

You talked, silence screamed out loud You smiled, but you cried inside You showed the world how strong you are I wanted to wipe the pain from your heart

I knew, the load you carried, broke you down
If only I could carry your load, like I carry your heart
It all started and ended with you
Down, down at the roots
Where your blood runs through me

Oh the grief, the price we pay for love
And all the memories, forever filling my heart
I never knew it could hurt this way
You were my compass, oh guiding me through

I knew, the load you carried, broke you down
If only I could carry your load, like I carry your heart
It all started and ended with you
Down, down at the roots
Where your blood runs through me

In a different direction to you Through the storm where I lost you

I knew, the load you carried, broke you down
If only I could carry your load, like I carry your heart
It all started and ended with you
Down, down at the roots
Where your blood runs through me

Saying goodbye was so hard to do
In all the chaos, death placed a hand on your heart
So grateful for the happiness
you brought into my life

I knew, the load you carried, broke you down
If only I could carry your load, like I carry your heart
It all started and ended with you
Down, down at the roots
Where your blood runs through me
Where your blood runs through me

I knew, the load you carried, broke you down If only I could carry your load, like I carry your heart It all started and ended with you
