Great Democratic Landslide That Carried Roosevelt and Garner to Victory—Gossip About the Next President's Cabinet.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

RIDING triumphantly upon the crest of a tremendous wave of discontent, Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected President of the United States.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

the thirty-second man to win to that lofty eminence. Herbert Hoover went down to cataclysmic defeat because of conditions and circumstances beyond his control and not of his making.

The defeat of the Republican national ticket was the greatest sustained by a major party in more than a century.

Though New York with its 47 electoral votes had been considered the crucial battleground, Roosevelt as it turned out did not need it to win.

DEMOCRATS of Illinois, with the aid of thousands of Republicans, not only gave Roosevelt and Garner a handsome plurality but elected their entire state ticket.

ONE outstanding result of the election was the immediate launching of a general movement among the foreign debtors of the United States to obtain revision or cancellation of their debts.

GERMANY also had an election, and is struggling with the tangled condition resulting therefrom. It was held to choose members of the reichstag.

leaders who feared nothing else would so alarm business as the selection of radicals for positions of importance. It was not thought likely that Mr. Smith would himself accept a place in the cabinet but possibly he might be appointed chairman of a commission to reorganize the federal government.

Mention as possible cabinet members were John W. Davis or Newton D. Baker for secretary of state; Melvin A. Traylor or Owen D. VIGOROUS opposition to senate ratification of the treaty already has developed. High Qualities Called For in "Ideal" Teacher

How is one to paint a word portrait of the ideal teacher? He should be intelligent but not pedantic, dignified but not pompous, firm but not intolerant.

With all his scholarship, he should be aware that it would be a sad world if all his pupils were trained to be teachers—like himself. He should not be ashamed to possess or disclose his ideals, but should temper them with practicality.

He should maintain at all costs his patience, his sympathy, and his sense of humor. If, in addition, he has energy and optimism, he should be qualified to secure and hold a position, and leave behind him a place in the memories of alumni.

PROTESTING

There have been all manner of attempts of winners or losers to explain the resulting vote at the recent election. A careful examination of national, state, county and local elections throughout the country indicates that above all else the taxpayers are aroused.

The National vote was largely a protest against depressed business conditions. The result was a foregone conclusion. It was only a question of what States, if any, the party in power could hold.

Conservatives who have long been the backbone of the Republicans in the national administration deserted the ship almost entirely. This was due no little to the fact that with business steadily declining in the last few years the Federal Government failed to reduce public expenditures in keeping with the reduction of the national government income.

This phase of it was presented in every daily and business journal throughout the country. The increase in the cost of government, the national debt, number of Federal employees was set forth everywhere. The failure of the Government in the last few years to tackle this problem brought about wholesale desertion in the Republican Party.

Despite long and cumbersome ballots in some States the voters crossed from one party to another more than once to protest against the actions of an individual or an outfit which had neglected, the taxpayers.

Despite the Democratic landslide in the nation and the fact that New York City is overwhelmingly Democratic and that Roosevelt, Smith, Wagner, Lehman and the bosses of the five Boroughs in the City of New York spoke for the Mayorality candidate for New York City, the Tammany standard bearer for Mayor polled less than 300,000 more than the opposition.

The figures in this connection show that a great many who voted for President did not even bother to vote for Mayor so disgusted were they. Almost 200,000 went to the trouble to turn their ballot over and write in the name of McKee, who was not a candidate at all.

Over in Brooklyn where every Assembly District went Democratic for the National and State ticket, they defeated Senator Hastings, Mayor Walker's boy friend, who was backed by the all powerful boss McCooey. In Manhattan the Democratic candidate put up to chastise Assemblyman Post for voting for the New York City investigation was defeated in spite of the backing of boss Curry of Tammany Hall.

The press of the week tells how Jimmy Walker who only a short time ago defied the taxpayers of New York, quietly slipped aboard a steamer for India and begged the reporters to leave him alone. Ye! Verily chickens come home to roost.

The same punishment was meted out all over the country and more is coming. Jimmy was the tool of his organization. He liked to be play-boy and was content to do the political organization's bidding to the injury of the taxpayers who in the last analysis have the power to smash any political organization in the world.

In much the same way this thing happened throughout New Jersey. In Elizabeth attempts were made by a Democratic organization there for years to quiet this one or that one with a job or a favor. In many cases the policy has been to take care of noisy heeblers while neglecting the taxpayers.

The game is the same all over. However, now the people are paying especial attention to what is being done towards reduction of public expenditures. They are tight-lipped but they are going to ballot boxes and putting out of public life those who never belonged there in many cases. The way the party man retaliates as a taxpayer is either not to vote at all or by crossing over and voting for the opposing party candidate.

There has been some talk here that the group that has been responsible for the tremendous burden on every home and family in this community through grabbing expenditures for years of the Board of Education, making a racket out of it, think it is their time to come back and get the taxpayers last dollar.

They had better take warning. Enough is enough. The proposed game of running a number of candidates and slipping in an individual thereby whom people would not elect in an out and out contest, may not be so easy this time.

Before there is any election at all some past history, that has never come to light, will be brought to everyone's attention. It will make pretty reading in the family.

Last week The Carteret News called attention to President Hoover's telegram of congratulation to President-elect Roosevelt. We pointed out that it was not the ordinary telegram of congratulations and suggested it opened up the way for a Roosevelt-Hoover get together to the advantage of the country as a whole.

However, it developed on Monday, three days after the editorial in the Carteret News, that the President of the United States suggested to the President-elect a get-together on the momentous international debt question involving eleven billion dollars.

The telegram may go down in history as the turning point in American government.

The telegram was the fore-runner of the meeting Hoover and Roosevelt will hold as President and President-elect on the International debt problem involving economic world recovery.

In England almost two years ago party lines were wiped out and a cabinet formed of the leaders of all parties. This was on an effort to do away with politics and to bring to the country its ablest men in time of crisis.

It has been the custom to no little extent for one party to harass the other regardless of the merits of the proposals made by the party in power. Undesirable as such dog-in-the-manger policy may be in normal times, it is absolutely inexcusable now with many in the country wondering how they are going to exist at all.

Judging by press notices the other nations are united against the United States on this question of debts, money owed to the United States, which our taxpayers will have to raise if foreign nations do not pay us. Why should not the various political parties be united here Congress meets early in December with a Democratic House and a Republican Senate.

So under normal course of events the Democratic President and House of Representatives and Senate would not be functioning together until well over a year from now. The country must exist and carry on in the meantime. Mr. Roosevelt will be in the chair on March 4th and much of his early administration prior to the regular session in December 1933 will depend upon the impetus received from the meeting of Congress next month.

It would be decidedly to his advantage as President, as well as to that of the country as a whole, to have the Democrats and the Republicans unite on the best possible program for further economic recovery and put it through promptly. If the Democrats in the House under Garner do nothing but obstruct and harass the moves of the President, Mr. Roosevelt might face a situation much worse than has been and is now existing.

The country comes before party. The President has opened the way. The conference between him and President-elect Roosevelt may establish a very worth-while precedent and work for harmony in the next three months of the legislative session.

3,000,000 FAMILIES HELPED BY RED CROSS

Distress in All Areas Met by Giving Food, Clothing and Other Aid.

More than 3,000,000 families throughout the nation were given relief of various types by the American Red Cross in the past winter, to aid them in their distress caused by unemployment, disaster or other misfortune.

A major relief task, due to unemployment and other unusual conditions in the bituminous mining counties in twenty states, was met by the Red Cross chapters alone, or participating with other agencies. In these 143 counties, the Red Cross aided 90,000 families through giving groceries, school lunches, clothing, flour and other necessities to combat privation.

Flour, milled from government wheat turned over to the Red Cross by Congress, was given to 15,000,000 persons in the period from March 3 to June 30, the close of the fiscal year. Flour will continue to be given through the winter of 1932-33, and Red Cross chapters also will give cotton clothing, made from government cotton turned over to the Red Cross for distribution.

"The Red Cross faces the busiest winter since the days of the World War," Chairman John Barton Payne said. "It is organized in virtually every one of the 3,072 counties in the United States, and will co-operate with all agencies to meet distress wherever found. The flour has proved of great benefit, and the cotton clothing will be given wide distribution."

While carrying on nation-wide these unemployment and other relief measures, the Red Cross also was engaged in its regular peace-time activities in public health nursing, service to ex-service men and their families, teaching home hygiene, life saving and first aid. The Junior Red Cross, composed of almost 7,000,000 school children, also rallied to the support of the society's relief efforts, and the children aided others of their age in practical ways, formed sewing and food canning classes, and were of great assistance in chapter relief work.

While the wheat and cotton were given by the U. S. Government, no money was provided to pay for the necessary work entailed. The Red Cross will meet this expense of almost $500,000 from its treasury. Citizens can aid by joining as members of the local Red Cross chapter during the roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day.

As bodies through a mist, so actions through anger, seem greater than they are.—M. March.

BUNSEN BURNERS

On October 21, 1932, a Chemistry Club called "The Bunsen Burners" was founded by the students of the chemistry class. The following officers were elected: Edward Galvanek, president; Wesley Spewak, vice president; Dudley Kahn, secretary and Mrs. Conway, faculty advisor.

The Bunsen Burners are expecting to do many interesting and instructive things during the coming year.

Coal and How It Is Mined

Wednesday afternoon the Commercial Geography Class, of which Miss Lubern is teacher, had the privilege of seeing a still film on coal and how it is mined.

We first saw a location map of all the coal deposits in the United States. The state of Pennsylvania has the largest production of coal of any other state.

It was very interesting to note all the safety devices that were used to protect the miners against all possible accidents, such as escaping gas and cave-ins.

The miners descended into the mine in a small elevator. We saw various tests for gases and possible falling in of the roof or walls of the mine.

The miners then began to work. They used a large cutting machine which was equipped with running water. The water was sprayed on the cutting tool to prevent dust from rising. The miners also used another method of mining coal. A long bar was driven into the wall of the mine and into this hole a stick of dynamite was placed and then exploded.

The coal that fell was then placed into small dump cars, which were drawn by a small electric engine, and were taken out of the mine.

The coal was then placed on a conveyor and it was brought to the "picking table" it is conveyed into large cars and is shipped away to dealers.

Spelling Matches Revived

Focusing its attention on a few of the common errors found in composition work the Sophomore classes under Miss Malloy will for the first semester devote much time and study to vocabulary building, word study and spelling in an effort to perfect them.

Interest in correct spelling will be sought through a series of Spelling Matches. The two classes have been divided into teams and the Captains of each have been chosen from those making the highest report card averages in English.

The first match was held on Monday with the following results: Henry Travastino, captain of the Red Team, defeated his opponent Jean Walling, Captain of the White team, by a score of 1 to 0, however, until the last minute of play the colors of the White team were kept flying high by the strong defensive offered by Chester Wielgolwski. In the fourth period class the Blue team which was in command of Margaret Yuhasz, won the day over the Black team headed by Michael Korneluk, by a score of 4 to 0.

The second spelling match will be held on December 20. At the close of the semester two inter-class matches will be held, one representing the best groups from each class and the other those of a slower moving group.

Already a great deal of interest has been shown in this work and an effort is being made by the defeated teams to become victors in the next
