C. Heppenheimer, William Scheerer, Landon K. Thorne and Edmund W. Kakele. Paul Thompson, a vice-president of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia, was elected a director for three years, Lewis Lillie having retired from active connection with the corporation.

Gregorian Calendar

The present calendar was adopted in the sixteenth century, the Julian or old Roman calendar having become greatly erroneous. Luigi Lilio Ghirardi, frequently called Aloysius Lillius, a physician, of Verona, projected a plan for amending the Julian calendar, which, after his death was presented by his brother to Pope Gregory XIII. To carry it into execution, the Pope assembled a number of prelates and learned men. In 1577 the proposed change was adopted by all the Catholic princes, and in 1582 Gregory issued a brief abolishing the Julian calendar in all Catholic countries, and introducing in its stead the one now in use, under the name of the Gregorian or reformed calendar, or the "new style," as the other was now called the "old style." The Gregorian calendar was not adopted in England until 1752.

Men of Great Strength

It is difficult to compare strong men. Each has his own special tests, at which he is superior to the rest. A recent newspaper article stated that unquestionably the strongest man of modern times was Louis Cyr of Canada, who was considerably stronger than Sandow. Breitbart, who died in October, 1925, is said to have come nearer emulating Sandow than any of the latter's many imitators. Certain strong men excelled Sandow in specific feats. For instance, Arthur Saxton was the best lifter of weights ever produced. Steinhilber, Inch, Ashton, Travis, Rolandow and Larich each had some unusual performance to his credit.

First Sanskrit Book

The first book ever printed in Sanskrit was the Rinasadhara, a poem by Kalidasa on the six seasons of India. It was edited by Sir William Jones and printed in Benauli characters at Calcutta in 1792.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE CONSTRUCTION OF A SEWER TO BE KNOWN AS "NOE'S CREEK SEWER" AND PROVISIONS OF THE MONIES NECESSARY THEREFOR, AND THE RAISING OF SAID MONIES.

WHEREAS, the legal voters of the Borough of Carteret, at the last annual election held on November 3, 1925, by a majority vote, approved the proposition of eliminating Noe's Creek by the construction of a sewer; AND WHEREAS, the maps, plans and specifications for this improvement prepared by Oliver F. Mitchell, Borough Engineer, have been submitted to the Mayor and Council:

Therefore, Be it Ordained by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of Carteret:

1. That the maps, plans and specifications for the construction of a sewer to be known as "Noe's Creek Sewer," prepared by Oliver F. Mitchell, Borough Engineer, which are on file with the Borough Clerk, be and the same are hereby accepted and approved.

2. The sewer shall be constructed in accordance with the maps, plans and specifications prepared for said work by Oliver F. Mitchell, Borough Engineer, approved by the Borough Council and on file in the office of the Borough Clerk.

3. The said work shall be done as a general improvement and paid for by general taxation.

4. The sum of Two Hundred and Twenty-five Thousand ($225,000) Dollars is hereby appropriated for the construction of the sewer as aforesaid.

5. For the purpose of paying the expense of said sewer, temporary bonds or notes of the Borough of Carteret are hereby authorized to be issued from time to time, not to exceed $225,000.00, pursuant to the provisions of Section 13 of Chapter 252 of the Laws of 1916 as amended, which bonds or notes shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent per annum, and shall mature in not exceeding six years from their date. All other matters in respect to such bonds or notes shall be determined by the Mayor, Borough Clerk and the Borough Collector or Treasurer, who are hereby authorized to execute, issue, sell and deliver said temporary bonds or notes before funds shall be available for the payment thereof from the sale of serial bonds or otherwise, without further authority from this Council.

6. All ordinances of this Council, or so much thereof as are inconsistent with the terms of this ordinance, are hereby repealed and this ordinance shall take effect immediately.

Introduced April 5, 1926.

Passed on first and second readings April 5, 1926.

H. V. PLATT, Borough Clerk.

NOTICE

The above ordinance was introduced at a regular meeting of the Council of the Borough of Carteret, on April 5th, 1926, when it was passed on first and second readings, and the said ordinance will be considered for final passage at a meeting of the Borough Council to be held at the Municipal Building on April 19, 1926, at 8 o'clock, P. M., at which time and place all persons interested will be given an opportunity to be heard.

H. V. PLATT, Borough Clerk.

To Be Prosperous, Town Must Have Attraction

Go into two different towns, one in which the houses and front yards, the sidewalks and the like, appear dilapidated and unkempt, and then into a bright, active and progressive town where the houses are beautifully designed, the streets are paved, with rows of trees and parkways, and you will feel the difference between depression and discouragement on the one hand and elation and prosperity on the other. You would waste no time, if it is certain, in deciding on which community you would choose as a place of business or residence.

But aside from the use which beautiful face brick offers in the wall surface of the house, it has many other uses in which it adds very much to the attractiveness of the surroundings. For instance, the garden wall, steps or terrace can be very beautifully laid out in brick. There is a possible harmony between vegetation and the beautiful colors of this material. Then there are interior uses which are very appropriate and decorative, as well as lasting.

The entrance hallway can be laid up in brick, making a very attractive, decorative effect. The kitchen may be finished in salt glaze or enamel brick, which would be very permanent, sanitary and economical. Of course, nothing could be more appropriate than a beautiful brick fireplace or two, one in the living room downstairs, let us say, and one in the bedroom upstairs—always an attractive feature in the room if properly constructed and always useful and cheerful, especially in the early spring and late fall.—Better Homes and Gardens.

Established Fact That Beauty Pays Dividends

A picturesque hotel in a little town would be a boon, instead of the usual box-like structure, but you may guess that a picturesque hotel would cost $85,000 more than the box-like structure. Why is beauty so expensive; and why does ugliness save money—let it do so?

That query is inserted advisedly, says F. H. Collier, writing in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. What if the picturesque hotel attracted wide attention and the attention attracted passing guests motoring through, who spread its fame among others, and presently the hotel required a new wing for their accommodation and then another wing?

And if its location fortunately was a happy one among trees, where it added to its charms, a fountain and an old English garden and a swimming pool, probably the picturesque hotel would blossom out as a "resort."

Of course, its chief as well as its manager must be a person of good taste and resource. In the end, properly managed, beauty pays.

Early Zoning Ordinance

Springfield, Mass., claims to have one of the oldest zoning ordinances in the United States, perhaps in the world. At a town meeting held in February, 1840, more than 250 years ago, the citizens of the town ordered that no barn should be set up in a certain highway, and that, if anyone transgressed this order, it would be punishable for the selectmen to order the building torn down.

Fifty years later the selectmen had ordered several highways of almost unprecedented width, some of 200 feet width, or 300 feet; some of 10 rods width, or 165 feet; and others 6 rods wide.

Ready for any road

The Sealed Chassis "Shower Bath," displayed last week in many Buick showrooms, furnished striking proof of Buick dependability.

It may be difficult to believe that any motor car chassis could run under its own power for a solid week, with water hitting it in a drenching shower. But the Buick Chassis did it. Water cannot get in, dirt cannot reach Buick operating parts. Even the electrical wiring is sealed inside water-proof, fire-proof, flexible tubing.

Buick is ready for any road and any weather, thoroughly prepared to give Buick owners thousands and thousands of care-free, trouble-proof miles.

Only a Buick could possibly stand the "Shower Bath" test. Buick, alone, has the Sealed Chassis with the Triple Sealed Engine!

Animals and Insects Prepare for Winter

Ants, bees, wasps, flies and many other insects protect themselves during the winter by securing food supplies and constructing retreats.

The wonderful work done by ants, bees, wasps, spiders, butterflies and worms has been studied by many naturalists and researchers have been charmed by the industry of the ants, the Fabre, Macerlinck and other able writers. The underground apartments and terraced homes of the ants, their domestic life, social organization and thoughtfulness, are among the great wonders of nature.

These extraordinarily intelligent insects not only store away an abundance of food for winter, but also they provide aphides to be milked and they cultivate fungi gardens and manufacture many food substances while passing the winter months underground.

Genius, individuality and temperament in animals enable them to solve all the problems of winter which they may at any time encounter. These vary in individuals of the same species. Among any group of young animals or birds or insects you may notice individuals varying in fear, timidity, curiosity, suspicion, sociability, aggressiveness and initiative. Hardly two will be found with similar characters and temperaments. They differ as widely as the members of a single human family. The strong and fearless members of any species give the leadership and develop the customs which enable them to meet the conditions of winter.

Birds and Mankind of Long Association

The association between certain birds and man is immensely ancient, says the London Times. As with sheep and oxen and horses, and even more with the dog, the attempt to assign a date to the origin of our farmyard birds is foiled by the mists of antiquity.

The scanty company of farmyard species has been recruited in very different ages. The turkey could not join us until we discovered America, and probably far the oldest is the rook-pigeon. When man learned how to grow grain, the dove found a new attraction in his company.

When man became a builder in stone, he built also for the swallows and doves. The swallow finds a home today in the cowsheds that house his ancient caves, while the house-pigeon, like the house-martin, clings to the outside of man's mimic rock faces and builds its nests on his triangular arches and against his ead-trials.

Five Illinois Poets the Most Violently Discussed Singers in America

By MATTIE F. SIMMONDS, Illinois Wesleyan University.

Five Illinois poets are the most violently discussed poets in America. These are our greatest: Harriet Monroe, the critic friend, and publisher for new poets, a poet to give something of truth and beauty to the world; Edgar Lee Masters, the realistic portrayer of homely village life; Vachel Lindsay, the artist singer of beauty and dreams, the collector of the years gone by, the years ahead and today into one poignant significant atmosphere; Carl Sandburg, the voice of the people, of industry and labor and poverty, of lonely beauty and strength in suffering and sordidness, and Lew Saret, the soul of the wilderness and the Indian crying out to God.

In Illinois we have the heart of the country—the heart of America. The very thought on which America was founded—freedom, independence, unquestioned means of God-worship, the wrestling of a home out of new land—all that is still fresh and vigorous in Illinois. And out of that store of history, religion and romance, our poets are today carving a new beauty. They are not bound by anyone's ideas of what is poetical propriety.

Not Increase in the Quantity of Human Beings So Much as Quality

By HAVELOCK ELLIS, in Pictorial Review.

The association of men and women in those affairs of the mind and spirit which make up civilization is aided, we are beginning to see, by another great fact which the world is now facing. That is, that while the central functions of life radiating from maternity must ever be the chief occupation of the majority of women, yet reproduction has ceased to have the urgent importance for mankind which it once possessed.

Among small tribes and primitive peoples, to increase and multiply often seemed the most imperative duty. All the more so as many of their offspring perished in infancy. A radical change in our views on this subject is taking place.

It is not an increase in the quantity of human beings that the world any longer needs, but an increase in their quality and a greater care in breeding those that are reproduced. Parenthood is no longer a mere animal instinct to be fulfilled ignorantly, but an art and a science, a sacred function, to be assumed deliberately by the fitting people at the fitting time.

The Tireless Efforts of Astronomers to Learn Secrets of Mars

By DR. ROBERT HOPKIN, Denver Preacher.

As I consider the tireless efforts which astronomers recently have made to learn the secrets of the planet Mars, I find myself coming to the conclusion that there is at least one great compensation in not knowing anything more concerning our nearest neighbor in the solar system, and that is the compensation of wonder. As long as men wonder, they have within themselves the germ and the potency of discovery and conquest.

I do not want to know all the secrets of the universe around me. I do not want to know all that life has in store for me, for then every atom of its zest would flee away.

We all know that many of the mysteries of our fathers' days are mysteries no more, but with the solving of one mystery a hundred other mysteries arise in mists around us. There is more for man to wonder at now than at any time since he began to be. Among the things at which I daily wonder are life, consciousness, the soul and man's ever-widening vision.

Freedom Demanded by Modern Young Women Probably Shortening Their Lives

By DR. E. L. FISK, Life Extension Institute.

Enjoyment of the freedom so vigorously demanded by modern young women is probably shortening their lives. Statistics prove that women between the ages of seventeen and thirty-two are now retarding extension of the span of life.

These young women do not show as good a health record as their brothers. They must study more carefully their habits of living and must avoid such injurious indulgences as cigarette smoking, late hours, and loss of sleep; must give attention to exercise, fresh air, and properly balanced diet.

The overconfident, self-sufficient young person who thinks she can set up her own ideals and standards and disregard the fundamental ethics of living should have this situation plainly laid before her—a warning that the price of this freedom may be higher than she cares to pay.

The proof of the pudding is the eating, and according to the mortality statistics this freedom pudding does not eat well.

Hungarians to Start Drive for Movement

Work to Build Up Community Circle in Borough to Instruct Local Hungarian Natives.

A move is in progress at the present time to have a new Hungarian Community Circle established in the borough for the purpose of educating and instructing Hungarians in citizenship, educational and civic matters. Notices were sent out this week to residents here to attend a meeting on April 15 when final steps will be taken towards the organization of a circle.

John Yuronka, chairman of the center, said in a statement to the press that Carteret has more than 3,000 Hungarian natives who would align themselves in this movement. It is proposed to have a club house, which will be built at a cost of from $40,000 to $60,000.

"The need of such a Hungarian center is clearly evident," Mr. Yuronka said. "They can come to the clubhouse and spend the evenings reading newspapers and enjoying their time in leisure.

Prominent Hungarians have already come into the movement and they are willing to start the ball rolling for a building fund. It will be a non-political organization, according to reports.

FROCK AND ENSEMBLE DECLARE SUPREMACY OF NOVEL WOOLENS

NOVELTY is the word when it comes to the new woolen fabrics, declared by the mode to be among the smartest items for the styling of spring apparel. To this end, genius is guiding its looms to check, stripe, plaid, mottle and multicolor every weave which comes within its range, including fine kashas, repps, tweeds, chevrons, camel-hair suitings, luster twills, dannels, homespuns and others too numerous to give recognition in one brief story of fashion.

While the colors are high in the majority of spring wooleens, they are artfully blended and soft in effect. Sometimes as many as from two to half a dozen colors are combined. Interest in tapestry designs in novelty wool goods results in an extensive use of this type of fabric for coats, suits and ensembles.

Ombre effects in flannels and bordered flannels in bright or pastel colorings make up charmingly in one-piece frocks. Coming in 54-inch width they are economical as it requires a minimum number of yards for a dress. Greens and rose hues are general favorites as well as soft blues.

In the tweeds, particular interest centers in the herringbone weaves, many of which are extremely elaborate, working out fascinating patterns. These appear in pastel and palm beach shade.

With such an imposing array of fascinating materials as this season witnesses, stylists are spurred to feature a campaign of unique design which shall measure up to the fabric itself. That is how it comes that the ensemble shown to the right in this picture is fashioned with extraordinary chic and charm. The handsome material of which this long coat and one-piece frock is styled is both plaided and bordered in tapestry interweavings. It is marvelously colorful, also extremely lightweight, which is a special characteristic of the new wooleens.

The dress to the left is of plaided kasha cloth, in colors which recall the mellow tones and tints of an Arabian tent covering. The scarf worn with it is of gay colored crepe, for in the majority of cases a scarf accompanies the dress or suit. Notice the buttons on the skirt. Buttons are a popular trim this spring.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

DISCIPLINE

NORTON had been dismissed from college, and his father was pleading for his reinstatement and bringing to bear upon the authorities all the influence of his numerous and influential friends. It was not that the boy had not been guilty of the infraction of rules, or that he had never been warned. It was not his first offense, and there was no doubt of his irregularity.

It was the effect which the punishment would have upon the boy's character and upon his future.

"If you send him away you will ruin him," the father urged. "It will take away all his enthusiasm; he will feel the disgrace to such an extent that he will never have the courage to face his friends at home. The fact that he had been detected has been punishment enough for him already. You ought not to want to make him suffer more."

It was an old argument, and one which I had often heard before. No matter how slow one is, he must learn something through long years of experience, and time and experience has taught me that it is only when one pays the penalty that he fully learns to avoid evil. The less we suffer the sooner we forget. The boy who suffers no penalty usually learns no lesson.

As Norton spoke to me, my mind went back to a Christmas morning twenty years ago and to a woman and a boy. The boy had been in jail for stealing, and the mother had just gotten him out, and together we had settled with the judge.

Now she was pleading that the boy should be forgiven, his crime overlooked, and he be allowed to go on with his college work. I can see them sitting there before the fireplace—the tearful mother and the shame-faced, penitent boy. I tried to be sympathetic, but I knew that the boy should pay. I can see them still going slowly down the walk with bowed heads. It was the saddest Christmas I had ever known.

A half dozen years ago or so, at homecoming time, a young fellow came into my office. He was tall and understanding and looked one straight in the eye.

"Do you know who I am?" he asked. I knew him, and it all came back to me—Christmas morning, the fire in the grate, and the woman and the boy. "I wanted to tell you about myself," he said. "I never came back to you, but I went to another and a smaller college. I graduated and I did my work well. I'm married, and I have a little boy of my own and a good job, and I'm respected by the people in the town.

"The thing you did for me that Christmas morning was the best thing that could have happened to me. It waked me up; it made a man of me, and I wanted to thank you for making me pay the penalty. When we pay we remember."

DR. RUDNICK SPEAKS TO P. T. ASSO. HERE

Speaks on "The Mother and Her Children" Tuesday Afternoon in the Auditorium of Columbus School to Large Audience.

A deeply instructive lecture by Dr. Sarah Rudnick, of the State Department of Health, was the feature of the meeting of the Carteret Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium of Columbus School. Only women were present. Dr. Rudnick spoke on "The Mother and Her Children." She dealt fearlessly and in a straightforward manner with social-hygienic problems. The trend of the times, the speaker said, requires direct and thorough measures.

The lecture has been delivered all over the state before meetings of P. T. A.'s, Women's Clubs and groups of high school girls. It is part of the State Health Department's campaign to combat ignorance and surround youth with safety.

The meeting opened with singing of "The P.-T. A. Song." Then followed a program by school children as follows: Song, "Come Back to Erin," by seventh year girls of Columbia school; Irish dance by Kathryn Brennan and Victoria McNeill; songs, "Killarney," and "Believe Me," seventh year girls; "The Lost Purse," sketch, by William Kaldon, James Stark and John Kovacs of the eighth grade; selections by the Columbia school orchestra. The children taking part in this part of the program were dismissed before the lecture.

High School Gets Banner

The banner awarded each month to the school having the highest percentage of parents present, was awarded to the High School. A report due on the recent card party was deferred to the next meeting because many of the ticket accounts remain to be settled. Those holding tickets or the equivalent in cash are invited to settle at the next meeting.

The president announced the Sophomore hop to be held April 31 and the Senior play, "The Lion and the Mouse." The public was invited to patronize both.

A nominating committee was named and instructed to present a slate of candidates at the next meeting when officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

The next meeting will be held in the evening on the first Tuesday in May. The meeting will be observed as "Fathers' Night," and the program will be in charge of male members of the association. A committee of men to have charge of the program and to serve refreshments was named as follows: Ellsworth Barker, chairman; John Harrington, Frank Brown, John Adams, Max Greenwald, Kurt Grohman, John Beech, Edward Skeffington, William Casey, Robert Jeffrey and William Duff.

HATCHETS USED IN DESPERATE FIGHT IN DARK

Flatiron and Board Full of Nails Also Used as Weapons in Battle.

St. Louis.—A battle in the dark, between two brothers, who lived in a house-boat at the foot of Leperance street, and their next-door house-boat neighbor, John Miller, fifty-two years old—a fight in which the combatants wielded a hatchet, a flatiron and pieces of wood without distinguishing friend from foe—resulted in Miller's being beaten to death, one of the brothers suffering a fractured skull and the other cut and bruised.

The combatant, who escaped with the slightest injuries, George Stein, thirty-one years old, a laborer, in a detailed statement to the Supt. of Police, told how the three fought in Miller's darkened shanty, the candle-light having been extinguished, until the fighters collapsed, outside the door.

Lights Went Out.
In his statement George Stein related that a fire had destroyed the house-boat owned by himself and his brother, Joseph, twenty-five years old. The origin of the fire could not be determined, but they believed Miller knew something about it, and went to Miller's house-boat to make inquiries.

"Joe went inside, while I waited outside," George Stein related in the statement. "Then there was scuffling and something was thrown out the door. The lights went out. I went inside and grabbed somebody. He didn't have a coat on, and I knew it was Miller. We fought around until somehow we all tumbled out of the door. I grabbed a plank and hit somebody. I was dazed, but saw my brother bleeding."

We Fought Around.

Carried Brother Off.

Stein continued that he assisted his brother to the home of a neighbor and then went out for a doctor. A little later, remembering, he said, that Miller was left unconscious on the ground, he decided to return to see about him. When he arrived at the house-boat he found it filled with police. He was arrested and took the police to the neighbor's home, from which his brother was sent to the City hospital.

In the house-boat the police picked up a blood-stained hatchet, flatiron and a board, about four feet long, a half dozen nails protruding from its blood-stained end.

At City hospital Joseph Stein said the fight started when he asked Miller why he knew about the fire and Miller replied, "Who else but I want to know."

Unemployed Ex-Convict

Asks Return to Prison
New York.—Fearing that his failure to get work might drive him to commit another crime, William Molley, thirty-seven and home from prison, asked police to return him to prison, from which he was recently released after serving four years of a life term sentence for burglary.

Magistrate Glantzweyer, in night court, sentenced him to ten days in the workhouse after he pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy. Prison officials will be notified of his desire to return to Auburn.

Burn U. S. Dollars

Moscow.—Some good American dollar bills have gone up in smoke because gamblers thought they had been issued by the anti-Bolsheviks and were no good. Boy vagrants stole a purse from Miss Sarah Rabinovitch of New York containing $1,000. The police reached a bonfire in time to save $101.

Factory Improvements

The modern American factory is far different from the dingy brick structures that one still sees in parts of Europe. It seems to be built chiefly of glass; its ventilation is scrupulously regulated; its floors and walls are swept and washed, and every precaution is taken against dust which might play havoc with machinery and delicate tools, as well as with the health of the employees. We are practically forcing such factories on Europe, because Europe is learning that she cannot compete with us successfully unless she adopts our methods.

Recreation Grounds

The Playground and Recreation Association of America has had 10 years of successful experience in promoting public recreation. When its work began, 41 cities reported organized playgrounds, but now there are 711.

HAM SANDWICH IS CLUE TO ROBBERS

Four Bandits Get $260,000 in Post-Office Blast.

Pawluicket, R. I.—A ham sandwich with lettuce and mustard dressing and an envelope addressed to a Boston woman may be the means of running down the four highly skilled yeggmen who spent three and one-half hours leisurely robbing the Pawtucket post office of about $260,000 in cash, stamps and negotiable securities.

The sandwich, peculiarly flavored, was given by one bandit to Post Office Watchman Peter D. Rafferty as he and George D. Sullivan, a substitute clerk, two weeks employed, sat bound and trussed in chairs while the yeggmen executed their carefully planned work behind a screen that hid them from the street.

The empty envelope with the name and address of a Boston woman was found near the door of the post office on Main street after the bandits left. Police and agents of various federal bureaus were seeking the woman. At the same time a check-up by their numbers was being made of the oxygen tanks used in "blowing out" the big safe.

But for the dilatory response at Washington to the request of Postmaster George W. Burgess here for a new safety vault, the robbery, one of the most daring in post-office history, might have been averted. Six weeks ago Postmaster Burgess renewed his request for a new and adequate vault, but there was no response.

Post Office Inspectors J. J. Breslin, C. H. Pendleton and C. S. Anderson were busy here investigating and gathering up loose ends in the robbery.

They established that $55,000 in negotiable bonds in one of the three safes for delivery to a local brokerage house had been taken, together with several consignments of currency for local banks, registered mails and stamps, the total being about $250,000.

Says Girl Forced Him to Marry; Plea Denied

Boston.—Arthur I. Kiet of Dorchester sought apparently in vain to obtain annulment of his marriage to Florence M. McLean of Roxbury. He claimed that he was only seventeen years of age when he married the girl, who was then twenty-three years of age. He told the court that he was "scarred" into marrying her after she had returned from a visit to a physician's office.

They had kept company for two years prior to their marriage while he was living at her mother's house in Oak Island, Revere.

After hearing the case, Judge Arthur W. Dohm said that he did not believe that any deceit or coercion had been practiced on the young husband, that he thought the young man was not telling the truth, and would declare for the wife on the facts as they stood. Kiet's attorney, however, was given time to look up decisions and to present to the judge any authorities he wished to.

Birds Feign Death to Trick Enemies

London.—One of the most extraordinary instincts found in the wild is that which leads birds to feign death, writes a head keeper.

Should one, for instance, capture a wrenneck alive, this timid little bird will twist its neck and head in the most curious contortions and then to all appearances die in the hand that holds it.

Deceived by its apparent death, one relaxes his vigilance, and to his surprise the seemingly lifeless form regains animation and with startling suddenness flies away.

This is a favorite trick of the wrenneck during the nesting season, when, owing to its pluck in refusing to leave its nest, it may easily be lifted off by the hand.

Taxi "Petting Parties" Are Banished in Rome

Rome.—Taxicab "petting parties" have been banished in the Eternal city by the latest edict in a nationwide campaign against the growing influence of the "jazz age."

All taxicabs equipped with shades which may be drawn across the windows have had these shades fastened shut by means of tiny locks. Each of the locks bears the lead seal of the Rome prefect so that a chauffeur who permits a client to break it to shut himself off from public view can easily be caught. A fine is the penalty.

For several weeks the authorities of all the cities of the kingdom have been raiding and closing dance halls of every description. The campaign is vigorously sponsored by the holy see.

Beware of Sadie

Nyack, N. Y.—Things better beware Sadie Stein hereafter. She's the best basket ball player of her sex at New York university. Held up by a gunman, she pummeled him so that he shrieked in pain, then fled as neighbors hurried to her aid.

Born With Teeth

Trenton, N. J.—Although she is only seventeen days old, Miss Ida Virginia Hutchinson of Trenton, N. J., can boast of two perfectly good, teeth. They were already a part of her equipment when she first entered the world.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

TWO THINGS AT A TIME

I KNEW a man once who was so completely ambidextrous that he could write equally well with either hand and use both at the same time. I don't know whether he could write one sentence with his left hand and another with his right, but at any rate he could manage them both skilfully and simultaneously.

I suppose it isn't impossible to do two things well at once, but it is a rare accomplishment and one which, though frequently attempted, is not often realized. Youth tries it more often than middle age. As we grow older we are generally satisfied to do one thing well, and not infrequently find that task difficult.

I have just had a letter from Hall's father the purpose of which is to make inquiry into the cause of young Hall's intellectual delinquencies. It seems that the boy, who has supposedly been devoting himself to the acquiring of training in the theories and practice of journalism, has come to the end of the half-year with very little to his credit in his intellectual bank.

The trouble is that the boy, not satisfied with trying to do one thing well and to come across with the grades, has had the optimism to attempt three. He has been ambitious to make a splash in the social pool, so he has spent a good deal of time in getting his hair into the right sort of wave, in working with his complexion and in adjusting his neckties preliminarily to going out for a social evening. And all this while the books on his desk were gathering dust and cobwebs. He has been trying to play the role of Valentino while struggling up to the heights of Horace Greeley.

In addition there has been burning within him a desire for political fame.

He hasn't gotten far up the political ladder. He is just learning that a man in love needs to give all his time to it; that politics even in real life takes one away from his regular business, and that if one is to get distinction in any business or profession he must throw all his energies into it, even if that particular business happens to be at the moment the carrying of a college course.

Not a great many people can keep four balls in the air at once. Some of them are sure to fall. Business men as well as college students go on to the rocks because they attempt too many things. If the minister runs his church well he's doing enough without attempting to organize a grocery store, or conduct a political campaign.

One thing at a time is in general all that the most of us can do well.

COMPLETE DENTISTRY

MANY of my patients come to me for a complete dental overhauling.

They have permitted their teeth to get in bad shape. They have "stumps" and "razor blades" and old pus sacs that are laying the foundation for systematic weaknesses such as heart trouble and chronic rheumatism. A few treatments and the process of dental restoration is complete. The results are so astounding and the cost is so extremely low they have regretted that they had not come to me sooner.

DENNIS O'RORKE LOOP PRESIDENT

Chosen by Twilight League Tuesday Night—William Hagen Is Elected Vice-President—Harmony S. C. Replace Belmonts.

OPENER MAY 4

Cadillacs to Meet Harmony On That Day—Both Teams Battle Over "Ownership" of Ernie Sabo, Star Third Sacker.

The Cadillacs play the Harmony Social Club outfit in the opening game of the Carteret Twilight Baseball League season, Tuesday evening, May 4, according to an announcement made by the secretary of the league this week.

All trouble concerning the abandonment of the Belmonts from the circuit was ironed out at the meeting. The Harmony club team, with practically the same lineup as that which gave the Belmonts a good deal of prestige last season, went in with Johnny Daurilla as manager.

The Cadillacs, led by Charley Monteleone; the Stars, managed by Edouard Miglicuddy Mack; and the Tigers, piloted by Charles Brady, are the remaining three teams. The Stars won the pennant of the league last season, while the Tigers captured the bunting in 1924, the first season of the league.

There exists a little grievance in regards to players. The Harmony and Cadillacs are disputing over the "ownership" of Ernie Sabo, star third baseman, who did wonderful work with the Esters in previous seasons. The Harmony claims that Sabo is a member of the club and should be permitted to leave the Cadillacs, as he is willing himself. The matter was not decided fully. After a staff of officials is organized the grievance will be smoothed over.

Dennis O'Rorke was proposed as a good man for the presidency of the league, while William Hagen was selected as vice-president. These two men will be asked to serve as officers before the next meeting, which takes place Tuesday night. If they decline, others officers will have to be chosen. Ed Yorke was again chosen secretary and William Mack treasurer. These four men, along with representatives of the teams and an official umpire, will make up the staff of officials.

Every effort will be made this season to have the games started before 6.30 o'clock in the evenings and all the teams will be uniformed. Those who conducted the business of the organization at Tuesday's meeting are as follows: Ed Mack, William Mack, Charley Brady, Charley Monteleone, Ed Yorke, John Skurat and Adam Ginda.

Rifle Club Organizes With Many Members

Fifty Members Already On List, While Large Number Are Expected to Join Shortly.

The Carteret Gun Club, which was recently organized, will be very busy in the coming months. The new organization has over fifty members already and expects another large number to register within the next few weeks.

The officers of the club are as follows: president, Charles Brady; secretary, Gus Doscher; treasurer, Reginald Craddock; warden, Oscar Olsen, and chairman, George Larson. Among those already enlisted are: Lew Larson, George Ricks, Roy Ricks, Clarkson Mullener, Steve Loest, J. S. Webb, Henry Rosman, William Rosman, William Mack, Andrew Rosman, Joseph Trefinko, Herman Nickau, Albert Hillyer, Dan Sullivan, Hans Beckman, William Van Bramer, Charles Bryer and the officers above mentioned.

YANKS REORGANIZE

Have Practically Same Team as That of Last Season—Play Keasby.

The Carteret Yanks have re-organized for the coming season. The same lineup will be used: Currie, Mullan, Smolensky, Miglicz, Medvick, Stevens, Viater, Comba, Baksa, and Kovalski.

The Yanks have a number of strong teams booked. For the first game the Keasby Juniors will be played on April 18 at the Tank Oval. The Yanks challenge any team averaging 120 pounds. For games address Mgr. J. Comba, 21 Union street, Carteret.

Knights of Columbus Hold Feast at Cross Keys Inn, Rahway, to Terminate Fine Season—Locals Are Well Represented.

PRIZES AWARDED

Westfield Club Given Silver Cup for Capturing Championship In Roll-off Match With Carteret Columbians—Burns Honored.

Notable success marked the first annual banquet of the Knights of Columbus Bowling League of Middlesex and Union counties, held Tuesday night at Cross Keys Inn, Rahway. Honors were awarded and rousing speeches were made.

Westfield Council received first prize, a silver loving cup, for winning the championship. This team consisted of Arthur Koehler, Roland Hartman, John Dugan, Harry Willoughby, Harold Rowland, George Kepler, Ferdinand Laurent and Chris Tobin.

Arthur Koehler, of Westfield, received the award of $10 for high average of 176.23, with George Burns, of Carteret, second, with 175.3. The latter received $5. The high team score was 984 made by Westfield, the team receiving $15. High individual score was 277 made by Thomas Wyckoff, of Dunellen. Arthur Koehler, of Westfield, was next in line with 252 and received an award of $5.

Officers Renamed President Joseph Grace, of Woodbridge, presided. Election of officers resulted in renaming of former officials as follows: President, Joseph Grace, Woodbridge; secretary, Daniel Donovan, Westfield; treasurer, Thomas Moulton, Rahway. The vote was unanimous in each case.

After the gathering had enjoyed a chicken dinner with all the fixins, there was a lively post-prandial program. Rev. F. J. Russell, of St. John's College, Brooklyn, was the chief speaker and gave a rousing talk on sports and sportsmanship and the value of athletic recreations.

Others who gave stirring talks were: Joseph Gill, of Carteret; Alderman Jacob Grausman, Attorney Harry Lavin, Dr. J. J. Collins, all of Woodbridge; Past Grand Knight Edwin S. Quinn, of Carteret; Grand Knight George C. Andelfinger, of Rahway; Grand Knight Daniel Donovan, of Westfield; Edward Honnig, of Dunellen; President Joseph Grace, Treasurer Thomas Moulton and others.

The speeches were interspersed with creditable vocal numbers by George C. Andelfinger, of this city; Nicholas Langan, Joseph Roman and Henry Dunham, of Woodbridge. Instrumental music was provided throughout the evening by E. H. Fenton's orchestra, of Woodbridge.

Those from the borough who were present at the fete are as follows: Edwin S. Quinn, Edward J. Doan, Joseph L. Gill, Thomas Devereux, Robert O'Donnell, George Burns, William Daurilla, Theodore Daniels, Edwin Casey and James Dunne.

Golf Played in Ireland Three Centuries Ago

Golf was played in Ireland 300 years ago, according to a discovery made by Joseph R. Fisher, member of the boundary commission. He has unearthed records which show that Lord Montgomery, or plain Mr. Haigh as he was then, was granted land by King James near where the famous Newmarket links now are.

Montgomery gave a site for a school on this land and records show that he allotted sufficient space for schools to "play at golf."

The school and links disappeared during the troubled years of the Civil war and rebellion, in the latter half of the Seventeenth century.

"Rabid Fan" Purchases Dubuque Baseball Club

Fred Lelser, for many seasons one of Dubuque's most rabid baseball fans, has taken over the Dubuque baseball club and franchise in the Mississippi Valley league, succeeding Manager Johnny Armstrong as owner.

With the announcement that he has taken over the club and franchise, Lelser stated that Johnny Armstrong has been given his release and will probably play for Oklahoma City in 1926. He also announced that Bill Spears, former manager of the Cedar Rapids team, has been signed to manage the Dubuque club.

Plan Foreign Tour for Two Young Tennis Stars

Two schoolboy and schoolgirl players will be sent to England next year to play against British champions if plans being considered by several progressive leaders of the United States Lawn Tennis association are looked upon favorably on the other side.

No official mention of this plan to encourage scholastic tennis has been made, but it is likely that it will be mentioned at the annual meeting of the association on February 6.

The association has been very successful in making tennis a universal game among senior players by fostering the Davis cup competitions and by sending older players to foreign countries.

Leaders of the association feel that tennis has been established as a senior international game and that it is now time to give more attention to the juniors and novices.

Golf Was True to Form During the 1925 Season

Golf was the only event that ran true to form for the season of 1925. Jones' winning of the national amateur for the second time did more to substantiate the fact.

This has not happened since 1913. However the amateur did bring forth a large field of new comers and was the downfall of many old timers.

Of the professional class the old boys kept at par, yielding to McFarlane.

Glenna Collett came back with her bag and won the woman's championship after an absence of two years.

The professional field brought another repeater in Walter Hagen. Had he not done this Sir Walter would have been completely out of titles. McDonald Smith took the western honors while Barnes, the staid and easy going, did nothing more than was expected of him.

Sport Notes

The Pacific Coast Baseball league championship will start April 6.

In his latest photos Babe Ruth looks all over like Charley Hitekman used to in the legs.

Powderball track in Edinburgh, Scotland, is generally credited with being the fastest course in the world.

Springfield of the Western association has signed catcher Eddie Banks, who was with Hutchinson of the same league in 1923.

Marvin (Bunny) Leat, semi-pro outfielder of Providence, R. I., has signed a contract with the Tulsa club of the Western league.

President Toole of the International league, has purchased the release of Umpire Walter Epler from the Mississippi Valley league.

The Denver club of the Western league has signed Judy Cline, young Denver infielder and outfielder. Cline was given a tryout by Les Motnes last spring.

Cleveland has signed Walter Durant, a semi-pro catcher, from Newark, Ohio. It is understood he will be sent to the Paris club of the Eastern Texas league.

James J. Corbett, the ex-heavyweight champion, originated the modern trick of bounding off the ropes, so often used by some of the present-day boxers.

Lee Fohl's "big three" combination is in line in Boston. It seems rather sudden, this "big three" business, but count 'em yourself—Howard Ehmke, Fred Wingfield and Charley Ruffing.

National league rivals say Pittsburgh must strengthen back of the plate. One high-class catcher, they admit, would make the Pirates mighty dangerous for about three years more.

The croquet championship of England will be held this year on June 28-July 10 at the Roehampton club. The inter-county championship is scheduled to begin at Hurlingham on May 24.

Bill Killefer should prove mighty helpful for Rogers Hornsby as his assistant at St. Louis. With no managerial worries he should greatly improve the Cardinals' pitching as coach.

SCOUT RALLY WILL TAKE PLACE MAY 1

Meet Was Held Friday By Perth Amboy Council and Plans Were Arranged—Event Will Be Staged at Woodbridge.

The annual outdoor rally of the Boy Scouts of America in the Perth Amboy District will take place Saturday afternoon, May 1. The event will be held on the Parish House Athletic Field in Woodbridge, the scene of last year's very successful jamboree.

There will be contests in the following: knot tying, fire by bow-drill, water boiling, verbal message relay, signaling and dressing race. The latter two are new features on this year's program. The complete rules, number of entrants and other details have been sent to all Scoutmasters by the District Scout Office. The rally will start at 2.30 o'clock. It is expected that the boy's band from the State Home at Jamesburg will again be present. Competent judges will be on hand, many of these being scout executives and other scout leaders from New Jersey Councils. At the scout leaders' meeting last week, it was recommended that all entries be required to file with the District Headquarters the "Official Entry" blank. Ford

If any other manufacturer endeavored to produce a car similar to the Ford according to the high standards of quality in material and workmanship used by the Ford Motor Company and with the same tried and proved design it would be impossible to offer it at anything like the present low Ford prices.

Just think! 13,000,000 model T Ford cars have been produced since 1908—almost as many automobiles as were built by all other manufacturers combined. In 1925, almost 2,000,000 Ford cars and trucks were built and sold—and plans for 1926 call for the production of even more than 2,000,000.

Today, more than ever, the Ford car is the most popular automobile in the world.

It was the superiority of Ford design in 1908 that established Ford leadership. It is this same Ford design, improved but basically unchanged, that is continuing to make the Ford car the outstanding leader among all automobiles.

If, on the other hand, the Ford Motor Company would substitute ordinary design for the basic Ford features, Ford cars could be produced and sold for less than the present Ford prices. Yet by so doing, Ford simplicity, durability and reliability would fall below the standard insisted upon by the Ford Motor Company and established throughout twenty-two years of leadership.

300 DELEGATES ATTEND SPRING MEETING HERE

LUNCHEON AND SPEAKERS

Delegation Given Banquet at Which Miss B. V. Hermann, Mrs. Chas. Byrne, M. L. Lowery, Mrs. Ernest Kittle and Miss Fanny Blair Give Talks.

More than 300 delegates, representing parent-teacher associations in all parts of the county attended, Wednesday, the all-day session here of the Spring meeting of the Middlesex County Council of the New Jersey Congress of Parents and Teachers in the new High School auditorium. "Modern Education," was the general topic for the day. There were two sessions, morning and afternoon. At 12.30 a luncheon was served in the high school gymnasium by the Carteret Parent-Teacher Association.

In the forenoon there was an executive meeting of presidents and secretaries of associations of the county. This lasted until 10.30 when the regular morning session opened. At the executive session it was decided to have the district associations forward their dues to the county body in the Spring of each year instead of in the fall as has been the custom in the past. The arrangement will be more convenient for the county body. Mrs. William F. Little, of Rahway, was selected to represent the county council at the national convention in Georgia; Mrs. Little will also be the delegate representing several other counties at the national gathering.

Three directors of the county body were named as follows: Mrs. Loren Keyes, of Perth Amboy; Mrs. C. H. Byrne, of the Carteret Association and Mrs. M. E. Gray, of Metuchen. County Chairman Mrs. Ernest Little, of Highland Park, presided at the executive session. Assisting her were Vice-chairman Mrs. Albert L. Gardner, of Fords; Recording Secretary Mrs. Louis Frankel, of Woodbridge, and the other officers of the county body.

Nineteen Gambling Device Owners Arraigned in Police Court Monday

Hearings in conjunction with the raids upon gambling machines in the borough on April 3 were held in the Police Court, Monday night, and nineteen defendants were fined five dollars each for harboring illegal devices.

It is considered that this number is the largest that has ever been brought before the Recorder on account of machines. The police rounded up the borough April 3 and cleaned things up pretty well, taking the owners of the machines by surprise.

According to a report received at Police Headquarters last week, the machines are to be broken up for scrap material. The money that may be in them will be placed in the pension fund.

Several other cases, of various characters were arraigned before Recorder Jacoby Monday night also.

LEGION GETTING READY FOR PLAY

Roosevelt Post No. 263 to Give Comedy, April 27—Prepare to Make it a Big Affair—Production 'A Milk White Flag.'

TALENTED CAST

Players of Indisputed Ability Will Stage Show—Dancing and Charleston Contest Feature— Committee Very Busy.

As announced previously, Tuesday, April 27, will be a big night in Carteret. The local Legion Post is sponsoring that Broadway comedy written by Charles D. Hoyt, entitled, "A Milk White Flag."

Ralph A. Brady is the director and the cast contains over fifty men and women. It is a comedy of youth and music and is of particular interest in that it is based on military inefficiency. The plot is written around the rivalry that exists between two military companies.

Ralph Brady, who was formally connected with Merkle & Harder Co., and who has had many years of experience, has been engaged by Roosevelt Post to handle the producing of this Broadway comedy. It is one of Charles D. Hoyt's most popular comedies and has proved to be a Broadway success.

Living up to a reputation is a strenuous task for the average person or organization—on second thought, however, it's not the "average" who acquire reputations, which is probably why Roosevelt Post of the American Legion gained their reputation of the livest, most popular unit in New Jersey.

Keen judgment and swift, sure action are important factors of success—evidenced by the names headlining the cast of "A Milk White Flag," which the post is sponsoring at the Carteret High School Auditorium on Tuesday evening, April 27. And speaking of reputations, this Broadway comedy hit has one which, according to those who have seen it by rehearsal, will run true to form—that of making stars and in turn being made by stars.

Miss Mary McCue has gained a reputation as a gracefully clever dancer. But as the mysterious "Girl in Blue," again as the "Orphan" and lastly as the "Daughter of the Regiment," she will give her most ardent admirers a genuinely pleasant surprise—not only by the marvelous grace and technique of two dance numbers which are both new to this town but also by the ease and naturalness with which she fills the requirements of a

Daylight Saving To Be Started April 25

To Become Effective at 2 A. M. on Last Saturday In This Month.

The daylight saving plan is about to make its annual appearance here. The daylight saving time will become effective at 2 A. M. on the last Sunday in this month, April 25 and will continue until the last Sunday in September.

The same states and cities that conformed to the plan last year will put daylight saving schedules into effect about the same time this year. In Massachusetts, however, there is a fight in the legislature to abolish the state measure. In Maine, where it is put into effect only in Bar Harbor and Portland, a movement is afoot to enact the law similar to Connecticut's which forbids the display of any checks showing other time than the Eastern Standard time.

That the Middlesex Water Company is not going to get away with its gigantic increase in rate upon the people of Carteret was evidenced by the reports from Trenton, from the office of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, which shows that the Borough of Carteret has filed three separate complaints calling for investigation and hearings by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

Arrest Contractor For Violation of Mann Act

Stephen Magashegyi, formerly a well known contractor in this borough, known in San Fernando Valley, California, as Stephen Miller, was taken into custody in that state by department of justice agents on a charge of transporting Miss Margaret Beracz from Passaic, N. J., to Los Angeles and living with her en route and at that place as his wife, a violation of the Mann act.

It was reported by federal authorities that the contractor's wife, whom he deserted here for the younger woman, trailed them to San Fernando and then complained against her husband.

In a statement Magashegyi was said to have made to the arresting officials he was said to have asserted he had placed most of his fortune of $100,000 at the disposal of his wife and two minor children so they would suffer no want for money.

He supplied a cash bond of $2,000 for a hearing on Wednesday.

Hangs Head Down Seven Hours in Storm

Moscow.—Plung by a blast of wind from his perch on top of a 150-foot radio antenna mast Pyotr Razanski, assistant in the government broadcasting station at Rostov on the Don river, hung head down, his foot tangled in a wire, for seven hours before he was rescued.

A snowstorm of unusual severity blew his body back and forth like a pendulum. When a crew of riggers finally got him back to earth he was crusted with ice from head to foot. Razanski was thawed out in a hospital, and promises to be none the worse for his experience.

COMMISSIONERS AT SCHOOL MEET

Coughlin outlined some plans for it. The matter was referred to the janitors and grounds committee and the athletic committee for determination as to what is to be done. A report will be made at the next regular meeting.

Commissioner Bradford said that the shades in the Columbus school needed repairs. This was referred to the repair and supply committee.

Commissioner Dalrymple expressed his gratitude to President Heil for putting him on various committees and said that he will carry out his duties in the excellent standard already established by the board.

"Let the World Know" Good Slogan for City

The slogan adopted by the Mobile Bay boosters, "It Can Be Done," is a good one, but it won't give the members of the various committees much time to go fishing while they are putting Mobile on the map as one of the world's principal ports. Blow your own horn is just as true today as when the slogan was first used. Every city in the United States over ten thousand that is growing today has a good brass band. Just as a band is considered as necessary as guns to every regiment in an army, so is a city band necessary to put the enthusiasm into any project you wish to put over. Your docks, harbor improvements, Baldwin bridge, million-dollar high school, and the voting of the library and ice-cream bonds, a few of us here in the South know about. But why hide your good works under a bushel? "Tell it to the world." The Websterian definition of the word boom is, a rapid rise in price, a sudden burst of popular favor, to go off with a rush, to push with energy. Atlanta, New Orleans, Omaha, Kansas City, Seattle and Los Angeles are bright examples of prosperous cities that are now building under the direction of booster or boomer clubs, working through their boards of trade or chambers of commerce.

The methods employed by the boomers are all similar in city boosting. For the information of those who are not familiar with booms and boomers as applied to city boosting: The same methods are applied that made household words throughout the nation of popular brands of soap, chewing gum, cigarettes, shirts and collars and other articles in every day use; also made millions of their owners. To be summed up in one word, publicity in its broadest sense is boom tactics. —Mobile Register.

Attractive Door Yard Has Monetary Value

Well planned and properly planted grounds help to make a home. "No lawn is too small nor too large to be made a place of beauty," says P. A. Aust, of the horticulture department at the University of Wisconsin, in a new bulletin on "Planning and Planting Home Grounds." It is the choice of plants and the manner of arranging them that counts. When certain principles of planting are followed, a picturesque effect results, and the home grounds are a constant delight to the family, as well as to friends, neighbors and passers-by.

"The amount of money required to make the home grounds attractive need not be large," says Aust. A few well-chosen trees, shrubs, and flowers added each year will result in very attractive grounds, and will greatly add to the value of the property.

Good in Zoning Laws

Zoning laws should be taken into account and given careful study by builders. They were made primarily to protect certain districts against certain classes of buildings. Too many of our cities have been hit-and-miss affairs, and it is undoubtedly a sign of the times that zoning regulations have come. In cases where such rules have been in effect for some years, the wisdom of such laws is apparent. Many an excellent residential neighborhood has been killed by the creeping in of some obnoxious commercial enterprise. —Chicago Post.

Watch Trees That Lean

In the care of one's yard caution should be taken against irregular growth of trees and means adopted to rectify any fault in the tree's growth at the start. Many trees are inclined to lean in a certain direction through being forced into that position by prevailing winds from the opposite point, and unless braced while young, it will be impossible for them to grow upright as they should. It is well that a sufficient space be spaded up around the tree, and the ground kept worked and properly fertilized.

Study Child Accounting

In an effort to improve school attendance in Spokane, Wash., 43 principals of schools are taking a special course in child-accounting methods conducted by the city superintendent of schools, following the introduction of a new system of child accounting in the public schools of the city. College extension credits of the State College of Washington will be given to those who complete the course.

Signs for Tourists

Suitable identification signs should be a part of every town on a main highway, because tourists have to stop far too often to ask the name of the town they are in, the American Automobile association points out.

Fireproof Roofs

Many large cities have forbidden use of wood for house roofs. There are many good fireproof materials on the market.

Yearly Record Smashed in 8 Months

This is the 181,334th Buick of the current series. It marked the setting of a record in shipments for Buick cars in eight months, which exceeds that of any entire fiscal year in the history of the company.

During the eight month period since Aug. 1, 1925, practically every other Buick record was smashed. The average monthly shipments was 22,865 cars, which surpasses the record of the highest previous single month.

This month was October, 1925, when 22,850 cars were loaded and sent out. The October record was also broken in each of the three months of 1926. In January the shipments set a new record of 23,265 cars which is 415 cars better than the October mark. In February the record of January was beaten by 29 cars. The March record smashed the February mark by 2,011 cars.

E. T. Strong, Buick General Sales

Manager, gave some indication of what the company was accomplishing in an interview a few weeks ago. He stated that Buick dealers throughout the country had been unable to stock cars in anticipation of the Spring demand for the first time he could remember. Those Buick records bear out Strong's statement that 1926 would be an exceptional year both for the auto industry and for every other branch of business.

and failing to file annual reports. It is to this that the municipalities object in making their complaint.

In their complaint on rates the municipalities ask that the rates, classifications and practices complained of in the itemized complaint be declared violative of the laws of the State of New Jersey and that by order, in writing, just and reasonable rates be established and that the people in the territory be relieved of further payment under duress of threatened discontinuance of service.

Present Rates Excessive

In their complaint the municipalities alleged that the present rates are:

1 Excessive, unjust and unreasonable in all the classifications of the schedules;

2 That the records made in the proceedings before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and before the courts show that the new rates afford more than an adequate return upon the fair value of the property employed in the service of the people;

3 That the records made before the commissioners and the court establish the fact that the service furnished by the company has been for years unsafe, improper and inadequate and that the rates therefor exceed the value of the service rendered;

4 That the Middlesex Water Company sells water to the Plainfield-Union Water Company and the Elizabethtown Water Company for less than it costs to bring the water to surface;

5 That the record of testimony established by Nicholas S. Hill, Jr., the expert produced by the company before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and the courts, establishes that the new rates put in by the Middlesex Water Company are unjust and unreasonable;

6 That the rates charged by the Plainfield-Union and the Elizabethtown Company, furnishing water to Elizabeth, Plainfield and other towns, are much less than the rates charged by the Middlesex Water Company, despite the fact that the Middlesex Water Company sells water to these other companies;

7 That the rates now being exacted by the Middlesex Water Company are not in accordance with the rates prescribed by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners;

8 That in imposing and exacting these rates and in maintaining the same an din putting into effect the practices complained of, the company has violated and continues to violate the laws of the State of New Jersey;

9 That on information and belief it is alleged that the company has recognized, and does recognize, the justice of the complainant's complaints that the rates exacted are unjust and unreasonable and that it has been inferred that the continued exaction of such excessive rates is due to the support accorded the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the State by the municipalities, in the Board of Public Utility Commissioners' action against the company.

Service Is Inadequate

The second complaint called the board's attention to the fact that both the board and the court found that the service of the Middlesex Water Company was unsafe, improper and inadequate. This complaint asked the board to issue a formal order to make the Middlesex Water Company furnish safe, adequate and proper service to the people.

The third complaint alleged that the laws of the State of New Jersey were violated by the company in that it did not file its proper annual report in the time specified.

It appears that these complaints, calling for investigations and hearings before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners, will not be the only action the Middlesex Water Company will be faced with. It appears a number of the larger consumers are preparing to sue the company because the rates are not legal rates and are excessive, according to the testimony of their own expert. Many of the consumers have already paid their bills under protest, reserving the right to sue and get any excess over a fair rate established by the Board of Public Utility Commissioners.

2 Men Break Jail With Tools Plumber Forgot

Mays Landing, N. J.—A successful jail delivery directly attributable to the fact that a plumber forgot his tools occurred recently at the jail here. Shortly before two prisoners were put in the cell a plumber was at work there fixing some pipes. When he finished he forgot his tools and it was with the aid of those that the prisoners forced the bars to their cell window and escaped.

Richard R. Young, who has been new business agent of Public Service in charge of electric and gas sales since 1913, was elected vice president in charge of sales by the board of directors of Public Service Electric and Gas Company at the organization meeting held in Newark Terminal April 13. The boards of directors of the several Public Service operating companies, all of which held their organization meetings on the same day, elected F. Milton Ludlow an assistant treasurer. Mr. Ludlow has been stock transfer clerk. Ivan L. Gulick, who has been auditor of Public Service Production Company, was made general auditor of that company.

Thomas N. McCarter was re-elected president of the various companies and the vice presidents and other officers were also re-elected.

Mr. Young was born in Forest Hill, a suburb of London, England, and came to this country in 1886.

settling in Nebraska. In 1892 he became associated with the Omaha Gas Company, a subsidiary of the United Gas Improvement Company, as clerk. After three years in an educational course conducted by a national gas association, Mr. Young returned to the Omaha Gas Company as the first salesman employed by the newly organized commercial department of the company. In 1897 he was made agent of the South Omaha branch of the company.

In 1899 Mr. Young came to New Jersey, as agent of the Passaic Gas and Electric Company and in 1902 was made assistant secretary of that company. In 1907 he became agent of the Essex and Hudson Gas Company, with offices in Newark. In 1909 when Public Service Gas Company was formed, Mr. Young was made Essex Division agent and a year later, when Public Service Electric Company was organized, he was given the same position with that company. In 1913 he became new business agent, or sales manager, of the two companies, covering all Public Service territory in New Jersey.

Mr. Ludlow went first with the comptroller's office, in 1915, and two years later was transferred to the treasurer's department as stock transfer clerk. He joined the United States Marine Corps in 1918 and returned to Public Service in 1919.

WHO SAID
"Woman already controls by not seeming to do so. Talk no more of her rights!"

THESE words, which sound as though they were from the pen of a woman—later, are, instead, from the pen of one of the criticized sex. The author of the quoted phrase, which might well be credited to some burning opponent of votes for women, was Louise de la Ramee.

She was a French-English writer, who is best known to the world by her pen-name, "Ouida." Her father was a Frenchman and her mother an Englishwoman, the name under which she elected to give her writings to the world, was one by which she called herself when a child and her tiny lips could not form the name Louise.

Louise Ramee was born in England, at Bury St. Edmunds, January 1, 1839. Twenty years later she moved to London and there made her debut as a writer with a short story, "Dashwood's Drag," which was published in Harrison Ainsworth's New Monthly Magazine. Her first novel, "Held in Bondage," appeared in the same magazine in the year 1863.

The things Ouida delighted to write about were the tinsel and pomp of military society, although she knew little about these things.

She spent her later years in Italy, and with her intimate knowledge of the Italian peasant, she was able to write in a more accurate vein and in one that reflected more credit upon her ability. Ouida was passionately fond of animals, especially dogs and she wrote about them in a sympathetic way that has made some of her dog stories immortal. She was an ardent anti-vivisectionist and brought all her literary powers to bear in her campaign against this cruelty to animals.

Ouida was also an anti-suffragist. She did not believe in women having the right to vote—her quoted statement shows her attitude on the subject. She died in poverty at Varese, Italy, January 25, 1908. Her popularity had declined and her inability to keep money brought her to destitute surroundings.

ANIMALS PROVE REAL HEROES IN NEW YORK FIRE

Baboon Rescues Kitten Pal—Monkeys and Canaries Perish.

New York.—Tales of animal heroism were brought from a smoldering building in Cortlandt street by firemen who fought flames that caused the deaths of 5,000 canaries, 150 parrots, 40 monkeys and several cats and dogs.

Several boa constrictors lashed about, terror stricken, in their cages, monkeys chattered and parrots shrieked, creating a bedlam of noises such as a jungle explorer might hear in a nightmare. The jungle law of the survival of the fittest prevailed and the weaker of the imprisoned creatures perished. So frightened were the boa constrictors and two wildcats that they were rescued without attempting to attack the firemen.

Outstanding Hero.
The outstanding hero of the fire, as reported by firemen, was a baboon which took his inseparable companion, a kitten in his arms, broke open the door of his cage and escaped to safety with his charge. In another cage firemen said they found a monkey crouched in her cage, choked by the smoke and her hair singed by the flames. When they removed her they found she was lying on four of her young, protecting them with her own body. The mother later was revived.

A loss of more than $15,000 was caused by the fire. Most of this was caused by deaths of the animals and birds. The animal store, known as Bartel's pet store, is patronized by circus men. Three anteaters, a South American vulture and many chicks and rabbits, intended for the Easter season, were among the casualties.

Representatives of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals rendered first aid to the animals which it was thought would recover. Those more seriously injured were killed.

Dog Saves Boys From Death by Exposure

Petoskey, Mich.—The faithfulness of a pet dog is believed to have saved the lives of Clinton Shearer, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shearer of Rosolmie, and Lynn Edward Hopkins, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopkins of Edgewater.

The two lads became lost and spent the zero night in a swamp near Ramona park, where they were found in a serious frozen condition by their fathers. By some instinct of nature the dog seemed to realize the children's predicament and crawled over the two weary bodies in an effort to keep them warm through the night.

The dog showed no ill effects from the cold except that he was ready for breakfast and a real breakfast naturally was his reward.

IS CREMATED TO "MERRY WIDOW" AIR

Shipbuilder's Directions Followed at Rites.

London.—To the lift of gay music, including strains from "The Merry Widow" waltz, the coffin of Alexander M. Carlisle, famous shipbuilder and friend of the former Kaiser, was taken from the chapel at the Golden's Green crematorium into the furnace chamber for cremation.

The ceremony was arranged by Mr. Carlisle himself a few weeks ago, when he knew his death was near. He paid in advance for his own cremation and had the receipt framed. He also settled the fee of the funeral organist.

"I have no fear of death," he said. "I want nobody to grieve. Therefore I have paid for and instructed the organist to play the waltz from 'The Merry Widow.'"

There were no formal religious rites, no hymns and no prayers. About a dozen mourners were in the chapel, including Mr. Carlisle's daughter, the Baroness Von Versen. In the midst of the unusual ceremony she collapsed.

Fair Rates Only

The Middlesex Water Company has arbitrarily put into effect rates of its own beginning January 1st. Prior to those rates being into effect the consumers in Carteret and the Middlesex Company's territory were paying rates that had been increased 20 per cent in 1924. Now the rates have been increased 70 to 87 per cent above the rates in effect in 1925.

Happily the laws of the State of New Jersey do not say that the sky is the limit for any utility to charge the people. The municipalities are taking the right action in going after the Middlesex Water Company before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners. The testimony of the experts of the Middlesex Water Company will come up to haunt them.

The Middlesex Water Company's own expert, Nicholas S. Hill, Jr., testified that a schedule yielding 42 per cent less revenue than the new schedule, would be sufficient to take care of every requirement of the Middlesex Water Company. In this connection it must be remembered that he was the hired expert for the company and naturally favored the company. If he said that rates 42 per cent less than the present rates were sufficient to protect the company, it is a safe bet that rates 42 per cent less than the present rates would put the water company on easy street.

Anyone who listened in at the hearings before the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and the Courts knows that most of the statements of the Middlesex Water Company are nothing but propaganda. The municipalities had the books of the Middlesex Water Company thoroughly examined and showed that they had been making a fine thing of it, generally speaking. When the financial expert of the expert of the Middlesex Water Company got on the stand, he admitted that in his report, he made a mistake in figuring the net earnings of the company. The municipalities made the Middlesex Water Company bring their financial expert back and had him correct page after page of figures. Why was the misleading and incorrect information fed out to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners by the company's own expert? Perhaps it was an error, but it was an error in favor of the company and against the people.

The people are willing to pay fair rates but they will not be bullied into paying the highest rates in this part of the State of New Jersey, more than twice as much as is paid by the people served by another company, owned by the same man.

Newspaper Gets New Ideas About Culture

Ideas About Culture

Most of us have been a bit hazy as to just what culture is. We have perhaps generally taken our cue from Matthew Arnold, who had a notion that culture involved knowing the best that had been thought and known, that it was the pursuit of sweetness and light, and that its motto should be to make the reason and will of God prevail. But the address of Mr. John Cowper Powys on the subject expands our ideas, the Kansas City Times comments. We are informed that the cultured person is detached and sophisticated, that he detaches himself from hounders by saying, "Really! Indeed! How interesting!" That he is capable of renouncing friends, family, church, business. That he escapes from the world by reading the classic authors. Finally, we infer that a touch of indigestion is desirable in order to keep the cultured one at the proper pitch of dissatisfaction with the world. Otherwise he might get to enjoying life as Robert Browning did. Well, we always are glad to enlarge our experience and whittle down the edges of our ignorance. Especially are we consoled to learn that when we feel most like the human crab, when we are unusually disagreeable, and full of spleen, then are we most cultured.

These Might Be Heard

if Optimism Prevailed

"Fire? Fiddlesticks, young man, booklet says this hotel is absolutely fireproof. Go away and let me sleep." "What's this—from the income tax bureau? Good! They probably are sending me a refund." "I don't seem to be able to get central, Mary, but I'm sure those burglars won't be through in the cellar for some time yet." "It's a good thing Jack has gone over to Gloria. He'll appreciate me all the more after he's tired of her." "Lots of time, George dear. Just try again and give her a little more gas. That train will stop rather than hit us." "I feel I'm going to lose my petticoat before another block, but I'll probably look snappier without it." "Ten years in Sing Sing? Thank you, judge. I've always wanted to wear a light suit, but I never had the courage." "Triplets? Hot dog! That just completes the children's baseball line!"—Exchange

By Any Other Name

A collector of antiques was taking a valuable Queen Anne mirror to his home by train. "You can't take that into the carriage with you, sir," said an official. "It must go in the guard's van." "But it is very valuable, and may get smashed. Can't you let me take it in?" asked the collector. "I'm afraid not," came the inexorable reply, "unless, of course, you take a dog ticket for it." So the mirror duly traveled as a dog.

Variation in Heart Beats

The average rate of heart beat in an adult man is about 72 a minute and is somewhat faster in women. It varies, however, so that in some individuals it may be 40 to 100 a minute. Shortly before and after birth it averages from 120 to 140. During extreme age its frequency is increased. It is influenced by many conditions of bodily health and environment, such as sleep, position, temperature, meals and emotions. Exercise may increase it to 200 or more.

Diogenes and Alexander

The interview between Diogenes and Alexander the Great is supposed to have occurred at Corinth. The monarch asked the cynic philosopher whether there was anything he could do for him. Diogenes replied that the only favor he had to ask of the prince was that he would not stand between him and the sun. In reply Alexander exclaimed: "If I were not Alexander, I would be Diogenes."

Better Not

The philosopher, Bias, was once overtaken by a storm on shipboard. Among his companions were some very bad characters, who began to call on the gods for help. Bias said, "Hold your tongues; don't let them know you are on board."—Edinburgh Weekly-Scotsman.

The Hotel Stenographer

"IF THEY cremate me, Kelly, they will have to do it when I am unconscious," cried the Hotel Stenographer spiritively.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the House Detective. "That's what they always do when they cremate them. They wait till they are unconscious."

"Then watch out when you are passing a crematory, Kelly, 'cause it's liable to happen to you at any time," snapped the girl.

"What I mean is that I don't want anybody burning me up in this world. We all take chances enough on having that happen to us in the next one."

"I don't know much about heaven, Kelly, but I'm blessed if I will put St. Peter or any of his assistants to the trouble of trying to make me over again out of a little bunch of ashes. It will be job enough to do, anyway."

"Kelly, think of the chance after they put your ashes in a case of getting knocked off the parlor mantel by some careless person and laying on your side for a week or two on the hearth until somebody sees you and sets you back again. If you set on the bookcase the cat is apt to pounce around and knock you out of the window. I want to be buried in the regular way and have flowers put on me when they happen to think of me and have mocking birds sing in the cedar tree over my head and all."

"Kelly, no one will ever cremate me without me raising my voice in protest. Unlike the fresh air and a hot room always makes me sneeze and then my complexion runs and if they want to make me happy they better keep me out of one of those furnaces."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Prof. Irving Fisher Was in Vocational Doubt.

"AT THE age of twenty-one I was in my senior year at Yale university. When it came to choosing my life work, I was in doubt. I liked to be a lawyer, and I also thought well of teaching mathematics. I eventually decided upon the latter course and entered the graduate school the following year with that end in view. I then became interested in mathematical economics and ended by becoming an economist.—Irving Fisher."

TODAY—Professor Fisher is one of the most famous economists in America, with an international reputation. He is at present professor of political economy at Yale.

FREDERICA

FREDERICA is the feminine counterpart of the popular masculine name Frederick. It signifies "peace ruler" and comes originally from the old Freyr of Teutonic mythology. Freyr meant "free," which is loosely translated to "love of peace." The idea was personified into a god of very high rank who later was disintegrated into a brother and sister, called Freyr and Freya.

Freya named the sixth day of the week and presided over love and marriage and drove over battlefields in a chariot drawn by panthers to conduct the slain to their appointed places in Valhalla. While Freyr was progressing by direct route into Frederick, the feminine form was slower in becoming Frederica.

The saintly daughter of the lord of Oxford bore the name of Frithswith and lived in a little cell at Thornbury and had curious adventures which are portrayed in a window of the cathedral of Axford. She was also patroness of the university and cathedral. The cumbersome name of Frithesantha was borne by the wife of Geoffrey Luttrell in the fourteenth century.

Frederica is purely an English invention, though Portugal and Italy had adopted it intact. The French call it Frederique and the Germans Fridrika. Onyx is Frederica's talismanic stone. It will guard her from lover's quarrels and assures her of a sweet lovable nature. Thursday is her lucky day and 1 her lucky number.

Accepting Apology
A lively discussion between two men led to a row when one told the other he lied. The offended one rushed forward and they clinched. The other man exclaimed: "I reiterate that you're a liar!"
To the astonishment of those around, the aggrieved man let go his hold. "Oh, well," he said, "I accept the apology. If a man says he reiterates that's all a gentleman can ask."
He did not understand why the bystanders laughed, but the fight was off.—Boston Transcript.

Parasitic Ivy
"At the moment when there is so much talk and action in the direction of afforestation," writes a correspondent of the London Times, "may I call attention to the awful destruction of many hundreds of thousands of trees, caused by that terrible scourge, the parasitic, pernicious weed, ivy? As I drive through the country, I regret to say that it is the exception to see a tree which is not having its life's vigor sucked from it and its ultimate asphyxiation and strangulation brought about by this scourge."

300 DELEGATES ATTEND AFFAIR

Mary Sepple, director of music in the local schools. "The P. T. A. Song" which has been used by the local association at recent meetings was introduced and made an instant hit with the delegates. After a roll call of associations the High School Orchestra played selections including a medley of popular airs and "Shoulder Arms." Miss Sepple sang "Old Refrain," her clear soprano voice winning an encore; she sang "Songs Mother Used to Sing."

Mrs. Charles H. Byrne, president of the Carteret P. T. A., extended greetings in behalf of that body and expressed appreciation of the large number of delegates present.

Supervising Principal Miss B. V. Heumann gave greetings in behalf of the educational system of Carteret. She said in part: "In behalf of the educational system of Carteret it is my great happiness to extend a most cordial greeting to the officers and members of the Parent-Teacher Associations.

"Kindly permit me to extend my congratulations to our local organization through whose efforts the Borough of Carteret is so gracefully honored today by your presence here. "In my opinion the Parent-Teacher Association is a powerful organization, having certain definite aims; an organization that bridges the gap between the school and the home. For, is it not true that teachers and parents alike are constantly constructing habits, attitudes and ideals of the most costly building material known—the nervous system of growing boys and girls. Hence it is essential that parents and teachers use the same blue prints. It is essential that parents and teachers co-operate in every way for the welfare and progress of the children.

"If it were possible I would clasp the hand of each and every one of you, wishing you Godspeed with the good work in which you are engaged."

County Superintendent of Schools M. L. Lowery not only expressed his strong convictions of the value of Parent-Teacher Associations but proved them by joining the county body during the session. He pointed out the need of true modern education and illustrated his talk with individual instances of that need. He spoke highly of the schools of Carteret and compared the schools here and in Woodbridge with some schools he had visited recently in rural districts. He urged the associations to do all in their power for the welfare and progress of the forty thousand children in the county.

Mr. Lowery paid high tribute to the memory and the work of the late H. Brewster Willis, former county superintendent of schools who had directed the schools for thirty-eight years. No man anywhere had established a better record in school work than Mr. Willis, Mr. Lowery declared.

Assistant Commissioner of Education C. J. Strahan was the principal speaker of the afternoon. His topic was "Character Education," but he departed from that subject long enough to speak a word of praise for the school board and the people of Carteret. The handsome new high school building, he said, proved that the people of Carteret have the proper attitude toward education. The people here, he said, are progressive and up-to-date.

Mr. Strahan gave a highly instructive talk on "Character Education." The best results, he said, are obtained when the teachers have the support of the parents. Teaching character direct, he said, is the best method. He advocated the separation of church and school.

Mrs. Ernest Little, chairman of the county council, praised the Carteret association, declaring that it was the prize association of the county in things accomplished.

Miss Fannie Blair a teacher in the junior high school of Montclair, spoke on "The Dalton System of Education," a fundamental of which is the idea that the school should be fitted for the children rather than that the child should be fitted for the school. She told interesting instances of individual development of children along particular lines such as art—cases where the pupils have extraordinary ability in one study but fall behind in others. Special gifts of genius, she said, should be cultivated.

The luncheon was a delightful affair. The tables were decorated with cut flowers and streamers. The menu included celery, olives, combination salad, chicken patties, rice potatoes, creamed asparagus, coffee, ice cream, cakes and after-dinner mints. Girl students in the high school served the luncheon. It was prepared by a committee of the local association including Mrs. Charles Morris, chairman; Mrs. William Duff, Mrs. William V. Coughlin, Mrs. A. Kay, Mrs. D. Wolgemuth, Mrs. H. W. Thorn, Mrs. T. Kinneally, Mrs. Kurt Grohman, Mrs. Dennis Fitzgerald, Mrs. William Misdom.

While the guests were enjoying the luncheon there were piano solos by Miss Emma Christensen vocal solos by Miss Gladys Kahn accompanied by Miss Sepple, banjo solos by Miss Grace Van Pelt, and a character song by Morris Abrams.

Dying Surgeon Bars "Humbug" at Funeral

Marion, Ohio.—Dr. Benjamin Merrill Ricketts, sixty-eight years old, of Mount Gilead, internationally famous surgeon, made this unusual death-bed request of an old friend, Dr. A. Rhu: "I'll have no minister, no priest, no humbug. Cremate my body and scatter the ashes over the graves of my mother and father."

Doctor Rhu announced that the unusual request will be carried out. The body was taken to Cincinnati for cremation. The ashes will then be taken to Proctorville, Lawrence county, and strewn over the graves of Doctor Ricketts' mother and father.

Doctor Ricketts was known through out the world as an authority on surgery of the heart, lungs and throat. He was born May 20, 1858, at Proctorville, Lawrence county. He attended Ohio Wesleyan university and took post graduate medical courses at Miami Medical college, Columbia university and the Skin and Cancer hospital, New York city.

Takes 20 Minutes to Apply Georgia's Seal

Atlanta, Ga.—Twenty minutes are required for an expert to attach the great seal of Georgia to a document. Only a couple of seconds are necessary for the process in other states.

The difference is between the seal of 1799, which the state still uses, and the seal of modern invention.

Sealing wax is rolled into thin wafers when Georgia's seal is made ready for operation. Gilt paper, cut circular in form, the exact size of the die, with serrated edges, next is laid upon each side of the wax wafer. At the same time ribbons are inserted between the wafer and the paper disks. The wafer then is placed between the plates of the die and stamped tightly, leaving the device imprinted on either side of the wax and revealed, like an engraving, on the gilted paper. This is attached by narrow ribbons to the document of state, forming what is known as a wax pendant.

Prayer Fails to Cure His Talking—Fine Does

Facestown, Md.—When prayer failed to cure Jesse W. Weaver, Jr., of talking during services in the Church of God at Samples Manor near here, members of the congregation took heroic measures.

Three members of the congregation seized Weaver during services one night and brought him to the police court here. A fine of $14, which the justice assessed, was paid.

Members of the congregation said that Weaver talked continually during services. They prayed for him, begged him to desist, and finally threatened him, they said, but without success.

Lincolns Start Off With Big Victory

Romp Home a Winner in Opening Contest of Campaign—Play Tomorrow and Sunday

The Lincoln A. C. started its campaign off with a victory, trimming the St. Joseph Lyceum by a score of 9 to 4, at Brady's Field, Sunday afternoon.

Bert Conroy featured the game with a triple with two men on the sacks in the third frame. Collins, of Rahway, caught a good game for the local outfit.

The Lincolns will play tomorrow and Sunday. They will oppose the Stuyvesant A. C. and the East Ends, of Elizabeth, at Brady's. Harrigan and Woodhull will probably handle the mound assignments.

Wally Pipp Denies He's Out of Baseball Sport

Wally Pipp, for 11 years first baseman of the New York Yankees and now guardian of the same position for the Cincinnati Reds, disagrees with the critics who have counted him out as a big-league ball player.

"I expect to play regularly for four or five years," says Wally. "If I didn't think I was good for several more years I would not report to the Reds. I have no idea of playing minor-league ball, and I have no intention of hanging around a big-league bench waiting for a chance to go up and pinch hit for somebody else."

A HORSE SOLD FOR BEANS

By WILLIAM T. ELDRIDGE

(By Short Story Pub. Co.)

We can imagine old David Harum chuckling over this Yankee horse deal, where a sly old horse fancier got the "double-cross" in a deal that he expected to get something for nothing.

"Beans?" questioned Deacon Brown.

"Beans," nodded St. Burns, in agreement.

The deacon stroked his white whiskers meditatively and eyed Mr. Burns' ebullient face. Mr. Burns, trader in all things where a dollar was likely to change hands to Mr. Burns' advantage, was known, at times, to have a penchant for practical jokes.

Deacon Brown was a very sedate person and never, knowingly, walked into a situation which would result in his being made to appear ridiculous.

Yet this offer to part with a good horse, over which there had been a dispute as to weight, appeared filled with doubtful proportions.

"You said 'beans,'" mused the deacon, eyeing the plumed beast.

St. Burns' eyes twinkled. "Beans, Deacon," he admitted, "of course you may be able to pick the left of a horse; I ain't sayin' you ain't. You ought to see that eleven sixty and quit right there."

"She won't go a mile over eleven seventy," snapped the deacon, a trifle inclined to resent the insinuation that he could be mistaken.

"You be chubbng, Deacon—eleven seventy?"

"He's gettin' ready ter hedge," chirped little Mr. Betts, who had wandered out from behind the notion counter of his store into the warm sunshine and closer proximity to the argument.

The shrill voice, intended to be a whisper, did not fail to reach Deacon Brown's sharp ears, and he flushed the least bit.

"Eleven sixty," he snapped. "I said it, and I stand by it."

"Then," smiled Mr. Burns, "I callate she'll go more. And I'm so sot on thinkin' I can guess the left of a horse that I'll take beans fur her."

Perplexity filled the watery eyes of the pillar of the church.

"It's a queer way ter sell," he muttered.

"Wall," suggested Mr. Burns, "you ain't obliged to buy."

But the deacon was anxious to buy. As much as he feared traps—and many had been set for him—still he believed he could endure the risk of being made to look ridiculous if he might buy a horse and pay in beans.

"How'd yer put it, St.?" he inquired.

"You say she'll go eleven sixty, if she goes eleven sixty-one you get the mare, and I get one bean."

With the deacon's nod, there came a gasp from the encircling villagers. Mr. Betts looked at Mr. Jones; Mr. Shapling, the hardware man, regarded Mr. Cutler, the fishmonger; others, with dubious headshakes turned, wide-eyed, upon their neighbors.

St. Burns was the last man to be thought of as a fool. But this proposition!

"If she goes better'n sixty-one?" frowned the deacon.

"If she goes eleven sixty-two you get the mare and I get two beans—two pounds better'n you say, and the bean for the first pound doubled."

"Yes," agreed the deacon, growing eager.

"If she goes one pound better still you pay four beans."

"And if she goes sixty-four?"

"Eight beans. Sixteen if she goes sixty-five."

"You ain't trying to sell me no bulker?" demanded the deacon, frowning Mr. Burns suddenly.

"You have tried her," answered Mr. Burns.

The deacon nodded and pondered. Then he thrust his hands deep into his pockets and drew a sigh as his eyes considered the prize, as good as his. "St. Burns," he proposed, "I ain't but wonderin' if you be gone plum daffy, but I'll take yer."

"Yer church says something about being yer brother's keeper," suggested Mr. Burns, the merest smile touching the corners of his eyes.

In solemn convulse the deacon and Mr. Burns, the mare following, the village in attendance, proceeded to the scales.

Mr. Betts officiated, nicely balanced the bar—feeling the importance of the occasion—and the mare was led onto the platform.

"Twelve hundred—jest," announced the owner of the dry goods store.

The deacon's face broadened into one expansive smile. It was not so much of a disgrace to miss by the mere matter of forty pounds when, to offset what little chagrin he might feel, came the ownership of a good horse for a few beans.

"Wall, St.," he chuckled, "you can size 'em up fur her. But I ain't kickin' at yer havin' the better on me that. I'll fetch down yer sixty beans next time I drive in."

"How many?" mused Mr. Burns.

"Sixty?" questioned the deacon.

"One fur the first," mused Mr. Burns, two fur the second, four fur the third, eight fur the fourth. Then sixteen fur the fifth, and thirty-two fur the sixth. Goin' on, as was to be the way sixty-four fur the seventh, one hundred and twenty-eight fur—"

"Oh, wall," broke in the deacon, "I'll make it er bushel, St. and that will be a mile more than's comin' to yer by rights."

"Suppose we see on that," suggested Mr. Burns. "Mr. Betts, can we use yer store for a moment?"

Gladly, Mr. Betts offered accommodations for the settlement of a question which seemed to have great possibilities than any of the at hand crowd fancied.

yer go in and git a quart of beans from Tibbins?"

With the return of the messenger, Mr. Tibbins in his wake, and all of Mr. Tibbins' customers, Mr. Burns dumped the beans upon the counter.

"Count 'em, Betts, and cast out the broken ones," and he went back to his figures.

The deacon, resting one foot and then the other, held silent as long as possible.

"What in facination, St. be you countin' a quart of beans fur? I'll make it two bushels, and I callate then you'll be gettin' more'n you should have comin' ter yer."

"So," mused Mr. Burns, "wall we'll see," and he went on with his growing column of figures.

He was through with his task before the quart of beans was counted and meditatively his cigar turned from corner to corner of his mouth as he watched the files on the screen door.

At last, Mr. Betts drew a sigh. "I ain't sayin' I'm jest right," he admitted, mopping his brow, "but them are in piles of one hundred, and I makes it three thousand, four hundred and sixty-two beans in a quart."

Mr. Burns nodded. "If the deacon ain't objectin'," he suggested, "we'll call it even three thousand and four hundred."

"St. Burns," thundered the deacon, "what has the number of beans in a quart got ter do with this thin'?"

Mr. Burns glanced up from his paper to which he had been adding more figures.

"It means, deacon, that that be one hundred and eight thousand, eight hundred beans in a bushel," he announced.

"Wall, I ain't sayin' that ben't, am I?" snapped the deacon.

"Which bein' the case," went on Mr. Burns cheerily, "it means that you owe me jest about five million bushels of beans fur that mare."

The deacon got his mouth open and his eyes, but no sound escaped from him for a long moment. With him was the audience, a gasp.

"What?" suddenly roared the deacon.

"It was one fur the first, two fur the second, and so on, doublin' each pound," explained Mr. Burns, patiently.

"At twenty pounds it comes to five hundred and four thousand, two hundred and eighty-eight beans, less I've made some slip. Fur the twenty-first pound over eleven sixty it be double that number which—"

"Nothing of the sort," roared the deacon.

Mr. Burns held forth his paper, and the deacon grabbed it.

With the aid of all who could get within sight, Mr. Burns' figures were gone over. Suddenly, the deacon threw the paper on the counter.

"At two fifty a bushel fur beans, Deacon, that that mare stands you jest about twelve million dollars," suggested Mr. Burns.

"You go to—Jim Jockey," thundered the deacon, and went out the screen door, starting every fly on the wire.

"Say, St.," inquired a breathless voice from the door, "what do yer suppose the deacon will do? He left the mare?"

"I callate," mused Mr. Burns, "the deacon will jest as soon pay the figure I sot on her when he first took a fancy to her. Jest if he don't, I callate I'll have ter tie her out thar in the square as his property and so label her."

"Yes," suggested Mr. Betts and Mr. Tibbins in one breath.

"Wall," mused Mr. Burns, "it could be—" and he wrote hastily upon a piece of Mr. Betts' wrapping paper, and held the sheet before him.

"Those who craned their necks read: Deacon Brown's Mare. Sold—for Beans.

Consideration five million bushels based on weight over eleven sixty—particulars from anybody—at market value. Price in cash, twelve million dollars. Sold.

Sculptor's Scale

George Julian Zolanyi says: "While all sorts of scales and measuring systems have been evolved at various times, few, if any, modern sculptors go beyond the proportional measurement by which the height of the human figure is divided into eight parts, taking the head as a unit, or ten parts by taking the face as a unit. Personally I prefer the latter because it applies with accuracy to a large number of fixed points of the body. The length of the upper arm from shoulder to elbow is exactly two face lengths, while another two lengths give the accurate distance from the elbow to the second joint of the fingers, etc."

Stars Made Special Study

The first photographs of stars ever attempted in the United States were made at the Harvard observatory in 1850, and ever since the work has been continued so that now the observatory has a file of thousands of plates which are not duplicated at any other institution. This monumental work lists over 225,000 stars, and gives their brightness, position and spectral type. —New York Times.

Cold Welcome Given to Cargo of Bananas

John S. Mackintosh, who died in Washington recently, was for almost fifty years an exporter in Boston, operating a line of clipper ships. With every ship came some curiosity. One day a ship returned from Central America, and the master showed Mackintosh an elongated yellow fruit that grew in clusters.

Mackintosh regarded it warily; the ship was half-full of such cargo, and his Scotch prudence was aroused. Even after he had eaten one and pronounced it delicious, he was not certain they could be sold.

"What do you call them?" he inquired of the skipper.

"The natives call them bananas," the sailor answered.

Mackintosh put them up for sale, and a few curiosity seekers bought a bunch or so. He bargained their quality and tried to impress upon the Bostonians the deliciousness of the fruit. But the natives called.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

GOING WITH THE MULTITUDE

THERE was a crowd running down the street this morning when I looked out—men and women, boys and girls, young and old rushing along madly as if in pursuit of something.

"What's happened?" I asked a swiftly moving figure as he hurried by.

"I don't know," he replied, "a fire or something, I guess."

In a few minutes they all came back slowly. It had been a false alarm. Some one had seen something, or had thought he heard something, and he had started down the street to investigate. The rest had all followed without knowing why or where. They were going because the rest were.

"For I had gone with the multitude," David said centuries ago. In his case it happened to be a very wise and a very virtuous thing to do, for the multitude which he followed was going to church, and it took him to a respectable and helpful place. In following a crowd it makes all the difference in the world where the crowd is going. Too frequently we ask no questions, we do no thinking for ourselves, we join the crowd running by, we join ourselves to it and try to out-distance the man at the front.

We are all like sheep in following a crowd, in doing just what the other do. It acts both ways. If I go into my garden in the spring and begin to dig about, my neighbor comes out and asks:

"What are you doing?"

I explain, and within an hour he is as busy with his tools as I am. He can't abide my chasing down the street unless he is along. I believe he'd go to church if he were up early enough to see me going.

There was a man hanged not long ago in an adjacent county. A horrible crime had been committed, and some one spread the suspicion that it had been done by this man. All the evidence was circumstantial, but that made no difference. A crowd gathered, and every one went with the multitude. They pointed out the accused man, they paid no attention to his protestations of innocence, they put a rope about his neck and left him brutally mutilated and hanging dead to the hub of a tree. And then shortly afterwards it was proved that he had had nothing to do with the crime—that he was quite innocent. The men who had caused his death had known really nothing about the case. They had simply joined themselves with the multitude.

High School Opens Season With Win--Twilight Loop Race Looks Exciting

CARTERET HIGH TRIMS RAHWAY

Opens Campaign in Chilly Game at Brady's Field, Tuesday, by Trimming Staunch Rivals, 8 to 5—Large Crowd at Game.

HARRIGAN STARS

Pop Pitching Peak and Turns in Midseason Performance by Allowing Losing Batsmen Only Six Bingles in Nine Innings.

An impressive victory over Rahway High, Tuesday afternoon at Brady's Field, marked the opening of the Carteret High School's baseball campaign. A large gathering of student and grown-up fans shivered in the chilly breezes to witness Gerve Harrigan and the rest of the Blue and White combination handle the Rahway performers with ease and send them back home with an 8-5 defeat.

The weather was a little too chilly for baseball and neither outfit showed its best. Harrigan's work did not lack much mid-season form, however, for he turned the Crimson batters back with six hits in nine frames, which is no little feat, especially when Rahway holds a great deal of antipathy for Carteret. Gerve has twirled worse games in summer temperature.

Carteret's biggest frame was the fifth, in which the locals gathered in four runs. Two more rolled over the plate in the sixth and the contest was more than sewed up.

MID-SEASON SLAB DUEL

Jess Sullivan and Patsy Patoenig, in Scoreless Tie Battle Saturday.

Jess Sullivan and Patsy Patoenig engaged in a mid-season form round duel, Saturday afternoon at Brady's field, as Warner Quinlan and the Lincoln fought to a scoreless tie in seven innings.

Sullivan held the Lincoln batsmen to a lone bingle, a single off the bat of Joe Trosko in the final frame. Berkowitz's double and a base hit by McGonagle were the only safeties procured from the delivery of Patoenig by the Warner Quinlan team.

The following took part in the game: Warner Quinlan, McGonagle, Sullivan, Makwinski, Poulson, Balerick, Berkowitz, Pony, Ragan and Frank; Lincoln, Woodhull, Trosko, Patoenig, Kasha, Gerity, Rubel, Galvanik, Viater and Dubrick.

Joyce Wethered, British women's champion, places considerable stress on the left-hand grip. If it comes natural to a player, she says, keep the back of the left hand turned over, showing on top of the club. It keeps the arm straight and increases the tension. It prevents loss of power and accuracy.

But it should not be attempted if it is unnatural or painful. Only she emphasizes that any device which a player can make use of with the intention of increasing the straightness of the left arm and the consequent swinging directly and freely from the left shoulder is invaluable.

It is necessary also that the hands be kept low in the address. This brings the body into the correct position. If the hands are held high the body becomes too upright.

Illinois Girl Is World's Most Versatile Athlete

This is Jessie (Jay) Purves, of Des Plaines, Ill., who has been called the world's most versatile woman athlete, now a student at the University of Illinois. Although only a junior, she has become the most outstanding athlete on the Illinois campus. During her athletic career she has been a member of fourteen championship teams and has captained eight of them. Basketball, baseball, swimming, track, bowling, golf, volleyball, hockey and even crew, she finds time for them all, in addition to being one of the best students at the university. Basketball is "Jay's" forte.

BOXING AT PLAINFIELD

Sporting Club of That City to Run Off 28 Rounds of Boxing.

The Plainfield Sporting Club, of Plainfield, will offer up twenty-eight pounds of boxing Saturday, at its club, with a ten, a six, and three four rounders as its attraction.

In the star bout, Joey Dorando, the Lyndhurst, N. J., junior lightweight who has defeated some of the best boys at his weight in this section, including Gene Johnson, of Elizabeth, who grabbed a duke from Jimmy Goodrich, when the latter was the lightweight champion, will face Clyde Jones, of Wilmington, Ga., for ten rounds at 130 pounds.

Dispute Dorando's hitting ability, the Southerner who is rated as one of the best boys ever turned out from the South, the derbyite will have to travel a fast clip to grab the popular verdict.

In the semi-final bout, Jack Denny of Newark, and Chick Woody, of Elizabeth, will mingle for six rounds at the welterweight limit.

Three four rounders will precede the main event of the show.

Turf Turning to Sports for Names for Horses

The American turf this year reflects as conclusively as anything else the recent popularity of the athlete. It marks a further digression from the time-honored custom of tracing lineage in the naming of thoroughbred horses.

Paavo Nurmi wrote his name into the amateur track annals last year and somewhat the same recognition has been achieved by a four-footed Nurmi in the winter's racing. Winning the New Orleans handicap marked the son of the Plan.

Two-year-old eligibles lists reveal that Grange, undoubtedly named for the Illinois football star, will sport the Baneocas stable colors this spring.

Bobby Jones, a juvenile so named by his New Orleans owner for the Atlanta golfer, echoes the popularity of the Scotch game. Five-year-old Sarazen, whose name has been on many a racing program, is a reminder of the golfing of the famous Gene.

Many Veteran Athletes Still Are Among Stars

The athletes we used to know, a few years back young, ambitious record breakers, are getting to be old men.

That fact is brought to us when we stop to realize that Loren Murchison started winning titles and breaking records 11 years ago. Still he expects to make the Olympic team in 1928.

Joey Ray, Jim Thorpe and many others still in the game are old men as far as physical endurance is concerned.

But somehow we don't stop to think of the years as long as they are active and, furthermore, we expect as much out of them as when they started.

Eleven years is a long time on the track, and Murchison is still running against men who were old when he started and they are still giving him a hot race.

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Next to boxing, the best paying professional sport is baseball.

Jimmy Caveney did not have any difficulties with Seattle in coming to terms.

Prices paid for baseball stars are no longer to be made public. Not even to Uncle Sam?

The Jackson club of the Tri-State League, announces the appointment of Red Reace as manager.

Manager Milm of Memphis has signed Vince Brown, a youthful pitcher from Hot Springs, Ark.

Dumb Dorandya thinks the resin ball, approved by the National League, is an old-time fiddler's dance.

Chattanooga of the Southern League, announces the release of Tommy Morris, second baseman, to the Peoria club of the Three-I League.

Fred Fitzsimmons of the Glants was one of the few National League hurlers whose slants didn't hit an oppos. leg batter all season, though he faced 304.

Two new catchers, Chester Horan of Cambridge, and William Moore of Kansas City, with Al Stokes, last year's squad, have joined the Boston Red Sox.

President Harry A. Williams has indicated that the Pacific Coast league will fight clear of the "cossin-ball" rule. It is a subject for the league directors.

Baseball teams of Stanford University and University of Washington will tour Japan this year and a schedule of games with several colleges has been arranged.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, has issued his annual manifesto, to wit: "Golf and baseball do not mix, but I will mix with any player who plays golf."

Babe Ruth has started an eye-shade fad among the Yankees. The Bambino is wearing a shade a la Helen Wills to protect his peepers from the sun, and has pronounced it a success.

National league rivals say Pittsburgh must strengthen back of the plate. One high-class catcher, they admit, would make the Pirates mighty dangerous for about three years more.

Atlanta of the Southern League has sent Pitcher Frank Dodson, obtained last summer from the Virginia League, to the Shamokin club of the New York-Pennsylvania League, on option.

Great things are expected of Emmet Dean by followers of the New York University baseball team this season. Dean is a southpaw. He has a fine assortment of curves, plenty of speed and, unlike many left-handers, boasts control.

TALENT INCURS LEGION COMEDY

"Milk White Flag" Will Have Players of Real Ability Due to Requirements of Ownership
Board—Show Next Tuesday.

SHOULD BE GOOD

Cast Has Been Working Hard
With Manager R. E. Brady—Sale of Tickets Heavy, According to Reports Received.

Prominently in the foreground of the several amusements slated for the coming week stands Charles H.
Hoyt's Broadway comedy "A Milk White Flag," which will be staged by the Roosevelt Post of the American Legion at the High School auditorium
Tuesday evening.

Theatre goers may be pleased and theatre goers dissatisfied with changing plans and positions, but they can be assured of at least one bright performance full of humor, life and laughter.

Seldom is a play of this character attempted by amateur producers because of the expense and labor involved, nor are the New York managers anxious to entrust these plays to inexperienced hands, as they claim, they suffer, and not without reason, loss of professional monetary value from inferior performances.
In fact, it was only by posting a cash bond covering a written agreement, that none but an experienced professional director would be used, did Sanger and Jordan, owners of a "Milk White Flag" consent to its presentation by Post No. 263. Having already established a carefully planned course of amateur theatricals covering a period of years, director Ralph E. Brady felt no hesitancy in meeting Sanger and Jordan's terms.

This Broadway comedy is not of the slap-stick variety commonly known but is a keen satire of military inefficiency and present day conditions.

"A Milk White Flag" which is to be presented on Tuesday, April 27, promises to be the hit of the season.
It is the most ambitious performance that has been attempted recently in this vicinity.

The program offers the services of Mary McCrelis, Neil Reardon, Marion Talley, Jolly Van Cleef and his Brunswick Ramblers, The Garden City Drum Corp., a singing and dancing chorus, an acting cast of twelve experienced people and a two hour dance. The cast includes a chorus of young ladies full of pep, and enthusiasm, or orchestra which is to appear on the stage as an essential part of the program, and a unit of drummer boys who all help to make this the most sparkling and brilliant comedy of the season. Those who attend this performance will have the opportunity of seeing Mary Mc-Crelis and Marion Talley in dancing and singing numbers which will undoubtedly prove a huge success. J.
Ford Flagg, August Smalley and Franklin M. Ritchie have worked out some clever bits of humor. These men have been selected for the cast by reason of their previous experience and the high calibre of their acting.

The play is built around the rivalries of two military organizations.
The "Ransome Guards," who are portrayed in this comedy, consist of officers and the reason as given by Russell Howell, who plays the part of Captain Meyers, are guaranteed to throw any audience in convulsions of laughter.

St. Joseph's Mission Conducted This Week

The Holy Mission at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church closes this coming Sunday afternoon with final ceremonies and instruction.
The mission is being conducted by the Oblate Fathers of Lowell, Mass., and this is the second week of its endurance. The first week was selected for the women of the parish and of other faiths, while at present the men are instructed and go to mass. Services this week are as follows: Two masses in the mornings beginning at 5:30 and 6:30 respectively and evening devotion and instruction beginning at 7:30 only. One of the few features of the mission is that men of the parish endeavor to receive Holy Communion daily. The fact that many men of various faiths other than Catholic attend the present mission is striking.

High School Students Make Very Commendable Scholastic Showing

The month of May will find the Carteret High School students busily engaged in numerous school activities. Not the least of these are the plays which will be presented.

The Senior play, "The Lion and the Moose," will be staged May 4, instead of April 16, as was originally planned. Rehearsals have been going on for some time, and the play has now begun to assume the appearance of a finished performance. The present Senior Class is particularly talented in dramatics, as was displayed in the two former plays which they have given, "Daddy Long-Legs" and "Kathleen." This talent, combined with enthusiasm and hard work, is sure to make this year's play bigger and better than ever.

The members of the Junior Class also begin work on their theatrical offering. This presentation will be in the nature of a musical comedy, and promises to be a huge success.
May 20 and 21 are the dates which have been set.

The Athletic Association has decided to give a moving picture benefit to raise funds. The picture, "The Keeper of the Bees," is a very entertaining one, and will insure an enjoyable evening for all. May 11 is the date which has been chosen for the benefit.

The students of Carteret High School have been making great progress along scholastic lines, as evidenced by the number of "Honor Students" for the last month. In the following list the students of the "Honor" group have attained a mark of ninety or above in all major subjects; those in the "Honorable Mention" group have attained a mark of eighty or above in all major subjects.

Class of 1926 Leaves Tomorrow for Brief Sojourn in Washington

Saturday morning, April 24, will mark the culmination of the fond hopes and dreams of four years, for on that morning the Senior Class of the Carteret High School will start on the trip to Washington. The entire class, under the tutelage of the Misses Scott, Roach and McCarthy, will make the trip.

The party will first journey to Philadelphia where they will stop for a few hours and visit the city.
As Philadelphia is so rich in places of historical interest, the visit will doubtless prove very entertaining and instructive.

After lunch the sightseers will again clamber aboard a train, and will soon be speeding southward toward the national Capital. Arrived there, they will go direct to the Hotel Driscoll, which will constitute headquarters for the five days' stay in Washington.

An exceedingly interesting program has been arranged for the class.
Saturday afternoon they will visit the Congressional Library, one of the most beautiful libraries in the world.
On Sunday they will make a sightseeing tour to view the principal public buildings, the homes of prominent people, foreign embassies, places of historical interest, and Arlington. Brief stops will be made at the Lee Mansion, the Amphitheatre, the Lincoln Memorial, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Monday afternoon will find the party visiting the interior of the Capitol, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the White House, Pan-American Union, and the Old and New National Museums. On Tuesday the Corcoran Art Gallery or the Washington Monument will be visited, and a trip to Mt. Vernon made. The return trip from Mt. Vernon will be made by boat down the Potomac River, a very enjoyable ride. Lastly, at eight-thirty o'clock on Wednesday morning the visitors will bid farewell to Washington and start on their homeward journey, bursting with news to tell the folks at home.

Beyond the shadow of a doubt, the Seniors will have a perfectly wonderful time on their Washington trip.
And, if hearty wishes for a happy visit can add to their pleasure, they will enjoy themselves immensely, for every one wishes the Seniors the "time of their lives."

SEWER PROJECT FINALLY AGREED

Ordinance For Construction Is Passed By Borough Council On Third and Final Readings at Second April Session Monday.

MONEY DISCUSSED

Additional Appropriation Not Made Although It Is Felt That Work May Have to Be Stopped
When Nearly Complete.

The ordinance in regard to the construction of a trunk sewer over Noe's Creek was passed on third and final readings by the Borough Council at its regular semi-monthly meeting in the Memorial Municipal Building Monday night. No objections detrimental to the passage of the ordinance were heard. Work will begin very shortly if no impediments appear.

An appropriation of $225,000, made by the people at the last general election, was named in the ordinance. This amount, it is said by authorities, may not be sufficient to enable complete construction, although a possibility is assured. Oliver
F. Mitchell, borough engineer, stated at the meeting previous to that of Monday night that he believed the appropriated amount would have to be augmented with at least $25,000 to assure completeness.

A discussion was held in concern of the additional amount, but it was agreed by the council that the appropriation made by the voters stand, and if more be needed another appropriation may be made by the people.
It was said that much time and money will be lost if the project be delayed due to the lack of capital when nearly completed. The point that the people's voice is necessary in connection with additional appropriation held sway and the council decided that conditions must remain as they are at present regardless of how the matter of money turns out.

To Investigate Plans

Engineer Mitchell will submit concrete plans to the State Board of Health for investigation, after which bids for the work will be had.

The Hermann Realty Company petitioned the council to vacate Jackson avenue, Oyster Creek street and Avenue B so that proper development of the place situated about these streets may be carried on. Jackson avenue is the first street on the east side of the Public Service trolley tracks.

Mayor Mulvihill stated that the proposition was one of considerable importance and that thorough investigation is necessary. Borough Attorney Emil Stremlau said that the streets referred to are merely paper streets and are never put into use.
Engineer Mitchell also said the same.

Draw Up Ordinance

The petition was received and filed. An ordinance in regard to the vacation of these streets was drawn up and passed on first and second readings.

At the suggestion of Councilman
Frank Andres the attorney and engineer were directed to arrange for ordinances for curbs and sidewalks on Harris street.

J. J. Mullan was granted permission to erect three gasoline tanks on Roosevelt avenue.

The engineer was authorized to establish a grade on Longfellow street in accordance with a request made by Councilman Andres. Residents of Passaic street requested for ashes, Chrome avenue citizens complained of the odor coming from stagnant waters there. These matters were referred to the street and road committee. A petition to be allowed to sell gas and oil on Washington avenue was filed by the Carteret Battery Company and referred to the streets and roads committee.

Legion Invites Council

Roosevelt Post No. 263, American

invitation was extended to them to take part in the parade. On motion of Councilman Ellis the council will attend in a body.

A total of $805 in fines were collected during the month of March, according to a report submitted by Borough Recorder Nathaniel A. Jacoby.

Reporting under finance, Councilman Ellis said that the audit will be ready shortly. He also urged a special meeting to discuss some important matters.

Councilman Andres again suggested that the council hold a special meeting and decide what streets are to be improved this year. There is approximately $25,000 available for this work. Mayor Mulvihill believed that the borough will not be able to improve more than two or three small streets with this appropriation.

Grade Crossing Again

H. Hanson appeared in quest of opening Fitch street to Lafayette street. In the course of discussion it was said that the borough has no funds available for this matter at this time, unless a bond issue is raised.

Street Commissioner Walling reported that the water reservoir of the Middlesex Water Company at the crossing plant was overflowing, causing to wash away sidewalks on Edwin street. The clerk was directed to write to the water company.

Mr. Walling also reported that the Perth Amboy Gas Light Company has torn up a number of streets during the past two years and failed to put them back in proper shape. The clerk was directed to write to the gas company to make immediate repairs.

Among the NOTABLES

MAXIMILIAN II

MAXIMILIAN II, Roman emperor, was born in Vienna on August 1—some authorities claim it is the 31st of July, however—1527. The two facts that stand out rather clearly after reading a history of his life, are that he very nearly upset all traditions by starting to turn Lutheran instead of keeping in the faith of the Catholic church; and that he had nine sons and six daughters by his wife Maria!

In those days, kings divided up countries as though they were privately owned estates—especially German and Austrian kings. So it was, that, on his deathbed, Ferdinand I divided among his three sons the inheritance of the German Hapsburgs.

Maximilian II was given Austria. But, at that time, Austria was in a very humiliating position as a tributary to Turkey, and much of the reign was taken up trying to get free of this. On the whole, Maximilian II seems to have been rather a good sort. His policy was not brilliant, but was rather liberal. He had decided leanings toward Lutheranism, of which he had learned something when a very young man in Spain, and granted a good deal of freedom to Protestant princes. But when it came to an issue as to whether he should announce himself a good Catholic or give up his right to the throne of Austria—with Hungary and Bohemia included—he cheerfully took the oath to support the church. Still, when he was dying in 1576, he refused the last sacraments from the priests.

THREE KEYS

THIS charm is highly recommended for young women who are anxious to know whether that young man who has been phandering about so long is going to propose or not. Buy three small keys: tie them together with a small cake of dough upon which you have scratched the initials of the young man's name and place the bundle under your pillow when you go to bed at night. If the youth is destined to be your future husband he will appear to you in your dreams—otherwise not. Here we have the syncretistic magic of the key, and also the magic of names—nomancy as it is called—which was such a favorite with the ancients, especially the Romans.

The key, of course, locks things. When the Bulgarian peasants want to keep the plague out of a village they go out with a lock and key and perform the operation of locking upon all sides of the settlement. This, by sympathetic magic, locks out the pestilence. The maiden's three keys are for locking to her the affections of her lover, the said lover being represented by the initials of his name which she has inscribed in the cake of dough.

For primitive man considered, and peoples living in a primitive state still consider, and the civilized Romans considered, that a man and his name were so strongly affiliated as to be practically one. In choosing three keys we see a hint of the magic of numbers—arithmancy. The selection of a cake of dough upon which to inscribe the lover's initials brings in something else—an invocation to the consort which our barbarian ancestors of northern Europe worshipped.

Now in the night spirits and "external souls" of living people—the "astral bodies" of the ancients—are more loosely attached to their corporal bodies than during the day. Sleep, the primitive man thought, released them; and so, if the maiden and her lover are to wed the initials, the name, of the maiden the initials, the name, of the lover and he appears to her in her dreams. All good primitive magic, thousands of years old, as firmly believed in today by its votaries as it was in the dawn of history—as efficacious.

Buick shares its price with many motor cars -but its Value with none

Because of the great number of Buicks bought each year, and because every dollar of the savings of great volume goes back into Buick value, Buick's moderate price buys quality. Buick can, and does build its cars the way all motor car engineers would like to build theirs, if their volume or selling price permitted. Buick is selling more cars today than ever before in Buick history. The public wants finer transportation at lower cost. And in Buick they get it.

Preventing Illiteracy a Good Plan

CARTERET boys and girls, like young people everywhere, frequently find school attendance a hardship.

In some cases, it is feared, their failure to attend school is encouraged by unthinking parents, who regard the present need of their services as more important than the future of the child.

This combination of youthful dislike of school restraints and a too easy compliance by parents with the request of children to remain at home, increases the difficulties of the teachers and truant officer. This is neither fair for the child or the teachers, whose duty it is to see that children are regular in school attendance.

To listen to the excuses offered by the pupils when asked to explain their absence from school, one would be inclined to sympathize with them for many times their excuses seem valid.

One boy, perhaps remains at home because his mother was ill and needed him. Some bright eyed little girl, perchance, excused her absence from the "halls of learning" by explaining that she had household duties to perform and that she had to mind her little brother.

These excuses seem perfectly valid as far as they go—but there is another side to the question.

If the children of any community are allowed to grow up in ignorance, they will not be the only sufferers. The city or town in which they live will be poorer because of an increase in illiteracy and juvenile offenders and perhaps later develop into hardened criminals, as Judge Jacoby has mentioned about the juvenile offenders brought before him.

It is right here that the truant officer steps in with what appears to some parents to be an iron hand, although most of the times it is covered with "velvet," and he declares that the children must attend school and that ordinary excuses for failure so to do will prove unavailing.

Were the teachers and truant officer to be lax in enforcing compulsory school attendance, they themselves would be responsible for the very condition of illiteracy and juvenile offences they seek to prevent.

While we may not envy the truant officer his "job," right thinking citizens with aid of the members of the Carteret Lions Club will lend their moral support in insisting that boys and girls of Carteret "must" go to school thereby building the foundation for a future citizenship that Carteret will be proud of.

One Good Turn Deserves Another

THE Public Service Corporation has steadily been gaining ground in the past few years in the way of creating a better feeling on the part of the public towards it and its endeavors. This appears very largely due to the fact that there had been a determination on the part of someone in control of policies to aim to bring about just such a condition. This is probably due to no little extent to the work of its public relations department.

Prior to such change of attitude there was probably no utility in the country that was more generally disliked and whose motives were more often suspected. Happily for the State of New Jersey, through which its properties extend, as well as for the company itself, the situation has been bettered.

However, the better relations with the public in this general section are apt to receive a setback due to the attitude of Mr. Frank Bergen, as President of the Middlesex Water company, who, for many years has been one of the chief counsels for the Public Service Corporation as well as treasurer of the Public Service Corporation. It is hard for the public to dis-associate Mr. Bergen from the Public Service Corporation.

He has gone out of his way to bitterly assail the municipalities, the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and the consumers in the general territory. The feeling will not down in the territory that his company, the Middlesex Water Company, never has dealt fairly with the public. Furthermore, they rather believe that his policy is "the public be damned." A comparatively short time ago the Middlesex Water Company got an increase in rate. Since then they have again jumped the rate from 70 to 80 per cent. The result is that the territory served by the Middlesex Water Company is paying twice as much as one of the other companies charges that Mr. Bergen is president of, namely, the Plainfield-Union Company. This means the people of Plainfield, Cranford, and other towns served by the Plainfield-Union Company are able to buy water for 50 per cent less than they are at Carteret, Woodbridge and Metuchen. Mr. Bergen put these rates into effect despite the fact that the expert hired by his company, the former city engineer of New York, said that a schedule with rates 42 per cent lower would yield all the income the company needed.

How can the Public Service expect the people to meet it half way on such things as the paving bill, if one of its chief employees is spending most of his time bitterly assailing everyone who represents the people?

Many Believe King Charles Escaped Ax

On the 17th hundred and seventy-sixth anniversary of the death of King Charles I, the English monarch who lost his head in a literal sense, a crowd of good souls with a detective sense of "dodges" at the Manchester Guardian took it upon themselves to find out the truth of the matter in Charing Cross, London. The English monarch who was killed in 1649, it is said, was not the king's real head, but a substitute. The king's real head was a little girl's head, so that personal attention may be given the forces, will be the subject of great interest. Their growth and blossoming will be watched with great care. Different kinds of flowers can be grown in turn, and the little inside garden may be effective, as well as beautiful.

Romance, Inc.

A recent wedding assembled good sitting on the part of the brides family. Not that they were anxious to part with the daughter—but all, for they recognized that conditions were right, for the prospective bridegroom was very desirable—so they used, although they knew it not, a subtle, but effective, sublimity. The bridegroom was not yet twelve that the cracking wood from her father's "tree" in the fireplace, and the children dinners another provided were not a sign of a successful campaign to "make" the world "Western Advertising."

Flower Garden for Child

Nothing is more charming in a room than flowers, which every child loves. A window box, placed low enough to a little girl's reach, so that personal attention may be given the forces, will be the subject of great interest. Their growth and blossoming will be watched with great care. Different kinds of flowers can be grown in turn, and the little inside garden may be effective, as well as beautiful.

Form Your Own Idea of "Outstanding" Man

Somebody signing his name "Me" writes: "I frequently see the phrase 'an outstanding man.' So I went to Webster and found that 'outstanding' meant 'uncollected' (as of a debt). Now, uncollected means not received, and if a man is not received, he is unaccepted. So an outstanding man is an unaccepted man. Is that right?"

No. You have got sidetracked somewhere, the Cleveland Plain Dealer points out. Uncollected means scattered, dispersed. Dispersed means diverged, a divergence is a variation, variation is dissimilarity. A man who is not similar to other men is either superior or inferior. But his dissimilarity is marked only when he is superior—that is, when he stands out above the rest. Therefore, an outstanding man. Thus we come full-circle.

But an outstanding man is an egotistical man (Latin, "e," out of; and "grex," a herd—one who stands out from the common herd). Anything that is egotistical is eccentric, and therefore absurd. The absurd is despised and looked down upon; the despicable is small and insignificant. You can hardly notice what is significant. Therefore, an outstanding man is a nonentity.

You can prove anything by the dictionary.

STRANGE "GHOST" PLAYS PRANKS ON BADGER FAMILY

Removes Barn Doors, Cuts Electric Wires and Poisons Cattle Food.

Juneau, Wis.—Stories of a strange "ghost" that haunts the farm of their neighbor, R. M. Uecker, are being circulated by the residents of Juneau, in Dodge county, Wis. The "ghost" is declared to have destroyed property and to have demanded that it be paid $50,000, under threat of burning the farmhouse. Mr. and Mrs. Uecker and their sons declare that since March, 1925, the "ghost" has been pestering them.

Some of the pranks credited to the "ghost" include the removing of barn doors, cutting of electric wires, bobbing the tails of cattle, destroying farm machinery, mixing poison with cattle feed, freezing of gasoline, and some 30 threatening letters.

Strangest Prank.

The letters, it is said, show that the sender is acquainted with the most intimate conversation that takes place among members of the family. The case because of the threatening letters. No member of the family, however, is able to give a reason for the persecution. The Ueckers have hired a spirit medium to cast a counter spell over the farm, but thus far this effort has failed to chase away the mysterious "ghost."

Apple Pie Induces Negro to Admit Church Thefts

Philadelphia.—The proverbial hunger of the church mouse was demonstrated here when Samuel "Church Mouse" Clark, thirty-year-old negro, was induced to admit, for an apple pie, that he had robbed fifty churches in this city. A search of the man's room revealed $5,000 worth of silver and Bibles.

The pie episode came at the end of a long day of grilling by police. Clark had given several addresses which proved fictitious. He was asked if he was hungry, and upon his reply in the affirmative a police captain sent out for an apple pie.

"All of this is yours, provided you tell me the truth," said the policeman.

"I'll tell you anything," replied the prisoner, and between bites he related how he had entered the churches and obtained the loot.

most strange prank of the "ghost," however, is said to be the cutting in two of a cane with which a member of the family was walking on the farm. Authorities investigating the

Experienced Men Rely on First Impressions

The banker learns soon that your face usually tells more than is told by your lips or your written statement, and this is something that you may very well remember. Your first impression, if it is one of suspicion, is usually correct. I doubt if any experienced teller will ever cash a check for a stranger, no matter how well introduced, if this first glance at the man telegraphs to his brain "Look out! Be careful!" If he does, he usually regrets it.

I believe that when two persons meet for the first time eye telegraphs to eye. For one instant, and perhaps for one instant only, eye tells eye the truth, the hidden truth, and the absolute truth; then the lying begins, if any. This is, I believe, an animal instinct purely, but always dependable. —Elits Parker Butler, in Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

Revenged

A busy housewife came into the sitting room, a determined look in her eyes.

"I shall have to punish those children," she began.

"What have the little beggars been up to now?" asked father, looking up from his newspaper.

"Why, they've made a mess of my sewing room," explained his wife. "Needles, reels of cotton, scissors—everything had been hidden away in the most unexpected places. It's exasperating."

Her husband laid down his paper and smiled.

"I did that," he said calmly. "You tidied up my desk so beautifully the other day that I thought it only fair to return the compliment. So I tidied up your sewing-room."

The Commander

It was early in the morning. He flung open the massive portals, sweeping the interior with a piercing glance. Ten men sprang to their places and came to a swift attention, before his severe scrutiny. There was a tense silence—no word was uttered. He calmly passed down the row of uniformed men standing at attention.

Then, with a sudden energy, he flung off his hat, threw off his coat, and cast off his collar. He swung around, he faced the waiting line. His face was dark, and his glance was keen and stern. He picked his man. He advanced with a firm but cautious tread. He stopped two feet away. In a low voice, full of meaning, he said: "I want a shave and a haircut."—Michigan Gargoyle.

Old English Game

Barley Break, a game once common in England, was played by three couples of young people, the pairing being determined by lot. A piece of ground was divided into three sections, the central being called "hell." This was assigned to one of the couples. The couples who occupied the other places then approached as near as they dared to the central space, tempting the condemned couple to capture them. The couple in hell must not overstep the boundaries and they must keep each one hand locked in one of the partner's. When one of the outside couples was captured, it took the place in the central space.

Teacher—Where are your sums? Willie—Why—er—teacher, coming to school I was attacked by a big tiger. The tiger and I went round and round, and a big crowd gathered to cheer us on. I guess the tiger was after some peppermint candy I had in my trousers pocket. But what I was going to say, dear teacher, is that in the scuffle my sums were wiped out.

"Lucky" Left Hands

Superstition has it that left-handed persons are lucky. A medical man has just emphasized that the left-handed child who is allowed to develop naturally is at any rate luckier than the child forced against inclination to use the right hand, for he states that such forcing has frequently resulted in nervous disorders.

Genius Is Humanity

Great artists are said to reveal us to ourselves. But how could this be possible, unless there were identity of nature between their imagination and ours, and unless the difference were only one of quantity. It were better to change "poeta nascitur" into "homo nascitur poeta"; some men are born great poets, some small. The cult of the genius with all its attendant superstitions has arisen from this quantitative difference having been taken as a difference of quality. It has been forgotten that genius is not something that has fallen from heaven, but humanity itself.—Croce.

Books Reveal Character

The first thing naturally when one enters a scholar's library is to look at his books. One gets a notion very speedily of his tastes and the ranges of his pursuits by a glance round his bookshelves.—Holmes.

"The Fire Brigade" To Be Presented Here

Musical Comedy-Drama to Be Presented for St. Joseph's Church May 13 and 14.

A musical comedy drama entitled "The Fire Brigade," will be presented in St. Joseph's Auditorium on May 13 and 14, under the management and direction of Capt. Harry DeLong of New York City, assisted by Carteret's best local talent, and promises an evening's entertainment of real merit. This same production was presented in Carteret and Chrome about ten years ago, under the auspices of Roosevelt Hook and Ladder Company and scored a great hit. "The Fire Brigade" is a harmonious blending of music, comedy and thrills, a very realistic fire scene occurs during the action of the play, with heroic rescues and comedy stunts, with firemen and special scenic fire effects in action on the stage, and will alone be well worth the price of admission. Various committees have been appointed to work in conjunction with Capt. DeLong in promoting the play and in securing the necessary local talent, as rehearsals are to begin at once.

TO ISSUE $40,000,000 STOCK

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. Make Application for Issue.

Application has been made to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners by Public Service Electric and Gas Company for approval of an issue of $40,000,000 of stock, the money to be applied to carrying out the extensive program of construction and extensions and betterments of equipment in the New Jersey field served by the company with electricity and gas.

Of this amount it is proposed that 2,500,000 shares of common stock, of no par value, be issued at $10 a share, and 150,000 shares of six per cent cumulative preferred stock at par of $100.

The $40,000,000 will cover about $22,000,000 already expended in 1925 and the balance of $18,000,000 will be applied to the construction budget of 1926 which involves a total of more than $50,000,000.

There are more than 500 items covering fifteen typewritten pages enumerating the projects under way or to be done in the fulfillment of the program of construction.

Unique Etching

A curious parchment is to be found in the library of St. John's college, Oxford. This is a black-and-white etching of the head of Charles II, all the lines consisting of minutely-written characters. At a casual glance the picture seems ordinary enough, but on closer inspection it is discovered that the artist's pencil lines not only contain the characters mentioned, but that these are arranged to represent the Lord's Prayer, the Apostles' Creed, and the entire Book of Psalms.

Hessians in America

Of the 29,867 Hessians that came to America during the Revolutionary war only 17,813 returned to Germany. Of these remaining, 548 were killed, and some of the 1,852 wounded died. Some also disappeared, but a great number are known to have remained and settled; grants were given them in Nova Scotia, but many scattered to different parts of the country.

THE LAST CARTRIDGE

By WILLIAM G. BEYMER

(C) by Short Story Pub. Co.)

THE first man who built a shack beside the Santa Fe siding at that spot of desert where the sun's rays seemed to focus, and which was later to become the cowtown of Coro, found, after two weeks' residence, that his claim could never be that of oldest inhabitant. In an idle moment of curiosity he rode up a faintly marked trail, which wandered aimlessly along the side of a small canyon into the low foothills three or four miles from his shack, and there he received the surprise of his life. Rounding a sudden turn, he rode at one step out of the sterility of the sage and sand and blistering rock, into a basin-shaped valley not a stone's throw in diameter. A very old, weather-beaten corral and a shack, white-washed and, wonder of wonders, covered by morning-glory vines; a bubbling spring, fringed by lush grass and carefully girdled by a barbed-wire fence, against which leaned a tall, slender, brown-haired girl who stared at him in silence—all these he saw at one sweeping, comprehensive glance. The door of the shack opened and a shaggy old man stepped, blinking, into the glare of sunlight. He carried a Winchester over his arm. The girl, without speaking, crossed lithely the intervening space and stood beside him. There was such an air of hostility about the two that the nearly oldest inhabitant was rendered speechless.

"Well?" rumbled the old man. "Afternoon, neighbor," pacifically said the man from the siding. There was a pause. "I got a shanty, yonder, by the siding—I jes' rode over—I didn't know anyone was livin' here," the man from the siding made an uncomfortable job explaining. The girl said never a word.

"Ef I've got a shack by the siding I reckon y' can't be in need o' nothin'," the old man spoke slowly. "Mebbe y'd better get offen my land and ride back where y' come from."

Had he been less taken aback, the man who had "jes' rode over" would have resented the other's attitude but, in a daze, he put on his sombrero, turned his horse, and loped down the trail—and out of this story.

The town of Coro sprang up as cowtowns will. When five shacks faced the siding, a saloon came, and there followed all the adjuncts and appurtenances of a haphazardly built cattle depot. Men there were who lived in the shacks, caroused and fought; but there were no women; hence the burning interest for the "gal up the canyon." Twice a month Old Connaugh rode into town for supplies and, as morosely, rode out again. New arrivals appeared. When two men had been shot at and narrowly missed, it was not considered healthy to "snoop around the morning-glories."

A notable exception was young Billy Deane, but lately from the Brazos. He said little, but listened; and after the manner of silent men it was his to win. As to the incident of their meeting and the ripening of the acquaintance into love, no one ever knew. A Circle-O man had come unexpectedly upon the two, riding blithely along in the early twilight and, unseen himself, had slipped away. His news spread like wild fire. When the unsuspecting lover showed up an hour later he was greeted by a sudden roar of congratulations and queries. For a second he stood aghast, then deftly whipped out a long-barreled Colt, and, lolling back, drawled: "Ef any gent wants to discuss my pus'nal business—"

There was an instant's silence. Smith, the spokesman, saved the situation. He made a broad, inclusive gesture and the roomful, as one man, stepped to the bar. When cigars were passed, each man bowed solemnly to the flushed youngster, then turning, faced the foothills. So delicate a compliment could not be resented by the most fastidious.

The progress of the courtship could only be speculated upon, until one Sunday, about a month later. The afternoon was stifling, oppressive; the dozen men who hunched in the chairs tilted against the wall, were listless and inert. Outside, there was not a breath of air, but in the south gray, wind-ribbed clouds stole up over the horizon and seemed linked to earth by a pallid haze which grew in height as it drew swiftly nearer.

Deane entered and noiselessly crossed the room. When he reached the bar he turned and faced the row against the wall.

"There's a preacher chap in from the Fort," he said. Then all in one breath, "he's goin' to hold a meeting in Carley's place, an' after the meetin' I'm goin' to be married. She's read about these here big church weddings an' she says she allus wanted one o' them kind, and this is 's near 's we kin come to it. You boys is invited."

Then, as his words were slowly comprehended, the row of tilted chairs came down with a crash and there was a joyous scramble to reach him. Outside, the sand storm had come, and it beat against the window panes, but no one noticed it. No one noticed the puff of dust that swirled in as the door opened. No one noticed the old man, specter like in his leopards-white powdering of alkali. Young Deane, above the hubbub, was unnecessarily explaining: "I'm goin' to marry the girl up the canyon—Miss Corinne Connaugh."

"Say that again, young feller!" In the lurch the answer jerked out: "I'm—goin'—to—marry—your—daughter." A shot finished the sentence.

A moment after, it would have seemed that what had happened could never have occurred were it not for the huddled figure on the floor and the open door through which came clouds of dust.

Out in the enveloping, obliterating storm, his bridle flying, his arms vainly shielding his low-bent face, rode an old man, shouting at the stinging sand: "She's all I have—all I have—"

have." The hoarse voice scarcely rose above a whisper in the gray night or flying sand, but he still cried his justification: "All—all I have!"—again and again till the blinded pony staggered into the sheltering hills.

The cabin, as he entered, struck an unfamiliar note of emptiness. "Corinne!" he called fearfully. After the unavailing search he stood still in the center of the room, staring dumbly before him. She would come back to her old dad, surely, yes, surely. Wasn't he all she had—now? His eyes gleamed malignantly. She would come! If not? Then he would go back to town; but he must wait until dark, to go now meant death. Another thought struck him, and he snapped open the breach of his revolver, drew out four discharged shells and tossed them away; then he felt in the pocket of his coat first on one side then on the other. His bewildered expression gave place to a look of abject terror. "I went to town fer cartridges an' I didn't git 'em. Now I got only two. Two!" he groaned. "If they should come before dark? But they won't come, they won't come!" he reiterated over and over again.

The only window of the room was heavily shuttered. He dragged the table over against the door, then flung himself down in the corner in the gloom, and waited—waited. The hot afternoon ground itself away with pitiless emphasis of time. A knot-hole, low on the western wall, let a bar of sunlight into the murky room and it fell in a brilliant splotch of gold on the grim floor. The old man eyed it morosely until he noticed that it moved. After that he watched it eagerly, glancing, as the bar lengthened inch by inch and the deck of gold slowly crossed the floor. He crawled about until he found two of the empty shells that he had tossed away; then he put one of them squarely in the center of the circle of light, the other a few inches in advance. Gradually the light left the one shell in shadow, crept the distance between, and as it glittered on the brass of the other, the old man grinned. Then he moved the rear shell ahead. So the day waned.

The circle of light had crossed the floor and was traveling up the eastern wall. The man watched it exultantly. "An hour more! Only an hour!" he whispered. The bar was now horizontal, six inches above the floor; then it paled, flickered, and went out. He gave a gasp of relief. Outside, the sun was dipping below the horizon. The dusk deepened swiftly. He crossed the room and began to drag the table from the door. Suddenly he paused and listened intently. Then a look of utter hopelessness came into the haggard face. "Oh, God, y' might ha' given me ten little minutes more!" he whined. Nearer, nearer came the galloping hoofs, and a score of riders swept up.

"All right, Connaugh!" a dozen voices called. "It's all right!"

A gleam of wolfish cunning crossed the old man's face. "They don't fool me," he sneered, and as a hand fumbled with the latch, he fired through the door, breast high.

"Oh, dad!"

He tore away the table and flung open the door. At his feet knelt Deane with the girl's body in his arms.

"She is dead," he said.

Behind him stood the semi-circle of men, for once too horrified to act.

Deane stood up. "My wife goes home to my cabin. Help me, boys. Him!"—in answer to the rising mutterings—"We leave him to his thoughts!"

High in the hills above the silent, lonely valley a wolf howled in the dark. From the black open doorway of the cabin came a soft scuffling sound as of some one on hands and knees groping upon the floor. Then the voice of an old, old man:

"One cartridge is all I have left—just all!"

Card-Playing Ancient

The origin of playing-cards is uncertain, although it is probable they appeared in Europe about 1350. It is claimed, however, that they were introduced into Europe by way of Spain, having been brought from the Near East by Arabs or Saracens. The earliest known mention of European cards occurs in 1339, at which time an entry was made in the treasury books of France of "fifty sols of France paid to Jacquemin Gringonneur for three packs of cards for the amusement of the king" (Charles VI), who had lost his reason. Early in the fifteenth century, the use of playing-cards spread all over Europe. A duty was first placed on them in England in 1615.—Exchange.

Tadpole Growth

When hatched the tadpole has no limbs and even the tail is absent or very small. It is, however, provided with discs with which it attaches itself to the egg mass or a water plant. It has no mouth, eyes, nostrils or gills, still being nourished by the yolk within its body. This is particularly true of the spring frog which spends its first winter as a tadpole, becoming a full-sized frog when about a year old. Then it is only half grown and it may require another year for it to become three to four inches long.

Carried Bullet Near Heart Seven Years

Red Wing, Minn.—A copper-jacketed lead bullet an inch long has been removed from near the heart of Ben Zerk, World war veteran, after he had carried it for seven years.

Zerk was hit in the neck by a German bullet at Soissons July 18, 1918. Physicians at that time concluded the bullet had struck him a glancing blow and had not entered the body.

A year ago he was troubled with a severe pain below the heart, where a small boil appeared to have formed. He reported to the government hospital recently and doctors removed the bullet perilously near his heart, where it had entered from his neck.

Advocates More Use of Flowers as Food

To suggest that we add flowers to our daily menu would to many people seem like foolishness. But a famous French food authority expresses surprise that we do not make more use of flowers in this way. He reminds us that we eat cauliflowers, artichokes, and brussels sprouts, all of which comes under this heading.

In China flowers often figure on the table as part of a meal. One of the national dishes is a soup made of the day lily, over 4,000 tons of the blooms being used for this purpose every year.

A chrysanthemum salad is one of Japan's most highly favored dishes. The flowers are carefully washed and served in the way that we serve lettuce or watercress.

In some eastern countries the petals of the yellow water-lily are used as frequently for dessert as apples and oranges in this country.

Coming to Earth

It is acknowledged by aviators that the most difficult part of a trip begins when one is nearing one's destination.

In handling a machine certain rules have to be observed. The pilot must first circle once round the aerodrome; then he must shoot off a green light which, in effect, asks, "Is it safe to me to land?" If a similar green light is sent up from the aerodrome, he may land; if, however, a red one is shown, it means that there are other machines on the ground, or for some other reason it is not safe to come down. He must then circle round until a green signal is given him.

On the grounds of the Croydon (Eng.) air port there are gas flares that mark the boundaries of the landing spaces. These flares shine intermittently and one fuel supply keeps them burning day and night for six months. In addition the ground is swept at night by several powerful searchlights.

Can't Hurry Slow Thinker

Bright people must learn to be tolerant and patient with slower people, says the American Magazine. Failure to recognize this often gets a foreman into trouble with his men. Naturally, the foreman is likely to be brighter than those under him. And if he can't be tolerant with their slowness he is in for trouble. Trying to hurry naturally slow people is a foolish process. It hurts and irritates.

The duller a man is mentally, the less capacity he has to hurry. He can't hurry. You will never make a foreman or executive unless you are able to learn when your men are going at their best natural speed. If you push them beyond their limit—not your limit, but theirs—there is going to be a break.

Chocolate Popular

Cocoa or cacao, the kernel or seed of a tropical tree, was introduced into England shortly after the discovery of Mexico. From the kernel is obtained chocolate, and when the fat has been pressed from chocolate the substance remaining is known as cocoa. Great quantities of chocolate are now used in many kinds of confectionery, and from cocoa is made a nutritious and refreshing beverage.

ALONG LIFE'S TRAIL

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK

Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

DAVID AND JONATHAN

I ALWAYS liked the story of David and Jonathan. It was a long time before I understood, however, the relative ages of the two men. I did not realize that David was a stripling of a boy, inexperienced, undeveloped, unspoiled by contact with the world when he formed the friendship with Jonathan, and that Jonathan was a mature man, old enough to be David's father. The older man had been toughened by exposure, hardened by war, made wise by age and experience, and yet he still had sympathy for youth and interest in it.

Each of us finds most pleasure, I presume, in associations with those of our own age and of our own station in life. It is natural and normal that we should do so, but that boy can count himself as very fortunate who has among his friends a man of maturity and judgment to whom he feels free to go with frank, open confidence. There is safety and wisdom in such a relationship. It is good for both the youth and the man.

It has always seemed to me both strange and regrettable that fathers and sons are so seldom real friends. The father is proud of the boy, but he seldom says so; the son respects his father, but he, too, is a little afraid that father would not understand, so he stands aloof, he gives the older man no confidence concerning his innermost thoughts and struggles, and though there may be between them love, there is not real friendship.

I count it as one of the vital experiences of my youth that I had the friendship of an older man—I was on the point of saying an old man, for so he did seem to me then, though he had the heart of youth. He calmed my impetuosity, he encouraged me when I was disheartened and ready to give up, he reinforced my judgment, and though he must often have been irritated and annoyed at the mistakes I made, at my irresponsibility and my youthful conceit, he seemed never to misunderstand, and he was always sympathetic, always kind, though he was equally firm. I owe more to his friendship than I can express. I wish every young boy had such a friend.

David became a great man—one of the most human men in history. I often wonder how much of this he owed to his early friendship with Jonathan. He was himself not unmindful of his debt, for though kings often have very short memories of those who have helped to lift them to the throne, David did not forget, and it was his pleasure to minister to Jonathan's crippled son in return for what Jonathan had done for him.

MANY of my patients come to me for a complete dental overhauling.

They have permitted their teeth to get in bad shape. They have "stumps" and "razor blades" and old pus sacs that are laying the foundation for systematic weaknesses such as heart trouble and chronic rheumatism. A few treatments and the process of dental restoration is complete. The results are so astounding and the cost is so extremely low they have regretted that they had not come to me sooner.

RUEL TOO GOOD TO WARM BENCH

Not Believed Backstop Will Be Used in Every Game.

Clark Griffith probably was misquoted, or misunderstood, when he was made to say in a newspaper dispatch that he would bench Muddy Ruel the coming season, along with Roger Peckinpaugh.

What the head of the Washington club meant, doubtless, was that Ruel wouldn't be called on to wear himself out catching practically every game the champions play.

For Ruel is far from the afflictions of age that beset men like Peckinpaugh and others on the Washington team. Albeit he is rather delicate of mold for such steady catching as has been imposed upon him.

However, he has borne up as lighter-built backstops often do to confound the dope, wherein he is as notable an exception as is Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox.

Ruel hardly will reach the record made by Schalk for durability and effective work, but he will come about as near it as any catcher in modern-day baseball.

He was a glutton for work before he got into the major league circle and he never has spared himself since. As a youngster from the St. Louis lots he went to Memphis in 1916 and caught 105 games in that climate, the next year he caught 133.

He went into service in the war period of 1918, and then in 1919 he became a Yankee. He caught 82 the next year and then started a durability record.

In 1921, having been traded to Boston, he caught 113 games for the Red Sox; handled 116 in 1922 and then he went to Washington, where he amazed the critics, slight as is his build, by the ease with which he handled Walter Johnson's terrific speed.

He caught 136 games for Washington in 1923; in 1924 he helped the Bucky Harris team to a pennant by catching all sorts of pitching in 147 games. Last year he caught 126 games for the two-time champions of the American league.

Bench him now for Tate or Severfeld or any other backstop? Griff must have been misquoted or having a nightmare.

Ruel did not reach the 30-mark in age until February 29 of this year. He's as sound as a dollar and as full of pep and ambition as a couple of wild cats.

Nobody's going to take Muddy's job as regular catcher of the Washington team away from him for some time yet—at least nothing in sight.

A Man's Price

A man is not a poor investment till he has ceased to take stock in himself.

Frisky Fly Chaser

Here we have Frankie Zoellers, who cost the Yankees a cool ten grand to get him from Atlanta so that they could turn him over to Uncle Bill Lane's Hollywood stars. Zoellers is a frisky fly chaser, a wonderful lead-off man and batter, and one of the cockiest players that ever displayed his stuff in the Pacific Coast league.

FEW HURLERS ARE GOOD AS HITTERS

Host of Big League Pitchers Never Hit Home Run.

Here is a list of hurlers who were strong on long-distance hitting. Naturally there are but a few of them. A host of hurlers in major league baseball never made a four-base hit and few of them hit out the double number in triples. Walter Johnson has hit out more two-base hits than any hurler the game ever had. Of course, this has reference only to hurlers who were doing duty on the firing line when these records were made.

It took Walter a long time to amass them but he hit out 87 doubles during his career in big league baseball. "Babe" Ruth failed to equal this mark during his time as a hurler but he served only five seasons in that capacity. George Mullen, of the Detroit club, from 1902 until 1913, hit out 72 doubles. Al Orth, famous as a hurler and later as an umpire, was a heavy hitter and a regular one too. In his time as a big leaguer he hit out 52 doubles, 25 triples and nine homers. Otis Crandall, of the Giants, during 1908 until 1915, was a great batsman for he lacked but two points of the 300 class when he finished his big league career. He hit out 37 doubles, 19 triples and 9 homers during his time in the big show.

Such hurlers as Guy Hecker, Bobby Carruthers, Dave Foutz, Jack Stivett, Charlie Ferguson, Bill Kennedy, Scott Stratton, Win Mercer, who were in the game during the eighties and nineties no doubt had records in total bases which touched the 400 mark but the data is not available, that is, the correct data. Jack Stivett, if his exact record in two-base hits were obtainable, would lead all hurlers in that line.

Grover Alexander, while his percentage in extra base hits doesn't reach the 300 mark, made a lot of long distance hits for he had 48 doubles, 11 triples, eight homers in the 1,341 times he stepped to the plate. "Babe" Ruth leads in home runs with Walter Johnson next, Crandall third and Al Orth fourth. Art Nehf, a regular 100 homer man, made seven homers during his time in big league baseball. He has been known to have knocked out two homers in a single game.

Here are the averages of hurlers who reached 300 or better in total bases. It will be seen that but few hurlers reached that mark during a space of 46 years and it is some feat for the boys who do the firing to accomplish it.

Here are the names of 15 hurlers who gained reputation as hard hitters and one of them—"Babe" Ruth—has earned the distinction of being the hardest hitter the game ever had.

Ball Clubs Top Heavy With Pitchers in 1925

A tabulation of the rosters of the American league last season shows that of 264 players who appeared in the box scores, 102 of them were pitchers. Most of the clubs had top-heavy hurling staffs. The Chicago White Sox used 15 pitchers during the season. Washington also had 15 pitchers. Connie Mack, of the Athletics, used only 12 men in the box, the smallest number of any club in the organization. Some men listed as pitchers had very little to do. The St. Louis Browns carried Chester Fick all season, and he pitched in only 5 innings. Manager Sisler also hung out to Stauffer and used him in but 30 innings.

Stack Up!

New York—Miles Kehoe waking up and finding himself marooned in the dark at the top of the Ferris wheel at Coney Island, set his handkerchief on fire and was rescued.

Zach Wheat Signs

Zach Wheat, who has been with the Brooklyn team for 16 years, signed a contract the other day calling for $16,000 for the season of 1926, the largest salary paid to any Brooklyn player. Zach is a hard hitter, his mark for 1925 being .359.

TY COBB IS HEAD OF REAL VETERANS

Detroit Pilot at 40 Years Has Most Seasons to Credit.

Seldom have the prospects for any baseball season of recent years embraced as much dependence upon the old guard as they do this year.

Ty Cobb is recovering from an eye operation which he expects to aid his batting vision for his twenty-second season. It wasn't so dim last year when he hit for .378. Eddie Collins, starting his twenty-first year, still ranks among the greatest infielders. Tris Speaker's batting eye is as good as ever. Walter Johnson, in his twentieth season, is counted upon to win at least twenty games for the Senators.

Zach Wheat, in his eighteenth season, is the oldest National leaguer in point of consecutive service, yet he has received the highest salary of any Brooklyn player for 1926. Max Carey, captain of the Pirates, starts his sixteenth campaign, as does Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Cubs.

Brooklyn acquired Rabbit Maranville to plug an infield gap. Washington has obtained Joe Bush, now in his fifteenth season, to reinforce a pitching staff already well supplied with veterans. Wally Pipp, walloped out of the American league, is counted upon to fill Cincinnati's first base hole if he comes to terms. Babe Ruth has whipped himself into condition for a banner campaign. He is thirty-two now and expects to stick to the big show until he is forty. Speaker, Cobb, Collins and Johnson average forty.

The most notable of the "old guard" follow:

Table with 4 columns: Player, Season Starting, Age. Lists Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins, Walter Johnson, Tris Speaker, Stuffy McInnis, Zach Wheat, Max Carey, Grover Alexander, Rabbit Maranville, Ray Schalk, Joe Bush, Heinie Groh, Wally Schang, and Babe Ruth.

Battling Nelson Was Champion Only Year

Battling Nelson, one of the greatest lightweights, only held the championship a little over a year.

Nelson came into the honors July 4, 1908, beating Joe Gans, the crownwinner, in seventeen sessions. It was their second meeting, Gans having won on a foul the first time. That bout went forty-two rounds.

Ad Wolgast usurped Nelson's title in 1910. The battle was staged on Washington's birthday. Wolgast made the great Dane toss up the sponge in the fortieth round. Nelson was virtually out on his feet. But protested the stopping of the massacre.

Alumni to Be Taxed $5 at Big Three Grid Games

Five dollars hereafter will be the price to alumni for single tickets to football games played by the "Big Three," Yale, Harvard and Princeton—among themselves, it was announced at Yale for itself and sister universities. This is an increase from $3 a ticket to alumni, while by the agreement single ticket to "members of the university community" shall be $2, or $1 less than heretofore.

Increase in revenue sought by the change in prices will be applied "solely in maintenance and development of general athletic facilities and not to increase budgets of intercollegiate athletic teams."

English See Change in the Game of Billiards

The tendency of so many modern billiard players to concentrate on the red ball game is causing a revival of the question among followers of the English style of play in England as to the advisability of placing a limitation on the number of consecutive strokes of this type. There is a strong feeling that the time has arrived to take such action. As the game is primarily meant to be played with three balls, there appears to be strong reasons why some such restriction should be adopted.

From time to time it has been considered necessary for the laws of the game to be amended to correct any desire to specialize on any particular kind of stroke. The spot stroke was barred many years ago, and the anchor cannon was made illegal, while consecutive ball-to-ball runs were limited to 25, a cushion having then to be played before the sequence could be continued.

An experiment will be tried later this season of restricting the losing and winning hazards in a similar way.

FIT "SPECTACLES" TO BLIND HOLES

Many Clubs Have One or More of Them.

Methods of "fitting spectacles" to blind holes on golf links were discussed by Thomas J. Moreau, a golf architect. While such holes, whose greens are invisible from the tee, are not so popular as they used to be, many clubs have one or more and do not care to rebuild them. Blind greens have been condemned by many because the player cannot see what he is shooting at, but more particularly because the ball cannot be kept in sight and the shooter is never sure when the green is clear of players.

Schemes for giving sight to blind holes will not overcome the first objection, but will cure the others. Larger clubs are remarking such holes, but other alleviations are possible.

The most picturesque plan has been made use of by the Victoria Country club in the capital of British Columbia. The thirteenth hole of this links, which lies partly among rugged rocks on the seashore, has its tee on some crags. The green is cut off from view by a ridge of granite and one day a golfer let fly a tee shot on this 200-yard hole without ascertaining whether the players ahead had holed out. The ball hit a man. Then players became wary and waited longer than necessary to tee off.

Finally a member presented a large schoolhouse bell, handsomely embossed, and had it installed at the edge of the green. When players have finished putting they sound this coccin as they start for the fourteenth tee and these following know that the way is clear.

Another scheme is employed by the Moosejaw Country club in the broken prairie country of Saskatchewan. The club built a lookout platform at the top of a blind hole and the players may send a caddy up the winding stairs of this tower to see that the way is open and to watch the flight and roll of the balls.

More romantic and just as effective, and requiring less effort, is the apparatus used by the Calgary Country club in Alberta. This is really a pair of spectacles, for the members have erected a large periscope at the left of the tee. The player may look into the bottom mirror and see that the green is vacant. Then he may place his caddy or opponent at the glass to watch the flight and final resting place of his ball.

The shaft of the periscope is some fifteen feet high, but as it is built of plain boards lined with tar paper, the cost is low. The arrangement of mirrors places the green in plain view although it nestles in a deep valley beyond a high ridge.

Why Not "In Paris Nat"?

It was a torrid afternoon and the patrons at the Johannesburg baths were many. Indeed there was such a demand for bathing suits that one of the attendants, who fancied himself a classical scholar, was heard to remark: "If we can't get some more costumes in time we'll have them bathing 'in forma pauperis,' instead of 'in statu nudissimi!'"

Director Slagg Making Ready for Major Event

A. A. Slagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the national collegiate track and field championships to be held in Chicago on June 12, recently announced efforts will be made to make this year's games the most successful of any in the history of the association.

The Maroon director is working on a circular letter, which will be sent to every university and college which is a member of the National Collegiate association. In this letter Slagg intends to emphasize the importance of every school having representation in this meet.

The event will be held on either Slagg field or in the Memorial stadium in Grant park. Major John O. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the western conference, and T. E. Jones, track and field coach at Wisconsin, are the other members of the committee.

More Demand for Silk

Alphabetic Pill Cure

A city of London druggist has simplified illness enormously. He provides an emergency compact medicine case in which each bottle of pills is distinguished by a letter of the alphabet.

All that the purchaser has to do—whether he travels or merely stays at home to be ill—is to diagnose his symptoms, run a finger rapidly up and down the list of 51 ailments supplied until he finds his own, and cast his glazed eye snarfully to the right.

There he will discover the letter of the alphabet which is marked on the bottle that contains the pill that will make him again the man he was—respected by his family and loved by his friends.

Food for Thought

Three meals a day, or possibly even two, are all that a brain worker should indulge in, according to Mr. Charles E. Hecht, secretary of the British Food Education society.

Mr. Hecht delivered a lecture on the diet of educationists recently, in which he said that the commonest error of the individual teacher was indulgence in "those abominations, sweet and sloppy milk puddings," and in bread and milk.

Legal Wisdom

Lawyers have some odd experiences. A good citizen died. The last request he made of his wife was not to let the undertaker twist his lips so he would appear to be smiling.

"I've not had a very good time in life," said he, "and I don't want it to appear I am felled to go." But when the undertaker got through with him there was a trace of a smile on the man's face and the widow wanted the lawyer to tell her what to do.

Ants Hold Converse

A scientist claims to have discovered that ants are able to talk to each other on the telephone.

Professor Bohler of the psychological institution, Berlin, placed two ants, a male and a female, at each end of a telephone, and the female instantly responded to the call of the male.

The experiment was made to discover the auditory power of ants. A particularly affectionate pair were chosen, the male being taken to a house five miles from the professor's laboratory.

One of Doctor Bohler's assistants placed the male ant near the telephone, while the female at the other end of the line was left free to wander about at will. When the call from the male came through, the female immediately responded, and the excited male was prevented with difficulty from pressing his suit in a way that would have endangered his life.

Darwin declared that the brain of an ant is one of the most marvelous atoms of matter in the world—perhaps more marvelous than the brain of a man. Ants can hear sounds and see light, for which the ears and eyes of man are not fitted, and they have wonderful means of communicating with one another.

Indian Massacre That Moved Poet to Verse

"A poem on the late massacre in Virginia" was the first celebration, in verse, of the American colonies, according to evidence satisfactory to the New York World.

Christopher Brooke (he was a lawyer as well as a poet, and the friend of Johnson, Drayton and other men of letters), started off with an obsequious prose dedicated to the Right Honorable and Worthy Company of Virginians.

The poem was written in heroic couplets, and Christopher Brooke began by explaining that, like the church, he believes in rejoicing with them that do rejoice and weeping with them that weep.

The poet allowed that God was still in his heaven, despite the doings of "these Devilish hands"—belonging to the Indians.

Brooke evidently was one of the first irreconcilables, for he pointed out to the governors of Virginia that the massacre may have been due not only to "false securites," but to their trust in "Leagues confirm'd by oaths."

Domesticating Silver Fox

The United States Department of Agriculture has issued a bulletin on the silver fox industry, in which it says that as a fur animal propagated in captivity the silver fox has no equal. Beginning in 1887, when Sir Charles Dalton and Robert Oulton conducted their first experiments on a small island off the eastern coast of Canada, the growth of this industry has been so steady that today it occupies a strong position in live animal husbandry in the United States.

Electric Typewriters

Steady advance is being made in the development of the electric typewriter. The essential feature of the latest machine before the public is a toothed shaft which crosses the instrument under the type levers. The shaft runs by means of a small electric motor which can be attached to a plug at 300 revolutions per minute.

Synthetic Silk

Spruce logs floated in at one end of a factory come out at the other end in the form of artificial silk, skeins of glossy yarn that are shipped to all points throughout the country. The wood pulp costs five cents a pound while the synthetic silk sells for $2 a pound, and more than that when purchased in the form of neckties, shirts, sweaters and stockings for both men and women.

A FADED CHRIST

By DOY LAS MALLOCH

DO YOU like to think of your dead as dead? What of your Christ, who was crucified? Yet many a Christian bows his head and worships a Christ that long has died.

Their Christ they see when they upward look Is a Christ they saw in a picture book.

Their Christ is a Christ of Galilee, A Christ of an ancient long ago; His robe they know and his staff they see, But they only think that they see and know.

For always backward their look is cast To an ancient Christ of an ancient past. And if their Savior has not sufficed In some hour of sorrow, some night of care,

'Tis because they prayed to a faded Christ Far back in an ancient land somewhere, Because they never did understand That He sitteth today at God's right hand.

Ford Highest in Quality Lowest in Price. The finest steels available are used in the manufacture of Ford cars. The plate glass for windshields and windows is as perfect as can be made. Iron is taken from Ford mines in Michigan; coal from the Company's mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. Glass comes from Ford glass plants; wood from the Ford timber tracts in the North. Ray materials and finished products are carried over the Company's own transportation routes; coke ovens, blast furnaces, a steel mill, foundries and saw mills—all are part of this complete organization. There are even salvage plants, paper mill, cement plant, etc., to transform waste materials into useful by-products. In this way every possible economy is effected. Under no other circumstances could Ford quality be had at Ford prices.
