

In a national survey

88% of Canadians

identified their relationship with animals or pets as an important support
in their recovery
from addiction.

