

Certified Green- Becoming a Gold Honored Certified Green Business is true honor. This distinction, being the ONLY ONE in South Carolina, is an honor because we are actively showing leadership in the green cleaning industry and presenting a healthier, less-toxic way to live.

References- Your cleaning service should provide you with several solid references to determine whether they provide quality services to their current customers.

Reputation- A cleaning service with a good reputation is usually a good company for you to hire. A good reputation likely means the cleaning service uses above-board business practices and clients are likely to recommend them to friends and family.

Scheduling Options- You should determine whether a house cleaning company offers various options for cleaning intervals. This shows a willingness to meet your specific needs and preferences.

Insured- Finding a cleaning service that insures its employees is essential. This protects you in case an on-the-job accident occurs while cleaning your home.

Licensing- The best cleaning service is licensed or registered in the State in which it practices. Each State has its own requirements regarding licensing.

Presence of Contract- Some cleaning companies require you to sign a contract for their services and will guarantee a certain cleaning rate as a result. A cleaning company that provides a contract is likely legitimate and does things professionally.

Bonding is important because it protects you from any incidents of damage or loss that may occur while a house cleaner is inside your home.

Industry Experience- It is extremely important that you find a cleaning service that has experience in the industry. A company that knows the cleaning industry well is more likely to provide state-of-the-art cleaning services.

Employee Training Program- The best cleaning service should provide a training program for their employees. This ensures that all employees know how to use cleaning equipment and chemicals properly.

Custom Cleaning Plan- The ability to create a custom cleaning plan to meet your specific needs and preferences is very helpful. You have unique needs that deserve to be met. The best cleaning service will satisfy your cleaning needs.
