LOCAL POLITICAL HARMONY

The selection of Edward J. Heil, for appointment as County Road Supervisor, at a recent meeting of the Democratic leaders of the county, held in the County Record building in New Brunswick, dispels the belief that there is an undercurrent of ill feeling within the Democratic ranks here.

Mr. Hermann's open suggestion of Mr. Heil's name as a possible selection at the meeting is evidence in itself that the rift between the two men, which was openly discussed in political circles during the past several years, has been mended and harmony again instilled in the party.

TO BE CONGRATULATED

Middlesex County as well as Mr. Edward J. Heil is to be congratulated on its good fortune in selecting a man of Mr. Heil's ability for the post of County Road Supervisor.

NO MORE OVER EXPENDITURES

The 1930 budget for Carteret, as well as the 1929 budget for Carteret, had over-expenditures for 1928. The 1930 budget also had over-expenditures for 1929.

Setting up in the budget over-expenditures without explanation is a slovenly way of doing business.

It is time to get a clear picture of what the Borough's finances are. The whole Borough financial structure should be overhauled and it should be made known to the public where the money has been spent and what for.

One of the most important parts of the financial condition of the Borough is to set forth exactly how much each department is costing. No business could survive any other way.

As a matter of fact, this community has been spending too much money. It has been spending money as if the people living in the community would get it out of the thin air some way.

PEACE THROUGH WORLD COURT

By REV. RAYMOND C. RNOX, Chaplain Columbia University.

The people of this country have given evidence of their desire to join the World court; every President in recent years has endorsed the World court; the protocols have been signed, and there is no justification for reactionary forces that prevent us from sharing in this indispensable body.

No matter how disillusioned some may feel, never before have men of intelligence and character been so convinced of the need and ability of war as they are today, and never have they been so determined wholly to abolish it.

The victory of peace can be won if the spirit manifested by the pact of Paris, the World court, and the international endeavors toward attaining mutual understanding continue.

PRESS MUST BE MODERNIZED

By LEE A. WHITE, President University Press Club of Michigan.

If many editors seem to shirk their responsibility, it is because in many instances they fail to recognize vital sources of news or persist in following the news tradition of a preceding generation.

Little attention has been paid to a changing taste on the part of the American reader. While the sale of books of fiction decreased nearly one-half in the decade from 1910 to 1920, books of reference, of history and of popularized science have found unusual favor.

HEALTH BIG ASSET TO NATION

By DR. LOUIS I. DUBLIN, Life Insurance Statistician.

The national health is a dollars and cents asset to the country. Absence of disease in a city not only makes it a more desirable place to live, but also brings added citizens and increased industry to it.

The expenditure of $2.50 per capita, or a total of about $300,000,000, every year would be enough to bring the best public health practices to the people of the United States.

In a country as rich as ours there should be no great difficulty in making available in a relatively short period of years the small sum which, if put into the hands of our health authorities, will give them the power to reduce sickness and prevent death consistent with our present knowledge.

World Pays Tribute to Shrine of Bobby Burns

Many places have been "made" by the genius of a great writer, Scott has done more for the tourist agencies and the railways of England than any of his countrymen, because his range was so wide.

The country town of Ayr lies in the center of a fine sandy coast, with wonderful sea view across the great firth. There is no house in the kingdom, no palace or castle or great mansion, that has half the attraction for the world as the little thatched bungalow at Alloway where Robert Burns was born.

Close by is the Auld Brig o' Doon, leaning in a single gully and graceful span the little stream whose name has gone round the world. Close by, too, is the haunted Kirk, where Tam o' Shanter saw witches and warlocks holding revelry in its churchyard.

Twins in Class Mean Trouble for Teacher

"Twins," complained the young teacher, "they're more trouble! It's fun for them, but for us—"

There were Evelyn and Elinor, for instance, small twins, whose great similarity was the despair of the young kindergarten teacher. If only their mother would dress them differently or put some distinguishing mark on them!

One morning they came to school and, O, joy! One had a tooth out right in the middle of her upper jaw! The teacher ascertained that the lacking tooth was from Elinor's set of pearls.

But the next morning when they appeared each child was minus a tooth and each gap was right in the middle of the upper jaw!—New York Sun.

Division of Virginia

The social conditions in western Virginia were entirely unlike those existing in the eastern portion of the state. The rugged nature of the country made slavery unprofitable, but as time wore on the social, political, and economic differences between the eastern and western parts, that were then Virginia, became more pronounced.

LIGHTS of NEW YORK

Where regular routes have been established, airplane travel is becoming a matter of course as taking a land bus. Especially is this true of short hops. I sometimes think that women take more naturally to air travel than men.

While flying back to New York from Philadelphia recently, I sat opposite a woman who had what evidently was something alive wrapped in her coat. It wriggled so that at first I was a bit apprehensive that the lady would turn out to be a snake charmer.

Speaking of pets, I heard a story concerning William M. Mann, director of the National Zoological Park in Washington. Mr. Mann purchased a home in the Capital's first co-operative apartment house.

Rasche Brothers write me, not long ago, concerning a pet I could have for my apartment. This one would have to be stuffed. It seems they are in possession of an elephant's hide, green and sealed, I am assured that I could have it tanned and finished.

A certain theatrical star has some valuable jewelry and likes to wear it. One day she was warned to put her jewels in a safe deposit box and leave them there for a few months.

Howard Chandler Christy has long since given up illustration. He now devotes himself exclusively to painting. Among the most striking things he has been doing are some tall, painted screens.

Radio broadcasting stations provide against any accidents to performers. They have a number of musicians who merely sit and wait. They really take the part of understudies, ready to do their stuff immediately if anything happens to a principal.

William Gilbert Patton could not afford to go to college, but, under the pen name of Burt L. Standish, he sent the child of his brain, Frank Merriwell, through Yale. Probably no Yale graduate ever grew to be better known.

Reasons for Scarcity of Batak Literature

Marco Polo and the emperor of China landed on the Batak coast, to avoid a storm in the Thirteenth century, and had to erect block houses to avoid being eaten by the natives.

This tendency on the part of the Bataks is probably the reason why libraries are not usually furnished with Batak literature, because very few agents could be induced to look for rare works within reach of people with such ideas.

German Heroes Honored in Temple of Valhalla

More than a century has passed since King Ludwig I of Bavaria laid the cornerstone of Valhalla. This white marble temple in the style of the Parthenon stands on a wooded hill above the Danube near Regensburg.

The monarch himself chose the site, and also decreed that the temple should be named Valhalla, after the name of the old Germanic abode of "Valia" heroes.

Lesson From the Past

If there is one lesson to be learned by those who dig into the past and uncover civilizations so long dead they even have passed from memory of man, it is that there is no such thing as "progress" considered as a continuous slow movement in the life of mankind on this planet, from relative imperfection to relative perfection.

BEVERLY HILLS COP IS REAL AUTOCRAT

Movie Actors Same as Any One Else to Him.

Hollywood, Calif.—That portion of movieland which resides in Beverly Hills has a father confessor who draws no lines of creed, race, or previous condition of matrimony.

He is Charles Blair, chief of police, whose career has included the occupations of jockey, street sweeper, town constable and motorcycle officer.

Blair rules with an autocratic hand. Enforcement of the law is only a small part of his duties, for he judges family quarrels and he hunts runaway dogs.

Blair has said that he treats all the villagers alike and for proof he points to the time when John Gilbert, the screen lover, was given a jolt in jail for disturbing the peace.

Gilbert Arrested.

On that occasion Gilbert left his home where he was giving a party and went to the police station to demand that officers arrest all his guests.

His insistence led to his own arrest. During the debate Gilbert bounced once against the office cuspidor when a patrolman resented his manner of speech.

Gilbert was placed in the "common drunk" cell and was there for 36 hours. The officer who knocked Gilbert down still is on the force.

Neighboring quarrels fall to Blair for settlement. Ordinarily they are hushed up, but once in a while one breaks out, such as that which featured House Peters, the actor.

Peters' neighbors complained that he had rigged up a wash boiler on which he hammered at outrageous hours.

Peters claimed that he was retaliating because the neighbors placed their radio at a window and turned it on full blast at 4 a. m.

Blair held a conference. Peters gave up his wash boiler and the neighbors tuned down their radio.

Jockey in Early Youth.

Blair was a jockey for Sanhedrin, the noted Canadian distiller, in his early youth. He came to Beverly Hills when his only neighbors were House Peters, Will Rogers, and Douglas Fairbanks.

He was given the position of night watchman, tax collector and street sweeper.

Then he was promoted to city marshal. Now he has 25 police officers. His force is noted for its ability to prevent crime and its great zeal in recovering lost dogs.

So well organized is the department that it has had only one major crime in 18 years—the murder of E. L. Doheny, Jr., more than a year ago.

And Blair points with pride to the fact that he has never had to turn out more than three officers to retrieve one of Gloria Swanson's pomeranians, or one of Clara Bow's schnauzers.

350-Acre African Jungle And Native Village Built For Picture

Bringing Africa to Hollywood is no simple task but under the supervision of an expert thoroughly versed with the jungle country, the habits and customs of its peoples and the dress and languages of many tribes, the feat has been accomplished with surprising results in Universal's feature comedy "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa," at the Crescent Theatre, starting Sunday.

Universal employed as its technical advisor Peter Shaw, a native of Yorkshire, England, who spent many years in the Dark Continent with various British botanical expeditions and research parties.

A wooded area on Universal's 350-acre studio lot was transformed into a jungle with a native village of more than 35 palm thatched huts, especially constructed for scenes of this new comedy. The village was built to accommodate 280 natives. The setting was patterned after an African jungle village photographed by Shaw in 1927.

Shaw added a touch of realism to the setting by teaching several of the negro extras playing African natives short sentences of African tribal languages.

Charlie Murray and George Sidney, two of the screen's most popular comedians, have the leading roles in the comedy "The Cohens and Kellys in Africa," supported by Vera Gordon and Kate Price.

Busy Brother

"Kid Brother" to more than twenty Hollywood stars, Robert Parrish goes fraternally to type again in Ruth Chatterton's new talking drama for Paramount, "The Right to Love."

This picturization of the Susan Glaspell book, "Brook Evans," in which Miss Chatterton does a "triple characterization," is a narrative of repressed romantic spirit through three generations, opens a week's engagement Saturday at the Strand Theatre.

As Miss Chatterton's mischievous brother, young Parrish completes his seventy-sixth screen role since his arrival in Hollywood five years ago. The name of Robert Parrish has been in the cast of many of Paramount's hits of the past two years including "The Love Parade," "Sweetie," "True to the Navy," "The Kibitzer" and "The Shopworn Angel."

LUKAS PROVES WILL-TO-WIN OVER ENGLISH

What price English? In Hollywood, Paul Lukas stands as a shining example to those who struggle with mispronunciation, the pitfalls of grammar, and accents. When Lukas came from Hungary to Hollywood three years ago, there were no talking pictures, and it mattered not if one said "ve" or "we." With sound came worry and the difference between a "v" and a "w" became the difference between a success and failure, a contract and oblivion. Lukas, quick to grasp the situation, set about in his own unique manner to master the English language.

He gave up talking Hungarian to his countrymen in Hollywood, and spoke only English. He engaged a college boy who was well versed in grammar and pronunciation to spend hours each day with him, to accompany him to shows, to the studio, wherever he happened to be going, with instructions to be on a constant lookout for mispronunciation and grammatical errors during the course of ordinary, everyday conversation.

Though for the past year, the services of the college boy have been dispensed with, Lukas continues his study of English by instructing himself. He goes to a great many plays to study pronunciation. He reads aloud, and has someone correct his mistakes. He spends hours listening to a good radio announcer. In these ways, he feels that he is acquiring a broader and more perfect knowledge of English as it is spoken than he would acquire under the tutelage of a voice teacher. He feels his system is far more practical, as well as far less expensive.

Lukas, featured with Ruth Chatterton in "Anybody's Woman," again supports her in the Paramount talking picture, "The Right to Love," which begins a week's engagement Saturday at the Strand Theatre. He is under contract to Paramount, and will likely have the leading male part in the forthcoming feature "Ladies' Man."

Robert Montgomery, Anita Page, Zasu Pitts in "War Nurse" which opens Sunday, January 4, for four days at the Majestic Theatre.

"ATTACK" SCENE PROVES PROBLEM

"War Nurse" Players Work In Dangerous Proximity To Shell-Fire.

Shelling a war hospital and staging an airplane machine gun attack on a column of trucks and ambulances were two of the main technical problems in "War Nurse," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picture of woman's side of the war which will open Sunday at the Majestic Theatre for four days.

The scenes in which a hospital is shelled were taken both as exteriors and interiors. How such scenes are done must always remain a mystery. Suffice it to say that they require an enormous amount of advance preparation by powder experts, construction men and electricians. The preparation of the setting showing the advance hospital interior required over six weeks, both in planning and building.

The problem was accentuated by the fact that women were to be in the places of peril, and there could be no doubles. Anita Page, for example, has scenes in which she is less than three feet away from a section of wall hit, in the story, by high explosive shell. And beams fall on the cot where Robert Ames, her lover, lies, dangerously wounded.

The machine gun attack from German airplanes occurs while a group of young American aviators of a French squadron are taking nurses to a party. Later an ambulance containing June Walker, Marie Prevost and Helen Jerome Eddy crosses a battlefield under shell-fire.

"War Nurse" is an adaptation by Becky Gardiner from the much-discussed, frank and realistic novel of the same name which ran serially in a national magazine. The director of the picture was Edgar Selwyn, the noted New York stage producer. Other players besides those named include Robert Montgomery, Zasu Pitts, Edward Nugent, Hedda Hopper, Martha Sleeper and Michael Vavitch.

Lowe Welcomes New Role Of Irascible Husband As Relief

"Part Time Wife" Opportunity To Get Back To Favorite Comedian Roles Again

Love making, on the screen, is a ticklish business.

It requires more tact, more subtlety and finesse than the average man cares to bring to his personal love affairs. Because he has given to his film characterizations these essential requirements, Edmund Lowe, long ago, mastered a perfect love making technique.

It has worked admirably in all of his lover roles, but for his latest Fox movietone romantic comedy, "Part Time Wife," which comes to Crescent Theatre, he was confronted Majestic Theatre Jan. 8th, he was confronted with the problem of bringing realistically, to the screen, the worries and embarrassments of a nervous young husband.

"This is certainly a relief for me," Eddie remarked one day on the set, after finishing a scene with Lella Hyams. "For the past two years, I've been the aggressive lover who always got what he wanted. Now I am being driven half out of my mind by a spirited young wife, who has ideas of her own as to how she is to spend her time, all because I'm supposed to be a dub at love."

But it is a welcome relief. It is a pleasure to indulge in a good old-fashioned family quarrel, even if it is all in fun, especially when one who uses such convincing arguments as Miss Hyams. "I'd like to have more such roles, for I believe marriage, and the conduct of husbands and wives, offers the greatest field for future screen material."

Leo McCarey directed the picture, from Stewart Edward White's widely read short story, "The Shepher Newfounder," and collaborated with Raymond L. Schrock in writing the screen play and dialog.

The all-featured supporting cast includes such well-known players as Walter McGrath, Sam Lufkin, Louis Payne, Bodil Rosing and George Corcoran.

Edmund Lowe Gives Marriage Cure-All

"The most marked difference between making love to a woman on the screen and in real life is that once the job is done in pictures, it's over, while in real life there is often a kickback."

Edmund Lowe is responsible for the above statement. For example in "Part Time Wife," his latest Fox movietone comedy drama in which he appears opposite Lella Hyams in the title role, coming to the Majestic Theatre, starting January 8th, Lowe's love-making is never quite over—he doesn't get the job finished until the very end.

"A 'Part Time Wife' in real life," Lowe continued, "would be a revelation. After all, she would have the added charm of being original, and that, to my way of thinking, is the greatest need of marriage today. But in case the example she sets in the picture should become a real-life fact, husbands will certainly have to snap out of it. For love-making to a 'Part Time Wife' is a full-time job, believe me."

300 Extras In "Sin Takes a Holiday"

More than 300 of Hollywood's best dressed extra players were used in "Sin Takes a Holiday," Constance Bennett's new Pathe star picture. They portray the leisure classes who frequent the resort centers of continental Europe and the playboys and their companions who throng the New York and Paris night clubs.

The players chosen for atmosphere work and bit roles were "hand picked" from the dress suit and evening gown brigade of the extra army. Action of the story opens in New York. It later shifts to Paris and other cities of continental Europe. New York is the locale of the closing scenes. Thirty-two settings, most of them large and lavishly furnished, provide the background for the action. "Sin Takes a Holiday" will be on view at the R.K.O. Railway Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, January 5 and 6.

Miss Bennett's characterization is that of a New York secretary who blossoms into a society beauty. Kenneth MacKenna is her leading man and others in the supporting cast include Basil Rathbone, Rita La Roy, Zasu Pitts, Louis Bartels, John Roche, Kendall Lee, Fred Finley, Helen Johnson and Fred Walton.

Paul L. Stein directed. Horace Jackson, who did the adaptation for "Holiday," wrote the screen play, based upon an original story by Robert Milton and Dorothy Cairns. We wish to go on record as saying you will find this one of the best pictures of the year.

The New Jersey State Museum at Trenton is conducting a special series of Nationality Day Programs, with performers of the nationalities concerned featured in attractive concerts. Tomorrow evening, a Ukrainian New Year's program will be presented, featuring the famous Ukrainian Chorus, and Sunday Polish Day will be celebrated.

Many other delightful Nationality Day Programs have been planned for the remainder of January. Wednesday evening, January 7, an Italian night will be held. January 11, will be Hungarian Day at which a Hungarian gypsy orchestra and a vocal soloist will be the principal features, and Sunday, January 18, will be Rumanian Day, featuring Madam Olga Cristo-Loveanu, the Rumanian prima donna. On Sunday, January 25, an International Day has been planned in which the Swiss, Greeks and Yugoslavians are expected to participate.

With the exception of tomorrow the museum is open to the public, daily from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m., except Sundays and holidays when the visiting hours are from 2 to 5 p. m.

Business Man's Dream
Lands Burglar in Jail
Berlin.—A Berlin business man brooded over the burglary of his nose to such an extent that he could not keep the matter from his mind even in his sleep. He dreamed that he was tied to a pawnshop where he identified his wife's jewels and other articles that the burglar had taken.

On awakening he told his wife of his dream. As he remembered the pawnbroker's face as well as the location of the shop, his wife urged him to visit the place. There he saw the man of his dream and the jewelry in the case.

The police quickly traced the peddler of the goods as a burglar who had been several times convicted.

Request for a Light Leads to His Arrest
Paris.—Walking along one of the Paris boulevards a youth stopped Rene Dubois, police detective, who happened to be off duty, and asked him for a light.

It was at night. The detective took out his lighter, held the flame to the other's cigarette. The youth lit up and was about to turn away with a nod of thanks when he felt a tap on his shoulder. "Come with me," said the detective. "I think I know you." He was a well-known crook, wanted by the police. He is awaiting trial.

Engine's Whistle Blows Boards Off Sidewalk
St. Paul.—A steam whistle on a locomotive passing under a viaduct blew three boards off the sidewalk above as it whistled for a crossing.

The matter was reported to police who decided it should be referred to the commissioner of public works.

Before the commissioner could be reached over W.P.S. the police radio station, a cruising squad of police, not knowing of the change of authority for replacing the boards, put them back.

Pugilist Pounds Wife

YOUR CAR and the MOTOR LAWS

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

XXIII. POLICE AND TRAFFIC

The serious violator of the traffic laws falls into various categories. He may be a good driver insofar as the ordinary operations of the car is concerned, but when it comes to obeying the regulations, he is a far more dangerous person than the man who may not be so skilled in handling the controls. He is the man who runs past "Stop" signs, who ignores the rights of pedestrians, speeds through school zones or crowded thoroughfares, crosses an intersection on the wrong traffic light, and drives while under the influence of liquor.

In other words, this type of driver is so abominably selfish and scornful of the law that any persuasive means are of little use.

It is self-evident that we cannot countenance conduct of that sort for a moment. "Stop" signs are useless, in fact they become actually dangerous if only four-fifths of the drivers really obey them. The remaining one-fifth can absolutely nullify them, for under such conditions traffic cannot move as expeditiously as it might if every driver proceeding on a boulevard protected by these signs could expect everyone to obey them.

The same statement goes for intersections controlled by automatic signal lights. The traffic light has relieved the policeman from doing duty in the center of the street, but they still call for an alertness on his part to their violation. And it is a fact that must be considered that a "stop" sign or traffic light will only add to confusion and danger if automobile drivers are permitted to disregard it at will.

Reckless driving is another evil with which the police authorities must cope. The law defines the reckless driver, and once apprehended he can be convicted. There appears to be a trend upward in speed limits on the open road, but in our residential and business districts safe driving must be held within restricted limits.

I have referred to a few of the more flagrant violations of the traffic laws which can be traced directly to the driver's state of mind. There are other problems that can be credited to conditions which tend to increase the hazard of driving.

There is the problem of congestion. Eliminating congestion by street widening is possible only to a limited degree. We must take conditions much as they are and adapt them to the increasing volume of traffic. This may be done by designating certain thoroughfares as thru, boulevard streets, making others one-way streets, restricting or prohibiting parking. These methods will be effective only if strictly enforced.

Investigation has shown that few accidents may be credited chiefly to mechanical defects of an automobile. But one survey showed that in nearly half the number of mishaps studies, the condition of the car was a contributing cause. A continuous effort must be made to rid the streets of unfit cars.

Some cities have found it beneficial to maintain public stations where headlights may be adjusted without cost to the owner. Improperly focused headlamps are not difficult to detect. To focus them is another matter, but when the beam is tipped above the horizontal it is sufficiently apparent to the policeman on traffic duty and it is a comparatively simple matter to detect this very annoying feature of motoring. I do not believe in wholesale arrests. The policeman on traffic duty is dealing not with the hardened criminal, but with the well-meaning citizen who, for the most part, wants to do the right thing and occasionally fails. I believe that a sympathetic attitude on the part of the policeman, rather than an antagonistic state of mind will be far more productive of good.

Winter Dried Fruits and Tapioca Aid Housewives in Menu Making

MAKING a resolution to budget the household allowance more carefully and yet to give the family nourishing and tasty meals, wives and mothers are on the look out for new recipes. For high days and holidays come and go but the task of providing three meals daily goes on all year.

The winter dried fruits—figs, raisins, apricots, dates and prunes—can be made into a wealth of delicious desserts at small cost. They are Nature's own sweets packed with sugar for winter energy and should appear on the table often during the cold weather.

Here is a colorful Apricot Tapioca that tactful wives will serve after the Monday pot-luck meal. Even Junior will be willing to eat his carrots if he is rewarded by such a dessert.

APRICOT TAPIOCA
 3/4 pound dried apricots
 3 cups water
 1/2 cup sugar
 3 tablespoons quick cooking Tapioca
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Wash apricots. Soak in 3 cups water 1 hour and cook until tender. Drain. To juice, add enough water to make 2 cups liquid. Add Tapioca and salt, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until Tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add sugar. Cool. Force apricots through sieve. Fold pulp (about 1 cup) into Tapioca mixture. Chill and serve with whipped cream. Serves 6.

FROM NORWAY
 The lowly boarding house prune has come into its own, magically transformed by modern cook-craft into a variety of delicious desserts. Here is one of them. And it is so simple to make that you can put it on your list of last minute desserts for busy days.

NORWEGIAN PRUNE TAPIOCA
 4 tablespoons quick cooking Tapioca
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon cinnamon, or 1-inch stick cinnamon
 1 cup cooked prunes, seeded and finely cut
 2 cups unsweetened prune juice, or juice and water
 4 tablespoons sugar
 1 tablespoon lemon juice

Add Tapioca, salt, and cinnamon to prune juice, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Remove cinnamon (if stick is used), add sugar, lemon juice, and prunes. Chill. Serve with cream. Serves 6.

Auto Invades Cafe; Owner Pays Damages

Cordale, Ga.—The Royal cafe here was comfortably filled with hungry patrons. Crash—and T. F. Hoffer's automobile pushed its way through a plate-glass window, and came to a stop at the inner wall.

Surveying the wreckage, Hoffer pulled out a checkbook, inserted the owner's estimate of the damage, departed. He had started his car in gear. No one was injured.

What To Do When You Skid On Icy Highway, Told By Keystone Club

Skidding accidents, attended in many cases with fatalities, have been so numerous this winter that the Keystone Automobile Club of New Jersey feels it is necessary to issue a general warning to drivers to be on the alert against this deadly hazard.

"It is not possible," says a Club bulletin, "to give a formula that will insure against skidding, but it is possible to point out contributing causes to this type of accident."

"Of first importance, we believe, is the condition of the tires. Tires with a good tread will hold the car on the road under conditions that would be disastrous to a car equipped with smooth tires. Therefore, the motorist who drives on slippery roads with treadless tires is inviting trouble."

"Another thing to remember is that while chains are a valuable safety adjunct they are not guaranteed to prevent skidding. Carelessly operated cars will skid, with or without chains."

"The best advice we can give to motorists is to drive slowly on ice-covered streets or highways, apply their brakes gently with the engine in gear and round curves and corners with care. If a skid occurs while a car is being operated as described the consequences will be far less serious than if the machine is traveling at a speed that would be reasonable under dry-road conditions.

"Inquiry among numerous motorists developed the fact that few seem to know what to do when cars go into a skid. The natural tendency is to steer in the direction opposite to the skidding motion, but this can result only in causing the car to describe a circle, with great risk of crashing into approaching traffic.

"The proper action is to steer in the direction of the skid and at the same time step on the gas instead of the brake. For example: If the car skids to the right, the driver should steer to the right. This will tend to restore the proper balance and the coincident acceleration will straighten out the car. If the brakes are applied the car will continue to slide. Driving power of the rear wheels is needed to bring the car out of the skid."

Many other days of nations' thanksgiving have been designated in the past and another day could be proclaimed if the President chose. It has become customary, however, to fix up on the last Thursday in November.

Big Stars Now Working In East

Astoria Runner-Up To Hollywood For Talkies.

Astoria, Long Island, has become the second Hollywood.

Few people are aware of this fact, yet it is true that nowhere else outside of the Pacific Coast film capital can one find stars of such luminosity as Mary Brian, Fredric March, Nancy Carroll, Ina Claire, Claudette Colbert, Maurice Chevalier, Ed Wynn, Frank Morgan, Charles Rogers and dozens of others working on productions of such importance as "The Big Pond," "Hells Up," "The Royal Family of Broadway," etc.

Just across the river from the towering cliff-buildings of Manhattan, Paramount's Astoria studio is, by comparison, an edifice of unimpressive proportions. But it is sufficiently large to house the activities of three feature picture production units at one time in addition to the half-acre or more units which are engaged in making short subjects.

Paramount inaugurated a new policy, beginning with the making of "The Royal Family of Broadway," by which this Eastern plant will be brought into even greater prominence. Because they believe that it is good for stars and directors to get away from Hollywood for a while and to absorb new ideas in New York, Paramount executives plan to rotate production activities so as to give each star and each director at least one picture a year in the Astoria studio.

Under the scheme Mary Brian and Fredric March are the first Paramount Hollywoodites to make a talkie in the East. Miss Brian plays an important supporting role in "The Royal Family of Broadway," which comes to the Majestic Theatre on Sunday. In the leading roles of this study of the private lives of a reigning family of actors, are March and Ina Claire. Others in the cast are Henrietta Crossman, Broadway legitimate veteran and favorite; Frank Conroy and Arnold Korff, stars of the New York stage.

Famed Film Team Is Now On Even Terms
Ernst Lubitsch has nothing on his old friend Emil Jannings. In an earlier day—about six years ago, Lubitsch and Jannings were one of the most impressive teams, as actor and director, in all of Germany. Among the pictures Jannings made under Lubitsch's direction were the now-famous "Passion" and "Deception."

Then Lubitsch came to America and attained fame as a director of silent pictures. He went Jannings one better by showing his proficiency as a director of talkies—witness "The Love Parade" and "Monte Carlo."

But now Jannings has matched his old team-mate for prowess and success in the new medium of English-speaking audible films. For he has made his first talkie, in English, "The Blue Angel," which comes to the Strand Theatre tomorrow for a seven-day run.

WHEELER AND WOOLSEY ARE WITHOUT PEER

Both Comedians Called Greatest Team in New Laugh Film.

AT MAJESTIC THEATRE

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey are unique as a comedy team because neither plays foil or "straight" for the other!

In all the show world, the Radio Pictures comedians stand alone in this respect. Other pairs have one man who makes all the quips and jokes at the expense of the other! Wheeler and Woolsey, seen at the Majestic Theatre beginning Thursday in their latest mirthquake, "Hook, Line and Sinkers," stand toe to toe—slinging punch after punch with no fear and no favor!

Each Great Comedian "Each, separately, is a great comedian, and each is entirely different in type and manner of getting laughs from the other." Eddie Cline, who directed "Hook, Line and Sinkers," explains.

"Together, they are a phenomenon of the comedy world. The greatest thing they accomplish as a team, it seems to me, is the fact that the comedy burden is borne equally between them, and with all their fun, no matter how riotous, there is a sense of realism. The spectator is compelled to follow their adventures as tensely as though they were dramatic heroes, although in so doing, he laughs until his eyes swim with tears and he gasps for breath.

Universally Liked
"Another thing I've noticed about Wheeler and Woolsey. Men and women like them equally well—and the two are equally well-liked by both men and women. That makes a comedy combination unique in my long experience as a comedy director."

Dorothy Lee might well be considered a third member of the unique "team" for her appearance in "Hook, Line and Sinkers" is her fifth with the famous pair—and every picture in which the trio appears scores a greater success than its predecessor!

BIGGER AND BETTER LAUGHS IN FUN FILM

Wheeler and Woolsey In "Hook, Line and Sinkers."

NEW COMEDY SMASH

Not only is "Hook, Line and Sinkers," showing at the Majestic Theatre, beginning Thursday said to be the greatest Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey comedy to date, but it is said to contain more varied and genuine entertainment than any fun-film ever produced.

Much of its action takes place in the largest indoor set ever built, a rambling completely equipped hotel where the troupe spent six weeks, "shooting" 868 hilarious scenes.

For exterior scenes, the historic Bakersfield, California, country—a land of magnificent rugged beauty—was visited.

All Laughs
The story, constructed solely for laughing purposes, presents a laugh-a-second tale of a clash between big underworld mobs and high society fashionables.

This necessitated using dramatic players such as Ralf Harold, Hollywood's most debonair villain; Natalie Moorhead, vampish beauty; George Marion, with 50 years' experience in acting; Hugh Herbert, well-known character actor, and six others equally as well known.

Many Comedians
Among the professional funsters who have contributed to this thrilling all-laughing comedy-romance, were Dorothy Lee, whose sense of humor does not detract from her rare beauty; Jobyna Howland, Amazonian comedienne; Tim Whelan, veteran humorist-writer; Ralph Spence, wise cracking dialogist, and, of course, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey.

Eddie Cline, who directed most of the original comedies of Mack Sennett, piloted the story for Radio Pictures.

March Displays New Capabilities

Has Great Comedy Lines In New Paramount Film.

Fredric March, who is being hailed as the newest "weakness" of feminine film fans, will be seen at the Majestic Theatre beginning Sunday in a picture that gives him a chance to display romantic and comedy talents which he has hitherto held in abeyance because of the requirements of his roles.

The picture is "The Royal Family of Broadway," Paramount's filmization of the celebrated stage play, "The Royal Family" which smashed the records of Broadway a season ago and which has since had great success in stock company and touring productions throughout America.

"The Royal Family of Broadway" deals with the doings of a family of actors who have been leaders in their craft for generation after generation. This clan of great actors, known in the play as the Cavendishes, are seen in a clever presentation of their lives at home where the daily and hourly topic of conversation is the stage which they have so long and so gloriously dominated.

March is seen as "Tony," the veritable "prince" of the "royal family," whose mad capers, nerve-wracking scenes with women who fall in love with him, and other manifestations of erratic genius keep the picture in a continual uproar of mirth.

Ina Claire is seen as Julia, the sister of Tony and the princess of the tribe of Cavendishes, who can't quite decide whether or not to leave the stage for good and all.

Mary Brian is seen as Julia's daughter, bred in the tradition for stage ascendancy, but not yet ready to step into the shoes of her mother.

Henrietta Crossman is seen as Fanny Cavendish, the matriarchal grandmother of the family.

The supporting cast includes a number of veteran Broadway actors. It is a picture that will delight the risibilities of all movie-goers.

Director Exhibits Craft In New Film

Von Sternberg Is Rare Artisan In Humanities.

About the art of Josef Von Sternberg, director of "The Blue Angel" which opens Saturday at the Strand Theatre there is no clap-trap and flap-doodle.

The evidence of this great German and American director's genius for presenting human documents in celluloid is seen the moment the play begins and it is apparent throughout this astonishingly powerful production.

Perhaps the most poignant example of the Von Sternberg art is the class-room scene in which Emil Jannings, the middle-aged, pompous and righteous-minded teacher rules his youthful pupils.

Here Von Sternberg shows as the very studious pupil; the head of the class and the teacher's pet, whom the others, naturally dislike intensely. He shows us the humor, the aims and desires, the likes and dislikes, and the unknowingly cruelty of these young people. He focuses the attention on first this one, then his neighbor, so that in a split-second we know that one is a sneak, another is generous, another is wild. Thus does Von Sternberg make the class-room seem real, and its characters true to life.

Building Loan Idea Celebrated On Its 100th Anniversary

Home Owning Plan Started by Tradesman In Frankford, Pa., First Home Bought by Loan Still Standing.

A manufacturer of calico in Frankford, Pa., dreamed a hundred years ago of the pleasure of owning a frame house without a bathroom or telephone. This was 1831 when, contrary to popular belief, men in knee breeches figured by the light of oil lamps how to get the down payment together.

The home loving manufacturer, thinking of his townsmen as well as himself, consulted several of the other enterprising citizens and they organized America's first building and loan association.

On January 3 the New Jersey League of Building and Loan Associations celebrated the anniversary with its semi-annual convention dinner at Trenton. In five hundred cities stretching from coast to coast building and loan associations whose assets total millions of dollars gave anniversary dinners to celebrate the centennial of a small town undertaking what has grown into a nine billion dollar business.

Early Organizers
The calico manufacturer was English-born Jeremiah Horrocks, and the men who aided in the now famous project were Samuel Pilling, in the dyeing business; a physician named Dr. Henry Taylor; Isaac Shalleross, a school teacher; Jesse Castor, an attorney; and Isaac Whitelock, who made carriage wheels, was one of the city fathers, and was elected president of the first building and loan association a hundred years ago tonight.

That first association was named the Oxford Provident Building and Loan Association of Philadelphia County. Set up to provide the first medium for systematic saving that the young country had known, the new organization encouraged thrift and advanced loans to responsible folks who wanted to own their own domiciles. The 12,000 building and loan associations that today have nine billion of dollars of the savings of small wage earners, have not changed these two purposes set down on sheets of parchment by Jesse Castor, who drew up the first minutes that are now locked in a vault in the rooms of the Historical Society of Frankford.

The building in which the Oxford Provident met a hundred years ago still stands in Philadelphia. In 1831, Frankford was a stage coach journey from this city, which long ago grew out to encompass it. In 1831 this building was a good old tavern, and the tavern owner, Thomas Sidebotham, lent his back parlor for the event. But this environment did not bother Jeremiah Horrocks and Dr. Taylor, both "Bible Christians" and pledged to abstinence from intoxicating drinks. Now, Thomas Sidebotham's tavern, half remodeled, is a shop for automobile supplies.

First Home Still Standing
The house on which the first loan was made still stands, still occupied, on Orchard street in Philadelphia, and in 1831 the heart of Comly Rich beat with pride when he took deed to it. He lighted the borough street lamps, and applied and received the first loan made by the Oxford Provident. Since then, in the hundred year period, the building and loan associations have financed more than 8,000,000 American homes.

How the Frankford lamp lighter ever scraped together enough on a lamp lighter's salary to finance the balance of his home owning venture is history that probably will not be revealed by the presiding officers who will recount this colorful story at the five hundred dinners tonight, but how Mr. Rich did it might make good reading to issue to some present day renters.

The national wide plans for the celebration of the Building and Loan Centennial are in the hands of the United States Building and Loan League. In New Jersey the celebration will be marked by Building and Loan Centennial Week extending from January 3 to 10 under the auspices of the New Jersey League of Building and Loan Associations.

"Doughnut" and "Cruller"
Years ago the difference between a doughnut and a cruller was marked. A doughnut was made of raised bread dough, to which sugar, spice and eggs were added, while the cruller was made of a mixture containing baking powder or cream of tartar and soda. Now the term doughnut is made to include both kinds of fried cakes.

DOCTOR SHOOTS MAN, OPERATES TO SAVE HIS LIFE

Bullet Stops Male Nurse at Girl Patient's Hospital Room.

Carthage, Mo.—In the white stillness of the operating room, three surgeons are fighting desperately to save a life.

On the operating table lies a man, grievously wounded by a bullet. The operating surgeon is working with the swift but unhurried efficiency which comes of his training. The operating surgeon's eyes behind the surgical mask are those of a young man. They do not waver from the task before them except at rare instances when they gaze into the eyes of the other two surgeons; those of elderly men. A nod of the head is the only answer.

Not a word passes; a motion from the operating surgeon and a white-clad nurse hands him a fresh instrument or an antiseptic.

The younger surgeon is Dr. W. B. Chapman; one of the others is Dr. E. S. Chapman, his father, and the third is Dr. K. E. Baker. The man on the operating table is Bernard Grinder.

Only a few minutes before the younger Chapman and Grindler stood face to face in the corridor of the Chapman hospital.

Grinder, a registered nurse, graduate of Bellevue hospital, New York, and more recently an attendant in the Cook County hospital in Chicago, had attempted to force his way into the rooms of Miss Inesene Woodfill.

Grinder had demanded money and Miss Woodfill fled to Doctor Chapman for help. The surgeon ordered Grindler to leave, enforcing his demand with a revolver.

The man refused, lunged at the surgeon, and tried to grab the gun. There was a flash, a sharp report, and Grindler fell, shot in the abdomen.

An Emergency Operation.
Doctor Chapman summoned his father and Doctor Baker. An emergency operation was imperative. An ambulance conveyed the wounded man to McCune-Brooks hospital, where the younger Chapman pitted his skill against death, brought near by the bullet he had fired.

The surgeon lost the battle. Three hours after the operation Grindler was dead.

Man Escapes as Tail of Shirt Takes Fire

Memphis, Tenn.—J. W. Herington, filling station employee, had a hot couple of minutes here when the tail of his shirt caught fire in some unknown manner.

The station manager pulled the garment from his back before he suffered from anything more than fright.

HUSBAND IS MUM; WIFE KILLS HIM

Follows Silent One to Dance and Knives Him.

New York.—Unable to stand the continued silence of her husband, who had not spoken to her for five months, Mrs. Nellie Koteley of Yonkers stabbed him to death, police will seek to prove.

Mrs. Koteley, forty-seven, was arrested on a charge of homicide. The stabbing of her husband, fifty-eight, took place in a dance hall a few doors from their home.

The couple quarreled five months ago, police said, and Koteley had not spoken a word to his wife since. When he left home without letting her know his destination she followed him to the dance hall.

When she spoke to him and he still maintained silence, according to police, she drew a potato knife and plunged it into his body near the heart.

Koteley died on the way to the hospital.

Apples Point Solution of Mysterious Murder

Richmond, Quebec.—A mystery which the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle might have chronicled under the title of "The Adventure of the Alexander Apples," has culminated in the arrest of Albert Vincent, twenty-eight, on a charge of murdering Edmond Trudeau, fifty-nine, farmer.

Detective Sergeant Jarguile of the Quebec provincial police followed a 500-mile trail before he finally ran his quarry to earth.

Trudeau was beaten to death with an ax in the cellar of his home. In the burn were clues indicating that the slayer had slept overnight there—among them, two apples of the Alexander species.

Realizing that no Alexander apples were grown in the vicinity of Trudeau's farm, Jarguile set out in search of the nearest orchard of that species. He found it, nearly thirty miles distant, and, on questioning the owner, learned that Albert Vincent, a farm hand, had left his employ a few days before Trudeau's murder.

Armed with a description of Vincent, Jarguile set out once more, and by persistent questioning traced the fugitive from village to village, and farmhouse to farmhouse, until he finally overtook and arrested him in Roxton Falls. Vincent now awaits trial at Sherbrooke.

Spanish Cave Believed World's Oldest House

Lawrence, Kan.—"The oldest house in the world is a cave near Castle, Spain," said Dr. F. W. Blackmar, professor of sociology at the University of Kansas, in an address recently on "How Old Is Man?" "Remains of 15 different races that lived in this cave as far back as 100,000 years ago have been found," he said. Doctor Blackmar said that while it is impossible to determine exactly where, how, and when man first appeared on the earth, more of the early history of man has been learned in the last 75 years than in all the centuries preceding, and all parts of the world are now being searched by anthropologists for traces of early man.

Los Angeles Revealed as a One-Horse Town

Los Angeles, Calif.—In spite of its population of more than one million, Los Angeles still is a "one horse town."

There is but one lone, solitary horse and buggy available for the young swain that would a-wooing go in the style of his grandfather. In 1910 there were 70 livery stables in Los Angeles. In 1930 the competition of automobiles and airplanes has cut this down to four.

Of the four, only one has a horse and buggy for rent.

Slap in Cylinders
It is only after the car has been driven from 35,000 to 50,000 miles, and the pistons feel quite loose and there is a slap in the cylinders, that a heavier oil than that advised by the manufacturer might be used. Here again, however, the best advice is to have the entire cylinder block re-bored and fitted with oversize pistons and rings, rather than confuse much longer with loose oil-throwing pistons.

YOU, YOUR CAR and the MOTOR LAWS

Harold G. Hoffman,
Commissioner of Motor Vehicles

XXIX. REPORTING ACCIDENTS

It seems important to call to the attention of New Jersey motorists the inadvisability of withholding criminal complaints in accident cases as part of a bargain in which the person responsible for the accident agrees to pay for damages inflicted. After an accident occurs arrangements frequently are made to settle, conditioned on promises not to enter a complaint for violation of the motor vehicle or traffic law. As the law allows only thirty days in which to bring a complaint, it not infrequently develops that before a money settlement is made, the limit has expired and the innocent party to the accident has no redress except to bring a civil suit for damages.

These civil suits entail the outlay of considerable expense for legal fees, consume a great amount of the complainant's time and give him much worry. Often, too, it is useless to bring such suits, for the defendant proves to have no assets. It is necessary for the complainant to ascertain whether the defendant is able to pay a judgment entered against him.

It was to cover cases of this kind that the passage of a compulsory insurance law was urged for several years.

In Trenton, and in various other cities throughout the state, when an accident occurs a police officer is immediately summoned to the scene. The officer examines the positions of both cars and later, at the informal hearing held before the police judge, he is able to give the benefit of his observations. If the judge on hearing the case decides that either party to the accident has been reckless, a summons is issued for a formal hearing, at which the defendant, if the evidence warrants, is adjudged guilty of reckless driving, or of failure to obey traffic signals, or of any other violation which may have been the contributing cause to the accident.

If the defendant happens to be insured, this preliminary hearing is of benefit to his insurance company and assists it in its endeavors to fix blame for the accident.

Let it not be understood, however, that I am advocating a hearing on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle law as a preliminary step in the adjustment of a claim for damages. The department has absolutely no jurisdiction in questions involving the recovery of claims and a civil action is the only recourse if a friendly settlement cannot be arranged. The point I should like to stress, however, is that a complainant should not delay making a charge for a violation of the motor vehicle and traffic law before the local magistrate having jurisdiction where the violation occurs.

If he does not make such a complaint, and if the person responsible for the accident flatly refuses to settle, the innocent party has cause to regret not having at least made the guilty party pay the penalty for his reckless driving, in the police court.

Where reckless driving is involved, a complaint should be made in the local police court for the reason that a report of conviction for reckless driving forwarded to the Department of Motor Vehicles by the convicting magistrate imposes upon the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles the duty of requiring filing of a certificate of insurance by the person convicted of reckless driving.

Even if the person who has caused the accident is not insured at the time, the filing of the insurance certificate will be a measure of protection for the future, for in the event of a second accident his victim will have the benefit of the insurance taken out as a result of the first.

Courtesy of Road Cards Issued to Its Members

In a campaign for safety and courtesy on the streets and highways, the Missouri Truckmen's Association, Inc., has issued the following courtesy card, which they urge all members to post on every piece of equipment they operate.

The card reads as follows: "Courtesy of the road: This firm promised co-operation in a campaign to win the good-will and respect of the public, passenger car drivers and officials for our truck equipment on streets and highways.

"Be courteous. Drive on the right side of the road. Slow up for passing automobiles. Be very careful when turning corners. Left-hand turns are very dangerous. Give hand signal to those in the rear. Safety First."

Gaynor And Farrell Each Other's Screen Favorite

Movies' King and Queen, Starring in Raoul Walsh's Fox Movietone "The Man Who Came Back" Entertain Mutual Feeling Of Admiration

Asked point blank the name of her favorite screen star, Janet Gaynor promptly answered: "Charles Farrell". Similarly, Farrell names Miss Gaynor as his favorite actress.

Which probably accounts for the fact that they are regarded as the most perfect screen pair ever brought together. Each has a wholesome respect for the other as a performer.

But both have very decided ideas about being teamed together too often.

"It's not good for either of us, nor is it good for our pictures," says Janet, emphatically. "I'd rather play opposite Charles than any other actor. There is a bond of sympathy and friendship between us but I think studio executives are wise in not teaming us together more than once or twice a year."

Farrell feels the same way about it, and explains it in this manner:

"The more actresses I play opposite in my pictures, the more experience I gain. I think if any two people constantly appear together in pictures they are apt to get into a rut and will soon be giving stereotyped performances."

"From every new leading lady I learn something about the art of acting. I know the same is true with Janet."

This famous team of screen sweethearts is again united for the first time in nearly a year in Raoul Walsh's Fox Movietone production of "The Man Who Came Back," which moves tomorrow to the Strand Theatre.

This is only the sixth picture in which Miss Gaynor and Farrell have been paired, although their first association in "7th Heaven" dates back nearly four years. Their other pictures were "Street Angel," "Lucky Star," "Sunny Side Up" and "High Society Blues."

Since then, Miss Gaynor has been taking an extended vacation, while Farrell has starred in "Lillian" with Rose Hobart as his leading lady and "The Princess and the Plumber," in which Maureen O'Sullivan played opposite him.

"The Man Who Came Back" is regarded as the strongest picture in which Miss Gaynor and Farrell ever have appeared. It is a romantic drama with regeneration as the main theme.

Others prominent in the cast include Kenneth MacKenna, William Holden, Mary Forbes, Ulrich Haupt, William Worthington and Peter Gawthorne.

Ardent Mariners Between Pictures

Director Walsh and Many Of "The Man Who Came Back" Cast Are Yachtmen.

Yachting was the favorite topic of conversation during rest periods in the making of Raoul Walsh's Fox Movietone production of "The Man Who Came Back," co-starring Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, which comes to the Strand Theatre, tomorrow.

No less than three prominent members of the company are ardent sailors, and all of them spend most of their spare time cruising the waters of the Pacific, off the California coast.

Walsh, himself, has been prominent in yachting circles for years, and is a member of half a dozen yacht clubs. When not working, he spends virtually all of his time on his boat.

Farrell, born and reared on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, is a descendant of a long line of famous mariners, who helped make the name of Yankee skippers known throughout the world. He has a sailing yacht, equipped with an auxiliary motor, and whenever he gets as much as a week off, he cruises southward, along the Mexican coast.

Kenneth MacKenna, featured in "The Man Who Came Back," first learned all about yachts when he was confidential secretary to one of Wall Street's leading financiers. Since becoming a highly successful actor, he is able to indulge in his hobby himself, and owns a boat that is almost a twin of Farrell's.

Janet Gaynor was an attentive listener. While not herself a navigator like the others, she loves the sea, and finds a tonic quality in a long cruise between pictures.

Others in the cast of this powerful romantic drama, include William Holden, Mary Forbes, Ulrich Haupt, William Worthington, Leslie Fenton, and Peter Gawthorne. The colorful settings were created by Joseph Urban, internationally famous scenic artist now under contract to Fox Movietone.

A "touching moment" in Jack Oakie's latest vehicle, "Gang Buster" which opens Sunday at the Majestic.

Rapid-Fire Fun Raps Gangsters In Oakie's Hit

Underworld Goes Up-in-the-Air At Jolly Jack's Merry Antics At Rialto.

Up-to-the-minute fun-farce, with Jack Oakie's wise-cracks permeating the action, will entertain patrons of the Majestic Theatre beginning Sunday for four days. "The Gang Buster" is the smart crack at American gangdom in which the contagious comic of "Sap from Syracuse" and "The Social Lion" lets loose with laughs.

"The Gang Buster" turns big city racketeering into a joyous jamboree of laugh moments, and swirls the big-guns of the underworld around a pretty little romance that manages to fight its way out of a series of breathtaking action scenes. Jean Arthur takes her place as the sweetheart of "America's Joy-Friend" in "The Gang Buster," and William Boyd, recently seen with Gary Cooper in "The Spoilers" and George Bancroft in "Derelict," has the chief menace role. Francis MacDonald, the suave, likable villain of many successful hits, is seen in another menace part.

In "The Gang Buster," Oakie is introduced as a cock-sure smalltown insurance agent transferred to a large city because of his boasted ability to "get business." His insurance selling is handicapped, however, by the activities of the gangsters who put all his clients "on the spot." Bewildered, Oakie stumbles into a hotbed of gangdom, rescues a pretty girl from the clutches of the villains, saves her father from a vindictive racketeer, and, in general, cleans up on romance, prosperity and, most of all, laughs.

A. Edward Sutherland, who introduced Oakie to the American moving picture public in the laugh provider's first starring picture, "Fast Company," and continued to center his fun-provoking wise-cracks in "Sap from Syracuse," directed by Percy Heath, well known screen writer. The story is set entirely in the heart of a large city, and the amusing action is intensified by the hustle and bustle of downtown crowds who go their individual ways all unconscious of the tremendous uproar Oakie is creating.

"Under Texas Skies" To Open At Crescent Thursday, Jan. 22

"Under Texas Skies" starring Bob Custer, will be the featured attraction at the Crescent Theatre beginning Thursday, January 22.

This is welcome news to local theatre-goers, for Bob Custer is a capable actor, while as a "stunt man" he has never been surpassed and invariably his productions tingle with thrills. "Under Texas Skies," his first talking release beneath the Syndicate banner, is said to be no exception to this rule. Under his new starring contract he has been supplied with greater casts and stories than ever before and infinitely more money has been spent upon his productions. G. A. Durlam, producer of this picture, is a man schooled in the art of creating good pictures and "Under Texas Skies," it is claimed, benefits greatly by Mr. Durlam's technical knowledge, as well as the skillful direction of J. P. McGowan.

Genevieve Tobin and Conrad Nagel in "Free Love" which opens at the Majestic Thursday.

Genevieve Tobin Star of "Free Love" Wins Screen Fame in Two Pictures

Lively, sparkling, wide open blue eyes—opened wide in amazement—quick, staccato, decisive speech, clear-cut and alive!

Such is the first impression one gains of Genevieve Tobin, comely stage star who has met Hollywood and taken it by storm in her first two Universal pictures, "A Lady Surrenders" and "Free Love," the latter being the attraction at the Majestic Theatre starting Thursday, January 22.

Miss Tobin has tiny hands, perfectly moulded. "They're the feature I dislike most about myself. I always have to have my gloves made to order or buy children's sizes," she states ruefully.

Blonde hair, gracefully waved, silky and glistening.

A delightful English accent of which one is not conscious after the first dozen words—a determined chin and snapping eyes—a complexion which is flawless and a constant joy to the cameraman. Such a description proves a fair appraisal of Miss Tobin.

Her mother has been her constant companion on her invasion of London, where she played the lead in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," in New York during the runs of "Polly Preferred," "Fifty Million Frenchmen" and other hits, and now for a year in Hollywood, where Mother Tobin keeps house for her and manages her business affairs.

Very simple and inauspicious is the private life of Miss Tobin. She lunches quietly in her dressing room on food which has been prepared at home and brought to the studio by her mother.

The impressions which she gained during her year in England are clearly shown in her mode of dress which is decidedly smart but bears the unmistakable mark of British taste.

She is of Irish descent. She'd like to try writing.

She has a sparkling sense of humor but it is little known to those who are not close friends. She is a bit shy among strangers but she never fails to make friends of those she meets.

Genevieve Tobin is indeed one of the distinctive newcomers to the films and even bolder and critical Hollywood has been quick to applaud her talent and predict a brilliant screen career for her.

Genevieve Tobin who is co-starred with Conrad Nagel in "Free Love". It opens at the Majestic Thursday.

"Big Money" Proves Old Adage Is Wrong

Two Poor Fish Out Of Water In "Big Money"

An amusing and new twist is given the situation of "a fish out of water" in Pathe's special production "Big Money," which comes to the Crescent Theatre Sunday. There are two fish and both out of water.

—one is Eddie Quillan, who as a penny gambler quite innocently finds himself involved in a big game, and on account of his unusual luck is practically adopted by a high powered gambler, played by Robert Armstrong. Later, Eddie persuades Bob to accompany him to a society garden party given by the daughter of Eddie's former employer, where Bob is very much not at home.

Other prominent players in "Big Money," are James Gleason, Miriam Seegar, Margaret Livingston, Robert Edeson, Dorothy Christy and Robert Gleckler. Russell Mack directed.

The adage that he who is lucky at gambling finds the antithesis in love, emerges as a predominating factor in the plot of "Big Money," a Pathe production directed by Russell Mack. That the precept possesses exceptions is interestingly revealed in this entertaining comedy drama.

Eddie Quinlan, clever Pathe comedian, and Miriam Seegar, popular film ingenue, provide the romance in "Big Money," which will be seen at the Crescent Theatre starting Sunday. Running a close second for romantic honors are Robert Armstrong and Dorothy Christy, who, as a gangster and a society girl, are amusingly drawn together in the network cast by Cupid.

Others essaying important roles in "Big Money" are James Gleason, Margaret Livingston, Robert Edeson, Dorothy Christy, Myrtle Crinley, Mona Rico and Robert Gleckler.

French Courts and Juries
Courts in France may or may not have a jury, depending on the court. There are no juries for the courts of the justices of the peace, police courts or correctional courts. The court of assizes is assisted by 12 jurors, who decide on the fact by simple majority. There are also the high courts of appeal and cassation, neither of which is a jury court.

A million letters from the pens of followers from Portland to Phoenix, from Tampa to Tacoma, were responsible for the filming of Amos 'n' Andy's first talking picture, "Check and Double Check". It marks the first time that a picture has been filmed directly in response to letters from the public.

"We've heard Amos 'n' Andy so much - - we must see them!" was the substance of the vast flood of mail. "Why not put their radio story into a talking picture?"

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS AND REPRESENTATIVES OF FOREIGN POWERS SEE WAR TANK TESTED IN LINDEN

J. Walter Christie, Famous Automotive Engineer, Host To Large Gathering, Demonstrates Effectiveness Of New Super-Speed Tank; Built In Linden, Is Result Of Years Of Study And Will Be Tested At Aberdeen By Army Experts

During the war J. Walter Christie, one time speed racing king, later succeeded by Ralph DePalma, got an idea that the greatest piece of war machinery for all time would be a swift-moving tank. The lumbering steel monsters of the World War served well, but the general tempo of future wars would call for greater speed.

Christie set to work with a definite thought in mind. He struggled against all odds, broken health and the depletion of his small fortune of $400,000—every cent of which went toward the development of his plan for a modern war tank.

He might have surrendered to fate and allowed discouragements to ruin his ambition, but he clung on. He might have sold the rights to foreign powers and thus recouped his fortune. He didn't; he ardently wanted Uncle Sam to adopt the machine. It was hard to interest the powers that be. Meanwhile the funds gone and his health impaired, things looked mighty dark—until an order came from a foreign country, and then individuals, impressed with his plans, aided him. A small shop near the Rahway city line, in Linden, and there Walter Christie continued operations.

Friday of last week he demonstrated just what the Christie Wheel and Track High Speed Army Tank can do. The performance was witnessed by U. S. Army officials. The tank met every test suggested by the government men and at the conclusion Capt. L. D. Tharp, who has charge of testing tanks, expressed high satisfaction with its attainments. The tank was put through a road test in Sunnyside Gardens and on a paved street it showed its speed. Christie says it is capable of traveling 90 miles per hour on wheels.

In the field tests the steel monster tore through the rough, open stretches at 45 miles per hour. It mounted an improvised hill unhindered by brush or other obstacle at 25 miles per hour. There was nothing the army men wanted the machine to do that was too difficult. It could be made to turn around within its own length on field or roadway, and it seemed as easy and convenient to master as an automobile. The Christie tank was a complete surprise.

This new invention has several features. In time of war its speed is an important factor, because it will be a difficult target. In time of peace it will be useful in strikes, riots and other uprisings.

The machine is armored with five eight-inch steel. It has provisions for a crew of two or three men. It carries a one-pounder cannon, a machine gun and 2,100 rounds of ammunition. It is powered with a 12-cylinder Liberty airplane motor of 338 horsepower, weighs around ten tons fully equipped. With the Christie Tank in the field wars will in all probability be fought with fewer men. It has its place, too, as a great agency for world peace.

Last Spring he demonstrated the tank at Washington and it was reported that the War Department officials were extremely interested and that an appropriation of a tidy sum was to be expended. However, discouraging difficulties arose with Army ordnance department officials. Christie would not surrender his connection with the invention; he wanted it to be his own product.

Capt. Tharp, who is in charge of government tests of tanks, was favorably impressed with the Christie-built tank. It was the general opinion that Uncle Sam's Army will sooner or later be equipped with this latest and probably most effective piece of warfare equipment.

The tank was moved to Aberdeen, Md., where it will be put through another series of tests, these for the benefit of high officials of the Government.

Barbara Leonard Learns How They Make Love In Other Countries

How does it feel to be loved in four languages?

Barbara Leonard discovered the answer to this question during the filming of "Men of the North," which comes to The R. K. O. Railway Theatre Sunday next one day only which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer produced in five languages, Miss Leonard playing the feminine lead in the English, French, German and Italian versions.

Thus Miss Leonard underwent the unusual experience of being made love to in English by Gilbert Roland; in French by Andre Luguet, former Comedie Francaise star; in German by John Reinhardt and in Italian by Franco Corsaro. As love-making technique differs in these various countries, she literally gained a university education in lovers!

Hal Rouch directed the production, a drama of the Northwest written by Willard Mack. It is the first picture to be filmed simultaneously in several languages.

The plot concerns the attempt of a trapper wrongly accused of theft to escape in the wilds of the Northern Canadian woods and his subsequent romance with the daughter of a millionaire miner. The pursuit of the Mounted Police, an avalanche which endangers the life of the heroine and exciting races on skis and dogsleds keep the audience in suspense right up to the sensational climax. As is characteristic of all of Willard Mack's dramas the ending is entirely unexpected Mack delighting in giving an unusual twist to his stories.

On the same program, Tiller's Sunshine Girls—sixty dancing beauties from England—make their debut in "Leathernecking."

Forty-two thousand highly trained dancers have been given to almost every country under the sun through the Tiller organization, according to Mary Read, director and manager of the Tiller Schools in the United States.

In the Tiller group under contract to Radio Pictures are Mabel Hall, Doris Carter, Alice Wright, Cora Neary, Noreen Callow, Clara Gillett, Florence Stack, Freda Neary, Eileen Grady, Doris Yates, Dolly Moseley, Louise Gillet, Muriel Marlow, Bella Pilling, Queenie Jones and Marjorie Griffiths.

"It is the ambition of almost every English girl to be selected for the Tiller dancing schools," Miss Read says. "It means travelling all over the world, healthful work and excellent pay."

The average height of the dancers is 5 feet 2 inches; weight 108 pounds, and age 22. All are fair and require little makeup away from the cameras.

"Precision and discipline" are the Tiller watchwords.

Movie Land Has Its Own "Little Sahara" Desert

Film companies have traveled for years to a "little Sahara" on the central California coast, where hurrying winds, sweeping from the sea through countless centuries, have piled up huge sand bulwarks and fashioned them into fantastic dunes which closely resemble the white, arid wastes of northern Africa.

There Cecil B. DeMille and a vast company made scenes for "The Ten Commandments." "Beau Sabreur" was filmed on the same shifting dunes, as were scenes for "The Water Hole," "She's a Sheik" and scores of other pictures.

The tent frameworks of the "Beau Sabreur" camp still stand on the edge of the dunes as mute reminders of that picture. To Gary Cooper, who heads the cast of "Morocco," at the R. K. O. Railway Theatre today and tomorrow, those windstained timbers had unusual interest when he journeyed to the "little Sahara" with the "Morocco" company to make scenes for that picture. Among the tent frameworks is one which supported the shelter in which he lived while playing one of his first featured leads in "Beau Sabreur."

African Coast Fever to Be Studied by Savant

St. Louis—Possibilities of controlling the dangerous African west coast fever will be studied by a British government scientist at Washington university here as the result of research by Dr. E. V. Cowdry of St. Louis in Nairobi, Kenya colony, West Africa.

Cowdry, professor of cytology at the university medical school, found that the disease which cost from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 annually in loss of cattle, is caused by a parasite of malarial type transmitted by ticks.

Cowdry traced out the life cycle of the parasite. Possibilities of breaking the cycle and thereby conquering the disease will be studied in experiments here.

Scene from "Leathernecking" which opens Sunday at the Railway theatre.
